West Marin Union School Bid Rejected By 14 Votes

Fourteen votes in West Marin School District yesterday blocked a proposed seven-district unionization plan that would have led automatically to unification with Tomales High School District.

For proponents of unification, it was the third time their hopes had been frustrated.

The results of yesterday's election, however, will not be certain until 10 a.m. Tuesday, when absentee ballots are counted in the Marin County schools office.

The measure called for unionization of seven elementary school districts. The proposal passed handily in all districts except West Marin, where it was defeated by 276 to 262, a margin of only 14 votes. There are still 18 absentee ballots from West Marin to be counted.

West Marin was the only district where organized opposition developed and the only district where the school board was not unanimously in favor of the unionization. Trustee Gordon Plattes opposed the unionization.

Three of the districts proposed for the plan are in Marin County and four are in Sonoma County. Over-all turn-out of those eligible to vote was 55.5 per cent. The results by district were:

West Marin—262 yes, 276 no; 63 per cent voting.

American Valley—43 yes, 8 no; 67 per cent voting.

Bloomfield—64 yes, 8 no; 72 per cent voting.

Hospital May Face Lawsuit On Brown Act

Dr. Asherman Files Claim For Income Lost To Delay

By PHIL FRADKIN

The possibility of a court ruling on an alleged violation of the California Government Code which provides that legislative bodies must act in public meetings was shaping up today.

The Superior Court ruling, if it goes to that point, would be the first of its kind in Marin County and one of the first court decisions in the state on a section of the Ralph A. Brown Act designed to make legislative bodies meet, discuss and announce their decisions in public.

GIVEN CLAIM

The Marin Hospital District Board last night was presented with a claim by attorney Harry Gonick for his client, Dr. Stanford W. Ascherman, for $250 a day compensatory and $250 a day punitive damages, dating from July 14 to such time as Ascherman is admitted to the staff of the hospital.

The claim alleges that the hospital district board "wrongfully and unlawfully" decided in a closed meeting to halt its public hearings on Ascherman's application for admission to the hospital's staff.

CLOSED SESSION

Ascherman also alleges that the action decided on at the June 23 closed meeting of the board, and executed at the July 14 session of the hearing, was in violation of the by-laws of the hospital.

The board last night put off taking action on the claim until it receives the advice of its insurance carriers.

Gonick said today that if the claim is denied, he will file suit in Marin Superior Court. He said

SHAKEUP JITTERS HIT GOP OFFICES

Paid Staffers Wonder How Clean Goldwater's Broom Will Sweep

By BONNIE ANGELO
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON—Nervous tension has reached epidemic proportions at Republican National Committee headquarters as all hands sweat out the verdict on who's kept and who's canned.

The biggest shake-up in many years is expected when the new chairman, Dean Burch of Arizona, names the staff that will work with him to put Barry Goldwater in the White House. One report circulating through GOP offices is that the 12 top committee jobs will be filled by the new team. In the past, veteran staff members recall, the number of key replacements rarely exceeded four or five.

Burch made it clear at the first meeting of the national committee following Goldwater's nomination that there would be a number of changes. The new look was made easier from the beginning by the fact that national Republican chairman William E. Miller was moving out of office to run with Goldwater,

TV Debate Rejected For Now

White House Press Secretary George E. Reedy tossed back at Goldwater several statements by the GOP presidential nominee earlier this year to the effect that Goldwater regarded it as "dangerous" for a president to subject himself to questioning debate.

When asked at a Friday news conference about the possibility of debating Goldwater, Johnson had said he could cross that bridge when he came to it.

When Goldwater's latest position was put up to the White House late yesterday, Reedy had no comment.

Today, however, the President's spokesman was more responsive.

Reedy noted a published report quoting Goldwater last Jan. 31: "I think it's kind of dangerous to subject a President of the United States to questioning and debate . . . He just might slip and say something inadvertantly that might change the course of history."

Reedy quoted Goldwater as having said on Feb. 12, "I don't think a president of the United States should debate anybody . . . He could very well disclose secrets that only he knows."

Barry Names GOP Strategy Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater today named Ohio Republican Chairman Ray Bliss and former national chairman Leonard Hall to a "steering committee" he said will map the strategy and timing of his Republican presidential campaign.

Goldwater also announced that Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, once his rival for the nomination, will serve as host of a Republican summit meeting in Hershey, Pa., next month.

At a surprise news conference with Bliss in his Senate office, Goldwater said he is heartened by the progress of his crusade for Republican unity.

Goldwater said national Chairman Dean Burch will serve as an ex-officio member of his new steering committee. He said Denison Kitchell, his campaign director, also will be a member.

Goldwater said a representa-

Congressmen Vote To Hike Social Security

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House voted overwhelmingly today to increase social security benefits by 1.5 billion dollars and to broaden the program by bringing in an additional 600,000 persons.

The election-year raise for 20 million beneficiaries was strongly supported by Democrats and Republicans. It would be financed by hiking payroll taxes paid by workers and employers.

Bank Charter Granted After Form Is Filled

Tiburon Firm Didn't Have To Hire Lawyer

The Tiburon National Bank, which received its federal charter early in March, 1963, obtained it without services of a lawyer either here or in Washington, its president disclosed today.

Charles Tijerina, Tiburon National Bank president, provided the information in response to questions by an Independent-Journal reporter.

Tijerina said he worked for about a year making a survey of the economic feasibility of locating a new locally owned bank in Tiburon. He then compiled an economic survey report with assistance of an outside economist.

PROVIDES BOOKLET

Then Tijerina obtained from the San Francisco office of the comptroller of the currency the necessary forms to apply for a federal bank charter. The office provided a booklet of instructions to assist in filling out the forms.

"The forms were very elementary," said Tijerina.

He filed the application in December, 1962. A little later, the comptroller of the currency's office sent a field man to survey the area.

CHARTER GRANTED

"About a month after that, I got a collect phone call from Washington saying the charter had been granted," Tijerina said.

"I didn't know anybody in Washington and didn't hire any attorney, here or there, to assist in getting the application approved," he said.

Sen. John J. Williams (R-Del.) declared on the Senate floor Monday that the Redwood National Bank, which received its charter in 1962 and opened for business the following January, paid $5,000 to a lobbyist for assistance in getting a charter, and that the lobbyist turned the money over to Bobby Baker, whose influence-peddling role has been under Senate investigation.

Roderick P. Martinelli, attorney for the Redwood bank, said the money was paid to Wayne L. Bromley as fee for legal assistance in obtaining the charter in Wasihngton. Bromley and Baker both endorsed the check.

The Associated Press reported that Bromley is not listed as an attorney in the Washington

Jones Has Emotional Reunion With Mother

Jury Told He Stole From Her

By ROSS DAVIS

A mother and her killer son embraced in an emotional courtroom reunion. The prosecution quietly dropped a "bomb" about the son robbing his own family. The wife of the codefendant mysteriously disappeared while waiting to testify.

These episodes were all part of a morning chockfull of drama today in the penalty phase of the Donald G. Corbett Jr. murder trial in Marin Superior Court.

JURY DECISION

The jury is to determine whether Robert Lee Jones, 25, and John Lee King, 28, are to die in the gas chamber or face life imprisonment. They were convicted July 21 of slaying Corbett in his Sausalito apartment.

Mrs. Carl H. Jones, 48-year-old mother of the convicted killer, entered the courtroom at 10:50 a.m. after being flown here from Baltimore, Md., Monday. Escorted by attorney David J. Costamagna, she was only feet away from her son when she suddenly bolted directly toward him at the counsel table and they embraced.

PRESSES CHEEK

The gray-haired woman, wearing spectacles and simply garbed in blue and white print dress and a double strand of pearl-like beads, clasped Jones and pressed her forehead to his cheek. Jones took her hands in his and though he remained seated, returned the embrace.

With the jury carefully watching this reunion, Judge Joseph G. Wilson reckoned it was time for a morning recess, and called one. Jones and his mother remained at the table, sitting closely, until court reconvened and she was called to testify.

Under questioning by defense attorney Thomas P. Boyd, Mrs. Jones said her son, was one of nine children, two of them dead. They lived on West Virginia farms in near-poverty until Jones was three years old, she

LBJ Favors West Coast Intertie Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Lyndon B. Johnson approved today a 700-million-dollar plan to tie together the power resources of the Pacific Northwest and the Pacific Southwest.

To get the program underway, Johnson is asking Congress for 45.4 million dollars to begin work on the federal portion of the vast project.

The federal share of the 700-million-dollar cost is estimated at 300 million dollars.

The remainder of the cost will be financed by public and private utilities, including Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

The project has been under consideration since 1935.

In announcing the president's approval and request for an appropriation, press secretary George E. Reedy said it will result in the largest single power transmission program ever conceived in this country.

When completed, it will make this country the leader in power transmission technology in the world, Reedy said.

The aim is to shift power back and forth over the vast area, particularly from the Pacific Northwest which frequently has surplus power.

Reedy said it is estimated that about 20 million dollars worth of secondary hydroelectric power is being wasted in the Pacific Northwest which could be used elsewhere, particularly in California.

DEMOS CHOOSE SEN. PASTORE KEYNOTE STAR

Tapped by President Lyndon B. Johnson, Pastore, 57, was approved by arrangements committee for the convention opening Aug. 24 in Atlantic City.

The selection was believed to be in line with Johnsonian strategy of trying to nail down the industrialized East as part of the drive to thwart Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater's bid for the presidency.

Assessment Howls Swamp County Board

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, sitting as a county board of equalization, is swamped with a last-minute flood of protests on property tax assessments.

As a result, the board faces night and Saturday sessions for the next two weeks, reported Chairman William A. Gnoss today.

The board had received 388 protests, of which 119 arrived Monday, the last day for filing.

The bulk of the protests are

Burglar Using Van To Get Loot From Marin Homes

A bold burglar, using a moving van type truck, has been hauling away loot in broad daylight in the Corte Madera-Greenbrae area, according to police.

At least two such burglaries were reported yesterday.

In one case, at 112 Lakeside Drive, Corte Madera, neighbors saw a large silver van with dark body pull up to the home at 11:45 a.m. A man, described as in his 40's and having dark complexion, got out and walked through an open door into the home.

He emerged with golf clubs, a set of luggage, silverware and a portable radio and drove off with the loot, valued at $550.

It was not until Mrs. Joan Mallen returned at 12:45 p.m. that she found her house had been looted. Police said neighbors thought the Mallen family was moving, as there is a frequent turnover of residents in the Madera Gardens area.

Mrs. Soukka told Deputy Sheriff Dennis Shine she left the home about 9 a.m. and returned at 12:30 p.m. to find the door leading from the garage into the kitchen standing ajar.

A table radio, a $20 gold piece, a gold watch on a chain, and several silver dollars are missing from the home, Mrs. Soukka reported.

"The burglar seems to be choosy, just taking certain items," said Deputy Shine.

Uneasy Quiet In Rochester's Race Unrest

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Racially troubled Rochester, where raging mobs staged a weekend of bloody violence, edged closer to its normal peace and quiet today after a test lifting of a dusk-to-dawn curfew.

Although the city spent a relatively peaceful night, hundreds of helmeted city and state police continued to patrol Rochester's Negro sections.

A promise of swift, harsh retaliation in event of renewed racial rioting apparently kept the lid on a simmering unrest. The ban on liquor sales remained in effect at least until 5 p.m. today.

Throughout the night, police checked out a flurry of trouble calls; most of them turned out to be without cause.

Detectives, however, found three home-made gasoline bombs beneath a back porch in a Negro section. They confiscated the fire bombs, but no arrests were made.

In discussing the lifting of the curfew, first imposed last Saturday night, Mayor Frank T. Lamb described the move as a test.

DEMOS MANEUVER ON DIXIE ISSUES

Mississippians' Slate Uninstructed

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Soft-pedaling their opposition to President Lyndon B. Johnson, Mississippi's all-white regular Democrats have named an uninstructed delegation to the national convention.

The move came at the request of Gov. Paul B. Johnson, titular head of the party in Mississippi, at yesterday's state Democratic convention, which delayed naming presidential electors until a recess session is held Sept. 9 after next month's national convention.

Observers called the state convention action a victory for Gov. Johnson over former Gov. Ross Barnett's unpledged elector forces.

The convention action was harshly criticized by leaders of the rival Freedom Democratic party, a nearly all-Negro group which will seek the ouster of the regular Mississippi Democrats at the national convention.

Georgia Appoints Negro Delegates

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Georgia's delegation to the Democratic National Convention — including Negroes for the first time—"is made up of loyal Democrats who represent our party," says Gov. Carl Sanders.

The names of the 64 delegates and 52 of 53 alternates were announced yesterday by Sanders and Travis Stewart, executive director of the Georgia Democratic Party. Four Negroes — two delegates and two alternates —were included on the list of those who will go to the convention opening Aug. 24 in Atlantic City.

Barry Eager To Debate Johnson On Televsion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater—who says he wants to face President Lyndon B. Johnson in televised campaign debates—carries his party unity drive today to GOP chieftains of the House and Senate.

Goldwater and his wife presidential running mate, Rep. William E. Miller, are to confer with the Republican congressional leadership conference on politics, legislation and plans for the campaign ahead. Dean Burch, the new Republican national chairman, also will be on hand.

The Arizona senator told more than 70 House Republicans Tuesday he wants to debate Johnson during their campaign battle for the White House.

Rep. Jack Westland of Washington relayed word of the senator's declaration at a closed-door session that lasted for more than an hour. Goldwater confirmed it.

To pave the way for debates, Westland said Goldwater wants action on legislation that would suspend equal broadcast time requirements during the presidential race. A similar measure opened the way for the 1960 debates between the late President John F. Kennedy and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Westland said the bill now is stalled between the House and Senate, which have passed different versions.

Johnson has not yet tipped his hand on the question of campaign debates, saying only that he will cross that bridge when he comes to it.

Written Reports Nettle Selmi

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night told City Engineer Dominic Selmi that it wants his reports in writing. Selmi was not pleased.

The matter came up when four planning items, already held up six weeks for a report on Northgate traffic, were continued another two weeks until Aug. 11 so Selmi could submit reports in writing. He was prepared to make oral reports and present maps last night, but the commission would not have it.

"Until we have something before us in writing, I don't see how we can act," Commission Chairman Fred C. Robbins Jr. said.

The study in question, done by Deleuw Cather and Co., was submitted July 2, and the city staff and traffic committee have studied the firm's figures on anticipated traffic.

Selmi said City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen, who has also served as acting city planner, told him the commission was not to delay the items any more but act last night. Andersen was not present at the meeting.

Commission Secretary Joan Castrillon said she understood that Selmi was to prepare reports in time for last night's meeting.

The planning staff has to have a copy of a report," she said.

Selmi appeared ready for a full-scale argument with Miss Castrillon, but Robbins called for order, stopping the city engineer before he could do much more than take a deep breath.

Held over were Shell Oil Co.'s request for resubdivision of two lots, a use permit and architectural approval for a gas station on Las Gallinas Avenue near Del Presidio Boulevard, and Humble Oil Co.'s request for architectural approval for a station at the northeast corner of Del Presidio and Las Gallinas Avenue.

Almost included in the delay was architectural approval on the Northgate Dental Building on Northgate Drive between Manuel Freitas Parkway and Las Gallinas Avenue. But applicant D. M. Christensen persuaded the commission to listen to a brief report from Selmi to the effect that the only enginnering recommendation was the dedication of five feet at the corner of the property to the city.

The commission approved the application on the condition that it meet all other requirements.

Selmi felt the commission was crowding him on another matter in a master plan approval and use permit asked by Charles Bell for a development on the Highway 101 frontage road between Terra Linda interchange and Professional Center Parkway.

The developer plans 84 apartment units in three separate buildings, another building with two offices, and a service station. Selmi recommended a road with 40 feet of paving as the entrance to the development.

Some commissioners, particularly Charles J. Hendricksen, had doublts about this. "All I want you to remember," he told Selmi, "is that you say you're satisfied with it."

"Now, wait a minute," Selmi countered. He declared that the commission had a perfect right to demand a second entrance if it chose.

The commission didn't and the project was approved as recommended by Selmi.

Negroes Vote To Halt Boycotts

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A 14-month selective buying campaign against downtown Jackson merchants—during which 23 businesses closed—was over today.

The Jackson Movement, composed of civil rights groups who advocated putting an economic pinch on white merchants to win rights for Negroes, voted last night after a heated debate to end the boycott.

Several opponents said there was still no promise that the merchants would agree to hire Negroes above the "broom and mop" level.

Soviet Scientists Research On Peat

MOSCOW (UPI)—About 400 scientists at Moscow's Peat Institute are working on new ways to use the 14 million tons of peat cut from bogs and burned in Soviet powerhouses every year.

Europeans have used peat for centuries and, as a reservoir of yesterday's organic matter, peat bogs are a present-day source of energy and raw material.

American Flag Assists Anti-Litter Workers

NEW YORK (UPI)—Keep America Beautiful expects to reproduce the American flag on educational literature and advertisements more than 250 million times during 1964, estimates Allen H. Seed Jr., executive vice president.

A flying flag is part of the official symbol of the national litter-prevention organization.

Unruh Denies Aspirations As Governor

TOKYO (UPI)—California State Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh said here today he has no intention of running for the governorship of his state.

Unruh, who arrived in Tokyo Tuesday to attend a conference sponsored by Japan's National League of Young Liberal Democratic prefectural assemblymen, told a news conference that he supported California Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The influential California State Assembly Speaker will remain in Japan until Aug. 7. This was his second visit to Japan. He visited here last year in the course of his tour of Far Eastern countries.

Unruh said former presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger has the support of the Democratic party organization in California in his bid for a seat in the U.S. Senate.

Barry Aide Is Cautious On Birchite Assistance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Denison Kitchel, manager of Sen. Barry M. Goldwater's campaign for president, said today that John Birch Society members would not be given key jobs in the Washington nominee's campaign if their first allegiance is to Robert Welch, the group's founder.

Kitchel said if a question arose as to whether a role should be given to a Birch Society member, "We would be very careful" to see what kind of man he was. Welch has accused many leading Americans of being communist sympathizers or dupes.

In a television interview, Kitchel said that as a "general proposition" he did not expect to have members of the Birch Society working for Goldwater at the organizational level .

Kitchel also rejected the idea that Goldwater needs the so-called white backlash on the civil rights issue.

Goldwater will offer the voters "an affirmative program," Kitchel said, and "backlash" is not important in the campaign planning.

Veteran Group Gives Bike Safety Big Boost

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Veterans of Foreign Wars have distributed enough reflective tape strips for more than 5 million bicycles as part of a Lite-A-Bike program designed to promote bicycle safety.

The strips of reflective tape, visible at night from as far as 1,500 feet, are made available free to schools or civic groups participating in the VFW program.

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI) — The city recently acquired a new thoroughfare named "Joe" Street. It already had one Joe Street—the city supervisor.

Bookkeeping Loses Cash For Military

WASHINGTON (AP)—The General Accounting Office said Tuesday that bad administration of the Army's allotment system is costing the government about 2 million dollars a year in erroneous payments.

At least $340,000 of this amount is never recovered from the servicemen who get the erroneous payments, the congressional agency added.

The most common error, it reported, is the failure to make proper deductions for U.S. savings bonds, government life insurance and support of dependents on allotment requests.

The GAO said mistakes occur primarily because Army personnel and finance workers are not properly trained, do not remain on the job long enough to learn it properly, have to perform other military duties and "do not exercise the proper degree of care in their work."

Novato Chills County Hopes For Airport Aid

The Novato City Council last night sounded the death knell to Marin County supervisors' hopes for city participation in improving the county airport.

The Novato councilmen turned down the county's request that the city contribute to an airport improvement program, saying the 1964-65 budget contains no funds for such purpose.

They left the door open a crack, however, asking that chairman Charles R. Johnson of the Marin County Airport Advisory Committee present them with a summary of the benefits of the airport to Novato.

The San Rafael City Council on July 20 turned down the county's request for city funds for the project.

The supervisors asked the two cities to participate after voting June 29 to levy a tax of perhaps two cents for the next three years to raise $182,000 for airport improvements.

After the Department of Public Works submits improvement plans for the airport Aug. 19, the supervisors intend to ask the Federal Aviation Agency to match these funds under provisions of the Federal Aid Airport Program.

The initial improvements planned would include construction of a new runway, taxiway and tie-down area. Eventually, the supervisors hope to install lights at the airport and purchase the lease of flying instructor Harry O. Tollefson, who now operates it.

Bridge Leap Second Try At Death

San Francisco Deputy Coroner James Leonard said the man's wrists had been slashed and stitched by a surgeon within the last day.

He was the bridge's third death within three days — the other two including a Sebastopol woman and a 23-year-old student.

He was seen by California Highway Patrolman John H. Courter while the officer was driving south on the bridge at 4:25 p.m.

Courter saw the man gazing at the water from the east railing, according to patrol reports. He quickly made a U-turn at the toll plaza, but the man had jumped before he got there.

He was described at 60 to 65 years old, wearing light tan pants and a green shirt. He had grey hair with a crew cut. The San Francisco coroner's office said today it had no lead to his identity.

A fishing boat picked up the body floating in the water. He was the span's 268th known suicide.

he is also considering filing a writ of mandate, which would ask the court to order the hospital board to resume the hearings.

Board Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen told a reporter after the June executive session that the board had only participated in a "briefing session" with the district attorney, Harold F. Riede, on progress of the hearings. At the July hearings Kettenhofen told hearing officer John D. McDonough that the order the hearings be terminated "was an action of the board" taken at the June 23 meeting.

Gonick said the termination of the hearings was in violation of the hospital's by-laws which provide for a hearing to be given any doctor whose application for privileges has been turned down

The attorney added that evidence had been provided at the hearings showing Ascherman to be a licensed physician and certified by the American Board of Surgery. It is then up to the hospital board, despite the lack of witnesses, to prove that he was not qualified to practice at the hospital, Gonick claimed.

Riede and Kettenhofen said at the July 14 meeting that it was impossible to proceed with the hearing because attorneys for 11 witnesses sought by the hospital district would not allow their clients to testify because of the possibility of their being sued by Ascherman.

The hospital district board adjourned last night into another closed briefing session with Riede. It lasted 20 minutes and ended at 9:55 p.m.

Woman's Body Found On Beach

A woman's body, identified only as "about 45 years old" and Caucasian, was found today, washed ashore on the beach of Fort Cronkhite in Southern Marin.

Army spokesmen said the body was found at 11:45 a.m. by a military police patrol.

Asst. County Coroner William C. Bradley was investigating.

Wife's Illness Forces Policeman To Resign

Gary G. Collins quit his job as Mill Valley police officer after serving but one week to take care of his wife, who is ill and in a North Hollywood hospital.

Collins is also leaving his studies at Golden Gate Baptist Seminary at Strawberry Point, Police Chief Dan Terzich said today, and plans to find work in Southern California.

tive of Rep. William E. Miller, his vice-presidential running mate, will round out the group.

"I feel that we have a great cause and a great American running for the presidency," said Bliss, who labored to keep the Ohio delegation uncommitted during the race for the nomination.

He said Goldwater "can and will win."

Goldwater called the group a "steering and planning committee" and said it will decide on campaign strategy and on the schedule for the travels of the Republican ticket.

The senator said he and Miller will follow the committee's recommendations "to the letter."

from Sausalito, where the over-all assessed valuation was raised 54.9 per cent.

The board has conducted 156 hearings, well below the halfway mark, during the past two weeks.

Gnoss said the board has asked the state board of equalization for permission to extend the hearings until Aug. 13, the day before the assessments are to be given to County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell.

The hearings, originally expected to end in July, were first extended to Aug. 10.

Gnoss said that aside from the hearings at the Civic Center, the board plans to take 25 field trips.

telephone directory but was a registered lobbyist in 1961, '62 and '63.

A New York Herald Tribune story from Washington yesterday identified Bromley as Baker's former Senate office assistant and a former member of the Quorum Club, "a Capitol Hill dining establishment to which Mr. Baker and his circle of friends belonged."

The Herald Tribune story said it was understood that James G. Saxton, comptroller of the currency, had informed Senator Williams that Bromley played no role in getting the Redwood bank charter.

A spokesman for the Senate rules committee, said the Herald Tribune, reported that "the lobbyist" had told the committee that Baker merely performed a check cashing service for him.

Hospital Trustee Undergoes Surgery

While fellow members of the Marin General Hospital District board were meeting on the first floor last night, Charles A. Rowe was recovering from chest surgery in the intensive care unit on the second floor.

Rowe, who lives at 350 Chapman Drive, Corte Madera, was admitted to the hospital yesterday. His condition was described as "fair" today. He was due to be transferred out of the intensive care unit today.

said, then moved to Baltimore.

There, she said, "Bob" (Jones) "accepted the Lord as his savior" when 10, finished junior high school, took two years of commercial art in a vocational school, and was "no problem."

He entered the Air Force when 17, she related, got his high school diploma while in the service, and was discharged after suffering torn cartilages of a knee. He worked for an electrical company and later in vacuum cleaner sales, she testified, then disappeared for 18 months.

At the close of this period, Mrs. Jones said, he wrote he was in Nevada State Prison for armed robbery. She testified he began writing regularly, however, and wanted to rehabilitate himself.

Was he a "good boy?" asked Boyd.

"Yes, he was always obedient and respectful of his father," she replied.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales had a few questions of his own in cross-examination. During the 18 months after Jones left Baltimore did he write, "stop by" or make any attempt to contact the family?

Mrs. Jones said not.

And when Jones left the family home after his return from the service, didn't he also leave behind $1,200 in debts for the family to pay? Bales asked.

In a low voice, Mrs. Jones said this was true.

"Did it upset and hurt you?"

"Yes," she said.

Bales asked if besides leaving the debts, Jones also looted the home of television set, radio, and other items which he later sold to pawn shops.

Peter Allen Smith, representing King, called King's wife, Anne, of San Francisco, as his second witness, but could not locate her. The olive-complexioned sun glasses-wearing woman had been in the courtroom corridor at 10 a.m., waiting to testify.

At about 10:20 a.m., she was seen by newsmen talking to Lt. Carl R. Sears and Deputy Martin J. Conlin of the Marin County sheriff's office, security guards for the trial. Seconds later, she disappeared.

Both officers said they had no knowledge of where she went or why. Smith—was also perplexed about her whereabouts. He expressed hope she would be on the stand at 2 p.m. when court resumed.

A sparrow named "Clyde" also got into testimony today when Ellis Seibert, chief deputy for the sheriff's office, was asked by Smith if King had shown a quality of kindness while awaiting trial.

Seibert said the crippled bird has been adopted by King and is being fed and kept in King's cell.

Judge Wilson told the jury testimony may end today and closing arguments by prosecution and defense should occur tomorrow. He said the case may go to deliberation late tomorrow.

In testimony yesterday afternoon, Dr. Thomas Lowry, Kentfield psychiatrist and part-time staff member at San Quentin Prison, said a test he gave Jones disclosed the defendant has fewer long-term goals than most people, makes hasty decisions, and that his personality and physical maturity is "considerably" lower than his calendar age.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales asked if this is a psychopathic symptom, and the doctor agreed it is a "textbook" symptom. He said it is a definite indication of the "sociopath."

Asked by Bales if this means Jones is a person who "wants what he wants when he wants it?," Dr. Lowry said it did.

A chart of a personality and maturity test, presented in court by Dr. Lowry, disclosed Jones rated normally to all areas except forethought.

The doctor, a witness for attorney Thomas P. Boyd who represents Jones, said this does not mean Jones cannot eventually learn from experience.

He said Jones stayed out of trouble until he was about 22. "This is a good sign" for rehabilitation possibilities in prison, he reported.

He said Jones came from a large, poor family, but was responsible in his family duties during life in Baltimore, Md., and performed much Southern Baptist youth organization work.

Asked by Bales if Jones showed remorse over his crimes, the doctor said "it was of a very moderate degree."

VOTE

Bodega Bay—66 yes, 4 no; 25 per cent voting.

Watson—16 yes, none no; 73 per cent voting.

Point Reyes—14 yes, none no; 54 per cent voting.

Tomales—215 yes, 18 no; 56 per cent voting.

In the over-all vote throughout the seven districts, 690 voted for unionization and only 304 voted against it. But the over-all figure has no bearing since approval in each of the districts is necessary by law.

Opponents formed the West Marin Taxpayers Opposed to Untimely Unionization, headed by Shirley Morgan of Inverness.

The group charged that unionization would only lower the standards of education in West Marin.

Proponents, headed by James Marshall of Tomales, said resulting unification was needed as a logical step in improvement of Tomales High School.

Unification of the districts was twice turned down by the State Board of Education, after being endorsed by the Marin County Committee on School District Organization. Yesterday's proposal carried no such endorsement.

It was the second defeat of a unification effort in Marin County this year. On June 2, voters in the Tamalpais Union High School District rejected unification.

SHAKY

and assistant chairman Elly Peterson was resigning to run for the Senate from her home state of Michigan. Another opening came when the committee's second-in-command, William Warner, resigned as executive director to work with Miller in the vice presidential segment of the campaign.

But from there on down everybody in the 130-person operation, from high-level policy planners to typists, has been waiting for the other shoe to drop. The uncertainty and anxiety permeating the mid-town headquarters is enough to call for a tranquilizer concession beside the coffee machine.

The realities of politics are thoroughly understood by these professionals, all of whom maintained strict neutrality up to the convention. However, in the past the Republican National Committee has offered singular stability considering the risky nature of the work. Its staff includes men and women who have weathered all kinds of new faces and new policies arising out of nominating conventions—some of them dating back to Alf Landon's day. Even they are experiencing an unaccustomed panic.

The long delay between announcing the coming changes and telling the principals themselves has led to a confusion in the work which normally would be going on at increased tempo. Staffers don't know whether they should be working on organization plans or filling out job applications.

The usually very active women's division work has come to a complete standstill in the absence of an assistant chairman—there's nobody to sign any letters that might be written, and the workers are not sure what the new women's director would want since she is no more than a rumor.

Despite their personal anguish, the pros at Republican headquarters applaud Goldwater's decision to conduct his campaign altogether through the national committee.

Without exception, they found former Vice President Richard M. Nixon's strategy of operating his 1960 presidential campaign from a separate headquarters, by-passing the GOP committee, an inefficient and wasteful operation, leading to unnecessary conflicts and friction.

They heartily approve returning the campaign to the committee—and hope they will be on hand to help run it.

Youngster Found Buried In Ditch

CAMARILLO (AP)—The body of a boy about 12 or 14 years old was discovered today buried in an irrigation ditch on a ranch near here.

Coroner Pat Sullivan said the boy had been dead about 30 hours. He described the victim as white, brown-haired and wearing jeans, T-shirt and tennis shoes with multi-colored socks.

Sullivan said the body bore no marks of violence and he was conducting an autopsy.

Architectural Review Board Gains Favor

The Marin County Board of Supervisors indicated yesterday that it would favor creation of a county architectural review committee.

It has been proposed that architectural review, now handled by the county planning commission, be handled by the county zoning administrator.

Supervisor Peter H. Behr said he felt the zoning administrator, now being recruited, should not be saddled with that job. Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker said he would prefer "cumulative judgment" rather than that of one person.

Planning Director B. D. Dobbs said he felt architectural review has not worked under the planning commission because commissioners have been reluctant to invoke their power, mainly because they feel architecture is a matter of individual taste. He urged it be given to the zoning administrator. If that doesn't work out, an architectural review committee could be formed, he suggested.

County planning commissioners last week suggested that they retain architectural supervision until the new zoning administrator breaks in on his job, and then gradually he could take over all or part of the work.

The League of Women Voters and the Marin Council of Civic Affairs have urged that the planning commission retain the job.

The planning commission will have a hearing Monday at 9 a.m. on the zoning administrator's duties.

In other planning matters, the board of supervisors:

1. Set for Aug. 19 at 8 p.m. a public hearing on proposed revisions in the Lucas Valley Master Plan, permitting Eichler Homes to reshuffle commercial, townhouse and single-family residential areas, south and west of Miller Creek Avenue.
2. Set for Aug. 18 a public hearing on its resolution of intention to set width lines for a 100-foot right-of-way along North San Pedro Road from the Civic Center to Sunny Oaks Drive, for realignment and widening.
3. Approved a tentative map of Ocean Unit Two, a 104-lot subdivision at Dillon Beach, covering 33.5 acres, planned by James B. Keegan and Henry F. Trione.
4. Granted Robert Forbush a permit to operate a nursery school at 138 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia, on condition that he provide bus transportation and a loading zone.
5. Approved a lot split sought by Eugene Latapie at 55 Bret Harte Road, near San Rafael, and a lot split at Melrose and LaVerne avenues, Homestead Valley, sought by Semiana Sellmer.
6. Denied Juan Jordan a lot split at 803 Spring Drive, Tamalpais Valley.
7. Granted Bennic Ratto approval for apartments at 20 South Knoll Road, Alto, with condition that there be 2,500 square feet per unit. The planning commission had recommended denial.

Council Protects Itself On Signs

Novato city councilmen leafed to page 22 of a proposed encroachment ordinance last night to find a phrase to which they objected.

Section 28 on that page listed signs prohibited from the public rights of way—among them, "signs promoting political campaigns."

"I object," said Councilman William Jack Adams, who made considerable use of roadside poles in his campaign for city council.

"I do, too. I've used them for four years," said Mayor Robert D. Carrow.

Other council members, doubtless thinking of their own campaigns, agreed.

Hungry Horse Causes Mishap

A Tiburon horse bit the hand that fed him yesterday.

The horse went unfed for awhile.

Sanitary Board Rules New Sewer Necessary

Eichler Homes will have to build a new sewer line to a pumping station of the Richardson Bay Sanitary District before beginning development of Strawberry Point.

Directors of the district last night decided that the company should construct the line to the Salt Works pumping station, rather than install temporary lines until the area becomes more heavily populated.

Novato's Council Foiled On Tract

The Novato City Council last night found itself legally unable to stop a subdivision which had been protested, but took steps to eliminate such a situation in the future.

Over the protests of the Marin Golf and Country Club Homeowners Assn. members, the council approved the tentative map of Marin Golf and Country Club Heights with three variances from the city's zoning ordinance.

"I want an ordinance so that people can appeal every decision of a subordinate commission," said Councilman William Jack Adams. Other council members concurred and ordered such an ordinance prepared.

The protesting residents of Golf and Country Club Estates sought to block use of steep Eagle Drive as main thoroughfare to the 83-lot subdivision on 44 acres above their homes.

The planning commission approved the tentative map of the subdivision in June, granting three variances: that two lots have less than 40 feet frontage, that two lots have less than right angles to the street, and that two grades exceed the maximum of 15 per cent.

Last week, the council asked the staff to see if there was any legal way it could block the subdivision after its approval by the planning commission.

City Atty. Clark M. Palmer Jr. said last night that under the Novato ordinance, the planning commission's approval was final. The council then upheld the commission's action.

The council by 4-1 vote granted Shell Oil Co. permits for two signs on stations at Olive Avenue and Highway 101 and at South Novato Boulevard. Councilman J. Wayne Womack dissented because he did not go along with planning commission ruling that the signs must not rotate.

Womack objected also to a proposal in a new sign ordinance banning red from illuminated signs. However, he joined in unanimous vote for introduction of the ordinance, which gives the planning commission control over signs but provides for appeal to the city council.

The Novato City Council also:

1. Accepted for review proposed tree ordinance, grading ordinance, and encroachment ordinance.

2. Heard from Lawrence A. Coleman, director of public works, that drainage from the new P. J. Tarrant apartments would be carried underground on Fourth Street to either Vallejo or Olive Avenue.

3. Authorized Mayor Robert D. Carrow to register a formal complaint with the State Public Utilities Commission on telephone rates of Western California Telephone Co. The council voted at its last meeting to ask the PUC to investigate the company's rates because Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. had been ordered to lower its rates. The PUC answered that it needed a formal complaint before it could do this. Both phone companies serve Novato.

4. Authorized City Administrator J. Julien Baget to write the San Jose and Novato Unified School Districts that it is interested in a program of developing school playgrounds as city parks.

5. Authorized Baget to interview applicants for the positions of building inspector and finance officer and report his choice to the council for ratification.

6. Adjourned to a budget session at 8 p.m. next Tuesday, and set noon Aug. 7 as the time to accept the Ignacio-Loma Verde annexation petition.

Blasted Cruiser Owner Puzzle Is Straightened Out

The mystery of the unidentified cabin cruiser which exploded and burned in Richardson Bay Monday evening was caused by a mixup in yacht harbor berths, it was learned today.

The 40-foot cruiser is owned by Robert S. Conrich of San Francisco, and its name is the Southern Cross. It was insured for $8,000.

Harbor owner George Kappas couldn't identify it at time of the explosion, he said, because he did not know the craft was berthed in his harbor. He said today Conrich had rented space from him "four or five months ago" but had returned recently without telling him.

Cause of the explosion remained unknown today. Coast Guard authorities said a small possibility of arson exists. Conrich said he thought the cause was a gas or butane leak.

The burning craft was towed into Richardson Bay by Dean M. Jennings of Gate Five Road, Sausalito. It was leveled to the waterline by the fire.

Ink Favored For Many Off Uses

FORT MADISON, Ia. (UPI) — Some strange uses for fountain pen ink come to light in mail reaching research chemists here. Housewives praise blue ink as a laundry blueing and as a dye for furniture fabrics, blouses and hats. A Midwest mortician says red ink makes an excellent cosmetic. Any color writing fluid is helpful in treating burns and poison ivy irritation because of the tannic acid content, others report. But the pen company continues to recommend its product for writing only.

$600,000 Structure Approved By Planners

A $600,000, three-story office building is planned at the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue and D Street in San Rafael.

Architect Richard Marshall presented the plans to the San Rafael Planning Commission, which gave its approval last night. The building will have parking space for 36 cars underneath and an entrance well set back from the corner to provide a landscaped court.

Marshall said developers Leonard Davis and Frank W. Costanzo of San Rafael had expected the building to be occupied by the Bank of California, but the bank decided against it two weeks ago.

The commission action included granting a use permit and architectural approval.

The commission also approved a tentative map submitted by engineer Daniel P. Coleman for Peacock Gap Unit 5 subdivision. It will have 172 residential lots with a minimum lot size of 80-by- 125 feet. The tract will be west of the Peacock Gap golf course.

Commissioners let Lee F. Demeder, representing Cascade Sign Co. of San Francisco, know that the city was not pleased with the fact that the company erected a 4-by-24-foot sign for Direct Appliance Furniture at 70 Woodland Avenue, without first getting a permit. Demeder apologized. The commissioners reminded him he would have to pay a fine under provisions of the building code.

Commissioners Walter J. Coyne and Thomase R. O'Toole were absent.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

1. Denied a request for a change from duplex to apartment zoning on a 125-foot square parcel on the west side of Clark Street between Ross Street and Clorinda Avenue. Owner George Thomas made the request.

2. Approved rezoning of Twelveoak Hill subdivision units one and two on Las Gallinas Avenue south of Lucas Valley Road from unclassified to single family residential. The commission also held first hearing on a similar change for Twelveoak Hill unit three.

3. Granted architectural approval for alteration of the entry of a building at 700 A Street asked by American French Laundry. The building will be new quarters for the business.

4. Denied permission to eliminate a block screening wall from plans for a service garage and office by Edward Santa at 25 Vivian Way.

5. Granted a use permit and architectural approval for a coin-operated car wash at 300 Lisbon Street, planned by P. L. Friendshuh.

6. Set hearing Aug. 11 on Mrs. Ethel Michaels' application for rezoning from single family residential to duplex at 202 Miramar Avenue.

7. Gave architectural approval to Shell Oil Co. for a service station at Second and Minnie streets.

8. Authorized Chairman Fred C. Robbins Jr. to write a letter of appreciation to retiring Commissioner Orlando Conti.

9. Granted architectural approval to Robert Miller for an 18-unit apartment addition on the nort side of Prospect Avenue near Lincoln Avenue.

One Driver Fair, Other Improved

A Belvedere physician, hurt in a one-car accident Monday, remained in fair condition at Marin General Hospital today, but a Petaluman who was in another such mishap showed some improvement.

Still listed in fair condition was Dr. William B. Ryder Jr., 58, of 48 Peninsula Road, Belvedere. He is being treated for collar bone and rib fractures and multiple bruises suffered when his car went off an embankment on Waldo Grade.

The Petaluma man, John Hutchinson, 34, was in good condition today. He suffered multiple cuts and bruises when his car hit a power pole on Highway 101 in San Rafael yesterday.

Junior Theater Will Stage Sleepy Classic

"Rip Van Winkle," a play by Grace Dorcas Ruthenberg, will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday at Mill Valley's Park School by the Mill Valley Junior Theater as part of the city's summer recreation program.

Fred Crichton and Patty Meier are double cast as Rip Van Winkle and Janet Lee plays Dame Van Winkle. Steven Seifert is stage manager, Mrs. Truman Lee, in charge of make-up, and the production is directed by Lee Sankowich.

'DIVINE ATTITUDE' ON CARS FLAYED

Park Spokesman Attacks State Highway Board On 101 Routing

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A primeval beach and nearby redwood trees which were living before Christ has touched off an unprecedented rebellion among state park officials against California powerful freeway builders.

Tossing protocol aside, members of the State Park Commission and other state officials have publicly criticized the California Highway Commission and demanded a limit on its power to condemn park land for freeways.

"We have almost established in modern life a divine attitude toward the automobile," said Charles A. DeTurk, director of the State Department of Parks and Recreation.

He says Prarie Creek Redwoods State Park, on the northern California coast, is threatened by a proposal by highway engineers to build a freeway through it.

It appears likely that the 1965 Legislature will be asked to settle the fight.

The battleground is along a narrow, two-lane road through the redwood forests. Officially known as U. S. 101, it's famed throughout the world as the redwood highway.

The highway is also the lifeline of California's north coastal area. Every day, it's jammed with big trucks carrying newly cut timber to big cities and bringing food, clothing and other supplies to small communities here.

The State Park Commission, admitting the need for widening the road here, oppose two of three alternates being considered by the Division of Highways.

One would follow the present 101, and would mean destruction of some of the park's most popular redwood groves. Another would slice across Gold Bluff Beach and, park officials say, ruin one of the nation's last undeveloped beaches and destroy a memorial redwood grove.

Park men back a third alternative, on a rugged ridge seven miles east of the beach. It, too, would mean the loss of redwoods, but the park commission contends the beach, soon to be acquired by the state, should be left unspoiled.

Local interests, saying the ridge route is 6 million dollars more expensive, favor the beach freeway.

The State Highway Commission, making further studies at the request of Gov. Edmund G. Brown, hasn't decided on a route. But Sam Helwer, the division of highways district engineer here, has indicated he favors a beach freeway.

Court Battle Set Over Naming Of GOP Committee

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — A move to halt further proceedings under AB 96, the assembly bill which permits Republican nominees for office to appoint eight instead of three members to the Republican Central Committee, was started today.

Richard M. Frisk, Berkeley attorney, filed [illegible] for an order to show cause why Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan should not be permanently enjoined from carrying out provisions of the measure.

The measure was adopted by the legislature in a move to halt conservative Republican party members from gaining control of the party's internal machinery in California.

Frisk, a GOP convention delegate and entitled to three appointsments to the central committee, said the measure is unconstitutional, capricious and a violation of the 14th amendment of the federal constitution.

City Planners Agree To Freeze Tidelands Area

San Rafael planning commissioners last night let it be known they will comply with the city council's request to grant no more permits in the east tidelands area of the city until adequate sewer, water and drainage is available.

Councilmen Monday night recalled that they ordered a holdup of development five years ago on the quarter-mile stretch of tideland near Marin Rod and Gun Club east of the road to the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge.

Nevertheless, development has been allowed.

Commissioners last night also let it be known that they were not exactly pleased with City Engineer Dominic Selmi's explanation to the council that the commission had granted some development because it "felt sorry" for applicants.

Selmi told the commission that what he said was "maybe felt sorry." The "maybe" was left out of his explanation as quoted in the Independent-Journal yesterday, he claimed.

First matter to come up on the subject was an application for subdivision of five acres by Marin Canalways and Development Co., represented by attorney Samuel W. Gardiner, an associate in the company. He said buyers of the land will agree to continue to hold off development until an over-all plan on drainage and water and other facilities can be developed.

Gardiner submitted a long legal agreement on the restriction, which he said had not been thoroughly reviewed by the city attorney. Commissioners approved the subdivision on the condition that the city attorney approves the legal restrictions and the form in which they were presented by Gardiner.

On another matter, the commission was more obdurate. It denied a use permit asked by Lee Ceccotti, who wanted to build bulk storage facilities for petroleum products on East Francisco Boulevard.

"We've been sympathetic with people in the past, and all it's got us is criticism," Commissmissioner Charles J. Hendrickson said.

Commissioners told the applicant he could appeal the matter to the city council.

Language Study Hunt Stepped Up

SACRAMENTO (CNS) —Special provisions to augment the supply of foreign language teachers in California schools have been announced by Dr. Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction.

Fall foreign language examinations are slated at Fresno State College Aug. 14, and at San Diego, San Fernando and San Diego state colleges Aug. 21.

The examinations will cover skills in all forms of French, German or Spanish. Success in passing along with courses constitute minimum requirements for a special credential.

Marin General Hospital's Medical Staff Chief Resigns

Dr. Dallas L. Wagner, chief of staff at Marin General Hospital, last night submitted his resignation to the hospital district board.

The board accepted the resignation with regret and directed that he be presented with a scroll.

Wagner, who has been chief of staff at the hospital for three years, stated in a letter that "this request is prompted by the demand of my private practice, which has not always received the attention it needed when hospital duties pressed."

Wagner said he would continue serving until the board approved the recommendation of the hospital's medical staff for a replacement.

The Marin General Hospital District board also:

1. Approved a resolution proposed by Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhoffen that the hospital seek enactment by the state legislature of legislation which would allow hospital districts to enlarge their boards from five to seven members. (The Marin board has been operating for two months with only four members.)

2. Stated approval of location of a county park between Corte Madera Creek and the extension of Wolfe Grade and asked that the county leave an area which could be used by the hospital for parking when it widens Bon Air Road.

3. Approved the annual appointments of medical staff members, with the total number of staff members being 284.

Campaign Expensive

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Gov. William W. Scranton's drive for the Republican presidential nomination cost $750,000, of which $300,000 was spent for radio and television, Frank C. P. McGlinn, treasurer of the National Finance Committee said today.

I-J Carrier Hurt, But Delivers

Mark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie C. Jonas of 330 Edgewood Avenue, was making deliveries on his bicycle at 4 p.m. when he hit a bump going down a steep hill.

Thrown from his bike, he hit the pavement chin first. It took eight stitches to close the deep cut.

Returning home from the doctor's office, the boy's parents told him they would make other arrangements if he was unable to deliver the rest of his papers.

To their pride, the game youngster insisted on picking up where he left off. He returned and finished the route.

Motorcycle Patrolman Shows Improvement

California Highway Patrol Officer Charles O. Woodworth of Glen Ellen, former Mill Valley resident, was in "slightly improved" condition today at Sonoma Valley Hospital where he was admitted Monday after his motorcycle was struck by a car between Boyes Springs and Kenwood.

He suffered extensive injury to his left leg. There was still a chance today that it would have to be amputated. A hospital spokesman said it was too early to tell.

Tire, Wheel Gone

BOARD CAUTIOUS IN VIDEO FIELD

Supervisors Are Not Ready To Approve Exclusive Franchise For TV Cables

Marin County supervisors, caught in a tangle of television cable requests yesterday, decided to proceed cautiously in the TV field.

Supervisors said they didn't want to grant an exclusive franchise, but are willing to grant encroachment permits to firms to install cables.

The hitch came because supervisors felt that by granting an encroachment permit, they might in effect be granting what is tantamount to a franchise.

Under discussion was a request by Television Communications Inc. for an encroachment permit to place television cable on utility poles in Terra Linda, Marinwood and Santa Venetia.

Supervisors previously issued a similar permit to Clear View Cable Systems Inc. and have been operating under a policy of issuing encroachment permits to any firm that applies and meets the conditions of the permit.

"We're not in the business of deciding which company comes in and does business," said Supervisor William D. Fusselman.

Supervisors then wondered how a firm would be chosen to provide the cable service if they did not make a selection.

They felt possibly the final choice might lie with Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., which grants the rights to the use of utility poles for the cables.

Supervisors said they wanted to know what acceptance or rejection of Television Communications' application would mean in the long run.

They continued the discussion until 11 a.m. next Tuesday and said they would invite representatives of the telephone company, and Pacific Gas and Electric Co. to the meeting.

The board also delayed action until next week on a request by Bill's Radio and Television of San Francisco for permission to install a community TV antenna system in the Sleepy Hollow area.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

1. Approved consolidation of the special election on the annexation of Ignacio-Loma Verde to Novato with the November general election.

2. Requested the planning commission and the Department of Public Works to compile standards and specifications for a proposed county ordinance regulating filling of San Francisco Bay.

3. Set a 25 mile-an-hour speed limit on the portion of Butterfield Road, north of the San Anselmo city limits, and on the portion of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard extending from Oak Manor westerly to the Fairfax city limits.

4. Authorized special payroll deductions of $1 a month for members of the Marin County Deputy Sheriff's Assn. for their monthly dues.

5. Granted Alfred E. Fowler, assistant service officer, in the Veterans' Service Office, sick leave without pay after his accumulated sick leave and vacation time ends July 29, and authorized the hiring of W. P. Duhamel to fill the vacancy under contract at the rate of $580 per month.

6. Approved the appointment of Richard Bergmann as appraiser II, effective Aug. 1, at $634 a month; Henry F. Strohmeyer as radio technician operator, effective Aug. 1 at $531 a month; Miriam Michaelson as social worker III, effective today, at $531 a month; Linda Miller as social worker II, effective July 27, at $445 a month; and Charles E. Bemero as maintenance man II, effective July 17, at $445 a month.

7. Approved the promotion of Jean Krysiak to principal account clerk, Dayle Parraga to cashier III and Louise Dieckmann to cashier II, all in the treasury-tax collector office.

8. Received notice that the Regional Water Pollution Control Board will consider a tentative resolution on Sept. 17 prohibiting the discharge of sewage into Richardson Bay along the Sausalito waterfront.

9. Received a letter from Bert Balmer, city manager of Mill Valley, recommending that the county and not flood control district 3 purchase lands to be affected by the establishing of bulkhead lines in Richardson Bay. Supervisors withheld comment and filed Balmer's letter for the hearing on Richardson Bay Aug. 12 at 8 p.m.

10. Approved plans and specifications for construction of a drainage system at Adrian and Hawthorn Ways, Santa Venetia, a joint project between the county and Flood Control Zone 7, and set Aug. 11 for receiving bids.

11. Approved the expenditure of $400 for four fans for the district attorney's office.

12. Approved the use of the supervisors chambers by the California Bar Assn. Oct. 13, and use of the civic center lunchroom by the Marin Mental Health Assn. Sept. 25.

Bay Fill Permit Gets Fire From Rod, Gun Women

An Army permit to dredge and fill San Pablo Bay at Point San Pedro, issued to Port of Santa Clara County Inc., has raised objection from at least one conservation-minded Marin group.

"We just don't want the bay disturbed," said Mrs. Estelle Peterson, of Larkspur, president of the Marin Rod and Gun Club Auxiliary. "They are going to keep filling up the bay until eventually it just becomes a stream."

The women's group has sent eight postcards to the Army Engineer district office in San Francisco.

One other objection to the proposed permit was entered by the State Lands Commission concerning a property dispute Port of Santa Clara County Inc. over ownership of lands adjacent to the project.

Highway Crowding Worse For Future

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — The nation's streets and highways will be carrying 40 per cent more vehicles in 1975 than they are today, projections indicate.

Auto registrations in the United States are expected to rise from 1963's total of 68.5 million to 97.5 million by the mid-1970's; truck registrations may go from 13.6 million to 18.5 million over the same period.

There are approximately 26,000 policemen in New York City. The department has 1,500 radio patrol cars, five helicopters, 12 launches and a cavalry of 250 horses and men.

Sunglasses Aren't Good For Night Use

NEW YORK (UPI) — People who wear sunglasses for night driving are ignoring safety, an automobile leasing expert warns.

Contrary to a popular belief, drivers who wear sunglasses during the day and leave them on after darkness falls are risking an accident, says George A. Culp. Sunglasses do reduce the glare of headlights, but at the same time they seriously impair the driver's vision, he said.

Astronaut May Venture Outside

HOUSTON (AP) — One of the crewmen on the second Gemini space mission may become the first astronaut to step outside the spacecraft while in flight, the crewmen said today.

This experiment for the mission scheduled early next year was announced as primary and backup crews held a news conference.

Movement outside the space vehicle was pinpointed as probably the most critical phase of the mission.

STOWAWAY EXPENSIVE BUT FORGIVEN

Mother, Mrs. William Rifenburgh of Port Chester, N.Y., gives 15-year-old son Daniel a loving pinch on the chin, as he disembarked yesterday from the Queen Elizabeth. He had stowed away on another liner, the Queen Mary, been tossed onto a British juvenile home, and finally cost his father $485 for his return trip fare. (AP Wirephoto)

Hospital To Contract For Efficiency Study

A costly drive for more efficiency at Marin General Hospital was launched by the hospital district board last night.

The board approved hiring the Booz, Allen Methods Improvement Service to do a six-month study of the hospital's operation which will cost between $12,000 and $14,000

To supplement the report and make sure that things keep operating efficiently at the hospital, the board decided to hire an industrial engineer at a salary of between $700 and $850 per month.

A list of priorities was set up. First to be hired will be a full-time librarian for the medical library, then a psychiatric medical social worker, the industrial engineer, and the services of the firm.

Availability of funds will determine the timetable of the hirings.

Mill Valley Planners Veto Pair Of Lot Split Requests

Mill Valley planning commissioners last night recommended that Ted Gibson's request to make two lots of a 6,620-square foot parcel be denied, as it would create a substandard lot.

Gibson, whose land is at 328 Miller Avenue and reaches from Miller to Ethel Avenue, asked to divide his lot into an upper lot for duplex use and a lower lot to be commercial.

The Mill Valley Planning Commission also:

1. Rejected a request from Manuel Gomez to subdivide a 76,760-square foot parcel into four lots on Gomez Way, saying it was not good planning.
2. Heard an interim report on the East Mill Valley General plan from planning consultant John D. Erickson, and decided to hold a workshop session late in August to consider several design alternatives.
3. Set for Aug. 25 discussion of a zoning ordinance amendment regarding the parking ordinance and the same date for rezoning Redwood Camp, part 2, off Cypress Avenue, from unclassified to a permanent zoning.
4. Decided to hear revision of the plan review ordinance making unclassified districts subject to plan review on Aug. 11.

State May Regulate Auto Mileage Meters

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The state department of agriculture today moved to put taximeters and odometers on rental cars under government supervision for the first time.

William A. Kerlin, chief of the department's bureau of weights and measures, said the department proposes regulations establishing standards for the meters.

Testing would be the responsibility of county sealers of weights and measures.

Prison Inmate Says He Should Be Deported

A San Quentin Prison inmate wants freedom from the prison so he can be deported to Mexico.

Gilberto R. Duarte, serving time for a narcotics violation in Los Angeles, filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in Marin Superior Court today, asking to be deported to Mexico "forthwith."

Duarte contends he was duly tried and convicted of being an illegal alien in July of 1962. A year later, he was sentenced in Los Angeles for illegal transportation of narcotics and sent to San Quentin.

Duarte argues that the first sentence should take precedence. In other words, he ought to be in Mexico, not in San Quentin.

Luckless Ship Stuck On Reef

The windjammer Yankee, from which Marin resident Saydee Reiser vanished in April in the Galapagos Islands, has come to port earlier than planned in the South Pacific, about 1,600 miles northeast of New Zealand.

In circumstances unhappily consistent with the misfortunes that have plagued its eighth circumnavigation of the world, the 98-foot ship has run aground on a coral reef off Rarotonga.

Rarotonga is about 3,500 miles southwest of Floreana Island, where Miss Reiser, 70-year-old resident of 1752 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax, and an avid hiking enthusiast, disappeared early in a 14-month cruise that began in Nassau in the Bahamas. Miss Reiser left the ship to hike on the island and has never been found.

The Yankee ran aground after a gale had broken off the flukes on both sides of its half-ton anchors and set it adrift. Earlier, after leaving the Galapagos, its refrigeration system had broken down and some of its food supplies had spoiled.

Capt. Derek Lumbers hoped to be helped off the rain-drenched island by a Matson liner, but a Matson spokesman in San Francisco said that towing of the 49-year-old German-built vessel is ruled out by insurance regulations.

The Yankee is owned by Windjammer Cruises Inc., of Miami, Fla. Besides Miss Reiser, three other Californians sailed on the unfortunate voyage. Mrs. Martha Hurt, a Berkeley widow who was the last person to see the Fairfax woman, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Addison of Ventura were reported contemplating the vagaries of ocean travel from the vantage point of the Rarotonga Hotel.

State Asked For Data On Divorce

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A University of California sociologist contends that the state needs greater statistical information on divorces for proper understanding of the divorce problem.

He testified yesterday at a hearing before Assemblyman Pearce Young (D-Napa) chairman of the Judiciary Committee's subcommittee on family relations.

Paul W. Shipley, chief of the state's Bureau of Vital Statistices, said his office records only the names of the divorced parties, the date of decree, and the county where the decree was granted.

Davis said no one has thought it necessary to collect facts on the reason for divorce.

Reed's Pupils Get 8 Years Of Spanish

Pupils in Reed School District will be taught Spanish from the time they enter kindergarten through the eighth grade, beginning next fall.

District trustees meeting last night agreed to increase the Spanish teaching program on hearing reports of the program and noting that teachers will be available.

Last year, children in kindergarten through third grade and in seventh and eighth grades were taught Spanish by classroom and special teachers.

Trustees also heard that the district's new foreign language laboratory is being installed at Del Mar School. It will allow language instruction simultaneously to three different learning levels by means of tape recordings, Supt. Edward C. Pino explained.

Of 145 June graduates entering Redwood High School this fall, 130 have been accepted into second year Spanish classes, Pino reported.

Trustees went into closed session last night to discuss hiring of a principal for Granada School from among 23 applicants. They will meet again in closed session at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Del Mar School for further discussion, Pino reported, with appointment scheduled for the Aug. 4 meeting.

Fate Of Rat Island Is Still Up In Air

The fate of Rat Island, an .08 of an acre speck of land off China Camp, is still haunting the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The board thought it had a solution several weeks ago, but the problem of use of the island cropped up again yesterday.

Supervisors had agreed previously that Draper Companies should acquire the island, which has been declared surplus by the federal government, but not develop the land.

Now the Bureau of Land Management, Department of Interior, has a pending decision that would prevent public sale of the island. The decision, slated to become effective Aug. 14, is that the island should be classified as a recreational area for public use.

Attorney Philip Heinecke, representing Peacock Gap, Inc., one of the Draper companies, told the board of supervisors yesterday his company is protesting the bureau's pending decision. He asked the board to reaffirm its previous position and support the idea of public sale.

Recreation director Kelvin J. Nelson said the county should acquire the property for public use.

Supervisors decided that Heinecke, Nelson, and County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney should study the problem and report next week.

Supervisors also approved plans and specifications for the first phase of development of Paradise Beach Park on Tiburon peninsula, mainly grading, turfing, drainage and planting.

Nelson said he hopes to advertise for bids by Aug. 15 and have work under way immediately after Labor Day.

He told supervisors there has been a noticeable increase in attendance at county parks since the Independent-Journal began a series of stories about the parks in its Marin Magazine.

The board authorized spending $1,023 for topographic mapping of the Stafford Lake area, for study of possible recreational development.

New Technique Found To Detect Cancers

DALLAS (UPI) — Radiation biologist James W. Finney in work at the Baylor University Medical Center has discovered a new way to make radioactive substances seek out cancer cells in the body.

The process involves giving patients super doses of oxygen, so radioisotopes rush to the site of any tumor. In the past, radioistopes have shown no preference for malignant cells over normal cells. Finney described it as a breakthrough in cancer diagnosis, and possibly in treatment of tumors.

Citizens Seeking Tiburon Edifice

Two Tiburon residents have been named to the citizens committee to find a city hall—temporary or permanent—for the newly incorporated city.

Mrs. Jacqueline A. Parnell and John G. McChesney were appointed to the committee by Mayor Gordon W. Strawbridge. Committee chairman Fred Mantegani was named at Monday night's city council meeting.

Mrs. Parnell ran for city council in the June 2 election. McChesney was on the citizens committee aimed at gaining more candidates for the council election.

Stinson Beach Canines Brave Rabies Needles

There were 45 dogs who took their medicine in Stinson Beach last night under the Marin County Health Department's series of rabies vaccination clinics.

Next clinic will be from 6 to 8 p.m. tomorrow at the firehouse at Point Reyes Station.

Tax Check Takes Roundabout Route

ST. PETERSBERG, Fla. (AP)—Richard L. Smith of nearby Gulfport got his refund from the collector of Internal Revenue by a roundabout route.

Smith received it from Cecil A. Ball of Barstow, Fla. Ball said Smith's check was stuck to his refund check.

"I though of sending it back to the tax office," Ball wrote, "but decided that you might be as anxious to get your check as I was mine, so I am mailing it to you direct."

Manny Charnow Has Tickets For Friends

Friends who wish to attend Manny Charnow's 80th birthday party Aug. 21 at Hamilton Air Force Base, but cannot afford the price of tickets can get them from Charnow himself.

San Rafael's "Mr. Senior" wants to make sure that all who wish will be there. The party includes a luncheon in the non-commissioned officers club and a tour of the air base. From 300 to 350 are expected to attend.

A survey by the National Home Sewing Institute revealed that 75 per cent of the women who sew belong to families with incomes higher than the national average.

Freedom Of Information Bill Meets Senate Delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Hubert H. Humphrey has delayed — at least temporarily — a "freedom of information" bill designed to make it easier for newsmen to challenge government agencies which refuse to give out information.

Humphrey entered a motion for reconsideration of the measure, shortly after the Senate passed it Tuesday by voice vote. The Minnesota Democrat said several senators had told him there should be some discussion on the measure.

Similar legislation has been pending before the House Judiciary Committee for more than a year.

Jointly sponsored by Sen. Edward V. Long, (D-Mo.), and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the legislation would permit federal court suits to challenge the withholding of information and would put the burden of proof on the agencies to defend their refusal to give out information.

The bill would also require an agency's public information policies to be published and made available to the public.

Boy Cyclist Remains In Fair Condition

Seven-year-old Palmer Thomas Knutson of 639 Barberry Lane, Terra Linda, remained in fair condition at Marin General Hospital today.

The boy suffered a skull fracture and broken collarbone when his bicycle struck a truck at a Terra Linda intersection Saturday.

Salvaging Old Mixer Was Real Hard Job

The mixer was put back into service—after the 15,000 pounds of hardened concrete had been removed with a jackhammer.

Ambulance Firm Offers Tryout In Mill Valley

Marin Ambulance Service in Larkspur is willing to set up a commercial ambulance in Mill Valley on a six-month trial basis, President Robert Parker said today, should the City of Mill Valley decide to discontinue its service.

Parker said the proposal was made at a meeting with City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer and City Councilman Albert E. White and is to be discussed by the city council at its Aug. 17 meeting.

Last week, both Balmer and Fire Chief Leslie Armager told the council they would prefer to end ambulance service if an attendant cannot be provided for patients.

The city now sends out its ambulance with a driver only. Complaints have been made that standard practice for ambulances is to have both a driver and an attendant.

"They (the city) won't give up service right away," said Parker. "I would go in and give six months service to prove I could provide it. The city would still have its own ambulance." He said he would place an ambulance in Mill Valley since it would require six to eight minutes to make the run from Larkspur.

The charge would be $25 to transport a patient from Mill Valley to Marin General Hospital with a $2 added charge made between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m.

Marin Ambulance has three ambulances and an invalid car, which is used to transport patients for whom emergency medical aid is unnecessary.

Girl, 7, Treated For Dog Bite

A 7-year-old San Rafael girl was treated at San Rafael General Hospital last night after she was bitten by a dog near her home.

Christine Leone of 233 Alpine Street suffered a shallow wound on her right upper arm.

San Rafael police took the dog to the Marin County Humane Society. Efforts to locate the owner were unsuccessful, they said.

Hub Council Meets Only 40 Minutes

Rezone Item Is Put Over To Aug. 11

A short San Anselmo City Council disposed of a short agenda in a short 40 minutes last night.

Because only three members were present, when lack of unanimity appeared on an appeal from a rezoning turndown, acting Mayor Woodrow D. Capurro put the matter off until the Aug. 11 meeting.

That was item No. 4 on a four-item agenda.

The council was unanimous in approving final maps for Franklin's two-lot subdivision on Laurel Avenue and for H. W. Laster and Sons' Oak Spring Unit 5 subdivision, both of which had prior planning commission approval. They comprised agenda item No. 1.

At suggestion of City Administrator Douglas Flautt, item No. 2 was put overt o Aug. 11. It was a request by Dennis T. Moore for an encroachment permit to permit a driveway and garage to extend onto the right of way of Allyn Avenue. Flautt said a subdivider is planning to improve Allyn Avenue and should have a plan ready by next meeting.

FLAUTT'S REPORT

Item No. 3 consisted of a report by Flautt and City Engineer Richard M. Syphers on an accumulation of debris at 37 Canyon Road. Both said the owner, Beverly Fish, has agreed to conform with requests by the engineer and fire chief and is cleaning up the debris. However, said Syphers, the city dumped some broken concrete on the property when the street collapsed some years ago. He suggested city crews remove it.

Acting Mayor Capurro, with no objection from Councilmen Arthur W. Smith and Cedric Clute, directed that be done.

Item 4 was the rezoning appeal. Mrs. Lido Artegiana sought rezoning from single family dwelling to apartments at 31 Lansdale Avenue. The planning commission had rejected the request as spot zoning.

Councilman Clute said San Anselmo should coordinate its zoning with Fairfax, which has apartments "just a few doors away" from 31 Lansdale Avenue. He said the location is "not typical residential property" and he did not see the proposed change as spot zoning.

SPOT ZONING

"I think it is definitely spot zoning, and I would oppose it," said Councilman Smith.

Planning Commissioner Jerry W. Lloyd said the commission had expressed itself as favorable to duplex zoning but had rejected the proposal for apartments.

Acting Mayor Capurro was saved from committing himself when Councilman Clute proposed the matter be put over until Mayor William Franchini and Councilman John M. Reichmuth were present. Capurro directed that be done.

"Has anyone anything else to bring up?" he inquired.

Clute had, as it turned out. He said owner Albert H. Siemers had agreed to put a sidewalk in front of the Hunter Investment Co. building if the city would make an inspection and assure him a culvert under the walk is satisfactory. Capurro ordered the inspection be made, and adjourned the meeting. Time: 8:40 p.m.

Better Business Bureau Aide Warns Of Directory Solicitation

A report from Vernon A. Libby of Fairfax, who is head of the watchful Better Business Bureau of San Francisco, calls attention to a direct mail advertising solicitation currently being circulated that has the capacity to mislead.

The printed form asks for a check to pay for a listing in a classified directory — which listing has not been ordered. This sort of thing has happened before. On the last occasion, I believe, it was a case of a similarity in names between the solicitor and a bonafide labor magazine. The apparent authenticity of the bill was strengthened by having a pasted clipping of the addressee's last ad in the magazine.

In the present instance, Libby notes that the catch is in the appearance of the form which is so similar to a telephone bill for a classified directory listing in the yellow pages that busy executives may not read it carefully and okay it for payment.

If you study it closely you'll notice that the publisher of the "directory" does take care to print on the form: "This is a solicitation — not a bill."

It pays to double check what you are asked to pay.

THERE SEEMS to be a mild flurry of news items about some of Marin's lumber specialists.

EARL R. PENNINGTON of San Rafael has left for Japan as one of a seven-man team of the American Plywood Assn. on a "trade probe" into the possibilities of getting that country to use more U.S. manufactured plywood.

Our Douglas fir laminates are said to be considerably stronger than the Philippine lauan plywoods used so widely in Japan. The latter are fine for decorative use but not for structural purposes. Our plywoods will be placed on display in several Japanese cities. Discussions will be held and technical data disseminated.

The trade mission is co-sponsored by the Department of Commerce. Pennington expects to return by Aug. 15.

R. A. HARDIN of Fairfax, sales representative for Weyerhaeuser Co. of Tacoma, is one of 12 men in his firm appointed to a newly created wood products marketing advisory panel. He attended its first meeting in Fontana, Wis., last week.

Purpose of the panel is to gauge the effectiveness of various new marketing and merchandising activities being planned for wood building materials lines. Products of the company include softwood lumber and plywood; hardwood lumber; plywood and doors, hardboard, particleboard and laminated wood arches and beams.

Course I, covering basic appraisal principles, and Course IV, being taught for the first time and dealing with condemnation appraising and right of way evaluation, will run Aug. 3-15. Course II on urban properties will be held Aug. 17-29. Registration details are available from Arthur G. Lee, 1 Sansome Street, San Francisco.

SAN RAFAEL Chrysler-Plymouth dealer Doug Dicker and wife Marie are on an all-expense-paid trip to Bermuda this week — a prize in a national sales contest. In winning the Chrysler-Plymouth regional award, Dicker's firm increased its sales by nearly 300 per cent over the previous period.

Signing Of Ex-Marin Star Starts College-Pro Furor

COMBINED AP & UPI

PULLMAN, Wash. — Washington State, irked over the manner in which fullback Herm McKee—a former gridder at Tam High in Mill Valley—was signed by the Baltimore Colts with one year of eligibility remaining, told the NFL team today to keep its scouts off the campus.

"Colts' football scouts will be unwelcome at WSU for an indefinite period," Bert Clark, the Cougars new head coach, said yesterday. "They signed McKee at a time when we had no head coach and they failed to contact athletic director Stan Bates. McKee was a red shirt, which made things worse.

(McKee is a former prep star at Tamalpais High School from where he was graduated in June of 1956. He played football as an end and halfback for the Tam Indians junior varsity in 1953 and the varsity in 1954 and '55. He was playing under then head coach Dick Miller and assistant coach Jim Hanretty.

(In addition to football, he was a basketball star for the Indians. He later enrolled at San Francisco City College and played both football and track.

("He wasn't particularly fast in high school," Hanretty said today, "but he picked up speed at San Francisco City College and was a sprinter on the track team."

(He then transferred to Washington State.)

Clark added that he was not "damning" pro football, but "protesting one club's breaking of the professional code of ethics which we at Washington State can't tolerate."

Clark's statement followed a copyrighted story in the Oakland Tribune which said that the Athletic Assn. of Western Universities had barred Colts scouts from all eight of the conference's campuses.

The National Football League club was accused of signing McKee although he had one more year of eligibility left at Washington State. His class, however, had been graduated in 1962, making him eligible for the professional draft.

"I knew nothing about McKee's signing with Baltimore," said Clark. "They never contacted a single person at Washington State to my knowledge."

But the Colts said McKee was signed last December, when Jim Sutherland was still coach at WSU.

"They knew all about it—the coaches that is," said McKee at the Colt training camp in Westminster, Md.

"After all, I'm 25 years old and I'd better get going on my pro career if I am going to follow one,'" McKee added. "I was supposed to have had my big year (at Washington State) last year, but I only played in three games."

"Herm McKee of Washington State was only signed after the boy had requested the opportunity to play pro football and the head coach had given his approval for the boy to do so," the Colts stated.

The story was broken by Ed Schoenfeld of the Oakland Tribune, who also reported that the AAWU had censured the Colts. He also said Southern California was still unhappy over the signing of lineman Al Bansavage a few seasons ago when he had remaining eligibility.

"In the same instance," Baltimore countered, "the Colts did not desire to sign Al Bansavage a couple of years ago and urged him to stay in college.

"But upon the insistence of the boy to play pro football, the Colts contacted his coach, who gave approval for the signing."

Phils Shatter Myth; Juan Hurls Tonight

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Now that the league-leading Philadelphia Phillies have shattered the myth that they can't win against lefthanders, Manager Alvin Dark of the San Francisco Giants will give ace righthander Juan Marichal a shot at 'em tonight.

Southpaw Billy O'Dell was the victim of the Phils in last night's contest, but he got absolutely no help from the Giants, who were blanked on four hits by Jim (Perfect Game) Bunning.

The Phils, who lengthened their lead to a game and one-half over the second place Giants, got all four of their runs off O'Dell in the fourth frame.

Tony Taylor singled to open the inning, took second on an error by Willie McCovey, went to third on an infield single, and scored on a single by Ruben Amaro. Gus Triandos then stepped to the plate and rapped his second homer of the year, scoring the two men in front of him.

Jim Duffalo came on for O'Dell with one man away in the fifth and held the Phils hitless hrough two and two-thirds innings. Bob Shaw pitched the final inning, blanking the Phillies on one hit.

Independent-Journal Sports

Wed., July 29, 1964 17

Bunning, who posted his 10th vicory against four defeats, had to have help in the ninth, when it looked like the Giants might come up with another of the late inning rallies.

He had surrendered a single to Hal Lanier in the fifth and a bunt single to Matty Alou in the eighth going ino the final frame. Then Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda singled with one man out, and relief artist Jack Baldschun was called in for Bunning.

Baldschun hurled just one ball —and Willie McCovey hit into a double play to end the contest.

It was the second straight walloping for O'Dell, who was tagged with his fourth loss in seven decisions. He gave up seven hits and four runs in the four and one-third innings he toiled. In his last start before that, the Chicago Cubs blasted him for 12 runs.

In tonight's contest, Marichal (14-5) will oppose Dennis Bennett (9-8).

Elsewhere in the NL, Milwaukee edged Cincinnati 3-2, Los Angeles routed New York 9-0, and St. Louis topped Chicago 12-7. Houston and Pittsburgh were rained out.

In the American League, Los Angeles defeated New York 3-1 Detroit whipped Chicago 6-3, Minnesota dropped Baltimore 7-4, Washington nipped Cleveland 4-3 and Kansas City beat Boston 2-1.

Triandos, who came to Philadelphia with Bunning from Detroit last winter, was in the line-up as part of Mauch's strategy to combat the left-handed pitching which had been responsible for 10 of the last 12 Phillie defeats.

The veteran catcher caught a Billy O'Dell fast ball and laced it just inside the left field foul pole to climax the four-run Phils' fourth.

"Boy, it's been a long time between homers," Triandos said later. "Even in batting practice." He had last homered April 26.

Cincinnati's Jim O'Toole had stifled the Braves on one hit, Mike de la Hoz' fourth homer, when an electrical storm delayed the game 45 minutes. Sammy Ellis took over the Reds' pitching and the Braves promptly clipped him for four

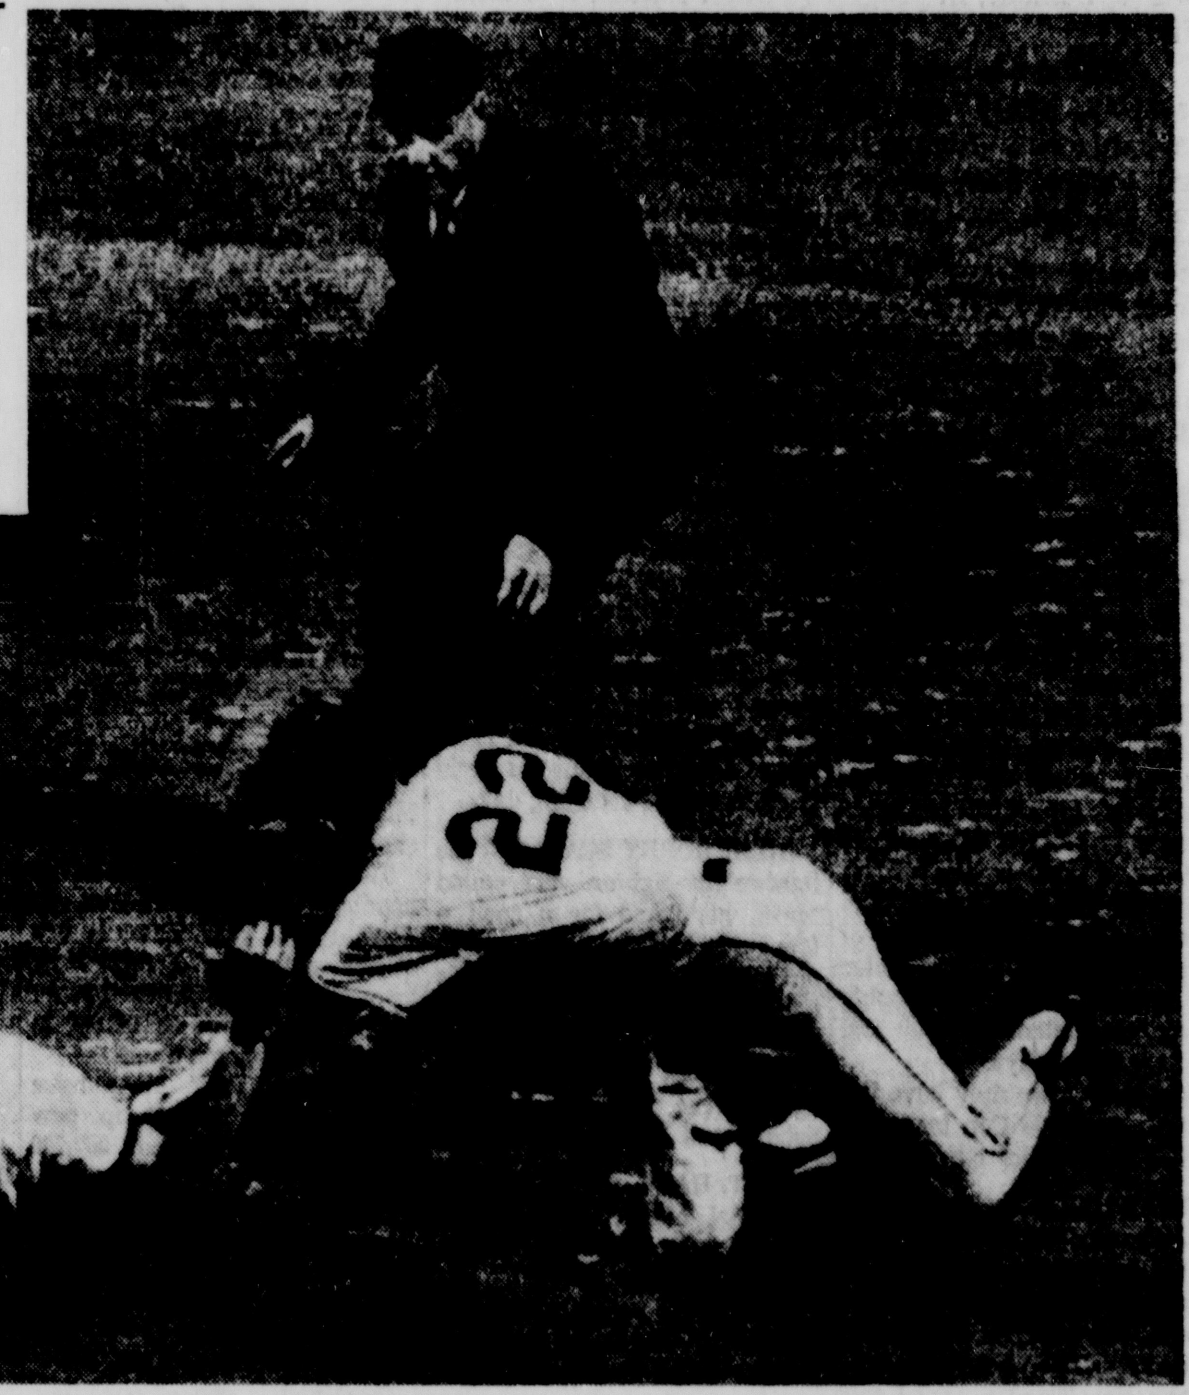
PHILLY CAUGHT STRETCHING IT



John Callison of the Phillies was tagged out by Giant second baseman Hal Lanier on this play last night at Philadelphia as Umpire Vinnie Smith watches the action. Callison had singled to right, but was thrown out by perfect throw by Willie McCovey. It mattered little as Phils went on to win it, 4-0.

Fans Cheated By O'Dell Incident; Dark Proves Himself A Bum Sport

CONNOLLY

No tickee—no washee. Translated it means you pay or you don't get the laundry.

It's a bit different in baseball where you pay and take your chances on seeing a ball game, or an exhibition.

There was a time, not so long ago, when the creed in baseball read something like this—"The game is never over until the last man is out." And when a customer pays $2.50 or $3.50 he expects to see a contest. In defense of the national customer generally gets his money's worth but on occasion he gets frisked. One of the recent friskings took place July 23 when Manager Alvin Dark unconditionally surrendered a ball game in the third inning. His excuse, a legitimate one in his own mind, was because he wanted to give southpaw Billy O'Dell some work and determine if he could pitch any more. It mattered not to the Giant manager whether 25,000 people in attendance had come to see a ball game. The result of that twisted thinking was a lop-sided 13 to 4 licking administered by the Cubs, a disgraceful exhibition of major league baseball besides an utter disregard for the feelings of the paying public.

THE ACTION of Manager Dark in not removing Billy O'Dell, who was strictly having a "gosh awful off-day" and substituting another relief pitcher, is comparable to a racehorse owner who allows his entry to go before the public who are looking for an honest effort only to discover, after betting thousands of dollars on the horse, that the owner never intended to let the horse perform — only give him a workout.

That sort of practice was eliminated long ago in horse racing and may be one of these days comparable practices will be eliminated in professional baseball.

"Antsy Alvin" has been hurt deeply and has suffered tremendously on account of the punchy type thinking and playing of his team. I always knew he was a tough loser, but I never thought he was a bum sport until the O'Dell pitching incident cropped up.

THERE COMES a time in baseball when even a manager should be compelled to observe and protect the rights of the payig public. And in this particular incident I don't think Antsy Alvin stopped to analyze how a cash customer felt. One such absolute case comes to mind by a couple of San Rafael baseball fans who attended the game in question and left in the fifth inning.

"It is the first time in my life I ever left a ball game before it was over," Al Tognoli, wealthy man about town, declared. "I was disgusted, disappointed and felt cheated. Baseball fans can't swallow much of that sort of behaving. My friend and colleague Allan Murray echoes my sentiments and left the game with me feeling we wasted an afternoon. No manager has a right to flaunt his own anger and disappointment on the paying public. We knew O'Dell was off color but why make him suffer and heap abuse on customers?"

Hot Workout For 49ers

MORAGA, Calif. (AP)— The San Francisco 49ers scheduled heavy contact workouts today for the first time since last Saturday's scrimmage.

The National Football League club went through routine drills —with emphasis on rushing the passer—in unusually hot weather yesterday at their St. Mary's College training camp.

Novato Power Highlights Little League

Hamilton-Loma Verde Little League All-Stars will battle the Novato stars at Novato in one semi-final game of the California District 3 tournament and Sausalito will play Twin-Cities at Tiburon in the other semi-final contest after the four teams won quarter final games yesterday.

Both semi-final games will be played tomorrow at 6 p.m.

Highlights of yesterday's quarter finals:

Hamilton-San Geronimo

With the winning run scoring on a wild pitch, the Hamilton-Loma Verde All-Stars edged the San Geronimo stars 3-2 in eight innings at the Hamilton Air Force Base diamond.

With runners on second and third in the top of the eighth, San Geronimo pitcher Rick LaFranchi uncorked a wild pitch which allowed Bobby Gross to sprint home with the game-winning run. LaFranchi had pitched the entire game for San Geronimo, giving up 4 hits, 2 walks and striking out 15.

Mike Demezas, the winning pitcher, was throwing in relief for the final six innings. He gave up 4 hits, 2 walks and struck out 11. David Perron had started on the mound for Hamilton-Loma Verde and didn't allow a hit in his two innings of work. But in the bottom of the third, he walked the first two men and Demezas was called in to put out the fire. That he did by striking out the next two batters and retiring the third man on a ground out.

LaFranchi contributed a double and single and scored the tying run in the bottom of the sixth for San Geronimo.

Novato-Marinwood

Novato All-Stars, showing that they are the power boys of the tournament, thumped the Marinwood stars 12-2 in their quarter-final game in Novato.

It was the second straight high-scoring victory for Novato which whipped Gallinas Valley Monday 11-5.

Stan Ericksen hit a three-run homer in the fifth and Archie Speak blasted one out of the park with a mate aboard in the second to pace the Novato power display. Speak had a grand day, adding a double and a single to his homer for a perfect 3-for-3 performance. Randy Foster added a double to the Novato attack.

Russ Dillon was the winning Novato hurler, going all the way and allowing five hits. Steve McClain had the only extra-base blow off Dillon, a double.

Novato hit the scoring column four times in the second frame and then kept adding to the total until it swelled to an even dozen runs. Marinwood's Bruce Dokken started on the mound and gave up six runs. He was stung for the loss. His reliever, Mike Richards who came in during the third innings, gave up the other six Novato runs.

Sausalito-San Rafael

With all the runs of the game being scored in the fourth inning, the Sausalito stars nipped the Mill Valley American League team 3-2 in Sausalito.

Maurice Smith tied the game for Sausalito with a two-run single. Then Al Haas singled and ultimately scored the winning run on a passed ball.

Mill Valley threatened in the top of the sixth inning when it put runners on first and second. Next batter up hit a single to right and rightfielder Chuck Shifflet made a great stop of the ball and threw out the runner who was tyring to score from second.

Tyrone Hardy threw a four-hitter and struck out 10 on his way to the victory. Losing pitcher J. Silva also did a creditable job, allowing four hits and striking out eight.

Clay-Liston Rematch To Be Probed

MIAMI BEACH (AP)— The World Boxing Association will decide late next month whether to sanction a heavyweight title rematch between champion Cassius Clay and Sonny Liston.

The question will be decided by membership of the association at its annual convention Aug. 26-30 in Norfolk, Va., Ed Lassman, WBA president, said today.

"This is too important to be decided by a handful of men," Lassman said, referring to the WBA's Executive Committee. "I've decided that this matter should be decided by the entire membership."

Clay and Liston signed Monday for a bout to be sometime between Sept. 15 and Oct. 31 at a site still to be selected.

Lassman said both fighters have been asked to appear at the WBA convention because "there are quite a few factors to straighten out from the last match."

Among them, he said, was Liston's connection with Intercontinental Promotions, Inc., which staged the bout in Miami Beach last Feb. 25 in which Clay dethroned Liston.

Mets Recall Lefty

Joey Giardello Signs For Oct. 23 Defense Of Title

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — World middleweight champion Joey Giardello signed today to defend his title for the first time, against Ruben (Hurricane) Carter on Oct. 23 at Las Vegas.

Giardello's advisor, Arnold Giovanetti, said at a news conference here that the champion would be guaranteed $100,000 from gate receipts and theater television for the 15-round bout.

Carter said his guarantee would be $12,500 plus expenses.

Giardello won the title Dec. 7 in Atlantic City, N. J., from Dick Tiger of Nigeria. The champion has been under fire by both the World Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic Commission to sign for a defense.

Pirates Call Up Righthand Hurler

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates said today they are calling up righthanded pitcher John Gelnar from their Asheville farm club in the Southern League.

Gelnar, 21, has a 3-1 record and an earned run average of 3.50. He is expected to join the Pirates this week.

'Ref Right In Stopping Title Bout'

MANILA (AP) — The Philippine Boxing Association said today Filipino referee Jose Padilla "did the judicious thing" in stopping in the 12th round Flash Elorde's title fight with Teruo Kosaka of Japan Monday night in Tokyo.

Manila promoter Mamerto Besa, PBA president, said in a statement Padilla exercised his powers as referee "in the pursuance of a fast-growing trend in world boxing to save boxers from dangerous situations."

"The prevalence of deaths in the ring has been too frequent and too recent to stress this point," Besa said.

The Tokyo bout ended in a near-riot when Japanese fans hurled seat cushions into the ring after Padilla stopped the scheduled 15-round bout in the 12th round. The referee awarded Elorde a technical knockout victory in his defense of the world junior lightweight crown against the Japanese challenger.

Elorde had knocked down Kosaka and was following up his advantage after the Japanese fighter had taken the mandatory eight-count when Padilla stepped in and called a halt to the bout.

ALONG MARIN'S SPORTS TRAIL

By JIM GILMARTIN

Future Davis Cup Stars May Be Cavorting In Local Tournament

You might call the 11th annual Marin Junior Tennis Tournament, in progress in San Rafael, a "Family Affair."

Among weekend winners were Cathy and Mike Machette, Barry, Jan and Kevin Brink, Karen and Stephanie Gut, Alannah and Bill Kinser, Harry and Ward Johnson, Peter and Jim Youtz and Ron, Tom and Bob Klyce.

By the way, another Klyce is helping run the whole show and doing a tremendous job. He is 19-year-old Harvey Klyce, the assistant tournament director and quite a star himself, but too old and good for this competition.

The Brink boys, no relation to the great robbery, are sons of Mill Valley auto dealer Larry Brink. You may remember lanky Larry as a start end for the L. A. Rams.

The I-J, San Rafael Recreation Department-sponsored tourney has grown into quite an attraction for the county's youngsters. Every high school and tennis club in the county is represented in the field. Surprising is the strong turnout of 64 players in the 12 and under age bracket. They're developing tournament talent younger and younger these days.

Who knows, we may have the 1974 U. S. Davis Cup team cavorting right under our noses.

THE WILDLIFE Conservation Board's progress lists Hugo Fisher as administrator of the Resources Agency and Sen. Vernon L. Sturgeon as a member of the Legislative Advisory Committee. Now THAT'S what I call conservation.

A LETTER came to the sports department this week from "Arnold & Palmer Associates." Turned out to be a public relations firm publicizing a boat race; nothing to do with GOLF.

U. S. AND RUSSIA have dominated the track and field headlines of late, but every Friday there's some fine running, jumping and throwing going on at Drake High School.

The recreation department at Drake has been conducting all-comers meets — open to one and all — with some eye-catching performances.

For example, Tom Strathairn, star last season for Redwood High, has been a one-man gang. Last Friday Tom raced to four personal victories in the 70-yard high hurdles (8.6 seconds), the 120 lows (13.4), the 100-yard dash (10.1) and the 220 (22.4). His is not a lazy summer.

Then there's Bill Nelson of the Marin Athletic Club who won the discus (147-6), the javelin (149-4) and broad jump (20-3). A double winner was Dave Brown in the two-mile (10:19.9) and mile (4:39.5) while solo winners were Bill Ranney in the one mile walk (8:34.5), Bill Gillingham in the 440 (53.4), Ken Bovard in the shot (41-10) and Dave Barni in the 880 (2:05.6).

BUD CHADWICK, assistant grid coach at San Rafael the past couple of seasons, has left Marin to accept a similar position at Montgomery High in Santa Rosa. Bud was a big star at Petaluma High and the Petaluma Leghorn semi-pro grid team in his pre-coaching days.

IRISH BOBBY SCANLON, the lightweight fighter who called Marin his home for a spell a few years back, has returned to his native New York and is fighting (?) under the management of Gil Clancy.

CAPT. HANK JUNGLE JR., a personnel officer at Hamilton Air Force Base, is Mr. Tennis of the U. S. Air Force.

Cap'n Hank recently won the Air Force singles title for the fourth consecutive year, outranking and out-playing A2C Bob Delgado of the Tactical Air Command in the finals.

The previous week, Jungle won the Air Defense Command title.

Davi, 18, now living in San Jose, pitched three innings for the Northern California All-Star team against the Dodger Rookies a team of select young players who tour the nation playing 49 baseball games, the bill paid by the Los Angeles Dodgers organization.

Davi allowed no hits in his three-inning stint and struck out six Dodgers Rookie batters. After watching Davi in action, Murray told Redwood High School baseball coach Al Endriss that the youngster is the best young hurler he has seen in the Bay Area this year.

Corte Madera and Larkspur knocked Tiburon out of the tournament with a 7-1 victory in Larkspur.

The Twin-Cities boys knocked Tiburon starter James La Torre, the losing hurler, and his reliever, Bill Von Lackum, for 10 hits. It was an error filled game which saw Tiburon commit five errors and Twin-Cities four.

Leading the T-C batters were Charlie Flynn, Craig DeLong and Joe Caito, each with a double and single. Twin-Cities scored one run in the first inning, two in the second, another in the fourth and three more in the sixth and last frame. Tiburon got its lone run in the third on errors by the winners.

S.F. Gate Behind '63 Pace

But what about Pittsburgh, a fourth-place team relatively few Pirates' fans are turning out to watch?

The Pirates, who reached a club high of 1,705,828 only four years ago, dipped to 783,648 in home attendance last season. This year, they are last in the National League with 424,797 — about 63,000 behind their low 1963 pace.

Only two other NL clubs are trailing last year's gates. St. Louis shows a decrease of 65,269 and San Francisco 50,424. The Giants, however, and the Los Angeles Dodgers are the only big league teams past the one million mark. The Dodgers, leading both circuits with 1,562,313, are 48,852 ahead of last season. San Francisco has drawn 1,102,732.

The circuit shows an over-all increase of 716,050, figures compiled by The Associated Press showed today.

The Braves, rumored to be heading from Milwaukee to Atlanta next year, actually are 44 per cent ahead of 1963. They have attracted 617,599 to County Stadium compared to 428,967 in as many 1963 home dates.

The New York Mets have played before 950,042 in new Shea Stadium, a gain of 367,760 over 1963 when the Polo Grounds was their home.

Other NL teams with attendance gains are the Philadelphia Phillies 209,673, Houston Colts 59,849, Chicago Cubs 13,663 and Cincinnati Reds 6,783.

Cleveland is one of only four American League teams in front of last season's figures. The Indians' total is only 429,649, representing an increase of 17,246.

The Baltimore Orioles, surprise pennant-contenders, have the largest AL increase — 131,668. Washington is up 51,264 and the Detroit Tigers 36,545.

The New York Yankees, AL leaders in the pennant race and attendance, have played to 766,130 at home. However, they trail their 1963 pace by 76,110.

The Los Angeles Angels, 148,778; Boston Red Sox, 124,859; Chicago White Sox, 69,291 and Kansas City A's, 40,779, are the other teams trailing last year's attendance gates. The figures include Monday's games.

Heat Gets Ump In Cub-Card Contest

CHICAGO (AP)—the 90-degree heat got to plate umpire Doug Harvey in the ninth inning of the St. Louis-Chicago game yesterday.

Play was delayed for six minutes as Harvey, who had been wearing a wet handkerchief behind his neck throughout the game, retired and Lee Weyer, the third base umpire, went to get his gear to work behind the plate.

Harvey apparently wanted to continue but crew chief Jocko Conlon ordered him out of the game after noticing Harvey was exhausted.

Spahnie In Bullpen, But Doesn't Like It

MILWAUKEE (AP) — After nearly two decades as the Braves' pitching ace, Milwaukee southpaw Warren Spahn has been shipped to the bullpen—at least temporarily.

Owner of a 6-11 record and a fat 5.13 earned run average, the 43-year-old Spahn accepted a new role in his fabulous career and joined the Braves' relief corps last night.

Manager Bobby Bragan said he plans to keep Spahn in the bullpen for a while, except for possible spo tstarting assignments.

"He has the arm and he can throw," Bragan explained. "He proved he can do the job with two fine innings against the Mets in New York Sunday. And we need someone who can put out a fire. We'll just have to wait and see how things work out."

Although Bragan said that Spahn was "willing" to become a fireman, the biggest left-handed winner in baseball history was far from enthusiastic. Owner of 356 National League victories, Spahn set his sights on 400 while posting a 23-7 record last year.

"Naturally, I don't like the idea," Spahn said. "I've always said I'm paid to win 20 and it's just about impossible to do that working in relief. However, I'm also paid to help the ball club, so if they want me in the bullpen I'll do my best.'

Spahn then sounded a note of warning:

"Don't write me off yet. I still have a lot of pitching left."

Mrs. B. L. Marsh received the Martin Perpetual trophy for the second straight year yesterday by winning the putting championship at the Las Gallinas Women's Golf Club.

Mrs. Louis Garat received the runner-up award. Mrs. Marsh gained a berth in the finals by defeating Mrs. Charles Vincent 2 and 1 in the semi-finals, while Mrs. Grant defeated Mrs. Kenneth Mosher in the other semi-final match, 2 and 1.

hits and two runs in the seventh to win it.

The Cardinals pushed five runs across in the 10th inning with Mike Shannon's two-run homer climaxing the surge against the Cubs. Bill White and Tim McCarver had homered earlier for St. Louis which rallied three times for ties before finally winning it.

Chicago Bears Have Big Gaps To Fill

Independent-Journal Sports

Death Of Stars Weakens Offense

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

RENSSELAER, Ind. (AP)—The deaths of halfback Willie Galimore and end John Farrington in a Sunday night auto crash have left gaps in the offense of the National Football League champion Chicago Bears that will be difficult to fill.

Replacing Galimore in particular will be a problem because the Bears have no experienced elusive breakaway runner of his caliber.

He streaked 321 yards in 85 carries—the longest for a 51-yard touchdown—and scored five times last season. He also caught 13 passes for 131 yards.

Running in his halfback spot in yesterday's drills were Ronnie Bull, Billy Martin and rookie Winston Kelton of Wiley, Tex., who starred two years with the San Diego Marines.

Bull is a powerful runner but does not have Galimore's ability to turn the corner. Martin lacks over-all speed. Kelton is elusive but cannot match Galimore's quickness.

ROOKIE SHIFTED

Being shifted from defense to offense is rookie Bob Batts of Texas Southern. On his college track team he ran the 100 in 9.6.

Charlie Bivins, who has played halfback, was assigned to fullback duties exclusively earlier this summer and it looks as if he will remain there.

The fullback platoon already is below strength. Rick Casares, gradually working into shape after leg surgery during the winter, did some running in yesterday's drills. Joe Marconi and Bivins remain the only fullbacks ready for full-time call.

The loss of Farrington, who gained 335 yards with 21 pass receptions last year, leaves the spread end position open. However, the Bears bolstered this spot with two trades last May. Rich Kreitling was obtained from the Cleveland Browns and Gary Barnes from Dallas. Each has made a good impression in workouts.

Also bidding for the berth is Bill Martin, a 6-5 player from Georgia Tech. Another candidate is Chuck Logan of Northwestern. He now is with the College All-Stars, whom the Bears will meet in Chicago's Soldier Field Aug. 7.

OAKLAND RAIDERS LOSING MEN FAST

SANTA ROSA (AP) — The Oakland Raiders are rapidly losing players — but not by the usual spring cut method.

The club was left with just 50 active players — only 10 more than they're allowed to carry into the exhibition season — when injuries struck three more veterans yesterday.

Sidelined with a bruised and possibly separated right shoulder was Clem Daniels, last year's most valuable American Football League player. He was hurt trying to catch a pass in yesterday's 20-minute scrimmage.

Also put out of action at least temporarily with leg injuries were all-league middle linebacker Archie Matsos and starting end Jan Barrett.

They joined veteran flanker Bo Roberson and rookie defensive back Loran Hunt, out with knee injuries.

In addition to those on the injured list, the Raiders are also missing star end Art Powell and fullback Alan Miller. Neither has reported despite the threat of heavy fines by Coach Al Davis.

BIG TIME GOLF'S NEW FACES

Ken Venturi Slew The Ghosts

(Second in Series)

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—"I used to be ashamed to walk in the club house," Ken Venturi said. "I'd duck my head and sneak to my locker.

"I was even afraid to shoot a good round, because I knew I would come up with a bad round. I had no confidence. I ached inside. Six months ago I wanted to ditch it all.

"Then I won the Open. It changed my whole life. I can hold my head up again. I know I can play the game. Now I can't wait to get to the club house and out on the course.,,

Venturi died a thousand deaths before he finally slew the ghosts of his past failures and disappointments in the National Open over the steamy Congressional course at Washington, D.C.

Ten years ago he was universally hailed as the brighest new prospect in golf, heir apparent to the throne soon to be vacated by an aging Ben Hogan.

He had many of Hogan's trademarks—a familiar white cap always pulled low over his eyes, a stiff-legged walk, a deadly serious approach to the game and rifle-like irons that hungered for the pin—but his style was the matchless style of Bryon Nelson.

No one questioned it in 1956 when Venturi, a 24-year-old amateur, a handsome six-footer, outshot the world's top professionals and carried a comfortable lead into the final round of the Masters, a tournament no amateur ever had won.

But he blew to an 80 on the closing day and Jack Burke came from eight shots back to take the title—a bitter disappointment to the youngster from San Francisco.

It was just one of many. In 1960, now a pro, Venturi seemed to have the Masters won when Arnold Palmer surged in with birdies on the final two holes to win by a stroke. Refusing to be discouraged, Venturi stuck to his guns and made reasonable success on the tour although his star never reached the height expected.

KEN VENTURI
Great comeback

In his first four years after turning pro in 1956 he won ten tournaments. In 1960 he collected $41,230 in official earnings. However, he never crashed through to challenge Palmer for the No. 1 position in golf.

In February, 1926, Venturi was playing a pro-am tournament in Palm Springs, Calif., when he leaned over to pluck a ball from the cup. Something snapped in his spine. He tried all sorts of remedies. Nothing worked. .His golf swing was restricted. His game suffered.

He won only $6,951 in 1962, not even hamburger money. In 1963 it was worse. He collected only $3,848. He was ready to quit earlier this year when he got a letter from Father Francis Murray, a priest from Burlingame, near Ken's home. In essence, the priest advised: "Keep calm. Don't get too elated. Don't get too downcast."

These words were floating through Venturi's mind when he strode over the long and hazardous Congressional course on the final day of the Open—nearly out from heat exhaustion. He held on for final rounds of 66-70 for 278, the second lowest score ever posted in the American Open.

"I can't tell you what that meant to me," Venturi says. "I was dead and I am alive again. When I look out on a course, I don't see traps or trouble. I only see the flag. I am always going for the flag."

Venturi, now 33, was born May 15, 1931 in San Francisco, son of ship chandler. He was runner-up in the National Junior at 17, won the San Francisco city title at 18 and twice captured the California amateur title.

He married his college sweetheart, Conni, shortly after finishing San Jose State. They have two children— Matthew Bruce, 8, and Timothy, 4.

Venturi's credo is simple: "I have only one objective-- that is to win. I'd rather win one championship than finish second in a dozen."

Mets Buy Klaus From Cincinnati

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Mets bought rookie infielder Bobby Klaus from Cincinnati last night and sold first baseman Tim Harkness to San Diego, the Reds' farm club in the Pacific Coast League.

Harkness, 27, was sold after he played with the Mets against the Los Angeles Dodgers last night. He had 13 RBI and two homers in 38 games this season and had only recently returned to action after suffering a pinched nerve in his shoulder May 17. His batting average was .282.

Klaus, 26, played in 40 gam for the Reds with a batting average of .183. He had been placed on the waiver list and catcher Hal Smith given his unconditional release by the Reds to make room for Chico Ruiz and Tony Perez who had been called up from San Diego.

Marin Pony Champs Seek Major Titles

The Central Marin Pony League All-Stars, winners of the Marin County tournament held last week in Petaluma, are getting ready for bigger and better things this week.

The baseballers will be competing in the district tournament at McDowell Field in Petaluma which will be held Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week. The Marin team will be competing against teams from Petaluma, Sebastopol and Sonoma.

ON TO UTAH

Winner of that double-elimination tournament will then be eligible to compete in the sectionals the following week in Ukiah; the winner of that tourney will then go on to the regionals in Utah.

First game for the Central Marin Stars will be Friday at 6 p.m. against the Petaluma All-Stars.

Central Marin won the right to play in the district tourney by winning over a four-team field that also included All-Star teams from South Marin, North Marin and Novato-Hamilton AFB.

DRAMATIC WIN

The Stars from Central Marin scored a dramatic 2-0 victory over North Marin Sunday in the final game of the county-wide tournament. While pitcher Keith Valk was throwing a brilliant three-hitter, his teammates were also held at bay in a scoreless ball game.

But then in the seventh and final inning, Mark Davis was sent in as a pinch hitter with Gerald Handlos on base. Davis responded with a clutch home run to win the ball game.

Manager of the Central Marin Pony All-Stars is Charles Valk and the coach is Gene Messina. Only boys 13 and 14 are eligible for Pony League baseball.

Saturday's second round will be followed by the finals on Sunday.

Novato Seeks Beauty To Reign At Pool Fete

Rules of a "Miss Novato Teen" contest were announced today by Mrs. Charlene Wolf, adviser to the Novato Teen Club sponsored by the city's parks and recreation department.

The queen will reign over dedication of the municipal swimming pool on Aug. 16.

To be eligible, a girl must be a teen-ager, a resident of the Greater Novato area, and demonstrate her basic swimming skills.

Selection of the queen will be announced at a masquerade ball on the night of Aug. 15 at the Novato High School cafeteria.

Entry blanks may be obtained from the Teen Club or the parks and recreation department at the City Hall at Sweetzer and De Long Avenues. Deadline for entry is Aug. 5, Mrs. Wolfe said.

The largest animal without a backbone is the giant squid.

Bear Needs Chain-Link Cage Fencing

The young California brown bear, known as Teddy at the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum in San Rafael has a want ad running in the Independent-Journal these days.

It says he needs some chain-link fence to complete his cage at the museum. Mrs. Clara Evans, educator at the museum, said about 30 feet is needed. Everything else for the cage, including bricks and labor, has been donated.

Mrs. Evans said the museum recently discovered that the cub, found straying near Burney, Shasta County, had once been adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred D. Wickelman and their six children. The mother bear evidently abandoned the cub after lumbermen had cut down her home, a hollow tree.

The Wickelmans recently wrote the museum, saying they called the cub Charlie Joshua Brown. At the museum, however,, the bear will continue to be called Teddy.

Arlington National Cemetery was established 100 years ago. It contains the graves of approximately 124,000 servicemen and is visited by more than two million persons annually.

Tape Recorders Stolen From Dentist

Someone removed an air conditioner to get into the dental offices of Dr. Jack L. Rosenberg at 600 Mission Avenue, San Rafael, Sunday night, then stole $1,372 worth of items, including two tape recorders.

Both Looked, But Not Right Way

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Phillip S. Tribble looked up and down the street as he backed his car out of a driveway.

So did Barbara Dickie as she backed out of a driveway across the street.

Neither looked straight back.

The drivers were embarrased but unhurt by the back-on collision.

Summer Trips Take Marinites To Europe, Canada

A NUMBER of Sausalitans have just returned from trips abroad and in this country and Canada.

The Jan Paul Dyks have been visiting Mr. Dyk's relatives in Bergen in the north of Holland for five weeks. They made the trip both ways by boat and flew from New York to Houston on the return journey, where they also visited relatives.

Having been to Holland before the Dyks specialized this time in seeing Holland's small country towns and visiting old castles, museums and art galleries.

JUST RETURNED from two months in Southern France, where they specialized in visiting the small towns, are the Justin Days. They rented a car to see the countryside at leisure, including the famous medieval town of Carcassone, and spent five days in Paris before they flew to London for the Chelsea Flower Show. This was a highlight of the trip according to Mrs. Day.

MR. AND MRS. Frederic Palmer III and their daughter, Ann Harrison Davies, are home from two months on the East Coast covering points from Annapolis to Cape Cod.

SPENDING A FEW days at Del Monte Lodge at Pebble Beach recently were Mr. and Mrs. James F. O'Donnell of Berens Drive, Kentfield.

MR. AND MRS. Clinton Lewis have returned to their home in Bayside Acres after a four months trip to Europe. Highlights of the trip were going into Yugoslavia and seeing the fjords in Norway. Enroute home they saw the New York World's Fair and visited relatives in Philadelphia and New England.

AS A GOING away party for a Marin couple, a group of friends will go to Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco tomorrow night where they will board a Bay Cruise boat that will bring them back to Marin. Docking at Tiburon, the group will have dinner at Tiburon Tommie's then board the boat for their return trip to San Francisco.

Planning the party for Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bille of San Anselmo are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Thompson of Fairfax and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Die of Larkspur. Attending will be Messrs. and Mesdames William Spores and John DeWitt of San Rafael, Gene Odone and Bud Henry of Walnut Creek, Ronald Nunn of Brentwood and Melba Evans and Robert Cunningham of Fairfax.

The Billes, who have lived in Marin four years, are moving to Los Angeles next week where he has been sent by his company, the Equitable Life Ins. Co. Mrs. Bille, a member of the Sunny Hills Auxiliary and Pixie Parents, was a third-grade teacher at the Wade Thomas School.

The Billes have two children, Pamela and Jeffory.

Making the trip on an exchange basis as part of a YMCA program, Paul will stop over in Hawaii for three days, then go on to Japan where he will tour the country for six weeks, living with two separate Japanese families.

Paul is a senior at Redwood High School. He is the brother of Bonnie, Judy and Scott Joseph Marincich.

Patricia Kelly of Fairfax who will be married Sunday to Richard Frenholm of Santa Rosa gave a luncheon Saturday at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant to honor her bridal attendants.

Present was her maid of honor, Carole Wallace and her bridesmaids, Joanne Chat and Sandy Park. Her mother, Mrs. Albert Kelly, was also there, along with Mrs. Walter E. Wallace, Mrs. Betty Muzzell and Ruthie Kloppenberg of Sacramento.

Pat used the occasion to present gifts to her attendants.

MR. AND MRS. Julius Brown of Greenbrae deposited their young son, Patrick, in a summer camp for three weeks Sunday and yesterday left for a vacation at the new Tahoe Sierra Hotel at Crystal Bay. Their other son, Gilbert, a summer employee at the Marin Emporium, stayed home. As guests of the Tahoe Sierra, located on the Nevada side of the lake near the north shore, the Browns will be able to play golf at the Incline Village Golf Course, a new course just opened for play.

Mrs. Brown's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carson Magill of Belvedere, vacationed last weekend in Carmel.

The Magill's oldest son, Mike, a soldier learning to speak the language of Vietnam at Ft. Mead in Maryland, surprised Janet, Julie and Katie Wilhelm of Kentfield by meeting them without forewarning at the train station in Washington, D.C., during their recent vacation trip to the East Coast. The girls, who have known Mike most of their lives, were happily surprised and equally grateful to be escorted about the capitol city on their first trip.

MRS. W. S. STEWART of Fairfax attended a Wednesday Concert recently at the University of Pacific directed by her son, James H. Jenkins of San Rafael. Mr. Jenkins, a musical supervisor at Herbert Hoover Junior High School in San Francisco, is teaching music at University of Pacific during this summer.

While in Stockton, Mrs. Stewart visited Mrs. Ed Gohlke of that city, formerly of Marin.

MR. AND MRS. Donald Springsted of Tiburon gave a dinner party last night in honor of her birthday. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lawlor of Mill Valley, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Berticevich of Tiburon and Mrs. Diana Schlittgen and Ernest Chamberlain, both of Tiburon.

LEAVING AT the end of the week for Honolulu aboard the Matson Lines' Lurline are Mr. and Mrs. John Raskob of Belvedere and their family.

San Rafael Teacher Plans A Good Will Trip Of Her Own

By MARG ZIMMERMAN

Originally planning a tour of Russia as an ambassador of good will on the Person to Person travel program, Miss Chris Spindt, a San Rafael High School teacher, decided to make the trip on her own when the tour was canceled three weeks ago.

She will visit capitals of Scandanavia, Russia and Poland with Unitour, a tour organized in England for Europeans and departing from Brussels on August 8th. It is possible Chris will be the only American on the 20-day tour, or, perhaps, one of only two or three.

WITH UNITOUR, Chris will visit most of the countries she originally planned, with the exception of Scotland. People would have had Europeans and Russians of her same age, interests and occupation meeting her at each stop. By traveling with Europeans rather than Americans, she hopes to still meet as many people as possible.

"I ONLY speak Spanish and a smattering of Danish," Chris said, "but I'll be with the same Europeans for 20 days and I hope to understand their languages through them."

Chris leaves Marin Sunday for New York where she will visit the Fair. From New York she will fly directly to Brussels, then to London for a few days and back to Brussels to join the tour.

Unitour will take Chris first to Copenhagen, Stockholm and Helsinki and then across the Soviet border to Leningrad, the Russian capital in the 18th and 19th centuries. While there, the American visitor will see the Admiralty, the Winter Palace, the Petropavlovsky Fortress and St. Isaac's Cathedral.

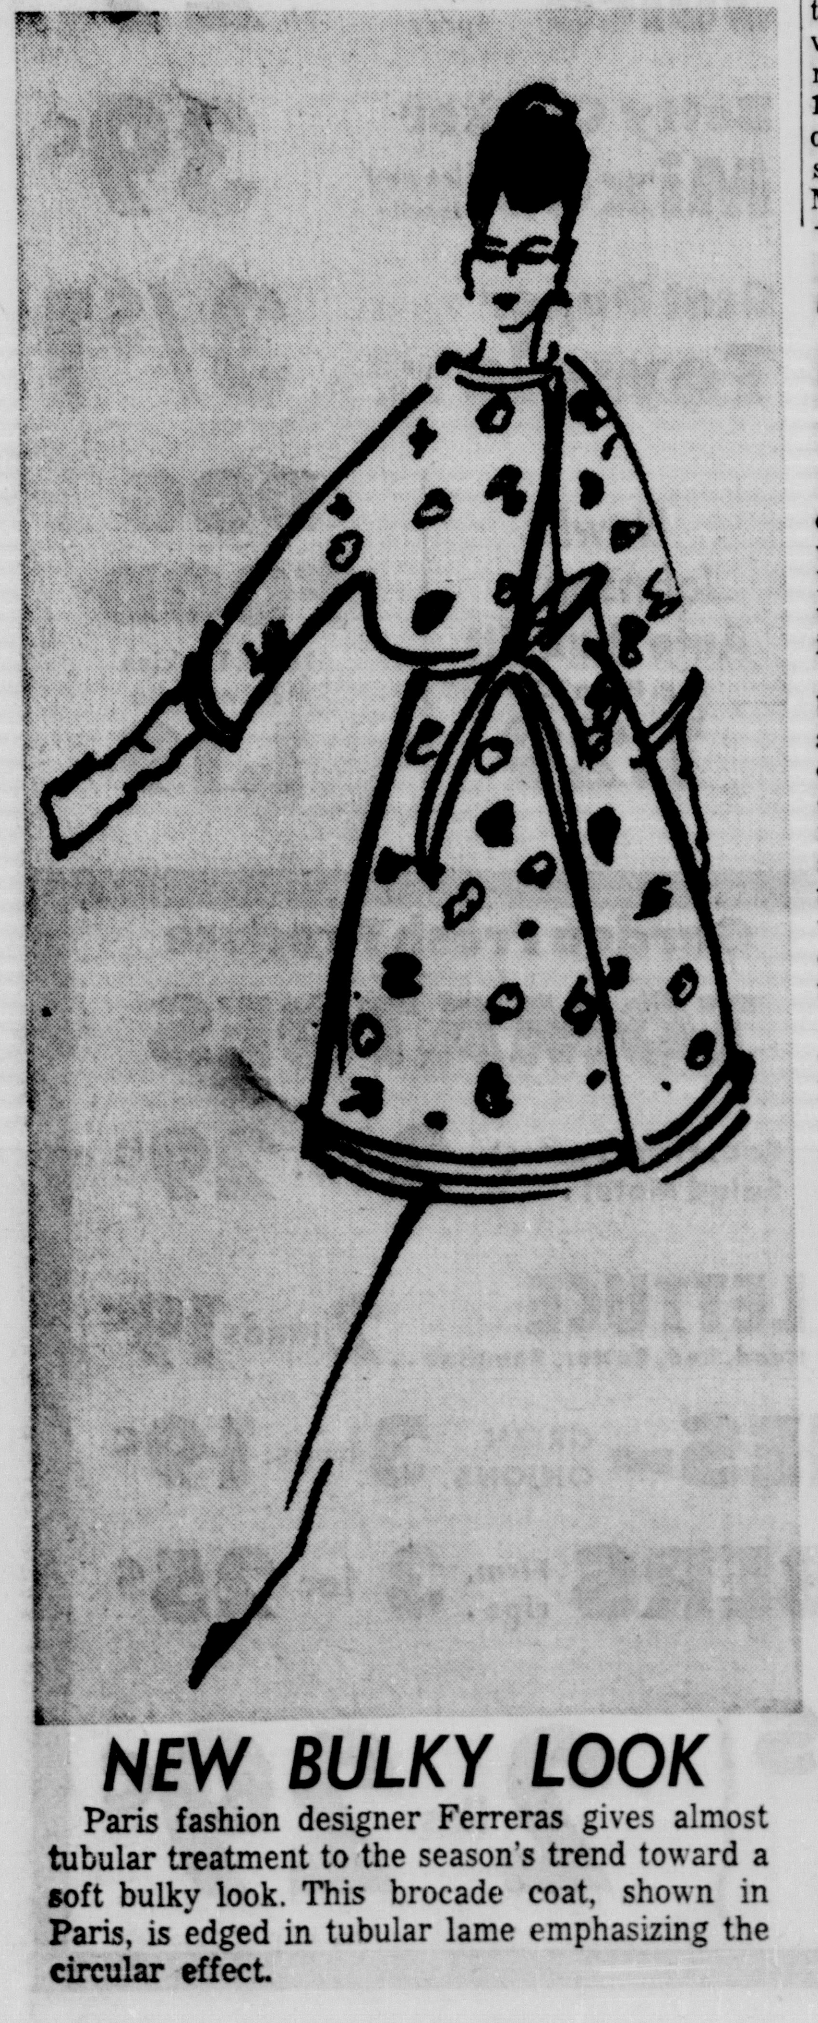
ON HER WAY to Moscow from Leningrad, Chris will visit Novgorod, one of Russia's oldest cities, and Klin, the location of Tchaikovsky's Home Museum. In Moscow she will be escorted to the Red Square, the Bolshoi Theatre, the State Lenin Library and the New Moscow University. A complete tour of the Kremlin is part of her Moscow agenda, along with a visit to the underground Lenin Mausoleum and the Lenin Museum.

On her Soviet tour, which will take 10 days, Chris will also visit Smolensk, a medieval fortress over 1000 years old where 11th and 12th century churches once stood. On her ninth day, she will cross White Russia to Minsk and the next day will go to Warsaw in Poland.

The tour will continue on to Berlin from Warsaw, and in Germany, Chris will leave the tour to go back to Sweden and Denmark, the homes of her grandparents. She will tour the two countries with a family friend, visiting relatives along the way.

RETURNING to Marin Sept. 4, Chris will have four days to organize herself for her first teacher's meeting at San Rafael High School. Classes resume Sept. 10.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester J. Spindt of Los Banos, Chris was graduated from Los Banos High School and Oregon State College. She taught in Alameda County for two years and has been a home economics teacher at San Rafael High School for the past three years.



NEW BULKY LOOK

Paris Soft Bulky Look Comes From Fur Linings

By LOUISE HICKMAN

PARIS (AP) — Louis Feraud's collection, presented in Paris, was young, young-full of nifty little "sweater" dresses, and with flirty ruffles on everything imaginable.

Ruffled satin "pantaloon" boots were worn with a black satin coat, double-breasted and collared in bias ruffles. Bias organdy ruffles on the wide round neckline of a print wool sweater tube were layered in the print colors. Close-packed violet lace ruffles filled in the deep, open V of another sweater tube in violet angora jersey.

LEOPARD-PRINT chiffon was used for a sweater wisp with long close sleeves, a string-tied slashed neckline, and faintly trumpet skirt. There were leopard-print chiffon gloves to match.

Short, tidy cardigan boleros were built right into straight dresses in jeweled lame or wallpaper-printed sheer wool.

Feraud used lots of colored band inserts. In navy and green, they traced an open-coat effect on a slightly flared garnet sweater dress. Wide, and in red and blue, they circled the midriff of a gray wool reefer.

FUCHSIA AND cherry shades mixed with dark grape made the stand-out color combinations. Hats with the Feraud Clothes were little round beanie berets worn tilted over the forehead.

The sweater look was also important in the Madeleine de Rauch show. A long, straight brown broadtail cardigan bound in the brown and white tweed of its slim dress, got lots of applause.

THE DE RAUCH collection had lots of oatmeal tweeds and beige fluffy furs. Plum and warm brown were important colors.

Earlier, Jacques Esterel and Ferreras, each in his own way, showed clothes with the soft bulky look that comes from thick fur linings, or padded quilting.

BUTTONLESS, BULKY COATS FROM BALMAIN

PARIS (AP)—Buttonless, bulky coats with band collars were the news from Balmain in Paris fall and winter fashions.

The soft, padded look that comes from thick fur linings or soft quilting is important in Paris coats this season. Often the look is there without the fur or wool stuffing being apparent.

Most of Balmain's coats had edge-to-edge openings. Linings of fabric or fur had a layered buttoned-in look. Jersey helmet turbans had a wide chin strap that disappeared inside the rolled edge, rising band collars. Dresses were often of heavy jersey.

BULKY, open Balmain coats in camel were lined in civet, or camel and gray checked wool. Beaver went inside an oatmeal tweed that was lightly fuzzy with mohair, as were many of the Balmain tweed coatings.

Washable Wools

The chemical formula for water, H2O, is the appropriate name given to new machine-washable wools. The materials are processed with a formula that limits shrinkage to three per cent, reduces after-drying wrinkles, and lessens the tendency of wool to pill.

(Bob Hax photo)

Patricia O'Connor Weds Larry Bridges

On a honeymoon trip to Carmel are Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gene Bridges, married July 18 in an afternoon ceremony at the First Presbyterian Church in San Raafel.

The bride is the former Patricia Gail O'Connor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. O'Connor of Placerville, and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwin E. Bridges of Novato.

Wearing a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta with tapered long sleeves and train, the bride was given in marriage by her father. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. Royal Scott.

The bride's attendants all wore identical lilac street-length dresses of sheer material over taffeta. Maid of honor was Connie Springer of Placerville and bridesmaids were Lynda Hopkins of Corte Madera, Roberta Hindersman of Larkspur, Mischael Nelson of San Rafael and Jackie Bridges of Novato.

The bride's five year old niece, Erin O'Connor of Palmdale, wore a short-skirt dress fashioned after the bridal gown.

The brides's brother, Michael O'Connor, was best man and another brother, John O'Connor was head usher. Escorting guests to their seats were Ricky and Roland Mellor and Joe Cavellera, all of Novato.

An employee of the E. Bridges Construction Co., Larry was graduated from Novato High School and the College of Marin.

John Caulfields Will Make Home In Pacific Grove

Leaving Mill Valley after 36 years are Mr. and Mrs. John F. Caulfield who will be living in an apartment at Pacific Grove.

Luise Caulfield has been living there since May, and her husband will be going back and forth until their house in Mill Valley on Lovell Avenue is sold.

Mr. Caulfield, who has been very much interested in civic affairs, retired first as an outside representative of the San Francisco Post Office and then as Mail Supervisor for the First Western Bank in San Francisco.

A great baseball fan, John Caulfield managed the Mill Valley Babes before Little League existed and was instrumental in promoting the first turf diamond in Marin County at Boyle Park in Mill Valley. He also was a leader in the Veterans of Foreign Wars and played a leading role in having the Veterans' Memorial Rock placed in front of the Mill Valley City Hall.

Ward Austins Succumb Again To Wanderlust

By PHIL FRADKIN

As if a seven-month, 20,000 mile trip through Mexico, Central America and the eastern United States were not enough, Dr. and Mrs. Ward H. Austin of Larkspur are preparing to leave Aug. 4 for a trip around the world.

The Austins, who live at 88 Wiltshire Avenue, have been home since June 12—just enough time to become reinfected with the travel bug, renew their shots and take off again.

Austin, former College of Marin president, said: "I spent 31 years in the salt mines. Traveling, there is always something new. I learned more history during this last trip than in all the school books I have read."

His wife, Miriam, thinks that "eventually we will have to calm down. But until then we will remain foot-loose and fancy free."

The latest trip was the third they have made. Previously they journeyed by camper through Alaska. The second trip took them to New Zealand and Australia.

Their camper has "almost become our second home," Austin said. Through Mexico, Central America and the United States, the Austins slept every night and ate most of their meals in the camper.

North and west of Mexico City, the Austins found good overnight accommodations for campers. South of Mexico City and in eastern Mexico, accom-

Custodian For Mill Valley Golf Club Discussed

Mill Valley Parks and Recreation commissioners said informally Monday night they believe it is desirable to continue to keep a custodian at the municipal golf clubhouse.

No recommendation was made to the city council, however, inasmuch as Chairman Dean Meyer was absent on vacation, and decision was put over to Aug. 16.

City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer has recommended that the building be closed except during the times it is being rented. The present caterers and custodians, Mr. and Mrs. Werner Korreng, have given notice they will leave Aug. 5 since they do not realize a profit from the operation.

Rental fees for the clubhouse, suggested by Balmer, were discussed. Balmer suggests they be about doubled.

Handicapped League Will Hold Camp

California League for the Handicapped will hold a camp for handicapped children at Forest Farms camp in Forest Knolls Aug. 2-15.

Among the handicapped children will be three blind youngsters occupying cabins with five or six seeing campers of the same age this year.

New Aide For Brown

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Appointment of Ronald Moskowitz, San Francisco, as associate press secretary, was announced by Governor Edmund G. Brown. Moskowitz is former education editor of the San Francisco Examiner, and will become secretary to the governor for education matters after the November election.

Every year since 1955 about four million babies have been born in the United States, an average of seven a minute.

INDIAN COSTUME—Mrs. Ward Austin poses in an Indian costume made by Juana, a Guatemalan woman who they became acquainted with in the small town of San Antonio Aguas Calientes. The town is a weaving center.

Marin Couple Use Camper To See Much Of Americas

modations are few and far between.

A few nights, they slept by the side of the road. However, most of the time they pulled into gas stations and parked overnight.

The Austins were warned of bandits when they considered parking by the shores of Lake Nicaragua. As a result, they parked their camper in front of some nearby army barracks and were in sight of a sentry who paced back and forth all night.

Pulling into a small town on the Mexican isthmus, the Austins heard shots ring out. They learned that the mayor of the town had been shot. They moved on immediately but returned to the town one month later. They were told that the townspeople had kidnaped the mayor of an adjoining town and hung him as reprisal.

Preparing to leave San Jose for the two-day trip to Panama, the Austins learned of the conflict which broke out in the Canal Zone and decided to go no further.

In San Jose, the Austins saw the devastating effects of the falling volcanic ash from a volcano which is slowly destroying the economy of the area.

Flower beds and gutters are filled with the ash. "We felt it 100 miles away. It feels like sand blowing in your face," Austin said.

The Austins, who now qualify as experts on the art of traveling by camper, had a few tips to offer.

A camper is preferable to a trailer, they said, because it can get into difficult areas. The Mexican government's tourist patrols which travel the major highways twice a day are quite helpful.

The Austins had been warned that they would be overcharged for gasoline. This they found was impossible because modern pumps which keep track of the amount of gas dispensed had been installed in gas stations.

A butane refrigerator, rather than an icebox, is indispensible in hot climates where ice is hard to find. Traveling in Mexico and central America "is not complicated," they said.

The Austins will forsake their camper on the trip around the world. They will travel by freighter, making frequent side excursions.

They still haven't gone to Europe. "It doesn't interest us. Everybody goes to Europe," Mrs. Austin said.

Bus Service Is Proposed For Canal Street

If enough of San Rafael's Canal Street apartment dwellers are interested, bus service from there to downtown San Rafael will begin soon, the leader of an unofficial citizens' group predicted yesterday.

Anne Malacrida of 199 Canal Street, Apt. 12, said the proprietor of the Richmond - San Rafael Bridge Bus service had agreed to start the service on a trial basis if apartment owners and dwellers would subsidize it at the outset.

About 12 residents have been negotiating with owner Cecil J. Allen of the bus line.

Details of the proposed trial run will be explained at a meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. Aug. 6 at the social hall of the Ka Ha Le Manor, 177 Canal Street.

Radio Panel To Center On Retarded Plan

Housing for trainable mentally retarded children will be discussed by four panelists on radio station KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Guests of moderator Kitty Oppenheimer will be Daryl Hopkins, Marin County schools' director of special services; Mrs. Sally Ryan, president of Marin Aid to Retarded Children; Mrs. Daniel Collins of Mill Valley, State Board of Education member, and Mrs. Edith Kanoff, member of the special education committee of the Marin County Board of Education.

Listeners may telephone questions to the panel during the program, which will be re-broadcast at 12:30 p.m. Sunday from a recording.

Drunken Drivers Receive Fines

Two drunken drivers were fined yesterday by Judge Leonard A. Thomas in Marin Municipal Court.

Lee Roy Wallace, 43, of Petaluma also drew $166 fine. He was arrested on Highway 101 last Friday.

Street Resurfacing In Progress For Ross

Brown-Ely Contractors of San Rafael yesterday resurfaced about 400 feet of Laurel Grove Avenue in Ross from Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to Walters Road.

The $2,100 project will be finished in a few days with a seal coat of oil and sand. Yesterday the contracting firm removed the old lumpy surface and put on a concrete one. The road remained open to traffic throughout the work, which took obaut four hours.

Ohioan Pays Tuitition By Shoeing Horses

WESTERVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Horseshoes were good luck for Frank D'Imperio when it came to earning money for college tuition, board and room and other expenses.

Young D'Imperio, who majored in psychology at Otterbein College and is going into social work, went to classes in the morning and shod horses in the afternoon. He learned the art after his father, a physician, bought a farm in New Jersey.

Demo Convention Leaders Fear Dixie Delegate War

By DON BACON
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — President Lyndon B. Johnson and the Democratic Party are suddenly confronted with a major political problem that threatens to explode before the television cameras at Atlantic City next month and could damage Democratic election chances this November.

The critical situation—which may yet be squelched—centers on the plans of civil rights workers in Mississippi to challenge the state's regular all-white delegation to the Democratic National Convention, which opens on Aug. 24.

Concerned party leaders here believe that if the challenging delegation — the mostly Negro "Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party"—is seated, it could prompt a walkout of other southern delegations. If the credentials committee refuses to seat the challengers and is sustained by the convention, it could lead likewise to a walkout of several sympathetic delegations outside the South.

Racial sentiments, roused by events in Mississippi and New York this summer, are adding fuel to the convention seating issue.

Alabama Gov. George Wallace, who may attend the convention with an unpledged delegation, could also figure in the picture, but his role is uncertain. At present, President Johnson's name will not appear on the Alabama ballot, and according to a top party aide here, "any delegation that announces in advance that it won't support the ticket is on shaky ground for getting seated."

"Right now it looks like it's going to be a hell of a mess," said another leading Democratic strategist. ". . . We don't have any other real issue at the convention this year, so all attention can focus on this.

"I can see terrible things happening . . . for instance, what if Wallace leads a walkout through civil rights pickets? . . . or Sen. (James O.) Eastland (D-Miss.) makes some big disclosure about Communists in the civil rights movement. It could make Goldwater look like a prophet.

"At this point, everybody is petrified," he added.

The White House is not quite so alarmed, but it is watching the developing situation closely.

President Johnson, who only last week was inclined not to take the threat to his party's unity seriously, this week assigned special presidential assistant Kenneth O'Donnell and others to investigate and report back to him.

It is generally agreed that if the clash is to be headed off, the President will have to intervene somehow.

The White House as yet has taken no action because, for one thing, there is uncertainty as to what action it can take. It also is willing to wait until "the issue is joined"; that is, until the regular Mississippi Democratic Party meets at its state convention July 28 and chooses its delegation to the national convention.

A key point to watch is whether the Mississippi regular Democrats vote to send a delegation unpledged to the national ticket. They could indeed vote to send no delegation at all.

If two Mississippi delegations—the regulars and the challengers—show up at Atlantic City, there are five possible steps the credentials committee can take:

1. Seat the regulars, and exclude the challengers.
2. Seat the challengers, and exclude the regulars.
3. Seat both.
4. Seat a portion of both.
5. Seat neither.

The Freedom Party will base its request for credentials on two arguments: (1) The regulars have demonstrated a "lack of loyalty" to the national party over the years, and have not pledged support of the 1964 ticket and platform, and (2) The regulars do not represent a majority of Mississippi Democrats, because Negroes are "systematically excluded" from party machinery and from voting in general.

Although "rump" delegations frequently seek admission at national party conventions, there apparently is no legal precedent for seating this kind of insurgent group, and on these grounds. A neutral Democratic lawyer described the Freedom Party case as weak.

Bidwell Adam, 70, lawyer from Gulfport, Miss., and chairman of the state Democratic Party, strongly disputes the contention that his delegations have demonstrated disloyalty to the national tickets in past elections. Adam, who said he has campaigned across the Magnolia State for every Democratic candidate since Woodrow Wilson, expressed belief that even though Gov. Ross Barnett's unpledged electors carried Mississippi in 1960, the core of the state party remained loyal to the Kennedy-Johnson ticket.

"Ask Minnesota where they were when Al Smith ran against Herbert Hoover," he said in a telephone interview. "We've got a hundred years of party loyalty to match against any state."

If the regular Mississippi delegation is barred from the convention, it might cost the Democrats votes in other southern states in November, he said. "They couldn't get enough votes in this state to speak of."

Aaron Henry, head of the Mississippi Chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and chairman of the Freedom Party's executive committee, said his group's appeal before the credentials committee will be based heavily on the loyalty question.

Joseph L. Rauh, Washington lawyer and a leader of the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), will present the Freedom Party case to the committee. However, before Rauh can argue the loyalty question, or any other legal point, he will have to convince the committee that the Freedom Party is indeed a party representing a substantial number of Mississippians.

The Mississippi Freedom Party is an outgrowth of the "Freedom Summer Project"— project sponsored by various civil rights organizations to promote Negro voting and educational programs in the state. State Chairman Henry says, however, it should be considered separate from the civil rights movement.

Since it was formed in April, the insurgent party has circulated persons through the state, signing up Negroes.

According to Henry, 60,000 to 70,000 persons have been enrolled and he hopes 100,000 will be by convention time. In contrast, only about 2,500 Negroes are registered in the state's regular Democratic Party.

Leaders of the insurgent group contend that nearly all of those they have enrolled would be registered voters if Mississippi did not obstruct them.

The state recently rejected the party's request for a charter on the grounds it "wholly failed" to meet requirements of law for registration as a political party. Nevertheless, it plans to meet in Jackson Aug. 6 to pick 68 delegates it hopes to have seated at Atlantic City.

There, the legal issues will be considered but perhaps the dominating influence will be the emotional feeling of convention delegations from states outside the South.

Eight states — Massachusetts, New York, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Colorado, California and Oregon — have already urged their delegates to support the "Freedom Party."

The Freedom Party needs the support of 10 per cent of the credentials committee to obtain a minority report, and thus force the issue to come before the whole convention. It then needs the support of at least eight states to force a roll call.

The state backing already announced is by no means binding, and a word from President Johnson could end it, party leaders here believe.

Meanwhile, Negro civil rights workers and Freedom Party representatives are touring northern cities trying to drum up additional support and money. This week, the second floor of the New Bethel Baptist Church in Washington was turned over to the Freedom Party for a rally. Rallies were to follow in Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and other cities.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Spinal Curvature Outlook Good If Simply Due To Poor Posture

VAN DELLEN

Milwaukee is famous for its art center and its beer but it has another claim to fame—the Milwaukee brace. This device is used as a corrective support in spinal curvatures. Because it is adjustable, the patient can remain comfortable while sitting, lying down, standing, or walking.

CURVATURE OF THE SPINE (scoliosis) to the left or the right is a common deformity. It usually develops during the early years of growth and often is recognized before the age of 14. Boys are more likely to be affected during the early school years but the situation changes in adolescence when three to five times more girls than boys develop it. The curve may be shaped like a C or an S.

When poor posture is responsible the outlook is good because the vertebrae and structures otherwise are normal. Other children are born with defective vertebrae or paralysis of the muscles of the trunk on one side. The latter destroys the normal balance of the supporting muscles.

The back muscles may be weakened or paralyzed by polio or other neurological afflictions. Spinal curvature occurs when one leg is shorter than the other. Injury is another possible origin of curvature.

Despite the cause, the crookedness may escape detection for years because it comes on slowly and seldom produces distress. The left shoulder may be higher than the right or a hip or shoulder blade may be prominent. The defect may be noticed first when a parent sees the child in a bathing suit or a young girl is being fitted for a dress. Now and then fatigue and backachce provide clues.

Mild curvature may correct itself with additional rest during the day, provided the youngster makes an effort to sit and stand erect. Exercises keep the spine flexible and improve the balance of the trunk muscles. They must be done faithfully over a long period. Progressive curvature calls for more specialized care, involving traction or the use of corrective plaster jackets and braces. Approximately 5 per cent are severe enough to require surgery.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

OBSTRUCTING SCAR TISSUE

F. R. writes: What is meant by scar tissue following duodenal ulcer? This is said to affect the stomach valve.

REPLY

Some duodenal ulcers leave scars after healing, especially when the lesion is chronic or has recurred many times. The scar may pull on the exit valve of the stomach and obstruct the passageway.

TEEN-AGE TALK

E. G. writes: My 14-year-old daughter insists that if you eat a lemon after a full meal you won't gain weight. Right or wrong?

REPLY

Wrong. She is rather young to be spreading old wives' tales. Calories do count, regardless of unscientific claims to the contrary.

BONE FRACTURE

B. H. writes: How could a person come up with a cracked bone in the leg if he has not had a fall or other injury?

REPLY

This is unusual unless the bone is defective. Cysts and tumors, for example, weaken the skeletal structure so that spontaneous fractures occur.

ANTIBODIES AFTER INFECTION

V. H. writes: Can a person carry the brucellosis bugs in his body for 28 years?

REPLY

No, but his blood may contain protective antibodies that serve as evidence of a previous infection.

Battle Due On Reducing Pill Ban Proposal

By CHARLES SCHAEFFER
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — Overweight Americans have swallowed an estimated 50 million reducing pills of a brand the government now proposes to remove from the market as "unsafe."

The manufacturer of "Neo-Barine" tablets disagrees with the Food and Drug Administration. The company, Bariatric Corp., Coral Gables, Fla., is arming with data for a showdown session where it hopes to disprove the government's charges.

Neo-Barine in the past eight years has been a widely used medicine sold under doctor's prescription for conditions ranging from simple overweight to gross obesity. It contains thyroxin, a crystalline substance secreted either by the human thyroid gland, or prepared synthetically, and iodo-casein, a iodine-infused protein.

Because of the thyroxin, FDA contends, the pill produces the same physiological effects as thyroid extract administered to patients with an underpar gland. The thyroid gland helps regulate the body's growth and metabolism.

The FDA, which will consider the company's protest Aug. 10, said private physicians have reported "undesirable thyrotoxic side effects."

An agency spokesman said these include thyrotoxicosis (an excessive acceleration of the body's metabolism) heart palpitations and insommnia.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.), a critical observer of drug marketing, asked FDA to check out the drug after a local physician reported side effects among patients on a weight reducing schedule. The Medical Letter, a non-profit publication on drugs, recently said the drug should be removed from the market.

A company report on the drug in the physicians' desk reference, however, says "no serious or irreversible reactions have been reported in eight years of clinical use." Doctors are warned not to prescribe it for persons already suffering from thyrotoxicosis, acute coronary artery disease or iodine allergy.

Unlike certain other reducing pills, Neo-Barine is not an appetite depressant. In fact, one of the company's claims is that "strenuous diet restrictions need not be imposed."

Neo-Barine is what doctors call an anti-adipopexic drug — which means it prevents the storage of fat. The drug also contains a compound called strophanthin, which the firm suggests offsets heart acceleration of patients taking Neo-Barine.

An FDA medical spokesman said government drug authorities dispute this contention.

The FDA is directing the firm to show, if it can, reasons why the government should not suspend sale of the drug. In calling a public hearing, FDA said, "New evidence of clinical experience, not contained in such application or available until after such application was approved, shows that the drug is not shown to be safe . . ."

FDA had scheduled a similar hearing on the anti-depressant drug, Parnate, a product of another company, but the manufacturer agreed to an eleventh-hour relabeling, restricting its use to hospitalized mental patients. The hearing was canceled.

Georgia was named in 1732 for King George II of England.

Soviet-U.S. Science Swap Branded 'One-Way Street'

By GENE BYLINSKY
Progress Reports Writer

WASHINGTON — Soviet scientists who come to this country under U.S. - Soviet cultural agreements concentrate on learning about significant advances in U. S. science and technology.

American scientists who go to Russia, in contrast, seem to be engaged in somewhat esoteric research projects bearing little relation to America's immediate needs in science and technology.

Many U. S. exchange scholars in Russia conduct studies in humanities, literature, history and languages.

Some typical subjects in recent years included "Comparison of Works of Maxim Gorky and Gerhard Hauptmann," "Ties Between Soviet and Foreign Writers, 1917-29," and "Development of Soviet Administration, 1917-36."

This seeming lopsidedness in subjects under study has led to accusations that the exchange program is a "one-way street." Dubbing the program "short change," Congressman Michael A. Feighan (D-Ohio) called on the State Department not to enter into new exchange agreements with the Russians.

"Russian students and scientific studies in the United States penetrate into the vitals of our scientific life while studies pursued by legitimate American students in Soviet Russia border on boondoggling," said Feighan, chairman of a House judiciary subcommittee.

The State Department disregarded Feighan's request and negotiated a new exchange agreement. While its officials concede that there is some lopsidedness in the exchanges, they insist that the program is well worth the risks.

As the State Department sees it, the Soviets seem to have two main goals in the exchange programs. They want to get scientific and technical information to help advance Russia's industry and science and they want to paint a favorable picture of the Soviet Union and Soviet policies.

The State Department says that it is perhaps natural for Russia to concentrate on science and technology in the exchange program since the Soviet Union is still a developing country where some branches of science are lagging badly behind the West.

What's more, the department at times has trouble finding young American scientists and engineers who know Russian to take part in the program. Even so, say U. S. officials, the exchanges have not been a "one-way street."

While immediate benefits to the U. S. may not be readily visible, the exchange program eventually may help "mellow" Soviet society and channel its development into more hopeful directions.

"But these effects should not be overemphasized," says the department. "The exchange program is severely limited in scope and numbers; ordinarily it does not reach the mass of the Soviet population. The influencing of Soviet society is a long-term and indirect process."

The U. S., though, pays attention to short-range aims, such as obtaining information in order to evaluate the Soviet Union and its changing society.

This aspect of the program displeases the Soviet security apparatus, however, "The Soviets have some of the same worries as Congressman Feighan does," says one official.

U. S. scientists in Russia find that picture taking is frowned on; they are subject to surveillance, and their luggage is often "inspected" by Soviet secret police without the scientists' knowledge.

One sore point has been the Soviet refusal to lift travel restrictions on visiting scientists. U. S. scientists are subject to the same restrictions that are applied to U. S. embassy personnel. But Russian students in the U. S. are free to travel, except to certain off-limits areas.

The State Department is engaged in a continuing effort to have the Russians remove these travel restrictions. The Soviets make occasional exceptions. Last year, for instance, they let two U. S. plant breeders hunt for germ plasm for horticultural plants in central Asia, an area normally closed to visitors.

Furthermore, a scientific institution open for visits by one kind of specialists may be closed to others. The Russians admitted a large group of U. S. mathematicians to their Siberian "science city" near Novosibirsk, but wouldn't let U. S. nuclear experts visit it.

All in all, State Department officials view the six-year-old exchange program, which has allowed more than 5,500 Americans to study in Russia and brought 4,700 Soviet citizens to the U. S., as a worthwhile gamble.

What's more, the exchange agreement signed this year expands exchanges to oceanography, scientific and technical information, plastics, and urban planning.

Teen-Age Jobless

NEW YORK (UPI)—While teenagers comprise only 8 per cent of the U.S. labor force, they account for more than 24 per cent of the unemployed, according to the National Industrial Conference Board. Only 2.9 per cent of all married men are out of work, down from an average of 34 per cent in 1963.

Pranksters Just Too, Too Helpful

DUNCANVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — The owner of a garage that recently moved to a new location complained to police about pranksters who pulled a switch and turned a car right-side up.

Jim Thornton said he put the car on its top at his former place of business and painted a sign on the side telling customers his new address. The next morning he found the car resting properly on its tires instead of its roof.

WASHINGTON — Big-city school systems are meeting with only modest success in their efforts to persuade high school students to complete their education.

Just over 70 per cent of the students who entered grade 10 in large cities in 1960 remained to graduate in 1963. For the entire nation, the schools' "holding power" in the same period was 76 per cent.

These are among findings of a major study of school holding power in 128 of the largest cities that has just been completed by the National Education Association (NEA).

"The smaller the city, the higher the rate" of students going on to high school graduation, states the NEA report, "Holding Power: Large City School Systems."

In the five largest cities—New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia and Detroit — only 65 per cent of those entering the 10th grade in 1960 received diplomas in 1963. And the dropout rate was significantly higher in the vocational high schools operated by these cities.

"The chance that a pupil will graduate from high school if he is in grade 10 is a little better than three out of five," the report notes.

"However, if he attends a vocational school, his chances are less than one out of two."

The NEA survey, based on detailed questionnaires sent to the school systems, was strictly statistical and did not attempt to analyze the findings. But the data point to a need for substantially greater efforts in big-city schools—and particularly in vocational schools in these cities—to encourage students to finish their education.

Despite the discouragingly high dropout rates recorded by the study, they reflect "a steady and substantial increase in school holding power, from 68.3 per cent to 70.8 per cent" since 1961.

The survey pinpoints grades 10 and 11 as the critical years for dropouts. One out of eight students in grades 10 and 11, respectively, left before graduating during the period under study, but only one out of 16 left in grade 12.

"The chances that a pupil who enters grade 10 in a large-city high school will graduate are 70 out of 100," the report notes. "However, if he remains in school until grade 12, his chances of graduation jump to 94 out of 100."

The maximum age of compulsory school attendance among the 128 cities surveyed ranged from 14 years in one city—Wichita Falls, Tex.—to 18 years in 22 cities, including many California school systems. The largest number of cities—85—had a compulsory school attendance requirement through age 16.

Among the five largest cities, Los Angeles schools showed the greatest holding power. More than 77 per cent of the 10th grade students went on to graduate. The dropout rate was highest in Philadelphia, with only 53.4 of the 10th graders completing high school.

Weapons Charge In Barge Battle

An alleged assault with a boat hook on a barge in a fight over boats ended yesterday with Michael Wright, 24, of San Francisco being charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

Wright is charged with attacking H. Kenneth McCurdy, 29-year-old Sausalito artist, with the boat hook yesterday afternoon aboard a barge in Belvedere.

The fight began when Wright said damage to his boat was caused by work McCurdy had done of it, Belvedere Police Chief William Woodington reported. It occurred on a barge owned by Donald Bailey of Sausalito, off West Shore Road in Belvedere.

Bailey signed a complaint charging Wright with assault with a deadly weapon and assault and battery. Wright, released from jail on $276 bail, is to appear Aug. 3 in Marin Municipal Court.

McCurdy and his wife, Mary Ellen, are to appear in court next month on charges they outraged public decency in displaying an allegedly obscene anti-Communist sign on the ferry boat where they live in Sausalito.

Planners Will Hear Lake Rezoning Issue

The Marin County Planning Commission will have a public hearing Monday on rezoning of land around Marin Municipal Water District reservoirs to open area.

The land, totaling 18,082 acres, is now zoned agricultural and residential on an interim basis.

Proposed for rezoning are 16,450 acres surrounding Kent, Alpine, Bon Tempe, Phoenix and Lagunitas lakes, and 1,632 acres surrounding Nicasio Reservoir.

The commission meeting is scheduled to start at 9 a.m., with each agenda item taken in sequence, so no definite time has been announced for the hearing, which is item No. 24 on the agenda.

Among other items scheduled for public hearings Monday are:

1. Rezoning of the Wolfback Ridge area, between Sausalito and the proposed city of Marincello, from interim single family residential. (Agenda item 7.)

2. An application by Phyllis Hansen for a permit to establish a full-time pre-school child center at 3700 Paradise Drive, Paradise Park Marina, Tiburon Peninsula. (Agenda item 15.)

3. A request by Elroy Munson for an adjustment to permit a ranch-hand's dwelling, adjacent to 200 Miller Creek Road, Marinwood, to be used as an art studio for 11 persons for two years.

Hit-Run Victim Still In Coma; Fund Grows

Twelve-year-old Robert Miller of Greenbrae remained unconscious today at Marin General Hospital, 20 days after he was struck by a car while riding his bicycle on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Meanwhile, a special fund to aid the badly injured youngster's family reached $360.

Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Miller of 30 Corte Loyola, suffered a broken pelvis and left leg, as well as head injuries, cuts and bruises in the July 9 accident.

The money has been raised by the Greenbrae Property Owners Assn. The group's president, Peter Gattheimer, said further contributions are being sought.

Book Drive Success

About 1,000 pounds of books have been shipped from Mill Valley to Mississippi to be used in the Books for Mississippi program, Maggie Grant, book store operator at the Greyhound bus station, said today. "We will continue to accept them as long as they come in," said Mrs. Grant.

Peach Sour Cream Cake Is Delicious

It's not a cheescake, although cream cheese and sour cream are in it. And it's not a pie either, although it's baked in a pie pan. What is it then? Well, it's simply "Peach Sour Cream Cake"—and it's simply delicious!

PEACH SOUR CREAM CAKE

1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese
¼ cup dairy sour cream
3 eggs
¾ teaspoon salt
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons brown sugar

Drain peaches, reserving 1 tablespoon syrup. Cream cheese with ⅓ cup granulated sugar. Add ¼ cup sour cream. Beat in 1 egg and ¼ teaspoon salt. Sift flour with baking powder and remaining salt. Cream butter with remaining granulated sugar. Add remaining eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in reserved peach syrup and vanilla. Add flour mixture; blend well. Spread evenly on bottom and sides of 10-inch pie pan (thinner on the sides). Spoon in cheese mixture. Bake 30 to 35 minutes in 325-degree (moderately slow) oven. Remove from oven. Arrange peach slices in circle on top of cake ½ inch from edge. Blend 1 cup sour cream and brown sugar; swirl around peaches. Return cake to oven for 5 minutes. Chill. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Nuts, Chocolate In Trio Kisses

2 large egg whites
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup sifted confectioners sugar
1 cup shredded coconut
2 cups cornflakes
½ cup each semi-sweet chocolate pieces and chopped pecans

Beat egg whites and salt until frothy; gradually beat in confectioners sugar; continue beating until glossy, stiff, straight peaks form. Fold in remaining ingredients. Drop by teaspoonfuls, 1 inch apart, on greased cookie sheets. Bake in moderate (350°) oven about 25 minutes. Makes about 36.

More Hot Dogs Consumed In July Than Other Months

About two billion frankfurters are consumed in July alone—that's a good reason for naming it National Hot Dog Month.

This is also the hot dog eatin'-est country in the world, with annual consumption reaching 14.4 billion.

Convenient, ready-to-eat, versatile and flavorful, frankfurters can go into almost any kind of main dish. As a kabob, they're easily threaded and quickly cooked.

Frankly Delicious Barbecue

8 to 10 frankfurters, sliced ½-inch thick
1 cup thinly sliced onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
⅓ cup catchup
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 can (16 ounces) barbecue beans

Brown onion and green pepper lightly in butter or margarine. Add sliced frankfurters, catchup, Worcestershire sauce and beans. Cook just until heated through. 4 to 6 servings.

Blender Dressing On The Tart Side

Chef's Salad Blender Dressing
Toasted Cheese Rolls
Cookies Beverage

BLENDER DRESSING

¼ cup (1 small) coarsely chopped onion
⅓ cup each cider vinegar and dry vermouth
½ cup salad oil
1 teaspoon each salt and dry mustard
¼ teaspoon white pepper
¾ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Turn all the ingredients into the electric blender; blend until smooth. Pour into a jar; cover tightly and refrigerate at least overnight before using. Shake well before using. Makes about 1¼ cups.

This Aspic Looks Just Like Summer

In love with some of summer's most delicious offerings? Then this aspic is one you may enjoy trying.

All green and pink, it is as pretty as a flowering world. And it's delicate flavor because it uses avocado and fresh salmon.

To prepare it, you edge a mold with strips of the avocado. Then you fill the mold with a clear aspic made from the salmon plus the stock in which it was cooked.

For this dish we used a widely available one-quart mold that we favor because its surface is corrugated and it has a cover. Strips of avocado fit nicely into the corrugations.

You'll notice in the recipe directions that we say, at one point, to "correct the seasoning." This term, as you probably know, is a chef's favorite way of urging a cook to "taste and add salt and pepper—or other seasoning—if needed."

AVOCADO SALMON ASPIC

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
Water
1 pound fresh salmon, in one piece
1 small onion, coarsley chopped
1 rib celery, quartered
1 bay leaf
8 allspice
1 teaspoon salt
1 avocado
Salad greens and lemon wedges

Sprinkle the gelatin over ¼ cup cold water to soften.

In a saucepan put 1½ cups cold water, the salmon, onion, celery, bay leaf, allspice and salt. Bring to a boil; cover and simmer until fish flakes easily—about 20 minutes. Remove salmon, reserving stock. Skin, bone and separate fish into fairly large chunks.

Strain stock; measure and, if necessary, add enough boiling water to make 1¾ cups. Correct seasoning. Stir together the hot stock and softened gelatin until gelatin is dissolved. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in salmon.

Halve avocado lengthwise; remove skin and seed. Slice lengthwise. Arrange slices upright in a 1-quart mold. Turn salmon mixture into mold, spooning a little of the clear aspic around sides to coat avocado. Chill until firm.

Unmold and garnish with salad greens. Serve with lemon wedges. Pass mayonnaise or French dressing if you like. Makes 6 servings. (AP)

Watermelon Plays It Cool

When the sun sinks into the horizon and it's time to relax, a candlelit patio can set the stage for a snack that is truly refreshing and will banish the cares of the day.

Either as an integral part of a full course meal or just as a company or family refresher, a Watermelon Oasis can deliciously perk up the warmest summer evening gathering. It's easy to play it cool with the help of the iceman. A twenty-inch long watermelon, cut in half lengthwise, and lined with six pounds of snow ice, can hold six twelve-ounce glasses of punch and an oval-shaped bowl for mixed fresh summer fruits. You can place a small scoop on the table and guests can help themselves to additional ice for their drinks.

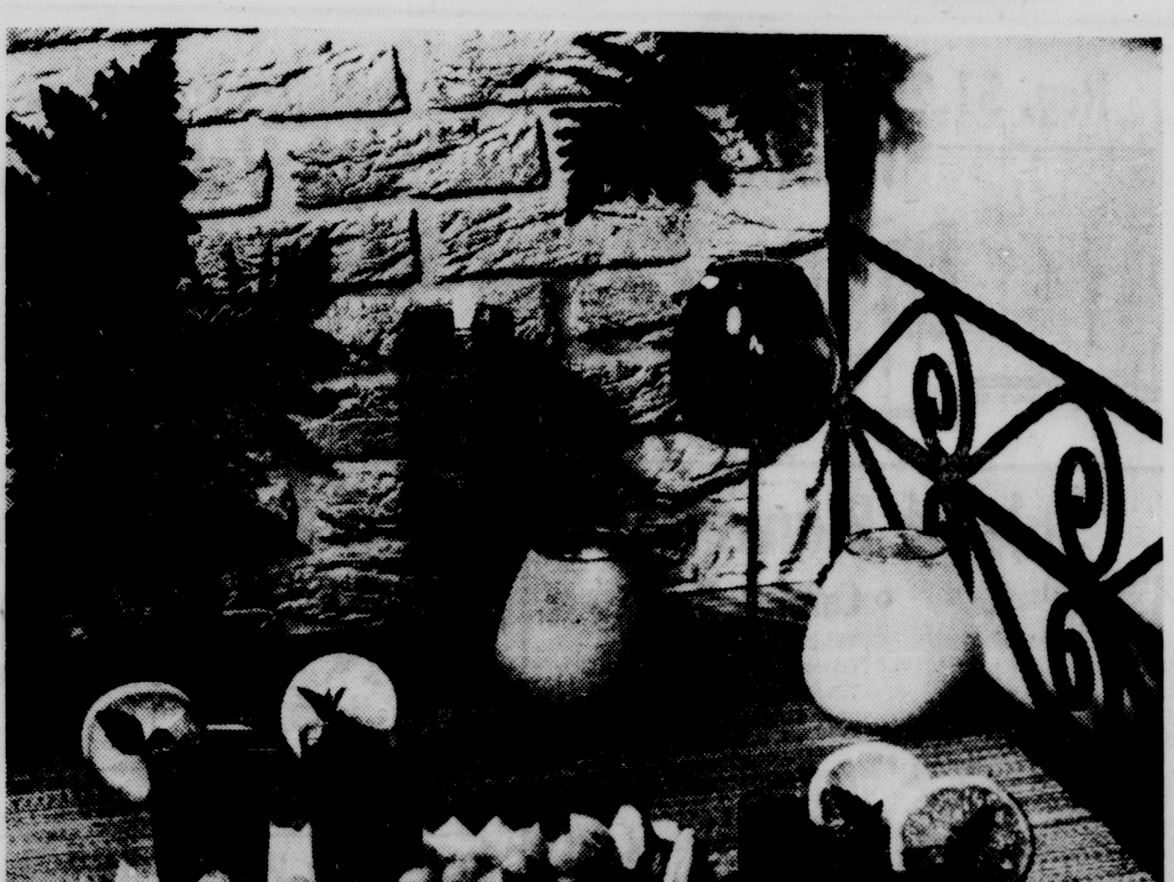
FROSTY PINK PUNCH
(Makes about 2½ quarts)

1 can (6 ounces) frozen orange drink concentrate, reconstituted
1 can (6 ounces) frozen unsweetened pineapple juice concentrate, reconstituted
1 can (6 ounces) frozen fruit punch concentrate, reconstituted
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Iceman's crushed isce

Combine all ingredients; stir. Serve in tall glasses. Garnish with lemon slices or mint, as desired.



THIS ICE-FILLED Watermelon Oasis is guaranteed to perk up any warm evening gathering. The ice filled watermelon cooly serves the light dessert course and guests can refresh their own drinks by helping themselves to the ice as needed.

NAVAL NET DEPOT CHANGE IS SLOW

Interior Department Now Must Say Whether Terms From Navy Are Suitable

By ELLEN BRY

Scientific work at what was the Tiburon Naval Net Depot still is limited primarily to paper work as researchers await a decision on when the base will be turned over to the Department of the Interior.

The U.S. Bureau of Mines new underwater mining projects, the Bureau of Sports Fisheries research into effects of environment on fish are moving fractionally forward as scientists wait for word of what buildings they may take over.

Spokesmen for the Navy reported by telephone from Washington Monday that they had completed their program for declaring the base as "excess" and had turned over their plans to the Department of the Interior.

The Navy desires to keep under its control a pier and building on it which houses calibration gear used to check ship and submarine electronics operations. It also wants to retain possession of "one or two" other buildings, a Navy representative reported.

The Interior Department now must decide if the Navy terms are agreeable to it and would allow efficient working of the scientific departments under it which have moved into the depot in the past year.

Scientists at the net depot speak in terms of "when . . . if . . . we're waiting" in referring to projects. The Navy previously wanted only to lease the base to the Interior Department, with take-back powers which made Interior officials afraid of beginning long-term projects.

Washington officials could give no indication of when the depot might finally be turned over to the Interior. The Navy in the past year has sold as surplus and moved to other bases about 25 million dollars worth of equipment, so that in most cases empty buildings fill the base on Paradise Drive.

Dr. Victor L. Loosanoff, head of the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries at the depot, is warmly enthusiastic for the day when ocean research will become the full-time base activity, saying the depot could become the West Coast ocean research center.

Loosanoff, a world authority on oysters, probably will not find his activities much changed by Interior takeover of the base, as most of his work is in the field in Tomales and Drake's Bay and in writing and lecturing. He plans to retire in a few years.

The Commercial Fisheries Bureau may or may not continue to operate from the base, federal officials reported, but other Interior divisions, such as the Geological Survey, might do research from it.

More immediately, scientists in the bureaus of mines and sports fisheries wait week to week for permission to move into the empty buildings and begin setting up offices, aquariums, machine shops, boat outfitting shops, laboratories and arranging for boat docking facilities.

Business failures in May of this year were 10 per cent below the total for the same month of 1963.

Strep Leads List Of Marin Illness

Fifteen cases of streptococcic infection, seven of them in Mill Valley, were reported last week to the Marin County Health Department.

Other communicable diseases reported were five cases of measles, eight of mumps, one of tuberculosis and one of infectious hepatitis, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, health officer.

Marinites Plan Tropic Underwater Film Epic

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred F. Giddings Jr. of 869 Flaxberry Lane, Marinwood, will leave Monday for Belize, British Honduras, to shoot underwater film they hope to enter in the International Film Festival nearly next year.

The Giddingses, owners of the Bamboo Reef Skin Diving Supply at 3765 Redwood Highway, San Rafael, and the Bamboo Reef in San Francisco, have been hired by U.S. Divers Co. of Seattle, Wash., to shoot underwater scenes for promotional purposes.

Going along to help in the filming will be Bill Cain of San Rafael, Jim Sieler of San Francisco, Mike Prodfite of San Francisco, and Gary Rubottom of Seattle, a representative of U.S. Divers Co.

The films will be taken with special cameras owned by Giddings. Included in the plans are some night shots of water life taken with special lights attached to the cameras. The group will also take pictures of fish and plant life in underwater caves.

Some of the film will go to the U.S. Divers Co. and the remainder will be edited and entered in the International Film Festival scheduled next February in Santa Monica, according to Mrs. Giddings.

Mr. and Mrs. Giddings and their four aides will spend about one month on the excursion, returning to Marin early in September.

Mayor McInnis To Attend Session

San Rafael Mayor John McInnis will take part in a four-day conference on government and politics sponsored by the California Alumni Assn. Oct. 18-22 at the group's conference and recreation facility near Lake Tahoe.

Lectures, panels and case studies will make up the program, titled "The Educated Citizen and Public Responsibility: Changing Patterns in American Government and Politics."

Junior College Plan

Changes in the master plan for the Kentfield campus of College of Marin will be discussed by the junior college district board tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Room 24 of Harlan Hall.

Novato Teen Club Elects

Watermelon Feast Due In Mill Valley

Mill Valley youngsters with a yen for watermelon may take part in the annual melon feed to be held under the city's summer recreation program at 3 p.m., Friday at Park, Alto and Old Mill Schools.

Buffo said children are asked to take 10 cents to one of the three playgrounds between 1 and 5 p.m. any day this week, the money to be used to pay for the melons.

Novato Artists To Hear Traveler-Artist

Robert Leight of Sonoma will be guest speaker at the Novato Society of Advanced Art meeting at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Nevin Kempthorne studio, 60 Grove Lane, Novato. He will show American Indian and Oriental arts and crafts specimens.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Marin Can Be Proud Of New Emporium, Northgate

What will be the ultimate effect on Marin of the coming of the Emporium and other "big city" stores planned for the Northgate shopping center?

Some gloomy prophets of doom would have us believe that older districts in Marin, including downtown San Rafael, will wither and die.

The relatively small independent store, whose proprietor is known personally by many of his customers, will vanish, replaced by the impersonal atmosphere of the "big city" merchandiser, they say.

A more reasonable prediction comes from a leading independent store owner on Fourth Street in San Rafael.

"My business," he says, "has for several years experienced a five to 10 per cent gain in volume each year. This is due both to population growth and to improvements I make in my store—wider selections, better displays, more effective advertising, increasing good will and so on."

"I expect that my regular gain in volume will be lost to me for a year or two. I don't expect to have a decline in volume; only a loss in the rate of growth. After a year or two, my growth rate should pick up again and within five years I will never know the difference; my old growth rate will be back again.

"Yes, there will be some stores close along Fourth Street in San Rafael. But these are marginal stores. Some would close anyway; Northgate competition will only hurry the process.

"In the long run, no new shopping area will 'kill' downtown San Rafael," said our informant, adding a warning that the city must of course meet its traffic and parking problems.

Many enlightened Marin retailers have long believed that their real competition was "the city" — San Francisco.

Any store or shopping center in Marin that helps break the "city" shopping habit benefits all of Marin in the end.

We overheard one shopper making her first visit to the new Northgate Emporium store say, "Now I won't have to go to the city to shop anymore."

And we stood by as another shopper studied the diagram of future stores painted on the fence at Northgate. We overheard her say with a sigh, "All this is certainly going to be a credit to Marin County."

Our judgment is that the coming of the Emporium and other "big city" stores to Northgate will benefit Marin as a whole in a greater measure than the temporary set-backs it may bring to some individual merchants in other Marin shopping districts.

PRospect 1-0450

PRospect 1-0450 in San Francisco is the number of the Suicide Prevention Bureau . . . Operating on the theory suicides could be prevented if only they had someone to tell their troubles to, and to give them a willing ear and sound advice, the Suicide Prevention Bureau has experienced, expert people manning the phone 24 hours a day.

Most would-be suicides are ambivalent about their contemplated act. "To be or not to be?" Many people with apparently everything to live for get carried away by momentary events or depression. Others, who are friendless or feel they have made a mess of their lives, need advice and new orientation.

Before you swallow those pills or walk out on the Bridge, call this number. Your troubles aren't unique.

PENNY DEPOSIT?

Supervisor's Beer Can Proposal Would Not Solve Litter Problem

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — A supervisor in Monterey County has come up with what he thinks is a simple solution to the litterbugging problem in California.

He would require a one-cent deposit on all beer cans, the deposit to be refunded for any cans returned to the dealers. The deposits collected which were unrefunded would be turned over to the state, presumably to be used to pay costs of anti-litter work.

THE SUPERVISOR believes many beer drinkers would save the cans meticulously in order to return them. In addition, he thinks children would go along highways or in state parks and pick them up, for the refunds. In fact, the supervisor would set up central collection stations to permit children to return the empties without setting foot in a liquor store.

An attendant at the Point Lobos State Reserve Park got wind of the supervisor's idea and added his own suggestion that the idea be expanded. He would have the program on a national basis and have deposits required on all packaged food containers.

Now we don't like to knock anybody coming up with ideas on how to lick the litter problem. It's a problem that seriously worries us because we see too many evidences of it each year.

On Putah Creek, in Yolo County, there was a classic example. A landowner finally closed his property to public access because of the litter left by fishermen and picnickers. Only through the intervention of the Wildlife Conservation Board, and the expenditure of considerable funds to purchase the property, was it reopened to permit entry into a good stretch of fishing stream.

But the beer can bit is pretty ridiculous. In the first place, the deposit would be a tax, anyway you look at it. And it would be a tax some two and one-half times more than already is collected on beer by the state.

Now we're not making this criticism because we're a beer drinker. Our tastes run more to the grape and the grain. But this would be a discriminatory tax.

In the second place, of course, while beer cans may be the most noticeable and perhaps even the most numerous of the sources of litter, their removal would by no means solve the litter problem.

EVEN WITH the tax, there's some doubt as to whether hunters or fishermen in the back country would trouble to load up the beer cans after a trip to return them.

We hope someone comes up with an answer to the littering problem one of these days. There are a number of laws on the books which make it illegal, including a new one prohibiting the placing of any material that could burn.

But these laws, like many others, are made to be obeyed and not enforced, except on rare occasions. Somehow, too many people don't realize the severity of the problem. They don't realize that the dwindling lands for hunting, fishing or camping are dwindling even faster because owners are tiring of putting up with the mess.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Goldwater Not Against Unions

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Mr. Brewer's letter of July '21 reporting Goldwater's position on the so called "right to work" should not go without a challenge. I don't recall Goldwater at any time saying he is against unionism. I am sure he is not. He is against a man being forced to join a union to get a job. Any organization worth its salt will draw people without their being forced. Some unions of national scope have gone beyond their intended purpose of helping the day laborer; and contrary to their seeing all are, "pulling an oar" as Brewer would have us believe, they are dragging an anchor on our economy, ie. featherbedding, lack of interest in seeing their members meet rigid qualifications for jobs they intend to fill.

I am supporting Goldwater because I believe he is against this erosion to our economic system.

Republicans Will Have Voice

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Answering Reader Crosby's letter, July 24, wherein he challenged another reader to provide a list of names of those who were frightened by the proceedings of the recent Cow Palace "convention", I was frightened. I was more frightened by what I saw and heard there than I am by the tragedies in Harlem which are chilling enough. I could give Reader Crosby quite a list of formerly strong Republicans who were also frightened, but we shall sound our voices "loud and clear" in November. In the meantime, we shall be working to collect others.

If Reader Crosby is uncertain why anyone should be frightened by the Cow Palace proceedings, I refer him to Reader Hanzel's letter in the I-J July 24.

There is much to be corrected in the policies of our country, but let us assure ourselves that the leaders we elect are as alert as possible to the current times and problems and that those same leaders will listen to our voices. As Governor Rockefeller said above the dinning boos, "It is still a free country." Let's keep it that way.

Letter Begets Another One

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Recently I wrote to you a letter in which I took a jaundiced view of the good Senator from Arizona. This seemed natural enough a thing to do as my favorite indoor sport is the "bugging" of politicians with whom I disagree. However this gave rise to an interesting event, for today I received my first scurrilous letter.

Now this is the sort of thing I was talking about when I commented on how the good Senator had given the green light to the hatchet men of the Jack Acid Society. Only in this case, it was a hatchet woman. Judging from her limited vocabulary, four-letter Anglo-Saxon and sundry anatomical references, the unfortunate creature is of limited imagination, education, and intelligence. However my main objection to this letter is based upon aesthetic grounds. Invective is a fine art, to be indulged in only by persons of wit, intelligence, and precision of thought. I resent heavy-handed, bungling efforts on the part of rank amateurs.

If, in her next effort, the good woman will include her return address with her name, I shall be glad to instruct her, via private correspondence, in the use of this art form. Even so, her letter, being my first, I shall treasure always for sentimental reasons.

Comments On Barry's Text

Editor, Independent-Journal:

If extremism in defense of liberty is not a vice, then it follows logically that extremism in securing liberty is not a vice. Therefore the Negro is justified in using extreme measures to secure the liberty guaranteed him by the Constitution. Does Senator Goldwater subscribe to this philosophy?

William F. Buckley, Jr. says: "It is the context that counts, and every man is entitled to his context." Agreed! Therefore let Buckley explain why he took Senator Goldwater's pronouncement out of context. Governor Rockefeller and Governor Romney fought desperately to have extremism condemned, but to no avail. Then the next day, Goldwater speaks out in support of extremism. No one can mistake his position except those who wish to do so. Goldwater is a profuse writer with years of experience. He would never have used the controversial word extremism for "total dedication" (Buckley), and no one knows that better than William E. Buckley, Jr.

Boat Report Was Sarcastic

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In regards to the July 22 article headlined "well, well, Orion did finish the Tahiti race": it was a disgusting and sarcastic report on our local boat. It sickens me that our local paper cannot take more pride in a yacht and crew that enter a long race that only seven boats even venture to take.

For the information of those interested the Orion arrived in Papeete on Tuesday, July 14. They will be sailing to the island of Moorea for this weekend.

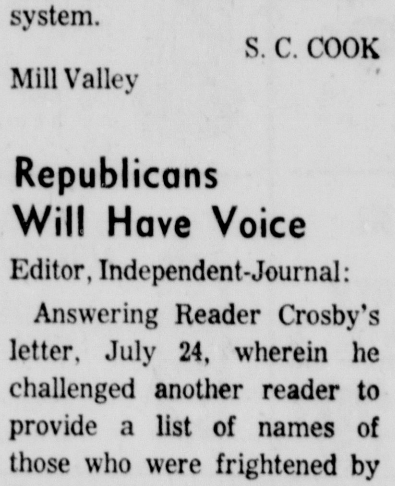
HOLLYWOOD FOLK, who dearly love practical jokes, are still chuckling over one played on a big producer just after the Christmas holidays a few years ago. A pixie writer inserted an ad signed by the producer in the classified column of a big Los Angeles daily that read, "I WILL PURCHASE YOUR OLD CHRISTMAS TREES! 50 cents to $2 paid, depending on size and condition. Deliver to —— South Beverly Drive. If no answer, just leave on lawn with tag on tree, giving name and address. Offer good until January 14." When the unsuspecting producer came home from a trip he found some 600 wilted and bedraggled Christmas trees cluttering up the sumptuous lawns of his estate.



Ultimately he learned the identity of the writer who had perpetrated the hoax, and was so furious he didn't hire him again until he absolutely needed him.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

James Kilpatrick, owner of Bon Air Market in Greenbrae, was scheduled for prosecution by the district attorney's office as a test case of the State Unfair Practices Act. Several local grocers asked for the litigation, claiming the market was selling groceries for less than the required six per cent profit.

20 YEARS AGO

Robert Trigon, Navy gunner's mate of San Rafael, was one of the more than 1,200 veterans of Pacific action rescued at the Farallone Islands when their returning troopship, the S. S. Henry Bergh, ran onto the rocks in the fog.

LBJ Gets Thick 'Goldwater Book' As GOP Ponders Microfilm Device

By ANDREW J. GLASS

WASHINGTON—One volume you won't find listed in the Library of Congress catalogue has been sitting on President Lyndon B. Johnson's desk for a week.

Between its hard blue covers are 565 pages recording what Sen. Barry Goldwater has said on every conceivable topic from atom bombs to zealots.

THE WHITE HOUSE issued a rush order for the book the day before the senator was nominated as the Republicans' presidential candidate. Ten full-time researchers and 35 "volunteers" were hastily put on the project by the Democratic National Committee. They completed their task a week ago Sunday at 3 a.m.

Only four sets of "What Goldwater said" exist, although the Democrats eventually plan to produce 25 more from their duplicating machines. The national committee has kept the master book, which is being thoroughly cross-indexed.

The remaining three copies are in the White House. The president culls his during the evening hours, marking potential ammunition to be used against his rival in the coming election campaign. The other two sets belong to Richard Goodwin, a speechwriter, and Horace Busby, a former Texas newspaperman installed within the LBJ circle.

While Mr. Johnson's Goldwater book may perhaps be the most extensive compilation of its kind in history, there is nothing new in the idea of gathering intelligence about a White House contender through his own statements—and then using it against him.

So far as is known, the practice began in 1953, when the Democrats, peeved at Dwight D. Eisenhower's apparent invincibility before the voters, decided to keep close track of his further sayings.

THE JOB fell to a young man who, by luck, escaped a partisan purge and stayed on in the Eisenhower White House. Once overlooked in the shuffle, the leftover operative from the Truman days found a niche in a bowling alley nestled in the basement of the executive mansion, which its new golf-playing tenant never bothered about.

When, on occasion, the researcher was asked what he was doing, he replied, quite truthfully, that he was preparing a "scrapbook on the general."

He kept at this worthy chore until one day Sherman Adams, the assistant to the president, discovered for whom the volume was being prepared. The young man was promptly dispatched, taking his "scrapbook" with him to the Democratic National Committee.

While no slouches when it comes to political intelligence, the Goldwater people have yet to put together a book on Mr. Johnson.

THEY ARE AHEAD of the Democrats in one respect, however: last January, the "Goldwater for President" committee leased a machine from Eastman Kodak that automatically retrieves and copies microfilmed data on the pronouncements of their challenger.

Sometime this week, Dean Burch, the new GOP national chairman, will decide whether to spend the added money needed to program the machine for a complete intelligence network on Mr. Johnson.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Debate Is Readied On Shriver Powers

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The explosive situations in Harlem and Rochester are slated to be among the key issues in next week's House debate on President Lyndon B. Johnson's billion-dollar anti-poverty program.

Opponents are planning a series of blistering speeches spotlighting how the sweeping powers President Johnson is seeking for his "poverty czar" may be used to undermine the New York City administration by pouring vast sums of money into private Harlem civil rights groups.

HEADED BY Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen (R-N. J.), these legislators will warn that Sargent Shriver, acting director of the poverty program, plans this unprecedented use of federal funds to combat poverty in the nation's largest city if Congress votes him the authority.

In launching their attack, the Frelinghuysen group is circulating to all House members a memorandum warning that such use of federal funds could "stir up a nightmare of trouble" in New York rather than stamp out poverty.

As an example of their fears, they point out that Shriver already has intervened in this tense situation by forcing a merger of Haryou, Harlem Youth Group, and Act, a militant Negro civil rights organization, by promising them federal aid to fight poverty provided they joined forces.

Shriver's proposal by-passes the local city government, according to the legislators, and gives instead nearly 100 million dollars to Haryou-Act, the newly-merged group, which is active in pressuring Mayor Robert Wagner to curb the police department's powers.

Haryou-Act also has joined the campaign of other civil rights groups in New York in demanding the suspension of Lt. Thomas R. Gilligan, the policeman whose off-duty shooting of 15-year-old James Powell sparked the Harlem riots.

BREEDING TROUBLE — In its memorandum calling on House members to vote curbs on Shriver's unprecedented powers, the Frelinghuysen group stresses the bitter controversy going on among city and private groups for control of the proposed funds to fight poverty in New York.

Highlights of this memorandum include:

"The bill opens the way for direct federal involvement in the activities of every private organization in New York without the necessity for participation or approval of the city government.

"We have had for a period of weeks now a struggle going on in New York City between several groups for control of some 110 to 118 million dollars.

"In order to qualify for assistance, two groups, the so-called Haryou group and Act, have been ordered by Mr. Shriver, director of the program, to merge, and a power struggle has developed over who should control the new organization."

NEW OTEPKA SHOWDOWN — Otto Otepka, State Department security official, is going to get his long-delayed hearing on charges that he gave classified information to a Senate committee investigating security risks in government.

The hearing was ordered after Otepka turned down an offer from Secretary of State Dean Rusk to drop the charges if he would agree to a transfer from the State Department's security office.

In preparing his defense, Otepka plans to subpoena more than 30 high-ranking State Department and CIA officials for questioning, including those who bugged his phone.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Current Grand Jury Is Quietest Since Long-Silent Panel Of 1959

CALIFORNIA LAW charges county grand juries with a broad range of duties. Besides hearing evidence and returning indictments in criminal cases, grand juries are charged with examining the books, records and accounts of all county departments, all hospital districts and special districts, inquiring into the needs of county offices, the abolition of existing offices or creation of new ones.

Grand juries may also inquire into the affairs of cities and school districts.

With such a range to cover, obviously any grand jury must concentrate its efforts somewhere. Its members could not do a fine-tooth job on all these things if they gave full time to it for the entire year.

Because the grand jury meets in secret, how much inquiry it is making is unknown to the public unless it issues reports from time to time.

There are grand juries and grand juries. The amount of reporting (and probably, of inquiry) varies greatly from one to another.

Marin County's current grand jury has as yet issued no report of any kind, other than indictments in criminal cases.

Not since 1959 has a county grand jury kept such long silence. That year's grand jury did not come out with any special report until Oct. 19, when it absolved a Tamalpais High School District trustee of any wrongdoing in urging students to participate in the campaign for a school financing election.

Last year's grand jury, in interim reports, urged a fourth superior court, reversed the preceding year's grand jury proposal that the county personnel department be divorced from jurisdiction of the county administrator, found no cause for action in a disputed arrest procedure in Fairfax, and found a decrease in the number of unqualified claims for veterans' tax exemptions.

The 1961 grand jury (which ran over into '62) was one of the most active in many years in producing interim reports. During its term it adopted 11 resolutions and issued seven interim reports, besides issuing a 62-page final report.

On March 21, it opposed moving the county recorder to the Civic Center. A week later it blasted the majority of the board of supervisors for a January stop-work order on Civic Center construction. On June 5, it called on the county to set up a planned mental health program. On June 22, it concluded an investigation into secrecy of a City of San Anselmo accounting report, finding the city council was justified in keeping the report secret.

There was a vacation hiatus then, but the jury was issuing reports again by Sept. 28 and kept it up quite regularly until discharged the following February.

One wonders what sort of reports may be expected from the current grand jury. If everything is held for the final report, there is always a likelihood of much being overlooked for action because of too many recommendations at one time.

A FEW WEEKS ago, a reader wrote the editor to berate San Rafael police over "pursuit of a mortified 8-year-old" by "five grown men."

That wasn't quite the way it seemed to Capt. Joseph Brusatori, assistant police chief who for many years was San Rafael's juvenile officer.

"That's the toughest kid for his age I've ever seen," said Brusatori. "We couldn't get a word out of him, not even his name. We had to book him to juvenile hall as a 'John Doe'."

That was after the boy's arrest on June 29, when he tried to steal two boats on the San Rafael Canal.

He was arrested again last Wednesday, after again trying to take boats on the canal. An apartment resident called police that he was climbing onto her balcony.

Between those two arrests, he had been picked up once in San Anselmo as a runaway.

On the same day as the 9-year-old's latest arrest, Corte Madera police announced cracking a teen-aged burglary ring of three boys who admitted 11 home burglaries.

All three, said Inspector Harold N. Hocket, are from "good upper middle class families." Their excuse for turning to crime at ages 14 to 16: they "had nothing else to do."

There's something very wrong here, and the blame can't be shifted onto the cities for "failure to provide recreation." What happened to parental responsibility?

Maybe it would not be a bad idea, as advocated by San Rafael's Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa, to publicize the names of juvenile offenders—and of their parents. Perhaps fear of publicity might imbue the parents with more feeling of responsibility than some of them seem to have.

ART BUCHWALD

British Announce Agency To Help Sad Plight Of Unmarried Fathers

NEW YORK—With all the bad news going on throughout the world last week there was one ray of hope emanating from, of all places, England. A welfare council in Essex has announced that it has set up an agency to help unmarried fathers.

Mr. Roy Demery, who was appointed by the Moral Welfare Council of Essex, was quoted as saying, "Unmarried fathers must be helped, not neglected and looked down on.

"THE FACT that a girl is having his baby obviously weighs heavily on many a man, especially if he is not in the position to marry her. . . . Often he is bullied into wedding her by angry parents. This should not happen if the couple don't love each other."

We hope that the Essex experiment is a success and a similar program will soon be adopted in this country. The problem of unwed fathers has been ignored by everyone in the United States, while all the attention has been concentrated on the unwed mother.

There are an estimated 3,000 homes in the United States where an unwed mother can apply for help, but there is not one place where an unwed father can seek consolation.

We have always been concerned with the plight of the unmarried father.

Friends have come to us in the darkest hours of the night and tearfully confessed that they had fathered a baby. All we could tell them was, "Forget it."

BUT THIS, unfortunately, wasn't enough. Many of them were filled with guilt and despair. Some wanted to run away, but they had no place to run to. A few were being pursued by angry fathers and brothers with shotguns and hid out with us until the danger was over. And then there were desperate ones who had lost all reason and wound up marrying the girl. Had there been a welfare agency to help them, none of it would have happened.

Now perhaps all this will be changed. If the Essex experiment is successful, unwed fathers will have a new lease on life.

The way we see it is that, when an unwed father finds out he's going to have a baby, he goes to the agency and registers with them. A social worker will explain to him that there is no shame in being an unmarried father, and he will be introduced to other unwed fathers who are in a similar boat. In this way he'll realize he is not alone.

In time society may develop a different outlook toward unmarried fathers. But until they do we think this is the best solution to a problem that for too many years has been swept under the rug.

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, July 29, the 211th day of 1964 with 155 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Jupiter, Saturn, Mars and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1958, Queen Elizabeth the first, fearful of a Spanish invasion of England, traveled to Tilbury to spur on her troops.

In 1914, a successful conversation between New York and San Francisco heralded the building of the first American transcontinental telephone line.

In 1945, an armada of American bombers dropped 3500 tons of fire bombs on six Japanese cities following a warning broadcast.

A thought for the day—president John Adams said, "Fear is the foundation of most governments."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Two Safety Plays In Single Hands Seen In This Game

One of the most difficult hands in the recent Intercollegiate Championships required declarer to make two safety plays.

One was standard, but the other took a bit of thought.

Opening lead — ♣ J

Declarer wins the opening club lead in dummy and must win five tricks in each red suit to assure the slam. He begins by leading the ace of hearts from dummy.

SAFETY PLAY

The theory of this standard safety play is that there is no problem unless one opponent has all four hearts. There is no way to stop West from getting a heart trick if he has all four hearts, but there is a way to stop East.

When the bad break shows up, South is ready to play hearts twice through East. He leads a low heart from dummy, East puts up the ten, and South wins with the queen.

PLAY DIAMONDS

First, however, South must play the diamonds. South can guard against four diamonds on either side, but must decide which side.

West, who was void of hearts, cannot also be void of diamonds since he tamely passed. South should guard against four diamonds in the West hand.

South begins the diamonds by leading the king. He continues with the seven, and West plays the nine to force out dummy's queen. Declarer gets back to his hand by leading a heart for a second finesse through East.

LEADS EIGHT

Now South leads the eight of diamonds through West. If West plays low, his best defense, South lets the eight ride for a finesse. Then a diamond to the ace clears the suit.

Declarer gets back with a heart to lead his last diamond, discarding a spade from dummy.

A club puts dummy in to cash the last heart, and twelve tricks are in the bank.

QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:
♠ K 6
♥ K Q 9 4
♦ K 10 8 7 5
♣ Q 3

What do you say?

Answer: Pass.

This is a borderline opening bid with three flaws. For one thing it is aceless, and good players avoid opening a doubtful aceless hand. For another the doubleton queen of clubs is not worth its full count of 2 points. Third, the 4-card hearts and 5-card diamonds are awkward suits to bid. It is very close, and most players would open the hand; but most experts would pass.

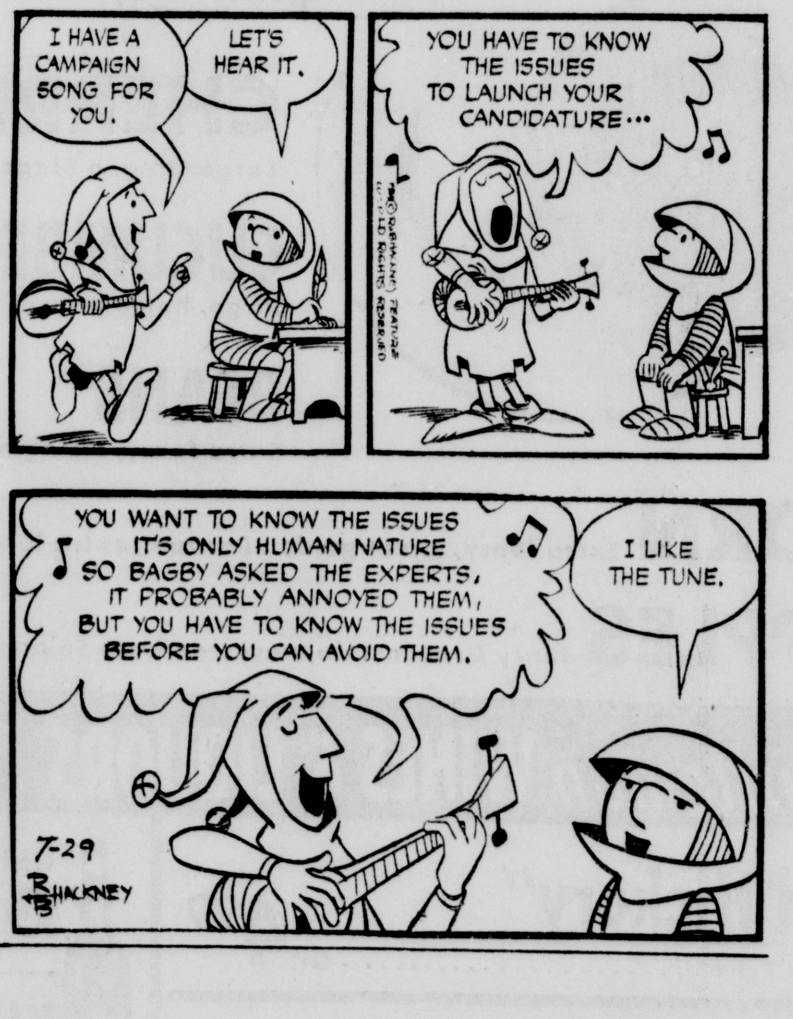
SIR BAGBY



I HAVE A CAMPAIGN SONG FOR YOU.
LET'S HEAR IT.
YOU HAVE TO KNOW THE ISSUES TO LAUNCH YOUR CANDIDATURE...
YOU WANT TO KNOW THE ISSUES IT'S ONLY HUMAN NATURE SO BAGBY ASKED THE EXPERTS, IT PROBABLY ANNOYED THEM, BUT YOU HAVE TO KNOW THE ISSUES BEFORE YOU CAN AVOID THEM.
I LIKE THE TUNE.

Unification Urged In Patchwork Of Sewer Districts

Health Department Bulletin Cites Greater Cost, Pollution Of Bays

Unification of Marin County's 22 sanitary districts into two to four large districts under one master plan for adequate and economical sewage disposal for the entire county has been urged by the sanitation division of the county health department.

"Over the past 15 years, piecemeal planning and small-scale, uncoordinated sewage operations by separate communities have proved unnecessarily expensive and at times downright inefficient in solving problems of waste treatment and discharge in Marin County," according to the department.

"Small sewage treatment plants built to serve single communities have been outgrown as populations expanded and the plants have had to be abandoned.

"Over five million dollars worth of such equipment, at a conservative estimate, has been lost through abandonment of sewage treatment facilities alone."

History of formation of six sanitary districts in the Mill Valley area, each with its own facilities to discharge waste into the nearest inland waterway, was outlined in the health department's monthly bulletin.

Even if the separate small plants had been less costly to construct and maintain than the one large facility, the practice of discharging waste material into the creeks and Richardson Bay was less desirable than the recommended outflow of waste into the Pacific Ocean, it said.

Public agencies can prevent pollution of inland and bay waters only by setting standards for the quality of water which must be maintained in the area.

The State Water Pollution Control Board and the State Department of Public Health have set standards which required the City of Mill Valley to upgrade its sewage plant by doubling its size and chlorinating its sewage wastes.

"The Housing Authority of Marin was required to cease discharging untreated sewage from the Hilarita area into Richardson Bay," the bulletin recounted.

Both the housing authority and the City of Belvedere have met the requirements of the state agencies by building new pumping stations and contracting with the Tiburon sanitary district for their maintenance.

"Numerous other sewage discharges in the county are constantly coming under the surveillance of the sanitation division of the health department and, in cooperation with the state agencies, the public's health has been protected in most cases," the newsletter continued.

The department pointed out, however, that public support and appropriation of money for an engineering study will be needed before the proposed unification of the districts can be realized.

Muir Woods Trip Permission Needed

Permission slips for youngsters taking a bus trip to Muir Woods next Tuesday, sponsored by San Rafael Recreation and Parks Department, are available at the recreation center, 37 Union Street, and at parks and playgrounds in the city.

The children, who must be at least eight years old, will leave for Muir Woods in buses at 11 a.m. from the recreation center. They will return to the center at 4 p.m.

Sewer District Cuts Tax Rates, Revamps Fees

Almonte Sanitary District directors Monday night adopted a 1964-65 budget of $16,500 and agreed to recommend that the tax rate be 30 cents per $100 assessed valuation, a drop of six cents from last year, when the budget was $22,009.

With revision of an ordinance, reported Chairman Robert A. Alexander, all commercial properties, including those along Shoreline Highway, will pay a uniform sewer service fee of 50 cents per $100 assessed valuation. This change is expected to be effective in two weeks.

In fiscal year 1963-64, Shoreline properties paid a sewer service charge of 70 cents and non-Shoreline commercial properties paid $1.50 per month, or the same as dwellings.

Moonlight Cruise To Assist Youth Center

A moonlight cruise on San Francisco Bay will be held Saturday, with participants to leave from Tiburon pier at 8:30 p.m. aboard the Harbor Queen.

Proceeds will go to the Mill Valley Community and Youth Center. Tickets are on sale, according to Larry Counts, coordinator, at Keane and Ferrari quality meats, the Men's Shop and Marin Floor Covering.

Germans Comparing Goldwater, Strauss

By JOHN DORNBERG
Worldwide Press Service

BONN (WPS) — In appearance and temperament, German Franz-Josef Strauss and American Barry Goldwater are about as dissimilar as two men can be. But German politicians are now pointing, with some trepidation, to the analogy between the rise of the right-wing Arizona senator and the comeback of West Germany's former defense minister on a wave of right-wing Bavarian Gaullism.

Troubled by the complexities of a changing world, a growing number of Germans—like many Goldwater followers — are demanding action, regardless of what kind. And in his carefully calculated political comeback campaign, the bullish, thick-necked, hard-drinking Bavarian has promised them action.

Once a wholehearted supporter of Germany's alliance with the United States and an advocate of Atlantic partnership, Strauss is today the national spokesman for a Teutonic version of de Gaullism.

Just what this means is as hard for astute German political observers to figure out as it has been for Strauss to define when pressed. His critics argue that he has no philosophy except personal ambition. Be that as it may, Strauss has succeeded, in the 18 months since being ousted from the Cabinet because of his involvement in the police raid on the Spiegel magazine, in becoming one of the most-talked-about and powerful men on the German political scene.

He has welded his own Christian Social Union (CSU), once nothing more than a somewhat ludicrous Bavarian wing of the larger Christian Democratic Union (CDU), into an influential party in its own right.

He has split the parent organization into two warring factions: one headed by the CDU chairman, former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, the other aligned behind the present Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

"The result," as one observer here pointed out recently, "is that Erhard and his Cabinet enjoy wide support in parliament — from the opposition Socialists (SPD), not their own party."

Strauss, supported by Adenauer and a number of other key CDU leaders, has succeeded in making Erhard's government so unstable that the chancellor must resort to testimonials from U.S. President Lyndon B. Johnson in German political conventions.

Erhard's critics know that he is too popular with the electorate to be dumped. Without him as its standard-bearer, the CDU/CSU stands to lose the next election. It is this fact that helps preserve the precarious balance of power in German politics today.

In the wake of Erhard's recent firm assertion of authority, a temporary lull has settled over the political battlefield. But the schism that divides Germany's ruling party is real and likely to continue at least until the 1965 election. Moreover, it is likely to paralyze Germany in foreign relations for the next year and a half.

The battle lines dividing the two factions have been drawn clearly, though the issues are in foggy perspective. On the one side are Strausss and Adenauer who count as their followers not only the Bavarian CSU but an estimated 100 backbenchers of the CDU. They are supported by all the key party leaders, including some of the very same men who engineered Strauss's ouster from the cabinet in January 1963 and Adenauer's resignation last October.

Their motivations are far from clear. In the words of one moderate CDU politician: "They want an Erhard standard bearer and government but Adenauer policies. As a result, the next government may well be formed by neither, but by the SPD (Socialists)."

Some, like Adenauer, genuinely believe that Franco-German rapproachement is threatened by Erhard's anglophile views of a "big Europe." Others, notably Adenauer and the parliamentary floor leader, 39-year-old Ranier Barzel, believe that acceding to U.S. views on the East-West detente will jeopardize chances for German reunification.

Others, such as Strauss, are Machiavellian opportunists who see in the present national frustrations a chance to realize their own political ambitions. The backbenchers who support the faction are merely riding the bandwagon they think will win.

On the other side is the moderate, north German, Atlantic-oriented faction of Erhard and Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder, supported by a minority of the party and the opposition.

Schroeder is the most intelligent and eloquent spokesman for the group and therefore its most exposed representative.

Because his pro-Anglo-American views are anathema to the francophile Bavarians and Rhinelanders of the Adenauer-Strauss faction, and because Strauss hopes to reenter the government by becoming foreign minister, Schroeder, more than Erhard, continuously emerges as the chief target of the critics.

That many of the Strauss-Adenauer views are self-contradictory and incompatible with the realities of the world today, goes without saying. But to Strauss, who can turn a political convention into a mob affair of cheering and foot stamping with earthy oratory and a few platitudes, that is unimportant.

A year ago he began to reconsolidate his power in Bavaria as a means of rising from the political abyss. Today his CSU is already a pliable tool and he is now trying to make the parent CDU the same.

A year ago, when he was first planning his comeback, Strauss was counting on Erhard's cooperation. That hope failed to materialize. Consequently Strauss has resorted to a new technique: usurping Erhard's power.

As with Goldwater on the American scene, Strauss is clearly the man to watch in Germany today. And most Germans are doing so with awed fascination.

TRACTOR GOES FOR 'CRUISE'

An offshore "cruise" on New Orleans' Lake Pontchartrain proves that British-built tractor has ability to work in swampy areas. The 8,000-pound tractor is kept afloat by its four huge tires and propelled by the paddle-wheel action of the tires deep lugs. (UPI Photo)

Tapes In Future May Help Prepare Favorite Meals

NEW YORK (UPI) — It should be a cinch for 1984's bride to cook just the way "his" mother did — if mother was obliging enough to tape all his favorites.

According to refrigeration and air conditioning experts, it is conceivable that sometime within the next 20 years the average kitchen will become a completely coordinated food processing plant operated by a countertop computer and, instead of a recipe book, the housewife will rely on punched tapes — with each tape preparing a complete meal.

The supermarket she shops in will sell nothing but frozen foods and will operate automatically, akin to "automat" restaurants. Foods will be freeze-dried close to their point of origin, at the immediate peak of ripeness for fruits and vegetables, close to the aging house for meats, and down by the sea for fish.

Last Shot Was Enough For Luke

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Luke Parsons says "I think I'm about through" collecting antique guns.

He loaded his old Kentucky long rifle as he had 100 times before and fired. The barrel ballooned into shredded strips of metal, the stock shattered and brass fittings sailed through the air. The last shot was enough.

They're Using Smaller Cars At United Nations

With garage and parking space at a premium at United Nations headquarters and the surrounding fashionable area—and with U.N. membership still growing—many delegates, faced with the prospect of abandoning their Cadillacs and walking, have turned to the small European car.

But more and more frequent is the sight of diplomats, acting as their own chauffeurs, stepping out of a Volkswagen, a Fiat 1100, a Peugeot, a Hillman or a Mercedes Benz.

Many delegations rent their Cadillacs for the duration of the assembly session, others bring theirs from Washington, where they are part of their embassies' car parks.

Showing good Irish common sense—and setting an example which is being followed by quite a few other delegations—the mission of Ireland has no official cars of any kind and only one of its members drives a small Ford for his private needs.

The story is still being told of Irish ambassador Frederick Boland who, upon having been elected president of the Assembly three years ago, told astonished U.N. aides he didn't want the official Cadillac that goes with the title.

"When I want to go somewhere I can always get a cab," he was quoted. And he still prefers it that way.

Secretary General Thant uses a 1962 Cadillac, equipped with a telephone. Its license numbers DPL — for diplomatic — 28. Its presence in front of the main entrance to the secretariat building is a signal to reporters that the "S-G" is in.

A remarkably well preserved 1949 Cadillac is usually parked right behind Thant's. It belongs to undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche and is the envy of vintage car buffs.

"That man must treat it like a pet," one of them said.

The agonies of parking, which are the lot of diplomats around the U.N., have been lightened considerably over the past year following an agreement between the world organization and New York traffic commissioner Henry Barnes. Several blocks near the U.N., and near the eastern side of Central Park where most foreign embassies are located, have been reserved for diplomatic cars parking only.

The signs are in blue and white—coincidentally the colors of the U.N. flag — and only "DPL" or "FC" (Foreign Consulate) cars are permitted there. Now it's the fellow without a DPL and FC license plate who gets a $15 ticket there—and quite often, too.

India Tuberculosis Kills Millions

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Tuberculosis in India takes a toll of 5 million lives each year, according to scientific surveys conducted by the government.

These surveys reveal that out of India's 440 million people nearly 6 million are suffering from the disease. Of this number, nearly 1.5 million are considered to be "infectious."

This Town Will Some Day Be 50 Feet Under Reservoir

HOCHATOWN, Okla. (UPI) — The roar of giant trucks and caterpillars cracks the mountain stillness where the Choctaw hunted deer and bear.

Down the Mountain Fork River, men and machines re-arrange a section of the Kiamichi Mountains and earth and rock give way to the pick ax and tractor blade. Construction crews are building the Broken Bow Dam, a 4,252-foot long, rock-fill structure that will flood 14,200 acres and swallow Hochatown like the mythical continent of Atlantis.

Most everybody has left now but a few families still linger in this tiny southeast Oklahoma town. The dam will not be finished until 1968 and some of them have children in school. Other residents work on the dam and still others stay because it is hard to leave.

Hochatown, located in McCurtain County near the Oklahoma-Arkansas-Texas border, never was much in size or population. Made up of a little people, both Indian and white, there was little protest when rumors began to spread about the dam.

No one liked it, but there was little they could do about it. Those who left took most of Hochatown with them.

Everywhere the remnants of foundations still stand, but the houses are gone — carried off board by board to be reassembled in another place.

Five Mile Hollow Creek flows into the Mountain Fork at Hochatown and homesites dot its winding banks. Stone fireplaces and the tops of open wells seem out of place in the wilderness created when the people moved.

Worthless leavings at the homesites, however, show that once people lived here in contentment. Rusting hulks of early vintage cars, worn kitchen utensils and broken toys lay scattered about.

Some buildings, like the church, school and general store still stand.

A. C. Kincaid, operator of Hochatown's general store and its postmaster for more than 40 years, said the post office served "175 families" in the town's heyday.

Kincaid took down his official "U. S. Post Office" sign for good last Dec. 29, but his store is still stocked with everything from wire cutters to Washington State apples. Outside, there is a gasoline pump, the only one for miles around.

Hochatown was settled by the Choctaw Indians in the early 1830's. The Choctaws, originally from southeastern Mississippi and southwestern Alabama, ceded their land to the U. S. in the 1811 Treaty of Dancing Rabbit Creek and migrated northwest in the famous "Trail of Tears."

In exchange for their land in the Gulf Plains, the Choctaws got most of Southeast Oklahoma. They had their own government, modeled after the U. S. system, until Oklahoma became the 46th state of the Union on Nov. 16, 1907.

Oldtimers tell you the people of Hochatown lived off the land —and bootleg liquor. the first white men cleared farms in the area about 1904, just three years before statehood. They hunted and fished and each had his "corn patch" for growing the ingredients for an Indian bread called "tomfulla." Many of the townspeople raised cotton for sale.

Between 1910 and 1922 the town had a cotton gin, telephone exchange and a mill for making barrel staves.

But the community made most of its present reputation on the manufacture of illegal booze during the depression years. Estimates say nearly three-fourths of the white population made whiskey, their stills hidden in secluded woods and mountain crags.

Only the surveyors know the real meanings of the ribbons, but to the people of Hochatown, they signal the day when the Mountain Fork will creep out of its banks and condemn the community to history.

Few will remember Hochatown in another generation. Cartographers will leave it off maps and it will be dropped from official state and county lists.

But the dead will be remembered. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will have Hochatown's cemetery moved, grave by grave, to a site away from the reservoir.

The dam's benefits: electric power, reservoir water supply and an end to devastating floods. The reservoir, which will have many bays, inlets and islands, will have a capacity of will have a capacity of 1,368,000-acre-feet of water.

In a few years, fishermen and water skiers will travel the surface of the reservoir,

ROLLING TO THE FAIR

"The General," a locomotive which figured in a famed Civil War chase, crosses Hell Gate Bridge in New York on way to the World's Fair. The refurbished engine, owned by the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, will be an exhibit.

His Performance Fails To Satisfy Some Citizens

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Traffic Inspector J. G. Bezuidenhout heard screams in one of Johannesburg's busy streets as he rode across an intersection on his motorcycle.

He turned left — the wrong way into a one-way street—and took off after a couple of Africans who had attacked a cashier, Mrs. Catherine Wait, and stolen a bankbag containing $1,680.

Bezuidenhout tore past motorists traveling towards him, swung his way past their curses and caught up with the two men. He tripped up one, grabbed the other and recovered all the money.

Bezuidenhout, feeling rather pleased with himself, headed back towards Traffic Headquarters to tell his story to his senior officers. He found that one angry woman motorist had laid a charge of reckless and dangerous driving against him.

Architect Tour Of Iberia Planned

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 16-day tour for architects departing for Portugal, Spain and Italy Sept. 29 has been planned by Alitalia Airlines.

The tour includes visits to contemporary housing developments, old castles, fortresses, palaces and villas of historic and traditional architecture, as well as visits to modern skyscrapers and sports arenas.

Credit Cards

NEW YORK (UPI) — The more than 1 million American Express credit card holders will now be able to charge Braniff International Airways tickets either on a regular payment basis or on an extended payment basis over a period of three, six, nine or 12 months, it was announced by Howard L. Clark, president of American Express credit cards on all its routes in the United States, Mexico and South America.

Population Of Rome Grows, But Old Romans Fade Away

ROME (UPI)—The population of Rome is growing rapidly but the "Romans of Rome" are fading away.

"Romans of Rome" is the proud self-description of the people of Trastevere, the old working class distirct on the right bank of the Tiber south of the Vatican. And there are fewer and fewer of them—perhaps less than 30,00 now—while the population of Rome is approaching the 2.5 million mark.

The explanation is simple: With comfortable modern buildings springing up all around the old city, the Trasteverini, practical and unromantic people, see no special reason why they should go on living in dark, damp, unheated houses a few centuries old. Especially since the old apartments can be profitably sold as office space or rentel to atmosphere - loving Americans who modernize the interiors without touching the picturesque outside walls.

As a result Trastevere, like other parts of Old Rome, is turning more and more into a show window—a place where you go to eat on a characteristic restaurant, shop or sightsee, but where you do not live.

No one really knows that the population of Trastevere—then called "Trans Tiberiam"—was in the days of Augustus or Nero, when all Rome totaled an estimated one million inhabitants. But the Trasteverini then certainly were a sizable share of the Romans and remained so through the Middle Ages, when wars and malaria whittled the population of Rome to a low of 50,000 in the sixth century. After the sack of Rome in 1527 the population fell to about 30,000.

A Papal census in 1621 showed the population back to 118,000 Romans, but of these only 11,000 were Trasteverini. When Italy took over Rome in 1870, the overall population had grown to 210,000, of whom 16,000 were Trasteverini.

At the end of 1963, Romans numbered about 2.4 million. Of these only about 30,000 were Trasteverini. This year, the population of Rome is likely to grow by another 100,000 and Trasteverini are likely to decrease further.

Probably the most illustrious living son of Trastevere is Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, the baker's son who became secretary of the Supreme Sacred Congregation of the Holy Office. Also from Trastevere is Pietro Cardinal Ciriaci, whose mother was a fruit vendor.

Oysters Good

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) —The old superstition that says oysters should only be eaten in months that have an "R" in their names is all wet, according to a recent report by the U. S. Department of Interior. Oysters are tastiest during May and June, the report said, because during those months they are full of glycogen stored up for the spawning season.

Old Steel Becomes Red Topped Fence

Take scrapped rails. Reprocessed, this steel enjoys new life in miles of red-topped fence posts which glow in the night like long rows of red-hot pokers along country roads.

Though red-top steel fence posts have been a steel company product for 40 years, says American Iron and Steel Institute, the process which now makes them glow a fiery red at night is brand new. As a result, production can't keep up with the demand, according to the manufacturer.

The light-glowing fence posts are especially popular among farmers of the Middle West, but the demand is spreading to other areas of the country, the Institute reports.

The method of applying the reflecting material which produces the red glow at night is credited to the ingenuity of three steel plant workers — an engineer, a plant foreman and a research meatllurgist working together. A patent on the process has been applied for in their behalf.

Big Gift Of Blood

BOSTON (UPI) — During the six weeks after he underwent surgery at Massachusetts General Hospital, Walter Murphy of East Sandwich, Mass., a 62-year-old hemophiliac, was given 1,025 pints of blood. It's estimated that if he were to be charged for this blood, it would cost him $25,525. The blood came from a special hemophiliac blood bank maintained by the hospital.

Burma In Need Of Farm Machinery

RANGOON, Burma (UPI) — Like many of South Asia's developing nations, Burma needs a lot more farm machinery to bring its rich soil into full cultivation.

The fertile soil of Burma's broad alluvial plains could produce enough food to make the nation one of the breadbaskets of the eastern hemisphere.

Its gentle hills and plateaus produce expensive timbers such as teak and hold untold quantities of lead, tin, rubies, sapphires and other precious stones.

About 80 per cent of Burma's 22,342,000 people are farmers and they produce about two-thirds of the nation's annual national income, about 31 billion dollars.

But only 20 million of Burma's 55 million acres of arable land is under cultivation.

The revolutionary government of Burma, headed by General Ne Win, is attempting to mechanize agriculture in a hurry to improve the lot of the peasants and exploit the nation's potential wealth.

Unofficial estimates say Burmas needs about 50,000 tractors to bring all its arable land under profitable cultivation.

The nation imported 3,000 tractors from Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union last year along with a large number of tillers purchased in Japan.

The government, on paper at least hopes to import about 2,000 tractors annually.

Select Burmese students have been sent to Czechoslovakia, Russia and Japan to learn how to repair and maintain farm equipment.

Tractor-operating courses are being given to sons of Burmese farmers on a crash basis with classes running from 5:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The students are paid the equivalent of $8 per month plus room and board during the three-month course.

When a student finishes, he goes to work in a government tractor station for $25 monthly, the lowest basic wage paid to a clerk in a government office.

Most of the tractors now in Burma are being used for priority cash crops such as ground nuts, pulses (edible seeds), jute, longstaple cotton, hemp and sugar cane.

The government hopes it can pay for imported tractors and other farm implements from profits made in exporting rice and other cash crops.

The government also is issuing harvest loans, 10 million dollars earmarked this year, and is expanding its meteorological and hydrological services with aid from the United Nations Special Fund.

BRITAIN'S WITCHES SEEKING PUBLICITY

Covens Want Respectability, Claim To Practice Only Whitest White Magic

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's witches—they still have them over here — want to improve their brand image.

The wrinkled old crone is out. The pretty girl witch is in.

The evil eye is out (well, nearly). The 1964 model witch tries to be whiter than white (as against the "black witch" of fairy tales) and if she has to stick a pin in an effigy, the pin is likely to be sterilized.

What is more, witches, both male and female, are talking about a trade union that would not only make witchcraft respectable but perhaps even profitable.

Only a few months ago witches were shy about revealing their identities because it might cost them their mundane jobs. One male witch threatened to sue if anyone published his connection with a coven (witch's circle) in suburban Watford.

But now witchcraft is suddently respectable and Britain's witches are anxious to follow the lead of the pioneers who have already explained what they are and what they do in these modern times for the benefit of nationwide television audiences.

What finally brought the witches into the open—after centuries of secrecy because of the torture and execution of hundreds of them in the 16th and 17th centuries—was the recent death of Dr. Gerald Gardner, 80, a witch who took part in the "great curse" on Adolf Hitler.

As Doctor Gardner once told it to UPI, he and all the other witches in Britain linked their "life force" to raise a "cone of power" which prevented Nazi Germany from invading Britain in World War II. He said similar cooperation by witches had wrecked the Spanish Armada in 1588 and thwarted Napoleon's plans to capture London.

Gardner was curator of "The Witches Mill" museum on the Isle of Man, off the coast of Britain — the only witches museum in the world—and when his will was probated it set the cauldron bubbling by actually naming the two witches who inherited his estate.

One of them is Mrs. Monique Wilson, high priestess of the covens of Scotland and the other is Mrs. Patricia Crowther, high priestess of the witches of the cities of Sheffield and Manchester.

Neither of these two ladies relished the publicity at first, but openly revealing their identities was part of Doctor Gardner's plan to bring witchcraft out of the furtive necessities of the age of persecution.

Mrs. Wilson said somewhat sadly that the fact she would be named as official guide to the Witches Museum had evidently been guessed by some other witches who were jealous enough to resort to evil charms and incantations.

"They cannot harm me," she said, defiantly. "I have had my warning and I am protected. Last summer they almost succeeded. I had a heart attack no medical man would explain.

"It was ill-wished and I know what, or should I say who, caused it. But using power that way means it goes back to the sender three-fold. So witches who ill-wished me will themselves be ill."

Since this warning Mrs. Wilson's health has been excellent.

Mrs. Crowther said the trouble apparently arose because some witches thought Mrs. Wilson was going to lay claim to a new title—"Queen of the Witches."

"London witches were quite upset about this title business," she said.

She went on television with a London witch, Mrs. Ray Bone, demonstrating ancient rites which include some white magic but nothing that should lead present day Britons to revive burning at the stake—the old penalty.

Another witch, Mrs. Sybil Leek, a motherly 42-year-old antique shop owner, who claims to be high priestess of the New Forest coven, estimated there were 5,000 practicing witches in Britain and she was going to organize them into "The Witchcraft Research Assn." to give witches "a better public image."

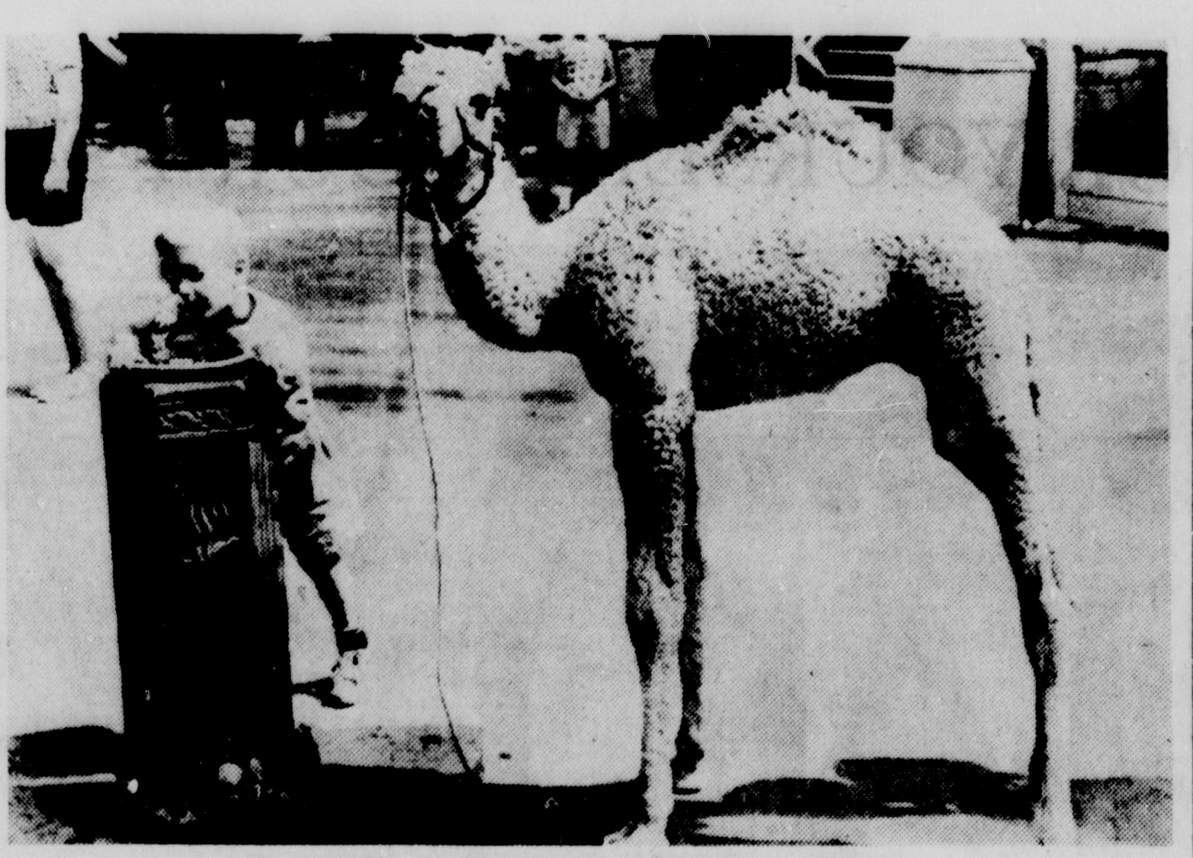
She said offices all over the country would be staffed by witches and she hoped to run bus tours of Britain for witches from other countries.

In the unprecedented discussion the British public learned there are white witches who try to promote "love and tolerance" and black witches who are not above trafficking with the devil although their number is said to be very small. They seem to spend their time desecrating churches and church-yards.

Mrs. Leek and the other respectable witches deny there is any sexual elements at all in real witchcraft. Orgies, they say, are a comparatively recent development in British witchcraft and one on which the conservative majority frowns. Although the rites of covens are secret, knowledgeable informants claim that outside the nudity and mumbo-jumbo they might be lodge meetings anywhere with sandwiches and wine or coffee winding up the night.

Mrs. Leek, who walks around with a pet jackdaw named "Hotfoot Jackson" on her shoulder, said legitimate witches do not take advantage of their powers although she knew some who could cause pain by sticking a pin into an effigy.

Supposing a journalist wrote skeptically about witches . . . ouch!



CAMELS GET THIRSTY TOO

Manila Commuters Ride Hydrofoil Bus At 35 Miles Per Hour To Jobs

MANILA (UPI)—The hydrofoil has come to the Philippines and the latest thing in commuter travel is to catch the bus that water-skis across Manila Bay.

Every 50 minutes from sunrise until after midnight the 75-seat "flying fish" glides away from its town terminal, rises five feet and swims across the bay at 35 miles an hour like a gigantic water bug.

This hydrofoil is a 56-ton passenger craft that combines the speed of a racer with the padded comfort of an airline cabin. It rides on subsurface fins which lift the flat-bottomed aluminum hull clear out of the water when it picks up speed.

Planing across the surface with a minimum of drag, the hydrofoil cuts water travel time 75 per cent below conventional voyages.

Hydrofoil commuter service was introduced in Manila by the Tourist Hotels and Travel Corp. and now ferries about 1,800 passengers a day between Manila and outlying communities around Manila's 30-mile wide bay.

Most of the traffic is on the 22 daily runs to Sangley Point Naval Base and the neighboring town of Cavite. The trip, which used to take 45 minutes to an hour by land or Navy ferry, now is made in less than 15 minutes.

THTC spokesman Jose A. Calvo, assistant executive director, says many of his regular customers leave their cars parked at the terminal so they can step into them and drive away when they get back.

The Sangley Point run costs about 30 cents. The twice-a-day run to Limay, on the Bataan Peninsula, is $1.40.

The longest and most expensive trip is a half-day jaunt to the island fortress at Corregidor at the entrance to Manila Bay, 29 miles away. For $6.25 the sightseeer gets 50 minutes on the water each way and a guided tour of the historic rock where more than 13,000 Americans and Filipinos held off the Japanese for five months after Pearl Harbor.

The Corregidor tour, which leaves after breakfast, every morning, draws capacity crowds on weekends but runs half-empty during the week.

Calvo estimates between 100 and 150 persons use the Limay service every day, and 1,600 travel daily between Manila, Sangley Point and Cavite.

The hydrofoils used here are $280,000 vessels powered by 1,350 horsepower Mercedes-Benz diesel engines. They are 68 feet long, draw nine feet of water at rest, cruise at 35 m.p.h. with a range of 200 miles, are equipped with ship-to-shore radio. One has radar for night travel.

They are operated by a captain, an engineer, four sailors and, on the tourist tour to Corregidor, a comely stewardess in uniform.

The main attractions are speed and comfort. Rates are two or three times the bus or ferryboat fare, but the hydrofoil is about four times as fast.

The safety factor is also good. Two tons of foam plastic padding lining the light hull makes the unconventional craft virtually unsinkable. If the water gets too rough (waves over five feet), the ship slows down and plows along like any other ship in the bay.

Long term plans for the water-skiing bus look to linking other island areas in Mindanao, in the far south, and Mondoro Island just south of Luzon. It's the answer to the seagoing commuter's prayer.

Canopies Still Very Popular

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Airconditioners and swimming pools notwithstanding, yawning 'neath an awning or campin' under a canopy are still popular ways to relax and cool off on a hot summer day.

New types of awnings and canopies, called Weblon, introduced by The Astrup Co. are guaranteed for four years against excessive color change, cracking, peeling and loss of strength. They're made with a new reinforced vinyl material to resist fire.

Spanish Breeders Seeking Secret Of The Bravest Bulls

MADRID (UPI)—Spain's breeders of fighting bulls have the toughest job of any stock raisers in the world because they're breeding for an animal quality that can't be weighed or measured.

They're breeding for the elusive quality of bravery — the basis of the spectacle of the bullfight.

If a bull is brave and responds throughout the fight to every challenge offered, it affords the bullfighters every facility to display their skill and art.

But if it is cowardly, refuses to charge or attacks uncertainly, braking once it reaches the fighters, even the most skillful and artistic "matador" will have trouble giving the paying customers their money's worth.

Until a bull is let into the ring for his first and last appearance, there's no way of knowing just how he's going to turn out.

The bulls are bred on big, sprawling ranches similar to beef cattle ranches in the United States, Australia or Argentina.

The calves are taken away from their dams when they're a year old and branded, earmarked and numbered with hot irons on their sides. At the same time the bull yearlings are separated from the heifers.

A year or a year and a half later the young, lean, spike horned cows face the essential test that will decide whether they will become the mothers of brave bulls or baby beef.

This test is called the "tienta," and was formerly used by bull breeders to test the bravery of both bulls and cows. Basically it consists of having the fighting animal face up to a horseman armed with a sharppointed lance, and gauging the bovine's bravery on how it reaches to the punishment.

Bulls no longer are tested this way on most ranches because breeders believe that every lance-thrust ("pic") a bull takes in this test will mean one less charge against the lance-armed "picador" that he will meet in the bullring.

So nowadays the stud bulls and cows are tested rigorously, and the breeders hope that a well-built bull from bravery-tested parents will be brave in the ring. Unfortunately, it doesn't always work that way.

There are two ways of testing the young stock in the "tienta"—in the open country or in a small bullring on the ranch.

In the testings in the open country two horsemen cut the animal from the herd and haze it away at full gallop. One of them rides up close behind the fleeing bovine and, by dexterously thrusting it in the rump with a long blunt pole, tips it over. If the animal is a fighter it gets up from this indignity boiling mad, and then the lance-armed tester rides in close on his padded horse and lets the animal charge him.

In the testings in the small ranch rings the animals are let into the arena one at a time. The lance-armed horseman waits on the other side of the ring. And if the animal is at all brave it tries to upend him.

The closely-watching breeder concentrates on how the animal reacts under the pain of the small, sharp lance tip. If it backs away as soon as it's pricked he jots it down for beef.

40-FOOT TRUCK PLUNGE

Drivers Spend Much Time Behind Wheel, Get Nowhere

CRYSTAL LAKE, Ill. (UPI) — Drivers here can cruise along for hours at 90 m.p.h., log 30,000 miles of steady driving, or drive uphill all day without stopping.

But they don't go anywhere.

All the driving is done in a room in a red brick building, part of The Pure Oil Company's research center in this small community northwest of Chicago. It's known technically as the test cell of the chassis dynamometer building. To the layman it can best be described as the "Road in a Room."

Here the oil company researchers can duplicate road or atmospheric conditions a driver might normally experience, and many that he's not likely to encounter in a lifetime. Temperatures can be raised above 100 degrees or dropped below freezing. The humidity can be pushed to a soggy 100 per cent or lowered to match Arizona desert conditions.

The "Road in a Room" offers four advantages to technicians:

1. It eliminates dependence on the weather for road tests. Technicians can make it rain for a year or conjure up a balmy spring day at a moment's notice.

2. It allows cars to be "driven" safely at speeds up to 100 m.p.h., without the delays, inconveniences, hazards and legal problems which would be encountered on the highway.

3. It allows use of more test and measuring equipment than could normally be carried in a road test vehicle.

4. It provides a low noise level, impossible to obtain outdoors and necessary when listening for audible sounds while doing fuel rating, octane requirements or uncontrolled combustion.

A large blower, mounted at the front, provides the cooling aid required to duplicate driving conditions. If necessary, it can supply a gale of 80 m.p.h. At the rear are two garage doors through which the test vehicle enters. The room can handle any vehicle from a Volkswagen to a large truck-tractor.

Once inside, the vehicle's front wheels are clamped in place. The rear wheels rest on top of two 50-inch steel drums set into the floor. The two drums, which act as a treadmill, are connected to an electric dynamometer—a device for absorbing force or power.

In one corner of the test room is a large glass window. Behind it is the console area where technicians operate the controls, and make and record their observations.

In other areas of the building, partitioned off from the test room but vital to its operation are condensers, humidifiers, a power supply, an amplidyne unit, air filters, refrigeration compressors and an air conditioner.

Sputnik In U.S. Lake Causes Some 'Splash'

NEW YORK (UPI)—The glowing fragment of a Soviet sputnik plunged into Lake Michigan early in the morning of Sept. 5, 1962. It raised quite splash.

And it raised questions that have increasingly confounded lawyers as man's activity in space has increased.

What would happen if the sizzling chunk of satellite had hit someone's home? Could he sue for damages? Would he collect?

Man's tentative tiptoes into space have created a body of space law, but as yet no practice. One of the intrigued lawyears is New Yorker Eugene Brooks, who combines an education in international law with his hobby of peering at the moon through a backyard telescope.

Brooks and other lawyers say a foundation of space law precedents isn't going to be established until some accidents occur, so only tentative principles can be advanced. Man's entry into space will not alter that old Latin rule of thumb, "ex-facto eritur jus" — law follows fact.

The United States' existing Federal Tort Claims Act provides the groundwork for a damage suit. Under that law, if a citizen of the United States were injured by a rocket launched by this country, he could sue for damage. He would have to prove negligence on the part of the government and would probably use the official investigation of the accident as the basis of his claim.

But if the government could prove that the accident occurred as a result of bad judgmen, rather than a lack of care in carrying out a decision, the suit would be dismissed. In legal terms, this is the doctrine of "discretionary function."

An example would be an accident resulting from the launching of a rocket under bad weather conditions. The accident likely would be ruled the result of bad judgment, not bad rocketry.

The law shields the government from accidents which occur outside the boundaries of the United States.

As for that falling Soviet sputnik, Brooks says it isn't likely that an American would collect if he were hurt by it.

The United States doesn't permit a Russian to collect in U.S. courts if an American satellite crashes in the Soviet Union and Brooks considers it unlikely that the Soviets would be more generous.

Recognizing that an accident could raise international tempers and tensions, the General Assembly of the United Nations adopted a declaration of legal principles, governing outer space last Dec. 13.

The U.N. declaration isn't binding, but it does advance the principle that each nation which launches an object into space and each nation from whose territory or facility an object is launched is "internationally liable" for damage done on earth, in air space or in outer space. Presumably, by including "facilities," the U.N. members had in mind rockets and boosters.

The resolution ignored a U.S. proposal that international liability be imposed without requiring the injured party to prove negligence on the part of the launching nation.

Nor does the resolution permit an injured person to sue a launching nation on his own. He must depend on the intervention of his government.

U.S. law does not cloak private companies with the same protection that the government enjoys. A careless private firm has no immunity from suit to any extent and would be liable, says Brooks, "for any amount, in any court, here or elsewhere, whether the accident happened inside or outside the United States."

But lawsuits against private firms, either those that put up satellites or those that play a role in building them, are going to create legal pandemonium.

More than 600 contractors and about 4,500 subcontractors played a role in creation of the space capsule that carried Maj. L. Gordon Cooper around the globe 22 times last year.

Determining which of the 5,100 individual companies was responsible for the flaw had something gone wrong would be quite a job.

Gritty Citizens Pave Own Street

A contractor donated enough asphalt, left from a nearby job, to pave a 30-foot strip; then sold enough material at a discount to finish the job.

The residents pitched in with rakes and a hand roller to spread the asphalt.

Old Soldier Retires Just As Son Ships Out

FORT KNOX, Ky. (AP) — It was "hello" and "goodbye" at the home of M/Sgt. Elmer J. Blackburn.

Group In Russia Sends Out Greetings

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UPI)—Greetings from Baptists in the Soviet Union were delivered to the recent annual meetings here of the Southern and American Baptists by a group of Russian Baptist leaders.

The fraternal messages were conveyed by the Rev. Michael Zhidkov, president of the All-Union Council of Evangelical Christians (Baptist).

FOLKS LET SONS FIGHT FRIENDS

Norwegian Parents May Be Aiding In Keeping Suicide Rate Down

NEW YORK (UPI)—Norwegian parents, by letting their sons fight their friends, may be helping to keep the suicide rate at one-third that of neighboring Denmark and Sweden, according to an American psychiatrist.

Dr. Herbert Hendin, an instructor at Columbia University's psychoanalytic clinic for training and research, reports on four years' investigation of suicide in the three Scandinavian countries in "Suicide In Scandinavia," published by Grune and Stratton ($4.75).

Purpose of Hendin's investigation was to study the "psychodynamics" of suicide in small, socially homogeneous countries. He had done 10 years' research into suicide in the United States and felt the Scandinavian studies would be valuable in examining the causes of suicide in this country.

Hendin said that in Sweden and Denmark the suicide rate is 22 per 100,000 population—twice as high as in the United States—while in Norway it is only 7.5 per 100,000.

"What is apparently basic to the Danish vulnerability to depression and suicide," he said, "is the unique forms of dependence seen in Denmark . . . The Danish child's dependence on his mother is encouraged far more than that of the American child . . . Such a behavior pattern will make the separation from the mother, when it does come, all the harder to bear."

This dependence on the mother, he said, often is transferred to the wife, and many Danish suicides have a history of the recent loss of mother or wife.

"Combined with this tendency, and reinforcing it, is the Danish tendency to control and suppress aggression," he said.

In Sweden, the relationship between child and mother is very different, he said:

"The tendency is to encourage a very early separation of the child from the mother . . . Early separation becomes the source of a great deal of anxiety and resentment . . . The Swedish child, especially the boy, is taught not to show too much feeling.

Many Swedish suicides, Hendin said, have a history of this anxiety, plus a later failure in business or profession. Swedish parents generally place considerable value on ambition and "performance."

In Norway, he said, child rearing usually avoids these two extreme positions.

"Norwegian children are permitted to express aggression toward other children, in striking contrast to the rules for Danish and Swedish children," said Hendin.

"It is considered legitimate and desirable for boys to fight back physically . . . In particular, parents encourage their boys to fight back in situations where the child seems to have been unfairly treated by another child.

"The ability of Norwegians to feel justifiably angry and to express their aggression openly makes it less necessary for them to internalize anger . . . retroflexion of anger was a characteristic feature of Danish and Swedish patients and was found to play an important role in the causation of suicide in both of these countries."

Cruise Set

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 13-day Caribbean cruise that resembles a five-country tour of Europe will begin Sept. 12 when the Furness liner Ocean Monarch sails from New York to five Caribbean Islands featuring the historical, cultural, archtectural and culinary highlights of Spain, Denmark, England, France and Holland. Ports of call are San Juan, St. Thomas, Barbados, Martinique and St. Maarten.

STRICTLY FOR THE BIRDS

Jake the Canary, hard-working pet of Mrs. Helga Sricchia of Sylmar, Calif., was a bit puzzled when his owner plopped a nest containing four new-hatched, abandoned mocking birds into his cage. But, even though he had always been a bachelor, Jake went right to work feeding his new charges, who have now sprouted feathers. (UPI Photo)

America's Only Stork Soon Extinct, Naturalists Worry

WASHINGTON (UPI)—America's only native stork, the skinny-legged wood ibis, is waging a touch-and-go war for survival, the National Geographic Society reports.

The spectacular bird with its five-foot wing span, was once common throughout the Southeastern and Gulf states. But the society says it has been decimated by drainage and housing projects that are destroying their southern Florida feeding areas. Their survival is further threatened, it added, by large-scale lumbering and clearing operations that encroach on their wilderness breeding sites.

Wood ibises once numbered 100,000 in Florida alone. Now, between 8,000 and 10,000 pairs make their bulky homes there, Robert Porter Allen, noted ornithologist, wrote in the society's magazine.

In the 1950s, a severe drought reduced ibis numbers to an all-time low of 8,000. "For the first time in ornithological history, wood storks in large numbers left their usual haunts and wandered across the United States as far north and west as New England and Wyoming, looking for enough water to provide food," Allen said.

The 15 rookeries used by wood ibises are in Florida, but only three—Corkscrew Swamp Sanctuary and two nesting colonies in the Everglades National Park—are protected. Survival of the stork depends on its having sufficient feeding areas and breeding sites, Allen said.

Tasting something like turkey, the 10-pound stork was often hunted in the past. A South Carolinian gave the magazine his favorite recipe in his colorful Gullah accent:

"Yuh clean 'em, pick 'em, rub salt een 'em an' out 'em, wrop 'em een a crocus sack an' bury 'em een de groun'. Dig 'em up 'bout a week fum Sunday, an' 'e better'n a Christmas turkey."

The bird's popular name, wood ibis, is a misnomer, since it is really a stork, Mycteria Americana. it has an ugly, somewhat bald head which has earned it nicknames such as ironhead, gourdhead and Spanish buzzard.

The four-foot-high bird stands on stilt-like legs, and has a long nack and bright white body plumage set off by greenish-black wing feathers and a black tail.

It eats more than a third of its weight every day in fish, water bugs, frogs and small snakes. Its heavy, nine-inch bill, feeling a minnow, snaps shut faster than the human eye blinks.

On warm days, the birds stretch their wings like fingers, soar on thermal drafts to nearly 2,500 feet, then, without moving a feather, glide to feeding ponds, 20 miles away, sometimes turning over to briefly glide upside down.

In ordinary flight, they have been timed at 35 miles per hour.

During the November-April nesting season, the storks converge on their nesting grounds to lay eggs and rear their young. The male is slightly larger and, except by size, not even scientists can tell the sexes apart. At the end of the season, the handsome birds scatter throughout the South.

Cost Cutter

Elderly Get Help On Housekeeping

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Bud Cooper, 90, a Spanish-American War veteran, worked for a railroad until he suffered four broken ribs, a broken leg and paralysis from the waist down in an accident in 1928.

He learned to walk again but is still bothered with leg cramps. His wife, an invalid for 17 years, died eight years ago and left him alone in a four-room, frame home.

On the face of it, Cooper looks like a classic candidate for an old folks home. But he lives happily in his little home, thanks to a unique Houston organization named "Sheltering Arms."

Sheltering Arms' five case workers, 16 homemakers, two clerical helpers, a home economist, a consulting psychiatrist and a part-time recreational director see to it that as many of Houston's old people as possible stay out of "institutions."

"If it weren't for Sheltering Arms, I wouldn't have been able to live by myself," Cooper said. "I don't believe in those homes. They're all right for some people but not for me."

The main thing Sheltering Arms does for Cooper is to send a home-maker out once a week to tidy up his place and cook for him. His present Sheltering Arms homemaker is Louise White.

"There hasn't been a person stay in this house overnight since my wife died eight years ago," Cooper said. "It gets mighty lonesome at times and I sure look forward to that Thursday visit by Miss White."

"Most of our older people have dreadful fears of being institutionalized," Katherine Dugger, homemaking supervisor for Sheltering Arms, said. "They don't want to leave home."

If an older person or couple is active enough to make it on their own with the help of a one-day-a-week visit from a homemaker, Sheltering Arms lets them stay at home.

The next best thing, Sheltering Arms' officials believe, is a foster home. If all else fails, than an old folks home.

Sheltering Arms also has 70 women and 22 men volunteers who visit old people. The volunteers also drive old people to visit relatives, to church, to meetings or downtown to go shopping.

Volunteers also help at a get-together every Tuesday morning at a Day Center in downtown Houston. Elderly people meet to chat, pursue their hobbies and even to dance.

Mrs. Ruby M. Myers, 66, a widow, runs a foster home for two women—one 87 and the other 72—under Sheltering Arms' direction.

"This is my home," Mrs. Myers said. "I want it to be their home, too. I want it to be a family home—it isn't an institution."

The 87-year-old woman, once an accomplished violinist, said: "We have a happy home here. We like one another and we like being alive. What more could anyone ask?"

"We enjoy life," the 72-year-old woman, once a schoolteacher, said. "Do you know any blessing greater than that?"

Sheltering Arms started in 1897 with a church-sponsored home for indigent, elderly women and no thought of trying to help old people who can afford to stay in their own homes.

Ten women still live in the home. But they are only a fraction of the old people. Sheltering Arms helps in their own homes.

Sheltering Arms sent out its first homemakers 13 years ago. Miss Brown and other homemakers find that old people know little about what goes on outside their homes.

"Often they ask about the life that is going on at a tremendous speed right past them," Miss Brown said. "I remember one old man who had never seen an escalator. He wanted me to describe to him just how it worked."

When Sheltering Arms started its home visits, it operated with one worker and 25 cases a month. There are now more than 400 cases a month and the agency operates on an $80,000 a year budget from the Houston United Fund.

There have been several marriages among the couples in their 70s and 80s who met at Sheltering Arms' socials. Sheltering Arms never discourages nor encourages romance among the people it helps.

But Sheltering Arms' workers see only an increased demand in the future for their help. Ten or 15 new cases come in every day.

Kentuckians Get Colorful License

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The latest step in safety for Kentucky motorists is a new driver's license—a pretty red, white and blue card instead of a drab photostat copy.

The Safety Department said the cards will be cheaper to produce and harder to counterfeit because of the coloring and paper stock.

State Police said they have broken up three license-counterfeiting rings in recent years.

Unlikely Celebration

GRANDE PRAIRIE, Alta. (AP) —Ten men and a dog honored the memory of Sir Alexander Mackenzie recently, 171 years after he paddled down the Peace River. Dressed in deer skins and moccasins, they paddled 180 miles along the course Mackenzie followed in 1793 to highlight a celebration that ranged throughout the Peace River areas of Alberta and British Columbia.

West Marin Union School Bid Rejected By 14 Votes

Fourteen votes in West Marin School District yesterday blocked a proposed seven-district unionization plan that would have led automatically to unification with Tomales High School District.

For proponents of unification, it was the third time their hopes had been frustrated.

The results of yesterday's election, however, will not be certain until 10 a.m. Tuesday, when absentee ballots are counted in the Marin County schools office.

The measure called for unionization of seven elementary school districts. The proposal passed handily in all districts except West Marin, where it was defeated by 276 to 262, a margin of only 14 votes. There are still 18 absentee ballots from West Marin to be counted.

West Marin was the only district where organized opposition developed and the only district where the school board was not unanimously in favor of the unionization. Trustee Gordon Plattes opposed the unionization.

Three of the districts proposed for the plan are in Marin County and four are in Sonoma County. Over-all turn-out of those eligible to vote was 55.5 per cent. The results by district were:

West Marin—262 yes, 276 no; 63 per cent voting.

American Valley—43 yes, 8 no; 67 per cent voting.

Bloomfield—64 yes, 8 no; 72 per cent voting.

Bank Charter Granted After Form Is Filled

Tiburon Firm Didn't Have To Hire Lawyer

The Tiburon National Bank, which received its federal charter early in March, 1963, obtained it without services of a lawyer either here or in Washington, its president disclosed today.

Charles Tijerina, Tiburon National Bank president, provided the information in response to questions by an Independent-Journal reporter.

Tijerina said he worked for about a year making a survey of the economic feasibility of locating a new locally owned bank in Tiburon. He then compiled an economic survey report with assistance of an outside economist.

PROVIDES BOOKLET

Then Tijerina obtained from the San Francisco office of the comptroller of the currency the necessary forms to apply for a federal bank charter. The office provided a booklet of instructions to assist in filling out the forms.

"The forms were very elementary," said Tijerina.

He filed the application in December, 1962. A little later, the comptroller of the currency's office sent a field man to survey the area.

CHARTER GRANTED

"About a month after that, I got a collect phone call from Washington saying the charter had been granted," Tijerina said.

"I didn't know anybody in Washington and didn't hire any attorney, here or there, to assist in getting the application approved," he said.

Sen. John J. Williams (R-Del.) declared on the Senate floor Monday that the Redwood National Bank, which received its charter in 1962 and opened for business the following January, paid $5,000 to a lobbyist for assistance in getting a charter, and that the lobbyist turned the money over to Bobby Baker, whose influence-peddling role has been under Senate investigation.

Roderick P. Martinelli, attorney for the Redwood bank, said the money was paid to Wayne L. Bromley as fee for legal assistance in obtaining the charter in Wasihngton. Bromley and Baker both endorsed the check.

The Associated Press reported that Bromley is not listed as an attorney in the Washington

Jones Has Emotional Reunion With Mother

Jury Told He Stole From Her

By ROSS DAVIS

A mother and her killer son embraced in an emotional courtroom reunion. The prosecution quietly dropped a "bomb" about the son robbing his own family. The wife of the codefendant mysteriously disappeared while waiting to testify.

These episodes were all part of a morning chockfull of drama today in the penalty phase of the Donald G. Corbett Jr. murder trial in Marin Superior Court.

JURY DECISION

The jury is to determine whether Robert Lee Jones, 25, and John Lee King, 28, are to die in the gas chamber or face life imprisonment. They were convicted July 21 of slaying Corbett in his Sausalito apartment.

Mrs. Carl H. Jones, 48-year-old mother of the convicted killer, entered the courtroom at 10:50 a.m. after being flown here from Baltimore, Md., Monday. Escorted by attorney David J. Costamagna, she was only feet away from her son when she suddenly bolted directly toward him at the counsel table and they embraced.

PRESSES CHEEK

The gray-haired woman, wearing spectacles and simply garbed in blue and white print dress and a double strand of pearl-like beads, clasped Jones and pressed her forehead to his cheek. Jones took her hands in his and though he remained seated, returned the embrace.

With the jury carefully watching this reunion, Judge Joseph G. Wilson reckoned it was time for a morning recess, and called one. Jones and his mother remained at the table, sitting closely, until court reconvened and she was called to testify.

Under questioning by defense attorney Thomas P. Boyd, Mrs. Jones said her son, was one of nine children, two of them dead. They lived on West Virginia farms in near-poverty until Jones was three years old, she

Hospital May Face Lawsuit On Brown Act

Dr. Asherman Files Claim For Income Lost To Delay

By PHIL FRADKIN

The possibility of a court ruling on an alleged violation of the California Government Code which provides that legislative bodies must act in public meetings was shaping up today.

The Superior Court ruling, if it goes to that point, would be the first of its kind in Marin County and one of the first court decisions in the state on a section of the Ralph A. Brown Act designed to make legislative bodies meet, discuss and announce their decisions in public.

GIVEN CLAIM

The Marin Hospital District Board last night was presented with a claim by attorney Harry Gonick for his client, Dr. Stanford W. Ascherman, for $250 a day compensatory and $250 a day punitive damages, dating from July 14 to such time as Ascherman is admitted to the staff of the hospital.

The claim alleges that the hospital district board "wrongfully and unlawfully" decided in a closed meeting to halt its public hearings on Ascherman's application for admission to the hospital's staff.

CLOSED SESSION

Ascherman also alleges that the action decided on at the June 23 closed meeting of the board, and executed at the July 14 session of the hearing, was in violation of the by-laws of the hospital.

The board last night put off taking action on the claim until it receives the advice of its insurance carriers.

Gonick said today that if the claim is denied, he will file suit in Marin Superior Court. He said

SHAKEUP JITTERS HIT GOP OFFICES

Paid Staffers Wonder How Clean Goldwater's Broom Will Sweep

By BONNIE ANGELO
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON—Nervous tension has reached epidemic proportions at Republican National Committee headquarters as all hands sweat out the verdict on who's kept and who's canned.

The biggest shake-up in many years is expected when the new chairman, Dean Burch of Arizona, names the staff that will work with him to put Barry Goldwater in the White House. One report circulating through GOP offices is that the 12 top committee jobs will be filled by the new team. In the past, veteran staff members recall, the number of key replacements rarely exceeded four or five.

Burch made it clear at the first meeting of the national committee following Goldwater's nomination that there would be a number of changes. The new look was made easier from the beginning by the fact that national Republican chairman William E. Miller was moving out of office to run with Goldwater,

TV Debate Rejected For Now

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House today turned down for the present a suggestion by Sen. Barry Goldwater for a debate with President Lyndon B. Johnson on television during the fall campaign. (see story page 2)

White House Press Secretary George E. Reedy tossed back at Goldwater several statements by the GOP presidential nominee earlier this year to the effect that Goldwater regarded it as "dangerous" for a president to subject himself to questioning debate.

When asked at a Friday news conference about the possibility of debating Goldwater, Johnson had said he could cross that bridge when he came to it.

When Goldwater's latest position was put up to the White House late yesterday, Reedy had no comment.

Today, however, the President's spokesman was more responsive.

Reedy noted a published report quoting Goldwater last Jan. 31: "I think it's kind of dangerous to subject a President of the United States to questioning and debate . . . He just might slip and say something inadvertantly that might change the course of history."

Reedy quoted Goldwater as having said on Feb. 12, "I don't think a president of the United States should debate anybody . . . He could very well disclose secrets that only he knows."

Barry Names GOP Strategy Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater today named Ohio Republican Chairman Ray Bliss and former national chairman Leonard Hall to a "steering committee" he said will map the strategy and timing of his Republican presidential campaign.

Goldwater also announced that Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, once his rival for the nomination, will serve as host of a Republican summit meeting in Hershey, Pa., next month.

At a surprise news conference with Bliss in his Senate office, Goldwater said he is heartened by the progress of his crusade for Republican unity.

Goldwater said national Chairman Dean Burch will serve as an ex-officio member of his new steering committee. He said Denison Kitchell, his campaign director, also will be a member.

Goldwater said a representa-

Congressmen Vote To Hike Social Security

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House voted overwhelmingly today to increase social security benefits by 1.5 billion dollars and to broaden the program by bringing in an additional 600,000 persons.

The election-year raise for 20 million beneficiaries was strongly supported by Democrats and Republicans. It would be financed by hiking payroll taxes paid by workers and employers.

LBJ Favors West Coast Intertie Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Lyndon B. Johnson approved today a 700-million-dollar plan to tie together the power resources of the Pacific Northwest and the Pacific Southwest.

To get the program underway, Johnson is asking Congress for 45.4 million dollars to begin work on the federal portion of the vast project.

The federal share of the 700-million-dollar cost is estimated at 300 million dollars.

The remainder of the cost will be financed by public and private utilities, including Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

The project has been under consideration since 1935.

In announcing the president's approval and request for an appropriation, press secretary George E. Reedy said it will result in the largest single power transmission program ever conceived in this country.

When completed, it will make this country the leader in power transmission technology in the world, Reedy said.

The aim is to shift power back and forth over the vast area, particularly from the Pacific Northwest which frequently has surplus power.

Reedy said it is estimated that about 20 million dollars worth of secondary hydroelectric power is being wasted in the Pacific Northwest which could be used elsewhere, particularly in California.

DEMOS CHOOSE SEN. PASTORE KEYNOTE STAR

Tapped by President Lyndon B. Johnson, Pastore, 57, was approved by arrangements committee for the convention opening Aug. 24 in Atlantic City.

The selection was believed to be in line with Johnsonian strategy of trying to nail down the industrialized East as part of the drive to thwart Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater's bid for the presidency.

Assessment Howls Swamp County Board

The Marin County Board of Supervisors, sitting as a county board of equalization, is swamped with a last-minute flood of protests on property tax assessments.

As a result, the board faces night and Saturday sessions for the next two weeks, reported Chairman William A. Gnoss today.

The board had received 388 protests, of which 119 arrived Monday, the last day for filing.

Burglar Using Van To Get Loot From Marin Homes

A bold burglar, using a moving van type truck, has been hauling away loot in broad daylight in the Corte Madera-Greenbrae area, according to police.

At least two such burglaries were reported yesterday.

In one case, at 112 Lakeside Drive, Corte Madera, neighbors saw a large silver van with dark body pull up to the home at 11:45 a.m. A man, described as in his 40's and having dark complexion, got out and walked through an open door into the home.

He emerged with golf clubs, a set of luggage, silverware and a portable radio and drove off with the loot, valued at $550.

It was not until Mrs. Joan Mallen returned at 12:45 p.m. that she found her house had been looted. Police said neighbors thought the Mallen family was moving, as there is a frequent turnover of residents in the Madera Gardens area.

Mrs. Soukka told Deputy Sheriff Dennis Shine she left the home about 9 a.m. and returned at 12:30 p.m. to find the door leading from the garage into the kitchen standing ajar.

A table radio, a $20 gold piece, a gold watch on a chain, and several silver dollars are missing from the home, Mrs. Soukka reported.

"The burglar seems to be choosy, just taking certain items," said Deputy Shine.

Uneasy Quiet In Rochester's Race Unrest

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Racially troubled Rochester, where raging mobs staged a weekend of bloody violence, edged closer to its normal peace and quiet today after a test lifting of a dusk-to-dawn curfew.

Although the city spent a relatively peaceful night, hundreds of helmeted city and state police continued to patrol Rochester's Negro sections.

A promise of swift, harsh retaliation in event of renewed racial rioting apparently kept the lid on a simmering unrest. The ban on liquor sales remained in effect at least until 5 p.m. today.

Throughout the night, police checked out a flurry of trouble calls; most of them turned out to be without cause.

Detectives, however, found three home-made gasoline bombs beneath a back porch in a Negro section. They confiscated the fire bombs, but no arrests were made.

In discussing the lifting of the curfew, first imposed last Saturday night, Mayor Frank T. Lamb described the move as a test.

Consular Aide Killed

BELO HORIZONTE, Brazil (UPI)—Rolf Heubach, a secretary of the West German Consulate, was shot and killed in his apartment here last night, authorities announced today. Police were trying to track down two youths who had been seen around the apartment.

NOMINATED SIXTH TIME

Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus helds up six fingers to signify that his state's Democrats have nominated him for an unprecedented sixth term. At yesterday's primary election he swamped three other Demo contenders. With him is his campaign manager J. L. Bland. Gov. Faubus will face Republican Winthrop Rockefeller in the fall general election.

DEMOS MANEUVER ON DIXIE ISSUES

Mississippians' Slate Uninstructed

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Soft-pedaling their opposition to President Lyndon B. Johnson, Mississippi's all-white regular Democrats have named an uninstructed delegation to the national convention.

The move came at the request of Gov. Paul B. Johnson, titular head of the party in Mississippi, at yesterday's state Democratic convention, which delayed naming presidential electors until a recess session is held Sept. 9 after next month's national convention.

Observers called the state convention action a victory for Gov. Johnson over former Gov. Ross Barnett's unpledged elector forces.

The convention action was harshly criticized by leaders of the rival Freedom Democratic party, a nearly all-Negro group which will seek the ouster of the regular Mississippi Democrats at the national convention.

Georgia Appoints Negro Delegates

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Georgia's delegation to the Democratic National Convention — including Negroes for the first time—"is made up of loyal Democrats who represent our party," says Gov. Carl Sanders.

The names of the 64 delegates and 52 of 53 alternates were announced yesterday by Sanders and Travis Stewart, executive director of the Georgia Democratic Party. Four Negroes — two delegates and two alternates —were included on the list of those who will go to the convention opening Aug. 24 in Atlantic City.

The Negro delegates are State Sen. Leroy Johnson and attorney A. T. Walden, both of Atlanta.

MEDFORD, Mass (UPI)—More than 200 Negro and white youths fought each other and police with knives, razor blades, clubs and rocks last night in a riot that started when a Negro boy asked a white girl to dance, police said.

Eight youths required hospital treatment. Two appeared to be injured seriously, officials said. Dozens of others suffered minor injuries.

The riot was broken up when 50 club-swinging police fought their way through the 1,200 youths attending a rock-and-roll dance and herded groups into nearby buses. No arrests were made.

They were unarmed except for knives, but wore their Red army battle dress.

The Russians are at a secret camp in West Germany, informed sources said, and their identities are being withheld.

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — America's Ranger 7 television spacecraft executed its most crucial space maneuver "right on the nose" today, shifting it in a direction for shooting mankind's first close-up pictures of the moon.

Scientists said the feat, called the "midcourse maneuver," swung Ranger 7 with apparent "extreme accuracy" into a new path toward its pinpoint objective on the sunlit face of the lunar body.

French Protest Viet Vandalism

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — About 20 angry French men and women gathered today at the remains of a French war monument wrecked by Vietnamese students and hurled insults at passing natives.

"Fight the live enemy of the present, the Viet Cong, and not the dead enemy of the past," one Frenchman shouted to Vietnamese standing near the remnants of the memorial in downtown Saigon.

Police dispersed the French without violence when a group of Vietnamese students arrived and a clash threatened.

Barry Eager To Debate Johnson On Televsion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater—who says he wants to face President Lyndon B. Johnson in televised campaign debates—carries his party unity drive today to GOP chieftains of the House and Senate.

Goldwater and his wife presidential running mate, Rep. William E. Miller, are to confer with the Republican congressional leadership conference on politics, legislation and plans for the campaign ahead. Dean Burch, the new Republican national chairman, also will be on hand.

The Arizona senator told more than 70 House Republicans Tuesday he wants to debate Johnson during their campaign battle for the White House.

Rep. Jack Westland of Washington relayed word of the senator's declaration at a closed-door session that lasted for more than an hour. Goldwater confirmed it.

To pave the way for debates, Westland said Goldwater wants action on legislation that would suspend equal broadcast time requirements during the presidential race. A similar measure opened the way for the 1960 debates between the late President John F. Kennedy and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Westland said the bill now is stalled between the House and Senate, which have passed different versions.

Johnson has not yet tipped his hand on the question of campaign debates, saying only that he will cross that bridge when he comes to it.

Home Buyer Finds High-Proof Surprise

GOBER, Tex. (UPI) — Homer Amlin got an unexpected bonus when he bought an old house—lock, stock and aged whiskey bottle. A pink bottle tucked in the corney of an old trunk was labeled "H. S. Barton Old Bouquet Bourbon."

So far no visitor has accepted Amlin's offer of a drink.

Written Reports Nettle Selmi

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night told City Engineer Dominic Selmi that it wants his reports in writing. Selmi was not pleased.

The matter came up when four planning items, already held up six weeks for a report on Northgate traffic, were continued another two weeks until Aug. 11 so Selmi could submit reports in writing. He was prepared to make oral reports and present maps last night, but the commission would not have it.

"Until we have something before us in writing, I don't see how we can act," Commission Chairman Fred C. Robbins Jr. said.

The study in question, done by Deleuw Cather and Co., was submitted July 2, and the city staff and traffic committee have studied the firm's figures on anticipated traffic.

Selmi said City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen, who has also served as acting city planner, told him the commission was not to delay the items any more but act last night. Andersen was not present at the meeting.

Commission Secretary Joan Castrillon said she understood that Selmi was to prepare reports in time for last night's meeting.

The planning staff has to have a copy of a report," she said.

Selmi appeared ready for a full-scale argument with Miss Castrillon, but Robbins called for order, stopping the city engineer before he could do much more than take a deep breath.

Held over were Shell Oil Co.'s request for resubdivision of two lots, a use permit and architectural approval for a gas station on Las Gallinas Avenue near Del Presidio Boulevard, and Humble Oil Co.'s request for architectural approval for a station at the northeast corner of Del Presidio and Las Gallinas Avenue.

Almost included in the delay was architectural approval on the Northgate Dental Building on Northgate Drive between Manuel Freitas Parkway and Las Gallinas Avenue. But applicant D. M. Christensen persuaded the commission to listen to a brief report from Selmi to the effect that the only enginnering recommendation was the dedication of five feet at the corner of the property to the city.

The commission approved the application on the condition that it meet all other requirements.

Selmi felt the commission was crowding him on another matter in a master plan approval and use permit asked by Charles Bell for a development on the Highway 101 frontage road between Terra Linda interchange and Professional Center Parkway.

The developer plans 84 apartment units in three separate buildings, another building with two offices, and a service station. Selmi recommended a road with 40 feet of paving as the entrance to the development.

Some commissioners, particularly Charles J. Hendricksen, had doublts about this. "All I want you to remember," he told Selmi, "is that you say you're satisfied with it."

"Now, wait a minute," Selmi countered. He declared that the commission had a perfect right to demand a second entrance if it chose.

The commission didn't and the project was approved as recommended by Selmi.

Negroes Vote To Halt Boycotts

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — A 14-month selective buying campaign against downtown Jackson merchants—during which 23 businesses closed—was over today.

The Jackson Movement, composed of civil rights groups who advocated putting an economic pinch on white merchants to win rights for Negroes, voted last night after a heated debate to end the boycott.

Several opponents said there was still no promise that the merchants would agree to hire Negroes above the "broom and mop" level.

Soviet Scientists Research On Peat

MOSCOW (UPI)—About 400 scientists at Moscow's Peat Institute are working on new ways to use the 14 million tons of peat cut from bogs and burned in Soviet powerhouses every year.

Europeans have used peat for centuries and, as a reservoir of yesterday's organic matter, peat bogs are a present-day source of energy and raw material.

American Flag Assists Anti-Litter Workers

NEW YORK (UPI)—Keep America Beautiful expects to reproduce the American flag on educational literature and advertisements more than 250 million times during 1964, estimates Allen H. Seed Jr., executive vice president.

Unruh Denies Aspirations As Governor

TOKYO (UPI)—California State Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh said here today he has no intention of running for the governorship of his state.

Unruh, who arrived in Tokyo Tuesday to attend a conference sponsored by Japan's National League of Young Liberal Democratic prefectural assemblymen, told a news conference that he supported California Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The influential California State Assembly Speaker will remain in Japan until Aug. 7. This was his second visit to Japan. He visited here last year in the course of his tour of Far Eastern countries.

Unruh said former presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger has the support of the Democratic party organization in California in his bid for a seat in the U.S. Senate.

Barry Aide Is Cautious On Birchite Assistance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Denison Kitchel, manager of Sen. Barry M. Goldwater's campaign for president, said today that John Birch Society members would not be given key jobs in the Washington nominee's campaign if their first allegiance is to Robert Welch, the group's founder.

Kitchel said if a question arose as to whether a role should be given to a Birch Society member, "We would be very careful" to see what kind of man he was. Welch has accused many leading Americans of being communist sympathizers or dupes.

In a television interview, Kitchel said that as a "general proposition" he did not expect to have members of the Birch Society working for Goldwater at the organizational level .

Kitchel also rejected the idea that Goldwater needs the so-called white backlash on the civil rights issue.

Goldwater will offer the voters "an affirmative program," Kitchel said, and "backlash" is not important in the campaign planning.

Veteran Group Gives Bike Safety Big Boost

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Veterans of Foreign Wars have distributed enough reflective tape strips for more than 5 million bicycles as part of a Lite-A-Bike program designed to promote bicycle safety.

The strips of reflective tape, visible at night from as far as 1,500 feet, are made available free to schools or civic groups participating in the VFW program.

Duplicate Names

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI) — The city recently acquired a new thoroughfare named "Joe" Street. It already had one Joe Street—the city supervisor.

Bookkeeping Loses Cash For Military

WASHINGTON (AP)—The General Accounting Office said Tuesday that bad administration of the Army's allotment system is costing the government about 2 million dollars a year in erroneous payments.

At least $340,000 of this amount is never recovered from the servicemen who get the erroneous payments, the congressional agency added.

The most common error, it reported, is the failure to make proper deductions for U.S. savings bonds, government life insurance and support of dependents on allotment requests.

The GAO said mistakes occur primarily because Army personnel and finance workers are not properly trained, do not remain on the job long enough to learn it properly, have to perform other military duties and "do not exercise the proper degree of care in their work."

Novato Chills County Hopes For Airport Aid

The Novato City Council last night sounded the death knell to Marin County supervisors' hopes for city participation in improving the county airport.

The Novato councilmen turned down the county's request that the city contribute to an airport improvement program, saying the 1964-65 budget contains no funds for such purpose.

They left the door open a crack, however, asking that chairman Charles R. Johnson of the Marin County Airport Advisory Committee present them with a summary of the benefits of the airport to Novato.

The San Rafael City Council on July 20 turned down the county's request for city funds for the project.

The supervisors asked the two cities to participate after voting June 29 to levy a tax of perhaps two cents for the next three years to raise $182,000 for airport improvements.

After the Department of Public Works submits improvement plans for the airport Aug. 19, the supervisors intend to ask the Federal Aviation Agency to match these funds under provisions of the Federal Aid Airport Program.

The initial improvements planned would include construction of a new runway, taxiway and tie-down area. Eventually, the supervisors hope to install lights at the airport and purchase the lease of flying instructor Harry O. Tollefson, who now operates it.

Bridge Leap Second Try At Death

San Francisco Deputy Coroner James Leonard said the man's wrists had been slashed and stitched by a surgeon within the last day.

He was the bridge's third death within three days — the other two including a Sebastopol woman and a 23-year-old student.

He was seen by California Highway Patrolman John H. Courter while the officer was driving south on the bridge at 4:25 p.m.

Courter saw the man gazing at the water from the east railing, according to patrol reports. He quickly made a U-turn at the toll plaza, but the man had jumped before he got there.

He was described at 60 to 65 years old, wearing light tan pants and a green shirt. He had grey hair with a crew cut. The San Francisco coroner's office said today it had no lead to his identity.

A fishing boat picked up the body floating in the water. He was the span's 268th known suicide.

he is also considering filing a writ of mandate, which would ask the court to order the hospital board to resume the hearings.

Board Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen told a reporter after the June executive session that the board had only participated in a "briefing session" with the district attorney, Harold F. Riede, on progress of the hearings. At the July hearings Kettenhofen told hearing officer John D. McDonough that the order the hearings be terminated "was an action of the board" taken at the June 23 meeting.

Gonick said the termination of the hearings was in violation of the hospital's by-laws which provide for a hearing to be given any doctor whose application for privileges has been turned down

The attorney added that evidence had been provided at the hearings showing Ascherman to be a licensed physician and certified by the American Board of Surgery. It is then up to the hospital board, despite the lack of witnesses, to prove that he was not qualified to practice at the hospital, Gonick claimed.

Riede and Kettenhofen said at the July 14 meeting that it was impossible to proceed with the hearing because attorneys for 11 witnesses sought by the hospital district would not allow their clients to testify because of the possibility of their being sued by Ascherman.

The hospital district board adjourned last night into another closed briefing session with Riede. It lasted 20 minutes and ended at 9:55 p.m.

Woman's Body Found On Beach

A woman's body, identified only as "about 45 years old" and Caucasian, was found today, washed ashore on the beach of Fort Cronkhite in Southern Marin.

Army spokesmen said the body was found at 11:45 a.m. by a military police patrol.

Asst. County Coroner William C. Bradley was investigating.

Wife's Illness Forces Policeman To Resign

Gary G. Collins quit his job as Mill Valley police officer after serving but one week to take care of his wife, who is ill and in a North Hollywood hospital.

Collins is also leaving his studies at Golden Gate Baptist Seminary at Strawberry Point, Police Chief Dan Terzich said today, and plans to find work in Southern California.

tive of Rep. William E. Miller, his vice-presidential running mate, will round out the group.

"I feel that we have a great cause and a great American running for the presidency," said Bliss, who labored to keep the Ohio delegation uncommitted during the race for the nomination.

He said Goldwater "can and will win."

Goldwater called the group a "steering and planning committee" and said it will decide on campaign strategy and on the schedule for the travels of the Republican ticket.

The senator said he and Miller will follow the committee's recommendations "to the letter."

from Sausalito, where the overall assessed valuation was raised 54.9 per cent.

The board has conducted 156 hearings, well below the halfway mark, during the past two weeks.

Gnoss said the board has asked the state board of equalization for permission to extend the hearings until Aug. 13, the day before the assessments are to be given to County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell.

The hearings, originally expected to end in July, were first extended to Aug. 10.

Gnoss said that aside from the hearings at the Civic Center, the board plans to take 25 field trips.

telephone directory but was a registered lobbyist in 1961, '62 and '63.

A New York Herald Tribune story from Washington yesterday identified Bromley as Baker's former Senate office assistant and a former member of the Quorum Club, "a Capitol Hill dining establishment to which Mr. Baker and his circle of friends belonged."

The Herald Tribune story said it was understood that James G. Saxton, comptroller of the currency, had informed Senator Williams that Bromley played no role in getting the Redwood bank charter.

A spokesman for the Senate rules committee, said the Herald Tribune, reported that "the lobbyist" had told the committee that Baker merely performed a check cashing service for him.

Hospital Trustee Undergoes Surgery

While fellow members of the Marin General Hospital District board were meeting on the first floor last night, Charles A. Rowe was recovering from chest surgery in the intensive care unit on the second floor.

Rowe, who lives at 350 Chapman Drive, Corte Madera, was admitted to the hospital yesterday. His condition was described as "fair" today. He was due to be transferred out of the intensive care unit today.

said, then moved to Baltimore.

There, she said, "Bob" (Jones) "accepted the Lord as his savior" when 10, finished junior high school, took two years of commercial art in a vocational school, and was "no problem."

He entered the Air Force when 17, she related, got his high school diploma while in the service, and was discharged after suffering torn cartilages of a knee. He worked for an electrical company and later in vacuum cleaner sales, she testified, then disappeared for 18 months.

At the close of this period, Mrs. Jones said, he wrote he was in Nevada State Prison for armed robbery. She testified he began writing regularly, however, and wanted to rehabilitate himself.

Was he a "good boy?" asked Boyd.

"Yes, he was always obedient and respectful of his father," she replied.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales had a few questions of his own in cross-examination. During the 18 months after Jones left Baltimore did he write, "stop by" or make any attempt to contact the family?

Mrs. Jones said not.

And when Jones left the family home after his return from the service, didn't he also leave behind $1,200 in debts for the family to pay? Bales asked.

In a low voice, Mrs. Jones said this was true.

"Did it upset and hurt you?"

"Yes," she said.

Bales asked if besides leaving the debts, Jones also looted the home of television set, radio, and other items which he later sold to pawn shops.

Judge Wilson sustained objections by the defense attorneys. Boyd rested his case with provision he might recall Mrs. Jones.

Peter Allen Smith, representing King, called King's wife, Anne, of San Francisco, as his second witness, but could not locate her. The olive-complexioned sun glasses-wearing woman had been in the courtroom corridor at 10 a.m., waiting to testify.

At about 10:20 a.m., she was seen by newsmen talking to Lt. Carl R. Sears and Deputy Martin J. Conlin of the Marin County sheriff's office, security guards for the trial. Seconds later, she disappeared.

Both officers said they had no knowledge of where she went or why. Smith—was also perplexed about her whereabouts. He expressed hope she would be on the stand at 2 p.m. when court resumed.

A sparrow named "Clyde" also got into testimony today when Ellis Seibert, chief deputy for the sheriff's office, was asked by Smith if King had shown a quality of kindness while awaiting trial.

Seibert said the crippled bird has been adopted by King and is being fed and kept in King's cell.

Judge Wilson told the jury testimony may end today and closing arguments by prosecution and defense should occur tomorrow. He said the case may go to deliberation late tomorrow.

In testimony yesterday afternoon, Dr. Thomas Lowry, Kentfield psychiatrist and part-time staff member at San Quentin Prison, said a test he gave Jones disclosed the defendant has fewer long-term goals than most people, makes hasty decisions, and that his personality and physical maturity is "considerably" lower than his calendar age.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales asked if this is a psychopathic symptom, and the doctor agreed it is a "textbook" symptom. He said it is a definite indication of the "sociopath."

Asked by Bales if this means Jones is a person who "wants what he wants when he wants it?," Dr. Lowry said it did.

A chart of a personality and maturity test, presented in court by Dr. Lowry, disclosed Jones rated normally to all areas except forethought.

The doctor, a witness for attorney Thomas P. Boyd who represents Jones, said this does not mean Jones cannot eventually learn from experience.

He said Jones stayed out of trouble until he was about 22. "This is a good sign" for rehabilitation possibilities in prison, he reported.

He said Jones came from a large, poor family, but was responsible in his family duties during life in Baltimore, Md., and performed much Southern Baptist youth organization work.

Asked by Bales if Jones showed remorse over his crimes, the doctor said "it was of a very moderate degree."

VOTE

Bodega Bay—66 yes, 4 no; 25 per cent voting.

Watson—16 yes, none no; 73 per cent voting.

Point Reyes—14 yes, none no; 54 per cent voting.

Tomales—215 yes, 18 no; 56 per cent voting.

In the over-all vote throughout the seven districts, 690 voted for unionization and only 304 voted against it. But the over-all figure has no bearing since approval in each of the districts is necessary by law.

Opponents formed the West Marin Taxpayers Opposed to Untimely Unionization, headed by Shirley Morgan of Inverness.

The group charged that unionization would only lower the standards of education in West Marin.

Proponents, headed by James Marshall of Tomales, said resulting unification was needed as a logical step in improvement of Tomales High School.

Unification of the districts was twice turned down by the State Board of Education, after being endorsed by the Marin County Committee on School District Organization. Yesterday's proposal carried no such endorsement.

It was the second defeat of a unification effort in Marin County this year. On June 2, voters in the Tamalpais Union High School District rejected unification.

SHAKY

and assistant chairman Elly Peterson was resigning to run for the Senate from her home state of Michigan. Another opening came when the committee's second-in-command, William Warner, resigned as executive director to work with Miller in the vice presidential segment of the campaign.

But from there on down everybody in the 130-person operation, from high-level policy planners to typists, has been waiting for the other shoe to drop. The uncertainty and anxiety permeating the mid-town headquarters is enough to call for a tranquilizer concession beside the coffee machine.

The realities of politics are thoroughly understood by these professionals, all of whom maintained strict neutrality up to the convention. However, in the past the Republican National Committee has offered singular stability considering the risky nature of the work. Its staff includes men and women who have weathered all kinds of new faces and new policies arising out of nominating conventions—some of them dating back to Alf Landon's day. Even they are experiencing an unaccustomed panic.

The long delay between announcing the coming changes and telling the principals themselves has led to a confusion in the work which normally would be going on at increased tempo. Staffers don't know whether they should be working on organization plans or filling out job applications.

The usually very active women's division work has come to a complete standstill in the absence of an assistant chairman —there's nobody to sign any letters that might be written, and the workers are not sure what the new women's director would want since she is no more than a rumor.

Despite their personal anguish, the pros at Republican headquarters applaud Goldwater's decision to conduct his campaign altogether through the national committee.

Without exception, they found former Vice President Richard M. Nixon's strategy of operating his 1960 presidential campaign from a separate headquarters, by-passing the GOP committee, an inefficient and wasteful operation, leading to unnecessary conflicts and friction.

They heartily approve returning the campaign to the committee—and hope they will be on hand to help run it.

Youngster Found Buried In Ditch

CAMARILLO (AP)—The body of a boy about 12 or 14 years old was discovered today buried in an irrigation ditch on a ranch near here.

Coroner Pat Sullivan said the boy had been dead about 30 hours. He described the victim as white, brown-haired and wearing jeans, T-shirt and tennis shoes with multi-colored socks.

Sullivan said the body bore no marks of violence and he was conducting an autopsy.

Architectural Review Board Gains Favor

The Marin County Board of Supervisors indicated yesterday that it would favor creation of a county architectural review committee.

It has been proposed that architectural review, now handled by the county planning commission, be handled by the county zoning administrator.

Supervisor Peter H. Behr said he felt the zoning administrator, now being recruited, should not be saddled with that job. Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker said he would prefer "cumulative judgment" rather than that of one person.

Planning Director B. D. Dobbs said he felt architectural review has not worked under the planning commission because commissioners have been reluctant to invoke their power, mainly because they feel architecture is a matter of individual taste. He urged it be given to the zoning administrator. If that doesn't work out, an architectural review committee could be formed, he suggested.

County planning commissioners last week suggested that they retain architectural supervision until the new zoning administrator breaks in on his job, and then gradually he could take over all or part of the work.

The League of Women Voters and the Marin Council of Civic Affairs have urged that the planning commission retain the job.

The planning commission will have a hearing Monday at 9 a.m. on the zoning administrator's duties.

In other planning matters, the board of supervisors:

1. Set for Aug. 19 at 8 p.m. a public hearing on proposed revisions in the Lucas Valley Master Plan, permitting Eichler Homes to reshuffle commercial, townhouse and single-family residential areas, south and west of Miller Creek Avenue.
2. Set for Aug. 18 a public hearing on its resolution of intention to set width lines for a 100-foot right-of-way along North San Pedro Road from the Civic Center to Sunny Oaks Drive, for realignment and widening.
3. Approved a tentative map of Ocean Unit Two, a 104-lot subdivision at Dillon Beach, covering 33.5 acres, planned by James B. Keegan and Henry F. Trione.
4. Granted Robert Forbush a permit to operate a nursery school at 138 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia, on condition that he provide bus transportation and a loading zone.
5. Approved a lot split sought by Eugene Latapie at 55 Bret Harte Road, near San Rafael, and a lot split at Melrose and LaVerne avenues, Homestead Valley, sought by Semiana Sellmer.
6. Denied Juan Jordan a lot split at 803 Spring Drive, Tamalpais Valley.
7. Granted Bennic Ratto approval for apartments at 20 South Knoll Road, Alto, with condition that there be 2,500 square feet per unit. The planning commission had recommended denial.

Council Protects Itself On Signs

Novato city councilmen leafed to page 22 of a proposed encroachment ordinance last night to find a phrase to which they objected.

Section 28 on that page listed signs prohibited from the public rights of way—among them, "signs promoting political campaigns."

"I object," said Councilman William Jack Adams, who made considerable use of roadside poles in his campaign for city council.

"I do, too. I've used them for four years," said Mayor Robert D. Carrow.

Other council members, doubtless thinking of their own campaigns, agreed.

Hungry Horse Causes Mishap

A Tiburon horse bit the hand that fed him yesterday.

The horse went unfed for awhile.

Sanitary Board Rules New Sewer Necessary

Eichler Homes will have to build a new sewer line to a pumping station of the Richardson Bay Sanitary District before beginning development of Strawberry Point.

Directors of the district last night decided that the company should construct the line to the Salt Works pumping station, rather than install temporary lines until the area becomes more heavily populated.

Novato's Council Foiled On Tract

The Novato City Council last night found itself legally unable to stop a subdivision which had been protested, but took steps to eliminate such a situation in the future.

Over the protests of the Marin Golf and Country Club Homeowners Assn. members, the council approved the tentative map of Marin Golf and Country Club Heights with three variances from the city's zoning ordinance.

"I want an ordinance so that people can appeal every decision of a subordinate commission," said Councilman William Jack Adams. Other council members concurred and ordered such an ordinance prepared.

The protesting residents of Golf and Country Club Estates sought to block use of steep Eagle Drive as main thoroughfare to the 83-lot subdivision on 44 acres above their homes.

The planning commission approved the tentative map of the subdivision in June, granting three variances: that two lots have less than 40 feet frontage, that two lots have less than right angles to the street, and that two grades exceed the maximum of 15 per cent.

Last week, the council asked the staff to see if there was any legal way it could block the subdivision after its approval by the planning commission.

City Atty. Clark M. Palmer Jr. said last night that under the Novato ordinance, the planning commission's approval was final. The council then upheld the commission's action.

The council by 4-1 vote granted Shell Oil Co. permits for two signs on stations at Olive Avenue and Highway 101 and at South Novato Boulevard. Councilman J. Wayne Womack dissented because he did not go along with planning commission ruling that the signs must not rotate.

Womack objected also to a proposal in a new sign ordinance banning red from illuminated signs. However, he joined in unanimous vote for introduction of the ordinance, which gives the planning commission control over signs but provides for appeal to the city council.

The Novato City Council also:

1. Accepted for review proposed tree ordinance, grading ordinance, and encroachment ordinance.

2. Heard from Lawrence A. Coleman, director of public works, that drainage from the new P. J. Tarrant apartments would be carried underground on Fourth Street to either Vallejo or Olive Avenue.

3. Authorized Mayor Robert D. Carrow to register a formal complaint with the State Public Utilities Commission on telephone rates of Western California Telephone Co. The council voted at its last meeting to ask the PUC to investigate the company's rates because Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. had been ordered to lower its rates. The PUC answered that it needed a formal complaint before it could do this. Both phone companies serve Novato.

4. Authorized City Administrator J. Julien Baget to write the San Jose and Novato Unified School Districts that it is interested in a program of developing school playgrounds as city parks.

5. Authorized Baget to interview applicants for the positions of building inspector and finance officer and report his choice to the council for ratification.

6. Adjourned to a budget session at 8 p.m. next Tuesday, and set noon Aug. 7 as the time to accept the Ignacio-Loma Verde annexation petition.

Blasted Cruiser Owner Puzzle Is Straightened Out

The mystery of the unidentified cabin cruiser which exploded and burned in Richardson Bay Monday evening was caused by a mixup in yacht harbor berths, it was learned today.

The 40-foot cruiser is owned by Robert S. Conrich of San Francisco, and its name is the Southern Cross. It was insured for $8,000.

Harbor owner George Kappas couldn't identify it at time of the explosion, he said, because he did not know the craft was berthed in his harbor. He said today Conrich had rented space from him "four or five months ago" but had returned recently without telling him.

Cause of the explosion remained unknown today. Coast Guard authorities said a small possibility of arson exists. Conrich said he thought the cause was a gas or butane leak.

The burning craft was towed into Richardson Bay by Dean M. Jennings of Gate Five Road, Sausalito. It was leveled to the waterline by the fire.

Ink Favored For Many Off Uses

FORT MADISON, Ia. (UPI) — Some strange uses for fountain pen ink come to light in mail reaching research chemists here. Housewives praise blue ink as a laundry blueing and as a dye for furniture fabrics, blouses and hats. A Midwest mortician says red ink makes an excellent cosmetic. Any color writing fluid is helpful in treating burns and poison ivy irritation because of the tannic acid content, others report. But the pen company continues to recommend its product for writing only.

$600,000 Structure Approved By Planners

Architect Richard Marshall presented the plans to the San Rafael Planning Commission, which gave its approval last night. The building will have parking space for 36 cars underneath and an entrance well set back from the corner to provide a landscaped court.

Marshall said developers Leonard Davis and Frank W. Costanzo of San Rafael had expected the building to be occupied by the Bank of California, but the bank decided against it two weeks ago.

The commission action included granting a use permit and architectural approval.

The commission also approved a tentative map submitted by engineer Daniel P. Coleman for Peacock Gap Unit 5 subdivision. It will have 172 residential lots with a minimum lot size of 80-by- 125 feet. The tract will be west of the Peacock Gap golf course.

Commissioners let Lee F. Demeder, representing Cascade Sign Co. of San Francisco, know that the city was not pleased with the fact that the company erected a 4-by-24-foot sign for Direct Appliance Furniture at 70 Woodland Avenue, without first getting a permit. Demeder apologized. The commissioners reminded him he would have to pay a fine under provisions of the building code.

Commissioners Walter J. Coyne and Thomase R. O'Toole were absent.

The San Rafael Planning Commission also:

1. Denied a request for a change from duplex to apartment zoning on a 125-foot square parcel on the west side of Clark Street between Ross Street and Clorinda Avenue. Owner George Thomas made the request.

2. Approved rezoning of Twelveoak Hill subdivision units one and two on Las Gallinas Avenue south of Lucas Valley Road from unclassified to single family residential. The commission also held first hearing on a similar change for Twelveoak Hill unit three.

3. Granted architectural approval for alteration of the entry of a building at 700 A Street asked by American French Laundry. The building will be new quarters for the business.

4. Denied permission to eliminate a block screening wall from plans for a service garage and office by Edward Santa at 25 Vivian Way.

6. Set hearing Aug. 11 on Mrs. Ethel Michaels' application for rezoning from single family residential to duplex at 202 Miramar Avenue.

7. Gave architectural approval to Shell Oil Co. for a service station at Second and Minnie streets.

8. Authorized Chairman Fred C. Robbins Jr. to write a letter of appreciation to retiring Commissioner Orlando Conti.

9. Granted architectural approval to Robert Miller for an 18-unit apartment addition on the nort side of Prospect Avenue near Lincoln Avenue.

'DIVINE ATTITUDE' ON CARS FLAYED

Park Spokesman Attacks State Highway Board On 101 Routing

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A primeval beach and nearby redwood trees which were living before Christ has touched off an unprecedented rebellion among state park officials against California powerful freeway builders.

Tossing protocol aside, members of the State Park Commission and other state officials have publicly criticized the California Highway Commission and demanded a limit on its power to condemn park land for freeways.

"We have almost established in modern life a divine attitude toward the automobile," said Charles A. DeTurk, director of the State Department of Parks and Recreation.

He says Prarie Creek Redwoods State Park, on the northern California coast, is threatened by a proposal by highway engineers to build a freeway through it.

It appears likely that the 1965 Legislature will be asked to settle the fight.

The battleground is along a narrow, two-lane road through the redwood forests. Officially known as U. S. 101, it's famed throughout the world as the redwood highway.

The highway is also the lifeline of California's north coastal area. Every day, it's jammed with big trucks carrying newly cut timber to big cities and bringing food, clothing and other supplies to small communities here.

The State Park Commission, admitting the need for widening the road here, oppose two of three alternates being considered by the Division of Highways.

One would follow the present 101, and would mean destruction of some of the park's most popular redwood groves. Another would slice across Gold Bluff Beach and, park officials say, ruin one of the nation's last undeveloped beaches and destroy a memorial redwood grove.

Park men back a third alternative, on a rugged ridge seven miles east of the beach. It, too, would mean the loss of redwoods, but the park commission contends the beach, soon to be acquired by the state, should be left unspoiled.

Local interests, saying the ridge route is 6 million dollars more expensive, favor the beach freeway.

The State Highway Commission, making further studies at the request of Gov. Edmund G. Brown, hasn't decided on a route. But Sam Helwer, the division of highways district engineer here, has indicated he favors a beach freeway.

Court Battle Set Over Naming Of GOP Committee

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — A move to halt further proceedings under AB 96, the assembly bill which permits Republican nominees for office to appoint eight instead of three members to the Republican Central Committee, was started today.

Richard M. Frisk, Berkeley attorney, filed [illegible] for an order to show cause why Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan should not be permanently enjoined from carrying out provisions of the measure.

The measure was adopted by the legislature in a move to halt conservative Republican party members from gaining control of the party's internal machinery in California.

Frisk, a GOP convention delegate and entitled to three appointsments to the central committee, said the measure is unconstitutional, capricious and a violation of the 14th amendment of the federal constitution.

City Planners Agree To Freeze Tidelands Area

San Rafael planning commissioners last night let it be known they will comply with the city council's request to grant no more permits in the east tidelands area of the city until adequate sewer, water and drainage is available.

Councilmen Monday night recalled that they ordered a hold-up of development five years ago on the quarter-mile stretch of tideland near Marin Rod and Gun Club east of the road to the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge.

Nevertheless, development has been allowed.

Commissioners last night also let it be known that they were not exactly pleased with City Engineer Dominic Selmi's explanation to the council that the commission had granted some development because it "felt sorry" for applicants.

Selmi told the commission that what he said was "maybe felt sorry." The "maybe" was left out of his explanation as quoted in the Independent-Journal yesterday, he claimed.

First matter to come up on the subject was an application for subdivision of five acres by Marin Canalways and Development Co., represented by attorney Samuel W. Gardiner, an associate in the company. He said buyers of the land will agree to continue to hold off development until an over-all plan on drainage and water and other facilities can be developed.

Gardiner submitted a long legal agreement on the restriction, which he said had not been thoroughly reviewed by the city attorney. Commissioners approved the subdivision on the condition that the city attorney approves the legal restrictions and the form in which they were presented by Gardiner.

On another matter, the commission was more obdurate. It denied a use permit asked by Lee Ceccotti, who wanted to build bulk storage facilities for petroleum products on East Francisco Boulevard.

"We've been sympathetic with people in the past, and all it's got us is criticism," Commismissioner Charles J. Hendrickson said.

Commissioners told the applicant he could appeal the matter to the city council.

Language Study Hunt Stepped Up

SACRAMENTO (CNS) —Special provisions to augment the supply of foreign language teachers in California schools have been announced by Dr. Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction.

Fall foreign language examinations are slated at Fresno State College Aug. 14, and at San Diego, San Fernando and San Diego state colleges Aug. 21.

The examinations will cover skills in all forms of French, German or Spanish. Success in passing along with courses constitute minimum requirements for a special credential.

Marin General Hospital's Medical Staff Chief Resigns

Dr. Dallas L. Wagner, chief of staff at Marin General Hospital, last night submitted his resignation to the hospital district board.

The board accepted the resignation with regret and directed that he be presented with a scroll.

Wagner, who has been chief of staff at the hospital for three years, stated in a letter that "this request is prompted by the demand of my private practice, which has not always received the attention it needed when hospital duties pressed."

Wagner said he would continue serving until the board approved the recommendation of the hospital's medical staff for a replacement.

The Marin General Hospital District board also:

1. Approved a resolution proposed by Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhoffen that the hospital seek enactment by the state legislature of legislation which would allow hospital districts to enlarge their boards from five to seven members. (The Marin board has been operating for two months with only four members.)

2. Stated approval of location of a county park between Corte Madera Creek and the extension of Wolfe Grade and asked that the county leave an area which could be used by the hospital for parking when it widens Bon Air Road.

3. Approved the annual appointments of medical staff members, with the total number of staff members being 284.

Campaign Expensive

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Gov. William W. Scranton's drive for the Republican presidential nomination cost $750,000, of which $300,000 was spent for radio and television, Frank C. P. McGlinn, treasurer of the National Finance Committee said today.

I-J Carrier Hurt, But Delivers

Mark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie C. Jonas of 330 Edgewood Avenue, was making deliveries on his bicycle at 4 p.m. when he hit a bump going down a steep hill.

Thrown from his bike, he hit the pavement chin first. It took eight stitches to close the deep cut.

Returning home from the doctor's office, the boy's parents told him they would make other arrangements if he was unable to deliver the rest of his papers.

To their pride, the game youngster insisted on picking up where he left off. He returned and finished the route.

Motorcycle Patrolman Shows Improvement

California Highway Patrol Officer Charles O. Woodworth of Glen Ellen, former Mill Valley resident, was in "slightly improved" condition today at Sonoma Valley Hospital where he was admitted Monday after his motorcycle was struck by a car between Boyes Springs and Kenwood.

He suffered extensive injury to his left leg. There was still a chance today that it would have to be amputated. A hospital spokesman said it was too early to tell.

Tire, Wheel Gone

BOARD CAUTIOUS IN VIDEO FIELD

Supervisors Are Not Ready To Approve Exclusive Franchise For TV Cables

Marin County supervisors, caught in a tangle of television cable requests yesterday, decided to proceed cautiously in the TV field.

Supervisors said they didn't want to grant an exclusive franchise, but are willing to grant encroachment permits to firms to install cables.

The hitch came because supervisors felt that by granting an encroachment permit, they might in effect be granting what is tantamount to a franchise.

Under discussion was a request by Television Communications Inc. for an encroachment permit to place television cable on utility poles in Terra Linda, Marinwood and Santa Venetia.

Supervisors previously issued a similar permit to Clear View Cable Systems Inc. and have been operating under a policy of issuing encroachment permits to any firm that applies and meets the conditions of the permit.

"We're not in the business of deciding which company comes in and does business," said Supervisor William D. Fusselman.

Supervisors then wondered how a firm would be chosen to provide the cable service if they did not make a selection.

They felt possibly the final choice might lie with Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., which grants the rights to the use of utility poles for the cables.

Supervisors said they wanted to know what acceptance or rejection of Television Communications' application would mean in the long run.

They continued the discussion until 11 a.m. next Tuesday and said they would invite representatives of the telephone company, and Pacific Gas and Electric Co. to the meeting.

The board also delayed action until next week on a request by Bill's Radio and Television of San Francisco for permission to install a community TV antenna system in the Sleepy Hollow area.

The Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

1. Approved consolidation of the special election on the annexation of Ignacio-Loma Verde to Novato with the November general election.

2. Requested the planning commission and the Department of Public Works to compile standards and specifications for a proposed county ordinance regulating filling of San Francisco Bay.

3. Set a 25 mile-an-hour speed limit on the portion of Butterfield Road, north of the San Anselmo city limits, and on the portion of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard extending from Oak Manor westerly to the Fairfax city limits.

4. Authorized special payroll deductions of $1 a month for members of the Marin County Deputy Sheriff's Assn. for their monthly dues.

5. Granted Alfred E. Fowler, assistant service officer, in the Veterans' Service Office, sick leave without pay after his accumulated sick leave and vacation time ends July 29, and authorized the hiring of W. P. Duhamel to fill the vacancy under contract at the rate of $580 per month.

6. Approved the appointment of Richard Bergmann as appraiser II, effective Aug. 1, at $634 a month; Henry F. Strohmeyer as radio technician operator, effective Aug. 1 at $531 a month; Miriam Michaelson as social worker III, effective today, at $531 a month; Linda Miller as social worker II, effective July 27, at $445 a month; and Charles E. Bemero as maintenance man II, effective July 17, at $445 a month.

7. Approved the promotion of Jean Krysiak to principal account clerk, Dayle Parraga to cashier III and Louise Dieckmann to cashier II, all in the treasury-tax collector office.

8. Received notice that the Regional Water Pollution Control Board will consider a tentative resolution on Sept. 17 prohibiting the discharge of sewage into Richardson Bay along the Sausalito waterfront.

9. Received a letter from Bert Balmer, city manager of Mill Valley, recommending that the county and not flood control district 3 purchase lands to be affected by the establishing of bulkhead lines in Richardson Bay. Supervisors withheld comment and filed Balmer's letter for the hearing on Richardson Bay Aug. 12 at 8 p.m.

10. Approved plans and specifications for construction of a drainage system at Adrian and Hawthorn Ways, Santa Venetia, a joint project between the county and Flood Control Zone 7, and set Aug. 11 for receiving bids.

11. Approved the expenditure of $400 for four fans for the district attorney's office.

12. Approved the use of the supervisors chambers by the California Bar Assn. Oct. 13, and use of the civic center lunchroom by the Marin Mental Health Assn. Sept. 25.

Bay Fill Permit Gets Fire From Rod, Gun Women

An Army permit to dredge and fill San Pablo Bay at Point San Pedro, issued to Port of Santa Clara County Inc., has raised objection from at least one conservation-minded Marin group.

"We just don't want the bay disturbed," said Mrs. Estelle Peterson, of Larkspur, president of the Marin Rod and Gun Club Auxiliary. "They are going to keep filling up the bay until eventually it just becomes a stream."

The women's group has sent eight postcards to the Army Engineer district office in San Francisco.

One other objection to the proposed permit was entered by the State Lands Commission concerning a property dispute Port of Santa Clara County Inc. over ownership of lands adjacent to the project.

Highway Crowding Worse For Future

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — The nation's streets and highways will be carrying 40 per cent more vehicles in 1975 than they are today, projections indicate.

Auto registrations in the United States are expected to rise from 1963's total of 68.5 million to 97.5 million by the mid-1970's; truck registrations may go from 13.6 million to 18.5 million over the same period.

There are approximately 26,000 policemen in New York City. The department has 1,500 radio patrol cars, five helicopters, 12 launches and a cavalry of 250 horses and men.

Sunglasses Aren't Good For Night Use

NEW YORK (UPI) — People who wear sunglasses for night driving are ignoring safety, an automobile leasing expert warns.

Contrary to a popular belief, drivers who wear sunglasses during the day and leave them on after darkness falls are risking an accident, says George A. Culp. Sunglasses do reduce the glare of headlights, but at the same time they seriously impair the driver's vision, he said.

China, with about one-fourth of the world's population, occupies a territory in the eastern part of Asia about one-third larger than continental United States.

Astronaut May Venture Outside

HOUSTON (AP) — One of the crewmen on the second Gemini space mission may become the first astronaut to step outside the spacecraft while in flight, the crewmen said today.

This experiment for the mission scheduled early next year was announced as primary and backup crews held a news conference.

Movement outside the space vehicle was pinpointed as probably the most critical phase of the mission.

STOWAWAY EXPENSIVE BUT FORGIVEN

Mother, Mrs. William Rifenburgh of Port Chester, N.Y., gives 15-year-old son Daniel a loving pinch on the chin, as he disembarked yesterday from the Queen Elizabeth. Hospital To Contract For Efficiency Study

A costly drive for more efficiency at Marin General Hospital was launched by the hospital district board last night.

The board approved hiring the Booz, Allen Methods Improvement Service to do a six-month study of the hospital's operation which will cost between $12,000 and $14,000

To supplement the report and make sure that things keep operating efficiently at the hospital, the board decided to hire an industrial engineer at a salary of between $700 and $850 per month.

A list of priorities was set up. First to be hired will be a full-time librarian for the medical library, then a psychiatric medical social worker, the industrial engineer, and the services of the firm.

Availability of funds will determine the timetable of the hirings.

Mill Valley Planners Veto Pair Of Lot Split Requests

Mill Valley planning commissioners last night recommended that Ted Gibson's request to make two lots of a 6,620-square foot parcel be denied, as it would create a substandard lot.

Gibson, whose land is at 328 Miller Avenue and reaches from Miller to Ethel Avenue, asked to divide his lot into an upper lot for duplex use and a lower lot to be commercial.

The Mill Valley Planning Commission also:

1. Rejected a request from Manuel Gomez to subdivide a 76,760-square foot parcel into four lots on Gomez Way, saying it was not good planning.
2. Heard an interim report on the East Mill Valley General plan from planning consultant John D. Erickson, and decided to hold a workshop session late in August to consider several design alternatives.
3. Set for Aug. 25 discussion of a zoning ordinance amendment regarding the parking ordinance and the same date for rezoning Redwood Camp, part 2, off Cypress Avenue, from unclassified to a permanent zoning.
4. Decided to hear revision of the plan review ordinance making unclassified districts subject to plan review on Aug. 11.

State May Regulate Auto Mileage Meters

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The state department of agriculture today moved to put taximeters and odometers on rental cars under government supervision for the first time.

William A. Kerlin, chief of the department's bureau of weights and measures, said the department proposes regulations establishing standards for the meters.

Testing would be the responsibility of county sealers of weights and measures.

Prison Inmate Says He Should Be Deported

A San Quentin Prison inmate wants freedom from the prison so he can be deported to Mexico.

Gilberto R. Duarte, serving time for a narcotics violation in Los Angeles, filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in Marin Superior Court today, asking to be deported to Mexico "forthwith."

Duarte contends he was duly tried and convicted of being an illegal alien in July of 1962. A year later, he was sentenced in Los Angeles for illegal transportation of narcotics and sent to San Quentin.

Duarte argues that the first sentence should take precedence. In other words, he ought to be in Mexico, not in San Quentin.

Official Opposes Road Borrowing

County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said today it would not be practical for the county to borrow from capital improvement funds to finance widening of San Pedro Road.

Supervisor Peter H. Behr proposed yesterday that the county consider using capital improvement funds to speed up the project.

Mitchell said the project should be included in the road budget and "it would be robbing Peter to pay Paul" to tap capital improvement funds.

The Civic Center fund, particularly, should not be touched, Mitchell said. That fund, totaling $1,127,000, "should be available next fall particularly if a bond issue is passed for financing the second stage of the Civic Center," he said.

Mitchell also pointed out that the county would lose interest on any Civic Center funds that were loaned out to the road project.

Civic Center funds have been loaned out for such projects as Coyote Creek where the loan was 100 per cent reimbursable, he said.

The San Pedro Road project is a joint effort of the county and the City of San Rafael.

Merchants To Meet On Plan For Festival

San Rafael merchants will learn details of the planned September autumn festival at a meeting scheduled for 11 a.m. Friday at the Rafael Theater.

Directors of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce agreed yesterday to hold the session. They promised it would provide full details for merchants, as well as finding out how much each of them intends to participate. The festival is set for Sept. 18 and 19.

Directors also agreed on the agenda for ceremonies Aug. 7 at Hamilton Air Force, when the 349th Troop Carrier Wing, a reserve unit, will christen one of its C-119 "Flying Boxcar" aircraft as "The City of San Rafael."

Ceremonies, beginning at 9 a.m., will include lunch at the Non Commissioned Officers Club, a tour of the wing's facilities and a briefing about their activities. City officials and other important persons will be invited to attend.

Birth rates were Alameda, 21.5; San Mateo, 19.7; Contra Costa, 19.5; Marin 19.3; San Francisco, 18.5.

Cambodians Charge Chemical Warfare

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) —Cambodia today charged South Vietnam and the United States of using toxic powder in a campaign of chemical warfare that has killed 76 Cambodians.

The charge was made in a cablegram sent to the United Nations Security Council by Cambodian Foreign Minister Huot Sambath. He said U.S. and South Vietnamese forces previously had waged chemical warfare in South Vietnam.

Wrong-Way Bike Rider Is Injured

An 11-year-old boy, riding a bicycle on the wrong side of the road with a soft drink bottle in one hand, was struck by a slow moving car on Shoreline Highway at 8:25 a.m. today.

The boy, Robert David Jones of 519 Northern Avenue, Tamalpais Valley, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut right knee.

Ralph L. Hogsed, 34, of 411 Ash Street, Tamalpais Valley, was about to turn into Ash Street when his car struck the bicycle which he did not see. The California Highway Patrol said Hogsed was traveling east on Shoreline Highway at 10 miles per hour.

Police Checking On Stolen Tires

San Rafael police today were checking out the license plate on a car which two youths drove into a tire dealer, had two recapped tires installed on loose wheels, then drove off without paying for them yesterday.

Police said the white-wall tires, valued at $38, were taken from Marin Tire Inc. of 820 Second Street. The youths' car was identified as a yellow 1956 Plymouth.

Fairfax Adds Duties To Inspection Post

In a special closed meeting, the Fairfax City Council last night agreed to add the duties of electrical inspector to those of building inspector Rolfe M. Ockenden and to place Ockenden on a full-time basis.

City electrical inspector Charles F. Campbell has been unable to perform his duties for several months because of illness.

Luckless Ship Stuck On Reef

The windjammer Yankee, from which Marin resident Saydee Reiser vanished in April in the Galapagos Islands, has come to port earlier than planned in the South Pacific, about 1,600 miles northeast of New Zealand.

In circumstances unhappily consistent with the misfortunes that have plagued its eighth circumnavigation of the world, the 98-foot ship has run aground on a coral reef off Rarotonga.

Rarotonga is about 3,500 miles southwest of Floreana Island, where Miss Reiser, 70-year-old resident of 1752 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax, and an avid hiking enthusiast, disappeared early in a 14-month cruise that began in Nassau in the Bahamas. Miss Reiser left the ship to hike on the island and has never been found.

The Yankee ran aground after a gale had broken off the flukes on both sides of its half-ton anchors and set it adrift. Earlier, after leaving the Galapagos, its refrigeration system had broken down and some of its food supplies had spoiled.

Capt. Derek Lumbers hoped to be helped off the rain-drenched island by a Matson liner, but a Matson spokesman in San Francisco said that towing of the 49-year-old German-built vessel is ruled out by insurance regulations.

The Yankee is owned by Windjammer Cruises Inc., of Miami, Fla. Besides Miss Reiser, three other Californians sailed on the unfortunate voyage. Mrs. Martha Hurt, a Berkeley widow who was the last person to see the Fairfax woman, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Addison of Ventura were reported contemplating the vagaries of ocean travel from the vantage point of the Rarotonga Hotel.

State Asked For Data On Divorce

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A University of California sociologist contends that the state needs greater statistical information on divorces for proper understanding of the divorce problem.

He testified yesterday at a hearing before Assemblyman Pearce Young (D-Napa) chairman of the Judiciary Committee's subcommittee on family relations.

Paul W. Shipley, chief of the state's Bureau of Vital Statistices, said his office records only the names of the divorced parties, the date of decree, and the county where the decree was granted.

Davis said no one has thought it necessary to collect facts on the reason for divorce.

Reed's Pupils Get 8 Years Of Spanish

Pupils in Reed School District will be taught Spanish from the time they enter kindergarten through the eighth grade, beginning next fall.

District trustees meeting last night agreed to increase the Spanish teaching program on hearing reports of the program and noting that teachers will be available.

Last year, children in kindergarten through third grade and in seventh and eighth grades were taught Spanish by classroom and special teachers.

Trustees also heard that the district's new foreign language laboratory is being installed at Del Mar School. It will allow language instruction simultaneously to three different learning levels by means of tape recordings, Supt. Edward C. Pino explained.

Of 145 June graduates entering Redwood High School this fall, 130 have been accepted into second year Spanish classes, Pino reported.

Trustees went into closed session last night to discuss hiring of a principal for Granada School from among 23 applicants. They will meet again in closed session at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Del Mar School for further discussion, Pino reported, with appointment scheduled for the Aug. 4 meeting.

Fate Of Rat Island Is Still Up In Air

The fate of Rat Island, an .08 of an acre speck of land off China Camp, is still haunting the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

The board thought it had a solution several weeks ago, but the problem of use of the island cropped up again yesterday.

Supervisors had agreed previously that Draper Companies should acquire the island, which has been declared surplus by the federal government, but not develop the land.

Now the Bureau of Land Management, Department of Interior, has a pending decision that would prevent public sale of the island. The decision, slated to become effective Aug. 14, is that the island should be classified as a recreational area for public use.

Attorney Philip Heinecke, representing Peacock Gap, Inc., one of the Draper companies, told the board of supervisors yesterday his company is protesting the bureau's pending decision. He asked the board to reaffirm its previous position and support the idea of public sale.

Recreation director Kelvin J. Nelson said the county should acquire the property for public use.

Supervisors decided that Heinecke, Nelson, and County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney should study the problem and report next week.

Supervisors also approved plans and specifications for the first phase of development of Paradise Beach Park on Tiburon peninsula, mainly grading, turfing, drainage and planting.

Nelson said he hopes to advertise for bids by Aug. 15 and have work under way immediately after Labor Day.

He told supervisors there has been a noticeable increase in attendance at county parks since the Independent-Journal began a series of stories about the parks in its Marin Magazine.

The board authorized spending $1,023 for topographic mapping of the Stafford Lake area, for study of possible recreational development.

New Technique Found To Detect Cancers

DALLAS (UPI) — Radiation biologist James W. Finney in work at the Baylor University Medical Center has discovered a new way to make radioactive substances seek out cancer cells in the body.

The process involves giving patients super doses of oxygen, so radioisotopes rush to the site of any tumor. In the past, radioistopes have shown no preference for malignant cells over normal cells. Finney described it as a breakthrough in cancer diagnosis, and possibly in treatment of tumors.

Citizens Seeking Tiburon Edifice

Two Tiburon residents have been named to the citizens committee to find a city hall—temporary or permanent—for the newly incorporated city.

Mrs. Jacqueline A. Parnell and John G. McChesney were appointed to the committee by Mayor Gordon W. Strawbridge. Committee chairman Fred Mantegani was named at Monday night's city council meeting.

Mrs. Parnell ran for city council in the June 2 election. McChesney was on the citizens committee aimed at gaining more candidates for the council election.

Stinson Beach Canines Brave Rabies Needles

There were 45 dogs who took their medicine in Stinson Beach last night under the Marin County Health Department's series of rabies vaccination clinics.

Next clinic will be from 6 to 8 p.m. tomorrow at the firehouse at Point Reyes Station.

Tax Check Takes Roundabout Route

Smith received it from Cecil A. Ball of Barstow, Fla. Ball said Smith's check was stuck to his refund check.

"I though of sending it back to the tax office," Ball wrote, "but decided that you might be as anxious to get your check as I was mine, so I am mailing it to you direct."

Friends who wish to attend Manny Charnow's 80th birthday party Aug. 21 at Hamilton Air Force Base, but cannot afford the price of tickets can get them from Charnow himself.

San Rafael's "Mr. Senior" wants to make sure that all who wish will be there. The party includes a luncheon in the noncommissioned officers club and a tour of the air base. From 300 to 350 are expected to attend.

Freedom Of Information Bill Meets Senate Delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Hubert H. Humphrey has delayed — at least temporarily — a "freedom of information" bill designed to make it easier for newsmen to challenge government agencies which refuse to give out information.

Humphrey entered a motion for reconsideration of the measure, shortly after the Senate passed it Tuesday by voice vote. The Minnesota Democrat said several senators had told him there should be some discussion on the measure.

Similar legislation has been pending before the House Judiciary Committee for more than a year.

Jointly sponsored by Sen. Edward V. Long, (D-Mo.), and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the legislation would permit federal court suits to challenge the withholding of information and would put the burden of proof on the agencies to defend their refusal to give out information.

The bill would also require an agency's public information policies to be published and made available to the public.

Salvaging Old Mixer Was Real Hard Job

Ambulance Firm Offers Tryout In Mill Valley

Marin Ambulance Service in Larkspur is willing to set up a commercial ambulance in Mill Valley on a six-month trial basis, President Robert Parker said today, should the City of Mill Valley decide to discontinue its service.

Parker said the proposal was made at a meeting with City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer and City Councilman Albert E. White and is to be discussed by the city council at its Aug. 17 meeting.

Last week, both Balmer and Fire Chief Leslie Armager told the council they would prefer to end ambulance service if an attendant cannot be provided for patients.

The city now sends out its ambulance with a driver only. Complaints have been made that standard practice for ambulances is to have both a driver and an attendant.

"They (the city) won't give up service right away," said Parker. "I would go in and give six months service to prove I could provide it. The city would still have its own ambulance." He said he would place an ambulance in Mill Valley since it would require six to eight minutes to make the run from Larkspur.

The charge would be $25 to transport a patient from Mill Valley to Marin General Hospital with a $2 added charge made between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m.

Marin Ambulance has three ambulances and an invalid car, which is used to transport patients for whom emergency medical aid is unnecessary.

Girl, 7, Treated For Dog Bite

A 7-year-old San Rafael girl was treated at San Rafael General Hospital last night after she was bitten by a dog near her home.

San Rafael police took the dog to the Marin County Humane Society. Efforts to locate the owner were unsuccessful, they said.

Hub Council Meets Only 40 Minutes

Rezone Item Is Put Over To Aug. 11

A short San Anselmo City Council disposed of a short agenda in a short 40 minutes last night.

Because only three members were present, when lack of unanimity appeared on an appeal from a rezoning turndown, acting Mayor Woodrow D. Capurro put the matter off until the Aug. 11 meeting.

That was item No. 4 on a four-item agenda.

The council was unanimous in approving final maps for Franklin's two-lot subdivision on Laurel Avenue and for H. W. Laster and Sons' Oak Spring Unit 5 subdivision, both of which had prior planning commission approval. They comprised agenda item No. 1.

At suggestion of City Administrator Douglas Flautt, item No. 2 was put overt o Aug. 11. It was a request by Dennis T. Moore for an encroachment permit to permit a driveway and garage to extend onto the right of way of Allyn Avenue. Flautt said a subdivider is planning to improve Allyn Avenue and should have a plan ready by next meeting.

FLAUTT'S REPORT

Item No. 3 consisted of a report by Flautt and City Engineer Richard M. Syphers on an accumulation of debris at 37 Canyon Road. Both said the owner, Beverly Fish, has agreed to conform with requests by the engineer and fire chief and is cleaning up the debris. However, said Syphers, the city dumped some broken concrete on the property when the street collapsed some years ago. He suggested city crews remove it.

Item 4 was the rezoning appeal. Mrs. Lido Artegiana sought rezoning from single family dwelling to apartments at 31 Lansdale Avenue. The planning commission had rejected the request as spot zoning.

Councilman Clute said San Anselmo should coordinate its zoning with Fairfax, which has apartments "just a few doors away" from 31 Lansdale Avenue. He said the location is "not typical residential property" and he did not see the proposed change as spot zoning.

SPOT ZONING

"I think it is definitely spot zoning, and I would oppose it," said Councilman Smith.

Planning Commissioner Jerry W. Lloyd said the commission had expressed itself as favorable to duplex zoning but had rejected the proposal for apartments.

Acting Mayor Capurro was saved from committing himself when Councilman Clute proposed the matter be put over until Mayor William Franchini and Councilman John M. Reichmuth were present. Capurro directed that be done.

"Has anyone anything else to bring up?" he inquired.

Clute had, as it turned out. He said owner Albert H. Siemers had agreed to put a sidewalk in front of the Hunter Investment Co. building if the city would make an inspection and assure him a culvert under the walk is satisfactory. Capurro ordered the inspection be made, and adjourned the meeting. Time: 8:40 p.m.

Pilgrimage Set

A report from Vernon A. Libby of Fairfax, who is head of the watchful Better Business Bureau of San Francisco, calls attention to a direct mail advertising solicitation currently being circulated that has the capacity to mislead.

The printed form asks for a check to pay for a listing in a classified directory — which listing has not been ordered. This sort of thing has happened before. On the last occasion, I believe, it was a case of a similarity in names between the solicitor and a bonafide labor magazine. The apparent authenticity of the bill was strengthened by having a pasted clipping of the addressee's last ad in the magazine.

In the present instance, Libby notes that the catch is in the appearance of the form which is so similar to a telephone bill for a classified directory listing in the yellow pages that busy executives may not read it carefully and okay it for payment.

If you study it closely you'll notice that the publisher of the "directory" does take care to print on the form: "This is a solicitation — not a bill."

It pays to double check what you are asked to pay.

THERE SEEMS to be a mild flurry of news items about some of Marin's lumber specialists.

EARL R. PENNINGTON of San Rafael has left for Japan as one of a seven-man team of the American Plywood Assn. on a "trade probe" into the possibilities of getting that country to use more U.S. manufactured plywood.

Our Douglas fir laminates are said to be considerably stronger than the Philippine lauan plywoods used so widely in Japan. The latter are fine for decorative use but not for structural purposes. Our plywoods will be placed on display in several Japanese cities. Discussions will be held and technical data disseminated.

The trade mission is co-sponsored by the Department of Commerce. Pennington expects to return by Aug. 15.

R. A. HARDIN
On advisory panel

R. A. HARDIN of Fairfax, sales representative for Weyerhaeuser Co. of Tacoma, is one of 12 men in his firm appointed to a newly created wood products marketing advisory panel. He attended its first meeting in Fontana, Wis., last week.

Purpose of the panel is to gauge the effectiveness of various new marketing and merchandising activities being planned for wood building materials lines. Products of the company include softwood lumber and plywood; hardwood lumber; plywood and doors, hardboard, particleboard and laminated wood arches and beams.

LOWELL (LEE) RAPPLEYEA of Fairfax has joined the California Redwood Assn. as a technical services specialist. He'll be occupied with such projects as the new "redwood component cabin" and evaluation of young-growth redwood properties.

THREE EDUCATIONAL COURSES in real estate appraising will be held at the University of San Francisco in August. I've had some recent inquiries on this subject.

Course I, covering basic appraisal principles, and Course IV, being taught for the first time and dealing with condemnation appraising and right of way evaluation, will run Aug. 3-15. Course II on urban properties will be held Aug. 17-29. Registration details are available from Arthur G. Lee, 1 Sansome Street, San Francisco.

SAN RAFAEL Chrysler-Plymouth dealer Doug Dicker and wife Marie are on an all-expense-paid trip to Bermuda this week — a prize in a national sales contest. In winning the Chrysler-Plymouth regional award, Dicker's firm increased its sales by nearly 300 per cent over the previous period.

Signing Of Ex-Marin Star Starts College-Pro Furor

COMBINED AP & UPI

PULLMAN, Wash. — Washington State, irked over the manner in which fullback Herm McKee—a former gridder at Tam High in Mill Valley—was signed by the Baltimore Colts with one year of eligibility remaining, told the NFL team today to keep its scouts off the campus.

"Colts' football scouts will be unwelcome at WSU for an indefinite period," Bert Clark, the Cougars new head coach, said yesterday. "They signed McKee at a time when we had no head coach and they failed to contact athletic director Stan Bates. McKee was a red shirt, which made things worse.

(McKee is a former prep star at Tamalpais High School from where he was graduated in June of 1956. He played football as an end and halfback for the Tam Indians junior varsity in 1953 and the varsity in 1954 and '55. He was playing under then head coach Dick Miller and assistant coach Jim Hanretty.

(In addition to football, he was a basketball star for the Indians. He later enrolled at San Francisco City College and played both football and track.

("He wasn't particularly fast in high school," Hanretty said today, "but he picked up speed at San Francisco City College and was a sprinter on the track team."

(He then transferred to Washington State.)

Clark added that he was not "damning" pro football, but "protesting one club's breaking of the professional code of ethics which we at Washington State can't tolerate."

Clark's statement followed a copyrighted story in the Oakland Tribune which said that the Athletic Assn. of Western Universities had barred Colts scouts from all eight of the conference's campuses.

The National Football League club was accused of signing McKee although he had one more year of eligibility left at Washington State. His class, however, had been graduated in 1962, making him eligible for the professional draft.

"I knew nothing about McKee's signing with Baltimore," said Clark. "They never contacted a single person at Washington State to my knowledge."

But the Colts said McKee was signed last December, when Jim Sutherland was still coach at WSU.

"They knew all about it—the coaches that is," said McKee at the Colt training camp in Westminster, Md.

"After all, I'm 25 years old and I'd better get going on my pro career if I am going to follow one,'" McKee added. "I was supposed to have had my big year (at Washington State) last year, but I only played in three games."

"Herm McKee of Washington State was only signed after the boy had requested the opportunity to play pro football and the head coach had given his approval for the boy to do so," the Colts stated.

The story was broken by Ed Schoenfeld of the Oakland Tribune, who also reported that the AAWU had censured the Colts. He also said Southern California was still unhappy over the signing of lineman Al Bansavage a few seasons ago when he had remaining eligibility.

"In the same instance," Baltimore countered, "the Colts did not desire to sign Al Bansavage a couple of years ago and urged him to stay in college.

"But upon the insistence of the boy to play pro football, the Colts contacted his coach, who gave approval for the signing."

Phils Shatter Myth; Juan Hurls Tonight

Independent Journal Sports

Wed., July 29, 1964

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Now that the league-leading Philadelphia Phillies have shattered the myth that they can't win against lefthanders, Manager Alvin Dark of the San Francisco Giants will give ace righthander Juan Marichal a shot at 'em tonight.

Southpaw Billy O'Dell was the victim of the Phils in last night's contest, but he got absolutely no help from the Giants, who were blanked on four hits by Jim (Perfect Game) Bunning.

The Phils, who lengthened their lead to a game and one-half over the second place Giants, got all four of their runs off O'Dell in the fourth frame.

Tony Taylor singled to open the inning, took second on an error by Willie McCovey, went to third on an infield single, and scored on a single by Ruben Amaro. Gus Triandos then stepped to the plate and rapped his second homer of the year, scoring the two men in front of him.

Jim Duffalo came on for O'Dell with one man away in the fifth and held the Phils hitless hrough two and two-thirds innings. Bob Shaw pitched the final inning, blanking the Phillies on one hit.

Bunning, who posted his 10th vicory against four defeats, had to have help in the ninth, when it looked like the Giants might come up with another of the late inning rallies.

He had surrendered a single to Hal Lanier in the fifth and a bunt single to Matty Alou in the eighth going ino the final frame. Then Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda singled with one man out, and relief artist Jack Baldschun was called in for Bunning.

Baldschun hurled just one ball—and Willie McCovey hit into a double play to end the contest.

It was the second straight walloping for O'Dell, who was tagged with his fourth loss in seven decisions. He gave up seven hits and four runs in the four and one-third innings he toiled. In his last start before that, the Chicago Cubs blasted him for 12 runs.

In tonight's contest, Marichal (14-5) will oppose Dennis Bennett (9-8).

Elsewhere in the NL, Milwaukee edged Cincinnati 3-2, Los Angeles routed New York 9-0, and St. Louis topped Chicago 12-7. Houston and Pittsburgh were rained out.

In the American League, Los Angeles defeated New York 3-1 Detroit whipped Chicago 6-3, Minnesota dropped Baltimore 7-4, Washington nipped Cleveland 4-3 and Kansas City beat Boston 2-1.

Triandos, who came to Philadelphia with Bunning from Detroit last winter, was in the line-up as part of Mauch's strategy to combat the left-handed pitching which had been responsible for 10 of the last 12 Phillie defeats.

The veteran catcher caught a Billy O'Dell fast ball and laced it just inside the left field foul pole to climax the four-run Phils' fourth.

"Boy, it's been a long time between homers," Triandos said later. "Even in batting practice." He had last homered April 26.

Cincinnati's Jim O'Toole had stifled the Braves on one hit, Mike de la Hoz' fourth homer, when an electrical storm delayed the game 45 minutes. Sammy Ellis took over the Reds' pitching and the Braves promptly clipped him for four

John Callison of the Phillies was tagged out by Giant second baseman Hal Lanier on this play last night at Philadelphia as Umpire Vinnie Smith watches the action. Callison had singled to right, but was thrown out by perfect throw by Willie McCovey. It mattered little as Phils went on to win it, 4-0.

Fans Cheated By O'Dell Incident; Dark Proves Himself A Bum Sport

CONNOLLY

No tickee—no washee. Translated it means you pay or you don't get the laundry.

It's a bit different in baseball where you pay and take your chances on seeing a ball game, or an exhibition.

There was a time, not so long ago, when the creed in baseball read something like this—"The game is never over until the last man is out." And when a customer pays $2.50 or $3.50 he expects to see a contest. In defense of the national customer generally gets his money's worth but on occasion he gets frisked. One of the recent friskings took place July 23 when Manager Alvin Dark unconditionally surrendered a ball game in the third inning. His excuse, a legitimate one in his own mind, was because he wanted to give southpaw Billy O'Dell some work and determine if he could pitch any more. It mattered not to the Giant manager whether 25,000 people in attendance had come to see a ball game. The result of that twisted thinking was a lop-sided 13 to 4 licking administered by the Cubs, a disgraceful exhibition of major league baseball besides an utter disregard for the feelings of the paying public.

THE ACTION of Manager Dark in not removing Billy O'Dell, who was strictly having a "gosh awful off-day" and substituting another relief pitcher, is comparable to a racehorse owner who allows his entry to go before the public who are looking for an honest effort only to discover, after betting thousands of dollars on the horse, that the owner never intended to let the horse perform — only give him a workout.

That sort of practice was eliminated long ago in horse racing and may be one of these days comparable practices will be eliminated in professional baseball.

"Antsy Alvin" has been hurt deeply and has suffered tremendously on account of the punchy type thinking and playing of his team. I always knew he was a tough loser, but I never thought he was a bum sport until the O'Dell pitching incident cropped up.

THERE COMES a time in baseball when even a manager should be compelled to observe and protect the rights of the payig public. And in this particular incident I don't think Antsy Alvin stopped to analyze how a cash customer felt. One such absolute case comes to mind by a couple of San Rafael baseball fans who attended the game in question and left in the fifth inning.

"It is the first time in my life I ever left a ball game before it was over," Al Tognoli, wealthy man about town, declared. "I was disgusted, disappointed and felt cheated. Baseball fans can't swallow much of that sort of behaving. My friend and colleague Allan Murray echoes my sentiments and left the game with me feeling we wasted an afternoon. No manager has a right to flaunt his own anger and disappointment on the paying public. We knew O'Dell was off color but why make him suffer and heap abuse on customers?"

Hot Workout For 49ers

MORAGA, Calif. (AP)— The San Francisco 49ers scheduled heavy contact workouts today for the first time since last Saturday's scrimmage.

The National Football League club went through routine drills—with emphasis on rushing the passer—in unusually hot weather yesterday at their St. Mary's College training camp.

Novato Power Highlights Little League

Hamilton-Loma Verde Little League All-Stars will battle the Novato stars at Novato in one semi-final game of the California District 3 tournament and Sausalito will play Twin-Cities at Tiburon in the other semi-final contest after the four teams won quarter final games yesterday.

Both semi-final games will be played tomorrow at 6 p.m.

Highlights of yesterday's quarter finals:

Hamilton-San Geronimo

With the winning run scoring on a wild pitch, the Hamilton-Loma Verde All-Stars edged the San Geronimo stars 3-2 in eight innings at the Hamilton Air Force Base diamond.

With runners on second and third in the top of the eighth, San Geronimo pitcher Rick LaFranchi uncorked a wild pitch which allowed Bobby Gross to sprint home with the game-winning run. LaFranchi had pitched the entire game for San Geronimo, giving up 4 hits, 2 walks and striking out 15.

Mike Demezas, the winning pitcher, was throwing in relief for the final six innings. He gave up 4 hits, 2 walks and struck out 11. David Perron had started on the mound for Hamilton-Loma Verde and didn't allow a hit in his two innings of work. But in the bottom of the third, he walked the first two men and Demezas was called in to put out the fire. That he did by striking out the next two batters and retiring the third man on a ground out.

LaFranchi contributed a double and single and scored the tying run in the bottom of the sixth for San Geronimo.

Novato-Marinwood

Novato All-Stars, showing that they are the power boys of the tournament, thumped the Marinwood stars 12-2 in their quarter-final game in Novato.

It was the second straight high-scoring victory for Novato which whipped Gallinas Valley Monday 11-5.

Stan Ericksen hit a three-run homer in the fifth and Archie Speak blasted one out of the park with a mate aboard in the second to pace the Novato power display. Speak had a grand day, adding a double and a single to his homer for a perfect 3-for-3 performance. Randy Foster added a double to the Novato attack.

Russ Dillon was the winning Novato hurler, going all the way and allowing five hits. Steve McClain had the only extra-base blow off Dillon, a double.

Novato hit the scoring column four times in the second frame and then kept adding to the total until it swelled to an even dozen runs. Marinwood's Bruce Dokken started on the mound and gave up six runs. He was stung for the loss. His reliever, Mike Richards who came in during the third innings, gave up the other six Novato runs.

Sausalito-San Rafael

With all the runs of the game being scored in the fourth inning, the Sausalito stars nipped the Mill Valley American League team 3-2 in Sausalito.

Maurice Smith tied the game for Sausalito with a two-run single. Then Al Haas singled and ultimately scored the winning run on a passed ball.

Mill Valley threatened in the top of the sixth inning when it put runners on first and second. Next batter up hit a single to right and rightfielder Chuck Shifflet made a great stop of the ball and threw out the runner who was tyring to score from second.

Tyrone Hardy threw a four-hitter and struck out 10 on his way to the victory. Losing pitcher J. Silva also did a creditable job, allowing four hits and striking out eight.

Clay-Liston Rematch To Be Probed

MIAMI BEACH (AP)— The World Boxing Association will decide late next month whether to sanction a heavyweight title rematch between champion Cassius Clay and Sonny Liston.

The question will be decided by membership of the association at its annual convention Aug. 26-30 in Norfolk , Va., Ed Lassman, WBA president, said today.

"This is too important to be decided by a handful of men," Lassman said, referring to the WBA's Executive Committee. "I've decided that this matter should be decided by the entire membership."

Clay and Liston signed Monday for a bout to be sometime between Sept. 15 and Oct. 31 at a site still to be selected.

Lassman said both fighters have been asked to appear at the WBA convention because "there are quite a few factors to straighten out from the last match."

Among them, he said, was Liston's connection with Intercontinental Promotions, Inc., which staged the bout in Miami Beach last Feb. 25 in which Clay dethroned Liston.

Joey Giardello Signs For Oct. 23 Defense Of Title

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — World middleweight champion Joey Giardello signed today to defend his title for the first time, against Ruben (Hurricane) Carter on Oct. 23 at Las Vegas.

Giardello's advisor, Arnold Giovanetti, said at a news conference here that the champion would be guaranteed $100,000 from gate receipts and theater television for the 15-round bout.

Carter said his guarantee would be $12,500 plus expenses.

Giardello won the title Dec. 7 in Atlantic City, N. J., from Dick Tiger of Nigeria. The champion has been under fire by both the World Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic Commission to sign for a defense.

Pirates Call Up Righthand Hurler

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates said today they are calling up righthanded pitcher John Gelnar from their Asheville farm club in the Southern League.

Gelnar, 21, has a 3-1 record and an earned run average of 3.50. He is expected to join the Pirates this week.

'Ref Right In Stopping Title Bout'

MANILA (AP) — The Philippine Boxing Association said today Filipino referee Jose Padilla "did the judicious thing" in stopping in the 12th round Flash Elorde's title fight with Teruo Kosaka of Japan Monday night in Tokyo.

Manila promoter Mamerto Besa, PBA president, said in a statement Padilla exercised his powers as referee "in the pursuance of a fast-growing trend in world boxing to save boxers from dangerous situations."

"The prevalence of deaths in the ring has been too frequent and too recent to stress this point," Besa said.

The Tokyo bout ended in a near-riot when Japanese fans hurled seat cushions into the ring after Padilla stopped the scheduled 15-round bout in the 12th round. The referee awarded Elorde a technical knockout victory in his defense of the world junior lightweight crown against the Japanese challenger.

Elorde had knocked down Kosaka and was following up his advantage after the Japanese fighter had taken the mandatory eight-count when Padilla stepped in and called a halt to the bout.

Future Davis Cup Stars May Be Cavorting In Local Tournament

You might call the 11th annual Marin Junior Tennis Tournament, in progress in San Rafael, a "Family Affair."

Among weekend winners were Cathy and Mike Machette, Barry, Jan and Kevin Brink, Karen and Stephanie Gut, Alannah and Bill Kinser, Harry and Ward Johnson, Peter and Jim Youtz and Ron, Tom and Bob Klyce.

By the way, another Klyce is helping run the whole show and doing a tremendous job. He is 19-year-old Harvey Klyce, the assistant tournament director and quite a star himself, but too old and good for this competition.

The Brink boys, no relation to the great robbery, are sons of Mill Valley auto dealer Larry Brink. You may remember lanky Larry as a start end for the L. A. Rams.

The I-J, San Rafael Recreation Department-sponsored tourney has grown into quite an attraction for the county's youngsters. Every high school and tennis club in the county is represented in the field. Surprising is the strong turnout of 64 players in the 12 and under age bracket. They're developing tournament talent younger and younger these days.

Who knows, we may have the 1974 U. S. Davis Cup team cavorting right under our noses.

THE WILDLIFE Conservation Board's progress lists Hugo Fisher as administrator of the Resources Agency and Sen. Vernon L. Sturgeon as a member of the Legislative Advisory Committee. Now THAT'S what I call conservation.

A LETTER came to the sports department this week from "Arnold & Palmer Associates." Turned out to be a public relations firm publicizing a boat race; nothing to do with GOLF.

U. S. AND RUSSIA have dominated the track and field headlines of late, but every Friday there's some fine running, jumping and throwing going on at Drake High School.

The recreation department at Drake has been conducting all-comers meets — open to one and all — with some eye-catching performances.

For example, Tom Strathairn, star last season for Redwood High, has been a one-man gang. Last Friday Tom raced to four personal victories in the 70-yard high hurdles (8.6 seconds), the 120 lows (13.4), the 100-yard dash (10.1) and the 220 (22.4). His is not a lazy summer.

Then there's Bill Nelson of the Marin Athletic Club who won the discus (147-6), the javelin (149-4) and broad jump (20-3). A double winner was Dave Brown in the two-mile (10:19.9) and mile (4:39.5) while solo winners were Bill Ranney in the one mile walk (8:34.5), Bill Gillingham in the 440 (53.4), Ken Bovard in the shot (41-10) and Dave Barni in the 880 (2:05.6).

BUD CHADWICK, assistant grid coach at San Rafael the past couple of seasons, has left Marin to accept a similar position at Montgomery High in Santa Rosa. Bud was a big star at Petaluma High and the Petaluma Leghorn semi-pro grid team in his pre-coaching days.

IRISH BOBBY SCANLON, the lightweight fighter who called Marin his home for a spell a few years back, has returned to his native New York and is fighting (?) under the management of Gil Clancy.

While here, Scanlon's co-managers were restaurateurs Lu Sabella and Nick Kobseff.

Cap'n Hank recently won the Air Force singles title for the fourth consecutive year, outranking and out-playing A2C Bob Delgado of the Tactical Air Command in the finals.

The previous week, Jungle won the Air Defense Command title.

Davi, 18, now living in San Jose, pitched three innings for the Northern California All-Star team against the Dodger Rookies a team of select young players who tour the nation playing 49 baseball games, the bill paid by the Los Angeles Dodgers organization.

Davi allowed no hits in his three-inning stint and struck out six Dodgers Rookie batters. After watching Davi in action, Murray told Redwood High School baseball coach Al Endriss that the youngster is the best young hurler he has seen in the Bay Area this year.

Corte Madera and Larkspur knocked Tiburon out of the tournament with a 7-1 victory in Larkspur.

The Twin-Cities boys knocked Tiburon starter James La Torre, the losing hurler, and his reliever, Bill Von Lackum, for 10 hits. It was an error filled game which saw Tiburon commit five errors and Twin-Cities four.

Leading the T-C batters were Charlie Flynn, Craig DeLong and Joe Caito, each with a double and single. Twin-Cities scored one run in the first inning, two in the second, another in the fourth and three more in the sixth and last frame. Tiburon got its lone run in the third on errors by the winners.

Von Lackum got the lone hit for Tiburon, a single.

Chicago Bears Have Big Gaps To Fill

S.F. Gate Behind '63 Pace

NEW YORK (AP) — They've been talking about dwindling baseball attendance in Milwaukee and Cleveland.

But what about Pittsburgh, a fourth-place team relatively few Pirates' fans are turning out to watch?

The Pirates, who reached a club high of 1,705,828 only four years ago, dipped to 783,648 in home attendance last season. This year, they are last in the National League with 424,797 — about 63,000 behind their low 1963 pace.

Only two other NL clubs are trailing last year's gates. St. Louis shows a decrease of 65,269 and San Francisco 50,424. The Giants, however, and the Los Angeles Dodgers are the only big league teams past the one million mark. The Dodgers, leading both circuits with 1,562,313, are 48,852 ahead of last season. San Francisco has drawn 1,102,732.

The circuit shows an over-all increase of 716,050, figures compiled by The Associated Press showed today.

The Braves, rumored to be heading from Milwaukee to Atlanta next year, actually are 44 per cent ahead of 1963. They have attracted 617,599 to County Stadium compared to 428,967 in as many 1963 home dates.

The New York Mets have played before 950,042 in new Shea Stadium, a gain of 367,760 over 1963 when the Polo Grounds was their home.

Other NL teams with attendance gains are the Philadelphia Phillies 209,673, Houston Colts 59,849, Chicago Cubs 13,663 and Cincinnati Reds 6,783.

The Baltimore Orioles, surprise pennant-contenders, have the largest AL increase — 131,668. Washington is up 51,264 and the Detroit Tigers 36,545.

The New York Yankees, AL leaders in the pennant race and attendance, have played to 766,130 at home. However, they trail their 1963 pace by 76,110.

The Los Angeles Angels, 148,778; Boston Red Sox, 124,859; Chicago White Sox, 69,291 and Kansas City A's, 40,779, are the other teams trailing last year's attendance gates. The figures include Monday's games.

Heat Gets Ump In Cub-Card Contest

CHICAGO (AP)—the 90-degree heat got to plate umpire Doug Harvey in the ninth inning of the St. Louis-Chicago game yesterday.

Play was delayed for six minutes as Harvey, who had been wearing a wet handkerchief behind his neck throughout the game, retired and Lee Weyer, the third base umpire, went to get his gear to work behind the plate.

Harvey apparently wanted to continue but crew chief Jocko Conlon ordered him out of the game after noticing Harvey was exhausted.

Spahnie In Bullpen, But Doesn't Like It

MILWAUKEE (AP) — After nearly two decades as the Braves' pitching ace, Milwaukee southpaw Warren Spahn has been shipped to the bullpen—at least temporarily.

Owner of a 6-11 record and a fat 5.13 earned run average, the 43-year-old Spahn accepted a new role in his fabulous career and joined the Braves' relief corps last night.

Manager Bobby Bragan said he plans to keep Spahn in the bullpen for a while, except for possible spo tstarting assignments.

"He has the arm and he can throw," Bragan explained. "He proved he can do the job with two fine innings against the Mets in New York Sunday. And we need someone who can put out a fire. We'll just have to wait and see how things work out."

Although Bragan said that Spahn was "willing" to become a fireman, the biggest left-handed winner in baseball history was far from enthusiastic. Owner of 356 National League victories, Spahn set his sights on 400 while posting a 23-7 record last year.

"Naturally, I don't like the idea," Spahn said. "I've always said I'm paid to win 20 and it's just about impossible to do that working in relief. However, I'm also paid to help the ball club, so if they want me in the bullpen I'll do my best.'

Spahn then sounded a note of warning:

"Don't write me off yet. I still have a lot of pitching left."

Drysdale Shuts Out The Mets

hits and two runs in the seventh to win it.

The Cardinals pushed five runs across in the 10th inning with Mike Shannon's two-run homer climaxing the surge against the Cubs. Bill White and Tim McCarver had homered earlier for St. Louis which rallied three times for ties before finally winning it.

Death Of Stars Weakens Offense

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

RENSSELAER, Ind. (AP)—The deaths of halfback Willie Galimore and end John Farrington in a Sunday night auto crash have left gaps in the offense of the National Football League champion Chicago Bears that will be difficult to fill.

Replacing Galimore in particular will be a problem because the Bears have no experienced elusive breakaway runner of his caliber.

He streaked 321 yards in 85 carries—the longest for a 51-yard touchdown—and scored five times last season. He also caught 13 passes for 131 yards.

Running in his halfback spot in yesterday's drills were Ronnie Bull, Billy Martin and rookie Winston Kelton of Wiley, Tex., who starred two years with the San Diego Marines.

Bull is a powerful runner but does not have Galimore's ability to turn the corner. Martin lacks over-all speed. Kelton is elusive but cannot match Galimore's quickness.

ROOKIE SHIFTED

Being shifted from defense to offense is rookie Bob Batts of Texas Southern. On his college track team he ran the 100 in 9.6.

Charlie Bivins, who has played halfback, was assigned to fullback duties exclusively earlier this summer and it looks as if he will remain there.

The fullback platoon already is below strength. Rick Casares, gradually working into shape after leg surgery during the winter, did some running in yesterday's drills. Joe Marconi and Bivins remain the only fullbacks ready for full-time call.

The loss of Farrington, who gained 335 yards with 21 pass receptions last year, leaves the spread end position open. However, the Bears bolstered this spot with two trades last May. Rich Kreitling was obtained from the Cleveland Browns and Gary Barnes from Dallas. Each has made a good impression in workouts.

Also bidding for the berth is Bill Martin, a 6-5 player from Georgia Tech. Another candidate is Chuck Logan of Northwestern. He now is with the College All-Stars, whom the Bears will meet in Chicago's Soldier Field Aug. 7.

OAKLAND RAIDERS LOSING MEN FAST

SANTA ROSA (AP) — The Oakland Raiders are rapidly losing players — but not by the usual spring cut method.

The club was left with just 50 active players — only 10 more than they're allowed to carry into the exhibition season — when injuries struck three more veterans yesterday.

Sidelined with a bruised and possibly separated right shoulder was Clem Daniels, last year's most valuable American Football League player. He was hurt trying to catch a pass in yesterday's 20-minute scrimmage.

Also put out of action at least temporarily with leg injuries were all-league middle linebacker Archie Matsos and starting end Jan Barrett.

They joined veteran flanker Bo Roberson and rookie defensive back Loran Hunt, out with knee injuries.

In addition to those on the injured list, the Raiders are also missing star end Art Powell and fullback Alan Miller. Neither has reported despite the threat of heavy fines by Coach Al Davis.

BIG TIME GOLF'S NEW FACES

Ken Venturi Slew The Ghosts

(Second in Series)

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—"I used to be ashamed to walk in the club house," Ken Venturi said. "I'd duck my head and sneak to my locker.

"I was even afraid to shoot a good round, because I knew I would come up with a bad round. I had no confidence. I ached inside. Six months ago I wanted to ditch it all.

"Then I won the Open. It changed my whole life. I can hold my head up again. I know I can play the game. Now I can't wait to get to the club house and out on the course.,,

Venturi died a thousand deaths before he finally slew the ghosts of his past failures and disappointments in the National Open over the steamy Congressional course at Washington, D.C·

Ten years ago he was universally hailed as the brighest new prospect in golf, heir apparent to the throne soon to be vacated by an aging Ben Hogan.

He had many of Hogan's trademarks—a familiar white cap always pulled low over his eyes, a stiff-legged walk, a deadly serious approach to the game and rifle-like irons that hungered for the pin—but his style was the matchless style of Bryon Nelson.

No one questioned it in 1956 when Venturi, a 24-year-old amateur, a handsome six-footer, outshot the world's top professionals and carried a comfortable lead into the final round of the Masters, a tournament no amateur ever had won.

But he blew to an 80 on the closing day and Jack Burke came from eight shots back to take the title—a bitter disappointment to the youngster from San Francisco.

It was just one of many. In 1960, now a pro, Venturi seemed to have the Masters won when Arnold Palmer surged in with birdies on the final two holes to win by a stroke. Refusing to be discouraged, Venturi stuck to his guns and made reasonable success on the tour although his star never reached the height expected.

KEN VENTURI
Great comeback

In his first four years after turning pro in 1956 he won ten tournaments. In 1960 he collected $41,230 in official earnings. However, he never crashed through to challenge Palmer for the No. 1 position in golf·

In February, 1926, Venturi was playing a pro-am tournament in Palm Springs, Calif., when he leaned over to pluck a ball from the cup. Something snapped in his spine. He tried all sorts of remedies. Nothing worked. .His golf swing was restricted. His game suffered.

He won only $6,951 in 1962, not even hamburger money. In 1963 it was worse. He collected only $3,848. He was ready to quit earlier this year when he got a letter from Father Francis Murray, a priest from Burlingame, near Ken's home. In essence, the priest advised: "Keep calm· Don't get too elated. Don't get too downcast."

These words were floating through Venturi's mind when he strode over the long and hazardous Congressional course on the final day of the Open—nearly out from heat exhaustion. He held on for final rounds of 66-70 for 278, the second lowest score ever posted in the American Open.

"I can't tell you what that meant to me," Venturi says. "I was dead and I am alive again. When I look out on a course, I don't see traps or trouble. I only see the flag. I am always going for the flag."

Venturi, now 33, was born May 15, 1931 in San Francisco, son of ship chandler. He was runner-up in the National Junior at 17, won the San Francisco city title at 18 and twice captured the California amateur title.

He married his college sweetheart, Conni, shortly after finishing San Jose State. They have two children— Matthew Bruce, 8, and Timothy, 4.

Venturi's credo is simple: "I have only one objective-- that is to win· I'd rather win one championship than finish second in a dozen."

Mets Buy Klaus From Cincinnati

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Mets bought rookie infielder Bobby Klaus from Cincinnati last night and sold first baseman Tim Harkness to San Diego, the Reds' farm club in the Pacific Coast League.

Harkness, 27, was sold after he played with the Mets against the Los Angeles Dodgers last night. He had 13 RBI and two homers in 38 games this season and had only recently returned to action after suffering a pinched nerve in his shoulder May 17. His batting average was .282.

Klaus, 26, played in 40 gam for the Reds with a batting average of .183. He had been placed on the waiver list and catcher Hal Smith given his unconditional release by the Reds to make room for Chico Ruiz and Tony Perez who had been called up from San Diego.

DRAMATIC WIN

The Stars from Central Marin scored a dramatic 2-0 victory over North Marin Sunday in the final game of the county-wide tournament. While pitcher Keith Valk was throwing a brilliant three - hitter, his teammates were also held at bay in a scoreless ball game.

But then in the seventh and final inning, Mark Davis was sent in as a pinch hitter with Gerald Handlos on base. Davis responded with a clutch home run to win the ball game.

Manager of the Central Marin Pony All-Stars is Charles Valk and the coach is Gene Messina. Only boys 13 and 14 are eligible for Pony League baseball.

Novato Seeks Beauty To Reign At Pool Fete

Rules of a "Miss Novato Teen" contest were announced today by Mrs. Charlene Wolf, adviser to the Novato Teen Club sponsored by the city's parks and recreation department.

The queen will reign over dedication of the municipal swimming pool on Aug. 16.

To be eligible, a girl must be a teen-ager, a resident of the Greater Novato area, and demonstrate her basic swimming skills.

Selection of the queen will be announced at a masquerade ball on the night of Aug. 15 at the Novato High School cafeteria.

Entry blanks may be obtained from the Teen Club or the parks and recreation department at the City Hall at Sweetzer and De Long Avenues. Deadline for entry is Aug. 5, Mrs. Wolfe said.

The largest animal without a backbone is the giant squid.

Bear Needs Chain-Link Cage Fencing

The young California brown bear, known as Teddy at the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum in San Rafael has a want ad running in the Independent-Journal these days.

It says he needs some chain-link fence to complete his cage at the museum. Mrs. Clara Evans, educator at the museum, said about 30 feet is needed. Everything else for the cage, including bricks and labor, has been donated.

Mrs. Evans said the museum recently discovered that the cub, found straying near Burney, Shasta County, had once been adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred D. Wickelman and their six children. The mother bear evidently abandoned the cub after lumbermen had cut down her home, a hollow tree.

The Wickelmans recently wrote the museum, saying they called the cub Charlie Joshua Brown. At the museum, however,, the bear will continue to be called Teddy.

Arlington National Cemetery was established 100 years ago. It contains the graves of approximately 124,000 servicemen and is visited by more than two million persons annually.

Tape Recorders Stolen From Dentist

Someone removed an air conditioner to get into the dental offices of Dr. Jack L. Rosenberg at 600 Mission Avenue, San Rafael, Sunday night, then stole $1,372 worth of items, including two tape recorders.

Both Looked, But Not Right Way

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Phillip S. Tribble looked up and down the street as he backed his car out of a driveway.

So did Barbara Dickie as she backed out of a driveway across the street.

Neither looked straight back.

The drivers were embarrased but unhurt by the back-on collision.

Summer Trips Take Marinites To Europe, Canada

A NUMBER of Sausalitans have just returned from trips abroad and in this country and Canada.

The Jan Paul Dyks have been visiting Mr. Dyk's relatives in Bergen in the north of Holland for five weeks. They made the trip both ways by boat and flew from New York to Houston on the return journey, where they also visited relatives.

Having been to Holland before the Dyks specialized this time in seeing Holland's small country towns and visiting old castles, museums and art galleries.

JUST RETURNED from two months in Southern France, where they specialized in visiting the small towns, are the Justin Days. They rented a car to see the countryside at leisure, including the famous medieval town of Carcassone, and spent five days in Paris before they flew to London for the Chelsea Flower Show. This was a highlight of the trip according to Mrs. Day.

MR. AND MRS. Frederic Palmer III and their daughter, Ann Harrison Davies, are home from two months on the East Coast covering points from Annapolis to Cape Cod.

SPENDING A FEW days at Del Monte Lodge at Pebble Beach recently were Mr. and Mrs. James F. O'Donnell of Berens Drive, Kentfield.

MR. AND MRS. Clinton Lewis have returned to their home in Bayside Acres after a four months trip to Europe. Highlights of the trip were going into Yugoslavia and seeing the fjords in Norway. Enroute home they saw the New York World's Fair and visited relatives in Philadelphia and New England.

AS A GOING away party for a Marin couple, a group of friends will go to Fisherman's Wharf in San Francisco tomorrow night where they will board a Bay Cruise boat that will bring them back to Marin. Docking at Tiburon, the group will have dinner at Tiburon Tommie's then board the boat for their return trip to San Francisco.

Planning the party for Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bille of San Anselmo are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Thompson of Fairfax and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Die of Larkspur. Attending will be Messrs. and Mesdames William Spores and John DeWitt of San Rafael, Gene Odone and Bud Henry of Walnut Creek, Ronald Nunn of Brentwood and Melba Evans and Robert Cunningham of Fairfax.

The Billes, who have lived in Marin four years, are moving to Los Angeles next week where he has been sent by his company, the Equitable Life Ins. Co. Mrs. Bille, a member of the Sunny Hills Auxiliary and Pixie Parents, was a third-grade teacher at the Wade Thomas School.

The Billes have two children, Pamela and Jeffory.

Twenty-four friends attended a luau Saturday night given by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Marincich at their Lagoon home in Belvedere for their son, Paul, who left Sunday for a trip to Japan by way of Hawaii.

Making the trip on an exchange basis as part of a YMCA program, Paul will stop over in Hawaii for three days, then go on to Japan where he will tour the country for six weeks, living with two separate Japanese families.

Paul is a senior at Redwood High School. He is the brother of Bonnie, Judy and Scott Joseph Marincich.

Patricia Kelly of Fairfax who will be married Sunday to Richard Frenholm of Santa Rosa gave a luncheon Saturday at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant to honor her bridal attendants.

Present was her maid of honor, Carole Wallace and her bridesmaids, Joanne Chat and Sandy Park. Her mother, Mrs. Albert Kelly, was also there, along with Mrs. Walter E. Wallace, Mrs. Betty Muzzell and Ruthie Kloppenberg of Sacramento.

Pat used the occasion to present gifts to her attendants.

MR. AND MRS. Julius Brown of Greenbrae deposited their young son, Patrick, in a summer camp for three weeks Sunday and yesterday left for a vacation at the new Tahoe Sierra Hotel at Crystal Bay. Their other son, Gilbert, a summer employee at the Marin Emporium, stayed home. As guests of the Tahoe Sierra, located on the Nevada side of the lake near the north shore, the Browns will be able to play golf at the Incline Village Golf Course, a new course just opened for play.

Mrs. Brown's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Carson Magill of Belvedere, vacationed last weekend in Carmel.

The Magill's oldest son, Mike, a soldier learning to speak the language of Vietnam at Ft. Mead in Maryland, surprised Janet, Julie and Katie Wilhelm of Kentfield by meeting them without forewarning at the train station in Washington, D.C., during their recent vacation trip to the East Coast. The girls, who have known Mike most of their lives, were happily surprised and equally grateful to be escorted about the capitol city on their first trip.

MRS. W. S. STEWART of Fairfax attended a Wednesday Concert recently at the University of Pacific directed by her son, James H. Jenkins of San Rafael. Mr. Jenkins, a musical supervisor at Herbert Hoover Junior High School in San Francisco, is teaching music at University of Pacific during this summer.

While in Stockton, Mrs. Stewart visited Mrs. Ed Gohlke of that city, formerly of Marin.

MR. AND MRS. Donald Springsted of Tiburon gave a dinner party last night in honor of her birthday. Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lawlor of Mill Valley, Mr. and Mrs. George C. Berticevich of Tiburon and Mrs. Diana Schlittgen and Ernest Chamberlain, both of Tiburon.

LEAVING AT the end of the week for Honolulu aboard the Matson Lines' Lurline are Mr. and Mrs. John Raskob of Belvedere and their family.

San Rafael Teacher Plans A Good Will Trip Of Her Own

By MARG ZIMMERMAN

Originally planning a tour of Russia as an ambassador of good will on the Person to Person travel program, Miss Chris Spindt, a San Rafael High School teacher, decided to make the trip on her own when the tour was canceled three weeks ago.

She will visit capitals of Scandanavia, Russia and Poland with Unitour, a tour organized in England for Europeans and departing from Brussels on August 8th. It is possible Chris will be the only American on the 20-day tour, or, perhaps, one of only two or three.

WITH UNITOUR, Chris will visit most of the countries she originally planned, with the exception of Scotland. People to People would have had Europeans and Russians of her same age, interests and occupation meeting her at each stop. By traveling with Europeans rather than Americans, she hopes to still meet as many people as possible.

"I ONLY speak Spanish and a smattering of Danish," Chris said, "but I'll be with the same Europeans for 20 days and I hope to understand their languages through them."

Chris leaves Marin Sunday for New York where she will visit the Fair. From New York she will fly directly to Brussels, then to London for a few days and back to Brussels to join the tour.

Unitour will take Chris first to Copenhagen, Stockholm and Helsinki and then across the Soviet border to Leningrad, the Russian capital in the 18th and 19th centuries. While there, the American visitor will see the Admiralty, the Winter Palace, the Petropavlovsky Fortress and St. Isaac's Cathedral.

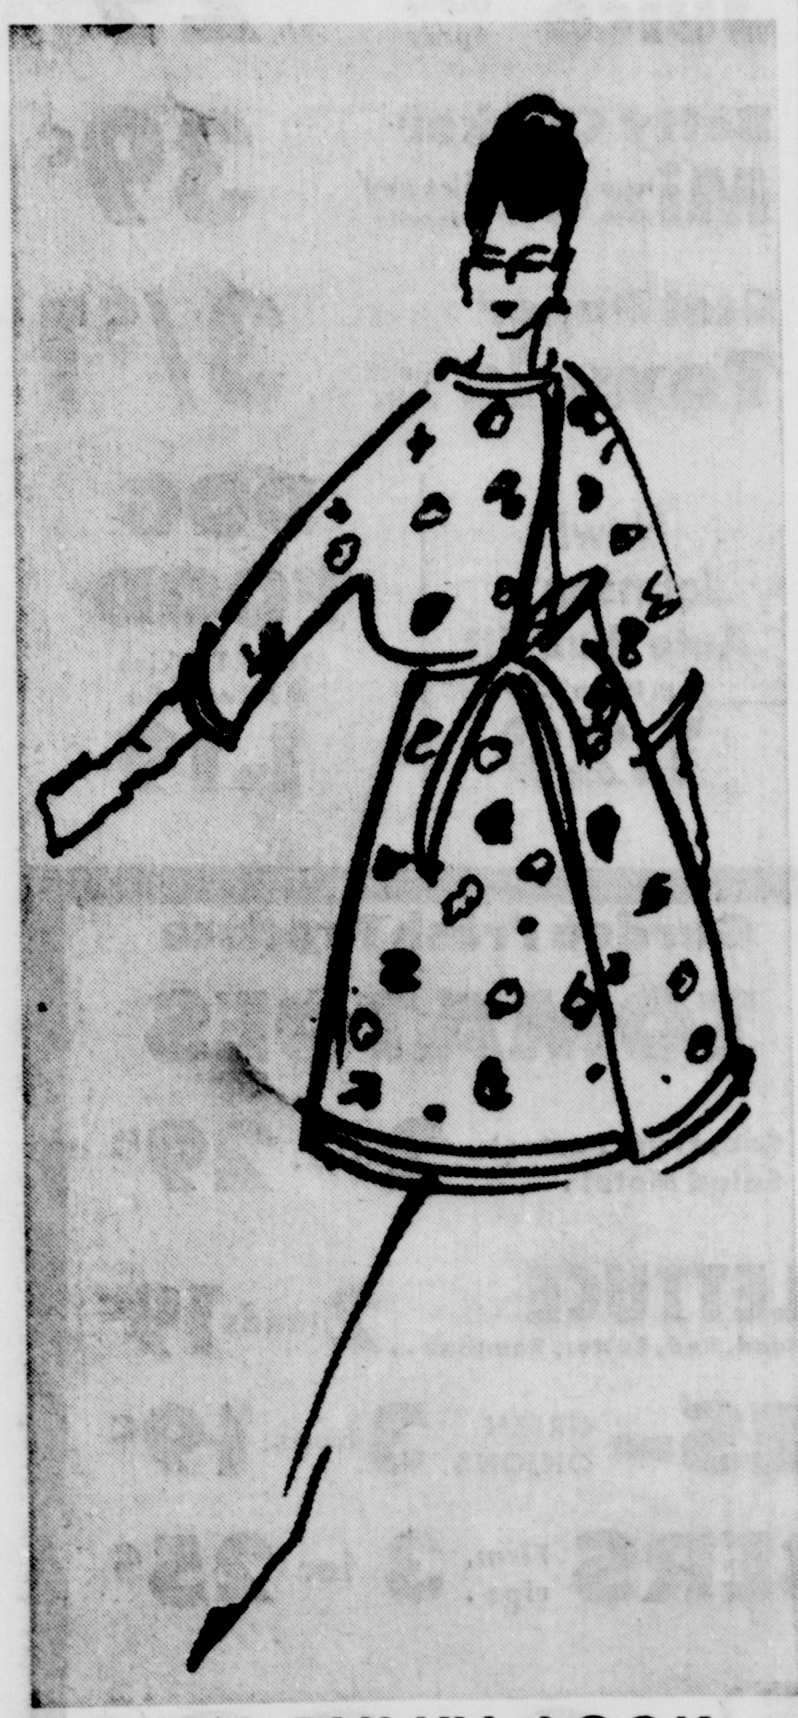
ON HER WAY to Moscow from Leningrad, Chris will visit Novgorod, one of Russia's oldest cities, and Klin, the location of Tchaikovsky's Home Museum. In Moscow she will be escorted to the Red Square, the Bolshoi Theatre, the State Lenin Library and the New Moscow University. A complete tour of the Kremlin is part of her Moscow agenda, along with a visit to the underground Lenin Mausoleum and the Lenin Museum.

On her Soviet tour, which will take 10 days, Chris will also visit Smolensk, a medieval fortress over 1000 years old where 11th and 12th century churches once stood. On her ninth day, she will cross White Russia to Minsk and the next day will go to Warsaw in Poland.

The tour will continue on to Berlin from Warsaw, and in Germany, Chris will leave the tour to go back to Sweden and Denmark, the homes of her grandparents. She will tour the two countries with a family friend, visiting relatives along the way.

RETURNING to Marin Sept. 4, Chris will have four days to organize herself for her first teacher's meeting at San Rafael High School. Classes resume Sept. 10.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester J. Spindt of Los Banos, Chris was graduated from Los Banos High School and Oregon State College. She taught in Alameda County for two years and has been a home economics teacher at San Rafael High School for the past three years.



NEW BULKY LOOK

Paris Soft Bulky Look Comes From Fur Linings

By LOUISE HICKMAN

PARIS (AP) — Louis Feraud's collection, presented in Paris, was young, young-full of nifty little "sweater" dresses, and with flirty ruffles on everything imaginable.

Ruffled satin "pantaloon" boots were worn with a black satin coat, double-breasted and collared in bias ruffles. Bias organdy ruffles on the wide round neckline of a print wool sweater tube were layered in the print colors. Close-packed violet lace ruffles filled in the deep, open V of another sweater tube in violet angora jersey.

LEOPARD-PRINT chiffon was used for a sweater wisp with long close sleeves, a string-tied slashed neckline, and faintly trumpet skirt. There were leopard-print chiffon gloves to match.

Short, tidy cardigan boleros were built right into straight dresses in jeweled lame or wallpaper-printed sheer wool.

Feraud used lots of colored band inserts. In navy and green, they traced an open-coat effect on a slightly flared garnet sweater dress. Wide, and in red and blue, they circled the midriff of a gray wool reefer.

FUCHSIA AND cherry shades mixed with dark grape made the stand-out color combinations. Hats with the Feraud Clothes were little round beanie berets worn tilted over the forehead.

The sweater look was also important in the Madeleine de Rauch show. A long, straight brown broadtail cardigan bound in the brown and white tweed of its slim dress, got lots of applause.

THE DE RAUCH collection had lots of oatmeal tweeds and beige fluffy furs. Plum and warm brown were important colors.

Earlier, Jacques Esterel and Ferreras, each in his own way, showed clothes with the soft bulky look that comes from thick fur linings, or padded quilting.

BUTTONLESS, BULKY COATS FROM BALMAIN

PARIS (AP)—Buttonless, bulky coats with band collars were the news from Balmain in Paris fall and winter fashions.

The soft, padded look that comes from thick fur linings or soft quilting is important in Paris coats this season. Often the look is there without the fur or wool stuffing being apparent.

Most of Balmain's coats had edge-to-edge openings. Linings of fabric or fur had a layered buttoned-in look. Jersey helmet turbans had a wide chin strap that disappeared inside the rolled edge, rising band collars. Dresses were often of heavy jersey.

BULKY, open Balmain coats in camel were lined in civet, or camel and gray checked wool. Beaver went inside an oatmeal tweed that was lightly fuzzy with mohair, as were many of the Balmain tweed coatings.

Washable Wools

The chemical formula for water, H2O, is the appropriate name given to new machine-washable wools. The materials are processed with a formula that limits shrinkage to three per cent, reduces after-drying wrinkles, and lessens the tendency of wool to pill.

MR. AND MRS. LARRY G. BRIDGES
(Bob Hax photo)

Patricia O'Connor Weds Larry Bridges

On a honeymoon trip to Carmel are Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gene Bridges, married July 18 in an afternoon ceremony at the First Presbyterian Church in San Raafel.

The bride is the former Patricia Gail O'Connor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. O'Connor of Placerville, and her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwin E. Bridges of Novato.

Wearing a floor-length gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta with tapered long sleeves and train, the bride was given in marriage by her father. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. Royal Scott.

The bride's attendants all wore identical lilac street-length dresses of sheer material over taffeta. Maid of honor was Connie Springer of Placerville and bridesmaids were Lynda Hopkins of Corte Madera, Roberta Hindersman of Larkspur, Mischael Nelson of San Rafael and Jackie Bridges of Novato.

The bride's five year old niece, Erin O'Connor of Palmdale, wore a short-skirt dress fashioned after the bridal gown.

The brides's brother, Michael O'Connor, was best man and another brother, John O'Connor was head usher. Escorting guests to their seats were Ricky and Roland Mellor and Joe Cavellera, all of Novato.

An employee of the E. Bridges Construction Co., Larry was graduated from Novato High School and the College of Marin.

John Caulfields Will Make Home In Pacific Grove

Leaving Mill Valley after 36 years are Mr. and Mrs. John F. Caulfield who will be living in an apartment at Pacific Grove.

Luise Caulfield has been living there since May, and her husband will be going back and forth until their house in Mill Valley on Lovell Avenue is sold.

Mr. Caulfield, who has been very much interested in civic affairs, retired first as an outside representative of the San Francisco Post Office and then as Mail Supervisor for the First Western Bank in San Francisco.

A great baseball fan, John Caulfield managed the Mill Valley Babes before Little League existed and was instrumental in promoting the first turf diamond in Marin County at Boyle Park in Mill Valley. He also was a leader in the Veterans of Foreign Wars and played a leading role in having the Veterans' Memorial Rock placed in front of the Mill Valley City Hall.

Ward Austins Succumb Again To Wanderlust

By PHIL FRADKIN

As if a seven-month, 20,000 mile trip through Mexico, Central America and the eastern United States were not enough, Dr. and Mrs. Ward H. Austin of Larkspur are preparing to leave Aug. 4 for a trip around the world.

The Austins, who live at 88 Wiltshire Avenue, have been home since June 12—just enough time to become reinfected with the travel bug, renew their shots and take off again.

Austin, former College of Marin president, said: "I spent 31 years in the salt mines. Traveling, there is always something new. I learned more history during this last trip than in all the school books I have read."

His wife, Miriam, thinks that "eventually we will have to calm down. But until then we will remain foot-loose and fancy free."

The latest trip was the third they have made. Previously they journeyed by camper through Alaska. The second trip took them to New Zealand and Australia.

Their camper has "almost become our second home," Austin said. Through Mexico, Central America and the United States, the Austins slept every night and ate most of their meals in the camper.

North and west of Mexico City, the Austins found good overnight accommodations for campers. South of Mexico City and in eastern Mexico, accom-

Custodian For Mill Valley Golf Club Discussed

Mill Valley Parks and Recreation commissioners said informally Monday night they believe it is desirable to continue to keep a custodian at the municipal golf clubhouse.

No recommendation was made to the city council, however, inasmuch as Chairman Dean Meyer was absent on vacation, and decision was put over to Aug. 10.

City Mgr. Bert A. Balmer has recommended that the building be closed except during the times it is being rented. The present caterers and custodians, Mr. and Mrs. Werner Korreng, have given notice they will leave Aug. 5 since they do not realize a profit from the operation.

Rental fees for the clubhouse, suggested by Balmer, were discussed. Balmer suggests they be about doubled.

Handicapped League Will Hold Camp

California League for the Handicapped will hold a camp for handicapped children at Forest Farms camp in Forest Knolls Aug. 2-15.

Among the handicapped children will be three blind youngsters occupying cabins with five or six seeing campers of the same age this year.

New Aide For Brown

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Appointment of Ronald Moskowitz, San Francisco, as associate press secretary, was announced by Governor Edmund G. Brown. Moskowitz is former education editor of the San Francisco Examiner, and will become secretary to the governor for education matters after the November election.

Every year since 1955 about four million babies have been born in the United States, an average of seven a minute.

Marin Couple Use Camper To See Much Of Americas

modations are few and far between.

A few nights, they slept by the side of the road. However, most of the time they pulled into gas stations and parked overnight.

The Austins were warned of bandits when they considered parking by the shores of Lake Nicaragua. As a result, they parked their camper in front of some nearby army barracks and were in sight of a sentry who paced back and forth all night.

Pulling into a small town on the Mexican isthmus, the Austins heard shots ring out. They learned that the mayor of the town had been shot. They moved on immediately but returned to the town one month later. They were told that the townspeople had kidnaped the mayor of an adjoining town and hung him as reprisal.

Preparing to leave San Jose for the two-day trip to Panama, the Austins learned of the conflict which broke out in the Canal Zone and decided to go no further.

In San Jose, the Austins saw the devastating effects of the falling volcanic ash from a volcano which is slowly destroying the economy of the area.

Flower beds and gutters are filled with the ash. "We felt it 100 miles away. It feels like sand blowing in your face," Austin said.

The Austins, who now qualify as experts on the art of traveling by camper, had a few tips to offer.

A camper is preferable to a trailer, they said, because it can get into difficult areas. The Mexican government's tourist patrols which travel the major highways twice a day are quite helpful.

The Austins had been warned that they would be overcharged for gasoline. This they found was impossible because modern pumps which keep track of the amount of gas dispensed had been installed in gas stations.

A butane refrigerator, rather than an icebox, is indispensible in hot climates where ice is hard to find. Traveling in Mexico and central America "is not complicated," they said.

The Austins will forsake their camper on the trip around the world. They will travel by freighter, making frequent side excursions.

They still haven't gone to Europe. "It doesn't interest us. Everybody goes to Europe," Mrs. Austin said.

Bus Service Is Proposed For Canal Street

If enough of San Rafael's Canal Street apartment dwellers are interested, bus service from there to downtown San Rafael will begin soon, the leader of an unofficial citizens' group predicted yesterday.

Anne Malacrida of 199 Canal Street, Apt. 12, said the proprietor of the Richmond - San Rafael Bridge Bus service had agreed to start the service on a trial basis if apartment owners and dwellers would subsidize it at the outset.

About 12 residents have been negotiating with owner Cecil J. Allen of the bus line.

Details of the proposed trial run will be explained at a meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. Aug. 6 at the social hall of the Ka Ha Le Manor, 177 Canal Street.

Radio Panel To Center On Retarded Plan

Housing for trainable mentally retarded children will be discussed by four panelists on radio station KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Guests of moderator Kitty Oppenheimer will be Daryl Hopkins, Marin County schools' director of special services; Mrs. Sally Ryan, president of Marin Aid to Retarded Children; Mrs. Daniel Collins of Mill Valley, State Board of Education member, and Mrs. Edith Kanoff, member of the special education committee of the Marin County Board of Education.

Listeners may telephone questions to the panel during the program, which will be re-broadcast at 12:30 p.m. Sunday from a recording.

Drunken Drivers Receive Fines

Two drunken drivers were fined yesterday by Judge Leonard A. Thomas in Marin Municipal Court.

John Francis Gallagher, 46, of 123 Taylor Road, Belvedere, paid $166 fine for driving while intoxicated along Paradise Drive in Corte Madera last Saturday.

Lee Roy Wallace, 43, of Petaluma also drew $166 fine. He was arrested on Highway 101 last Friday.

Street Resurfacing In Progress For Ross

Brown-Ely Contractors of San Rafael yesterday resurfaced about 400 feet of Laurel Grove Avenue in Ross from Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to Walters Road.

The $2,100 project will be finished in a few days with a seal coat of oil and sand. Yesterday the contracting firm removed the old lumpy surface and put on a concrete one. The road remained open to traffic throughout the work, which took obaut four hours.

Ohioan Pays Tuitition By Shoeing Horses

WESTERVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Horseshoes were good luck for Frank D'Imperio when it came to earning money for college tuition, board and room and other expenses.

Young D'Imperio, who majored in psychology at Otterbein College and is going into social work, went to classes in the morning and shod horses in the afternoon. He learned the art after his father, a physician, bought a farm in New Jersey.

Demo Convention Leaders Fear Dixie Delegate War

By DON BACON
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — President Lyndon B. Johnson and the Democratic Party are suddenly confronted with a major political problem that threatens to explode before the television cameras at Atlantic City next month and could damage Democratic election chances this November.

The critical situation—which may yet be squelched—centers on the plans of civil rights workers in Mississippi to challenge the state's regular all-white delegation to the Democratic National Convention, which opens on Aug. 24.

Concerned party leaders here believe that if the challenging delegation — the mostly Negro "Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party"—is seated, it could prompt a walkout of other southern delegations. If the credentials committee refuses to seat the challengers and is sustained by the convention, it could lead likewise to a walkout of several sympathetic delegations outside the South.

Racial sentiments, roused by events in Mississippi and New York this summer, are adding fuel to the convention seating issue.

Alabama Gov. George Wallace, who may attend the convention with an unpledged delegation, could also figure in the picture, but his role is uncertain. At present, President Johnson's name will not appear on the Alabama ballot, and according to a top party aide here, "any delegation that announces in advance that it won't support the ticket is on shaky ground for getting seated."

"Right now it looks like it's going to be a hell of a mess," said another leading Democratic strategist. ". . . We don't have any other real issue at the convention this year, so all attention can focus on this.

"I can see terrible things happening . . . for instance, what if Wallace leads a walkout through civil rights pickets? . . . or Sen. (James O.) Eastland (D-Miss.) makes some big disclosure about Communists in the civil rights movement. It could make Goldwater look like a prophet.

"At this point, everybody is petrified," he added.

The White House is not quite so alarmed, but it is watching the developing situation closely.

President Johnson, who only last week was inclined not to take the threat to his party's unity seriously, this week assigned special presidential assistant Kenneth O'Donnell and others to investigate and report back to him.

It is generally agreed that if the clash is to be headed off, the President will have to intervene somehow.

The White House as yet has taken no action because, for one thing, there is uncertainty as to what action it can take. It also is willing to wait until "the issue is joined"; that is, until the regular Mississippi Democratic Party meets at its state convention July 28 and chooses its delegation to the national convention.

A key point to watch is whether the Mississippi regular Democrats vote to send a delegation unpledged to the national ticket. They could indeed vote to send no delegation at all.

If two Mississippi delegations—the regulars and the challengers—show up at Atlantic City, there are five possible steps the credentials committee can take:

1. Seat the regulars, and exclude the challengers.
2. Seat the challengers, and exclude the regulars.
3. Seat both.
4. Seat a portion of both.
5. Seat neither.

The Freedom Party will base its request for credentials on two arguments: (1) The regulars have demonstrated a "lack of loyalty" to the national party over the years, and have not pledged support of the 1964 ticket and platform, and (2) The regulars do not represent a majority of Mississippi Democrats, because Negroes are "systematically excluded" from party machinery and from voting in general.

Although "rump" delegations frequently seek admission at national party conventions, there apparently is no legal precedent for seating this kind of insurgent group, and on these grounds. A neutral Democratic lawyer described the Freedom Party case as weak.

Bidwell Adam, 70, lawyer from Gulfport, Miss., and chairman of the state Democratic Party, strongly disputes the contention that his delegations have demonstrated disloyalty to the national tickets in past elections. Adam, who said he has campaigned across the Magnolia State for every Democratic candidate since Woodrow Wilson, expressed belief that even though Gov. Ross Barnett's unpledged electors carried Mississippi in 1960, the core of the state party remained loyal to the Kennedy-Johnson ticket.

"Ask Minnesota where they were when Al Smith ran against Herbert Hoover," he said in a telephone interview. "We've got a hundred years of party loyalty to match against any state."

If the regular Mississippi delegation is barred from the convention, it might cost the Democrats votes in other southern states in November, he said. "They couldn't get enough votes in this state to speak of."

Aaron Henry, head of the Mississippi Chapter of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and chairman of the Freedom Party's executive committee, said his group's appeal before the credentials committee will be based heavily on the loyalty question.

Joseph L. Rauh, Washington lawyer and a leader of the Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), will present the Freedom Party case to the committee. However, before Rauh can argue the loyalty question, or any other legal point, he will have to convince the committee that the Freedom Party is indeed a party representing a substantial number of Mississippians.

The Mississippi Freedom Party is an outgrowth of the "Freedom Summer Project"— project sponsored by various civil rights organizations to promote Negro voting and educational programs in the state. State Chairman Henry says, however, it should be considered separate from the civil rights movement.

Since it was formed in April, the insurgent party has circulated persons through the state, signing up Negroes.

According to Henry, 60,000 to 70,000 persons have been enrolled and he hopes 100,000 will be by convention time. In contrast, only about 2,500 Negroes are registered in the state's regular Democratic Party.

Leaders of the insurgent group contend that nearly all of those they have enrolled would be registered voters if Mississippi did not obstruct them.

The state recently rejected the party's request for a charter on the grounds it "wholly failed" to meet requirements of law for registration as a political party. Nevertheless, it plans to meet in Jackson Aug. 6 to pick 68 delegates it hopes to have seated at Atlantic City.

There, the legal issues will be considered but perhaps the dominating influence will be the emotional feeling of convention delegations from states outside the South.

Eight states — Massachusetts, New York, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Colorado, California and Oregon — have already urged their delegates to support the "Freedom Party."

The Freedom Party needs the support of 10 per cent of the credentials committee to obtain a minority report, and thus force the issue to come before the whole convention. It then needs the support of at least eight states to force a roll call.

The state backing already announced is by no means binding, and a word from President Johnson could end it, party leaders here believe.

Meanwhile, Negro civil rights workers and Freedom Party representatives are touring northern cities trying to drum up additional support and money. This week, the second floor of the New Bethel Baptist Church in Washington was turned over to the Freedom Party for a rally. Rallies were to follow in Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and other cities.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Spinal Curvature Outlook Good If Simply Due To Poor Posture

VAN DELLEN

Milwaukee is famous for its art center and its beer but it has another claim to fame—the Milwaukee brace. This device is used as a corrective support in spinal curvatures. Because it is adjustable, the patient can remain comfortable while sitting, lying down, standing, or walking.

CURVATURE OF THE SPINE (scoliosis) to the left or the right is a common deformity. It usually develops during the early years of growth and often is recognized before the age of 14. Boys are more likely to be affected during the early school years but the situation changes in adolescence when three to five times more girls than boys develop it. The curve may be shaped like a C or an S.

When poor posture is responsible the outlook is good because the vertebrae and structures otherwise are normal. Other children are born with defective vertebrae or paralysis of the muscles of the trunk on one side. The latter destroys the normal balance of the supporting muscles.

The back muscles may be weakened or paralyzed by polio or other neurological afflictions. Spinal curvature occurs when one leg is shorter than the other. Injury is another possible origin of curvature.

Despite the cause, the crookedness may escape detection for years because it comes on slowly and seldom produces distress. The left shoulder may be higher than the right or a hip or shoulder blade may be prominent. The defect may be noticed first when a parent sees the child in a bathing suit or a young girl is being fitted for a dress. Now and then fatigue and backachce provide clues.

Mild curvature may correct itself with additional rest during the day, provided the youngster makes an effort to sit and stand erect. Exercises keep the spine flexible and improve the balance of the trunk muscles. They must be done faithfully over a long period. Progressive curvature calls for more specialized care, involving traction or the use of corrective plaster jackets and braces. Approximately 5 per cent are severe enough to require surgery.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

OBSTRUCTING SCAR TISSUE

F. R. writes: What is meant by scar tissue following duodenal ulcer? This is said to affect the stomach valve.

REPLY

Some duodenal ulcers leave scars after healing, especially when the lesion is chronic or has recurred many times. The scar may pull on the exit valve of the stomach and obstruct the passageway.

TEEN-AGE TALK

E. G. writes: My 14-year-old daughter insists that if you eat a lemon after a full meal you won't gain weight. Right or wrong?

REPLY

Wrong. She is rather young to be spreading old wives' tales. Calories do count, regardless of unscientific claims to the contrary.

BONE FRACTURE

B. H. writes: How could a person come up with a cracked bone in the leg if he has not had a fall or other injury?

REPLY

This is unusual unless the bone is defective. Cysts and tumors, for example, weaken the skeletal structure so that spontaneous fractures occur.

ANTIBODIES AFTER INFECTION

V. H. writes: Can a person carry the brucellosis bugs in his body for 28 years?

REPLY

No, but his blood may contain protective antibodies that serve as evidence of a previous infection.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Philibert Tsiranana of Malagasy left here today after a two-day visit which Secretary of State Dean Rusk said was "cordial, frank and mutually beneficial."

Rusk said although the two countries are geographically far apart, "we are close in purpose, objectives, and aspirations for our two peoples, and in our hopes for peace in the general world situation."

Battle Due On Reducing Pill Ban Proposal

By CHARLES SCHAEFFER
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — Overweight Americans have swallowed an estimated 50 million reducing pills of a brand the government now proposes to remove from the market as "unsafe."

The manufacturer of "Neo-Barine" tablets disagrees with the Food and Drug Administration. The company, Bariatric Corp., Coral Gables, Fla., is arming with data for a showdown session where it hopes to disprove the government's charges.

Neo-Barine in the past eight years has been a widely used medicine sold under doctor's prescription for conditions ranging from simple overweight to gross obesity. It contains thyroxin, a crystalline substance secreted either by the human thyroid gland, or prepared synthetically, and iodo-casein, a iodine-infused protein.

Because of the thyroxin, FDA contends, the pill produces the same physiological effects as thyroid extract administered to patients with an underpar gland. The thyroid gland helps regulate the body's growth and metabolism.

The FDA, which will consider the company's protest Aug. 10, said private physicians have reported "undesirable thyrotoxic side effects."

An agency spokesman said these include thyrotoxicosis (an excessive acceleration of the body's metabolism) heart palpitations and insommnia.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.), a critical observer of drug marketing, asked FDA to check out the drug after a local physician reported side effects among patients on a weight reducing schedule. The Medical Letter, a non-profit publication on drugs, recently said the drug should be removed from the market.

A company report on the drug in the physicians' desk reference, however, says "no serious or irreversible reactions have been reported in eight years of clinical use." Doctors are warned not to prescribe it for persons already suffering from thyrotoxicosis, acute coronary artery disease or iodine allergy.

Unlike certain other reducing pills, Neo-Barine is not an appetite depressant. In fact, one of the company's claims is that "strenuous diet restrictions need not be imposed."

Neo-Barine is what doctors call an anti-adipopexic drug — which means it prevents the storage of fat. The drug also contains a compound called strophanthin, which the firm suggests offsets heart acceleration of patients taking Neo-Barine.

An FDA medical spokesman said government drug authorities dispute this contention.

The FDA is directing the firm to show, if it can, reasons why the government should not suspend sale of the drug. In calling a public hearing, FDA said, "New evidence of clinical experience, not contained in such application or available until after such application was approved, shows that the drug is not shown to be safe . . ."

FDA had scheduled a similar hearing on the anti-depressant drug, Parnate, a product of another company, but the manufacturer agreed to an eleventh-hour relabeling, restricting its use to hospitalized mental patients. The hearing was canceled.

Georgia was named in 1732 for King George II of England.

Soviet-U.S. Science Swap Branded 'One-Way Street'

By GENE BYLINSKY
Progress Reports Writer

WASHINGTON — Soviet scientists who come to this country under U.S.-Soviet cultural agreements concentrate on learning about significant advances in U.S. science and technology.

American scientists who go to Russia, in contrast, seem to be engaged in somewhat esoteric research projects bearing little relation to America's immediate needs in science and technology.

Many U.S. exchange scholars in Russia conduct studies in humanities, literature, history and languages.

Some typical subjects in recent years included "Comparison of Works of Maxim Gorky and Gerhard Hauptmann," "Ties Between Soviet and Foreign Writers, 1917-29," and "Development of Soviet Administration, 1917-36."

This seeming lopsidedness in subjects under study has led to accusations that the exchange program is a "one-way street." Dubbing the program "short change," Congressman Michael A. Feighan (D-Ohio) called on the State Department not to enter into new exchange agreements with the Russians.

"Russian students and scientific studies in the United States penetrate into the vitals of our scientific life while studies pursued by legitimate American students in Soviet Russia border on boondoggling," said Feighan, chairman of a House judiciary subcommittee.

The State Department disregarded Feighan's request and negotiated a new exchange agreement. While its officials concede that there is some lopsidedness in the exchanges, they insist that the program is well worth the risks.

As the State Department sees it, the Soviets seem to have two main goals in the exchange programs. They want to get scientific and technical information to help advance Russia's industry and science and they want to paint a favorable picture of the Soviet Union and Soviet policies.

The State Department says that it is perhaps natural for Russia to concentrate on science and technology in the exchange program since the Soviet Union is still a developing country where some branches of science are lagging badly behind the West.

What's more, the department at times has trouble finding young American scientists and engineers who know Russian to take part in the program. Even so, say U.S. officials, the exchanges have not been a "one-way street."

While immediate benefits to the U.S. may not be readily visible, the exchange program eventually may help "mellow" Soviet society and channel its development into more hopeful directions.

"But these effects should not be overemphasized," says the department. "The exchange program is severely limited in scope and numbers; ordinarily it does not reach the mass of the Soviet population. The influencing of Soviet society is a long-term and indirect process."

The U.S., though, pays attention to short-range aims, such as obtaining information in order to evaluate the Soviet Union and its changing society.

This aspect of the program displeases the Soviet security apparatus, however, "The Soviets have some of the same worries as Congressman Feighan does," says one official.

U.S. scientists in Russia find that picture taking is frowned on; they are subject to surveillance, and their luggage is often "inspected" by Soviet secret police without the scientists' knowledge.

One sore point has been the Soviet refusal to lift travel restrictions on visiting scientists. U.S. scientists are subject to the same restrictions that are applied to U.S. embassy personnel. But Russian students in the U.S. are free to travel, except to certain off-limits areas.

The State Department is engaged in a continuing effort to have the Russians remove these travel restrictions. The Soviets make occasional exceptions. Last year, for instance, they let two U.S. plant breeders hunt for germ plasm for horticultural plants in central Asia, an area normally closed to visitors.

Furthermore, a scientific institution open for visits by one kind of specialists may be closed to others. The Russians admitted a large group of U.S. mathematicians to their Siberian "science city" near Novosibirsk, but wouldn't let U.S. nuclear experts visit it.

All in all, State Department officials view the six-year-old exchange program, which has allowed more than 5,500 Americans to study in Russia and brought 4,700 Soviet citizens to the U.S., as a worthwhile gamble.

What's more, the exchange agreement signed this year expands exchanges to oceanography, scientific and technical information, plastics, and urban planning.

Teen-Age Jobless

NEW YORK (UPI)—While teenagers comprise only 8 per cent of the U.S. labor force, they account for more than 24 per cent of the unemployed, according to the National Industrial Conference Board. Only 2.9 per cent of all married men are out of work, down from an average of 34 per cent in 1963.

Pranksters Just Too, Too Helpful

DUNCANVILLE, Tex. (UPI) — The owner of a garage that recently moved to a new location complained to police about pranksters who pulled a switch and turned a car right-side up.

Jim Thornton said he put the car on its top at his former place of business and painted a sign on the side telling customers his new address. The next morning he found the car resting properly on its tires instead of its roof.

Ceramics Comeback

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — One of the world's oldest art forms has enjoyed a spectacular space-age rebirth. Ceramics, the same material used for ashtrays and pottery, now is used for such things as precision gyroscopes and thermoelectric generators in missiles and spaceships.

Big Cities Do Less Well On Drop-Out Fight

By ERWIN KNOLL
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — Big-city school systems are meeting with only modest success in their efforts to persuade high school students to complete their education.

Just over 70 per cent of the students who entered grade 10 in large cities in 1960 remained to graduate in 1963. For the entire nation, the schools' "holding power" in the same period was 76 per cent.

These are among findings of a major study of school holding power in 128 of the largest cities that has just been completed by the National Education Association (NEA).

"The smaller the city, the higher the rate" of students going on to high school graduation, states the NEA report, "Holding Power: Large City School Systems."

In the five largest cities—New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Philadelphia and Detroit — only 65 per cent of those entering the 10th grade in 1960 received diplomas in 1963. And the dropout rate was significantly higher in the vocational high schools operated by these cities.

"The chance that a pupil will graduate from high school if he is in grade 10 is a little better than three out of five," the report notes.

"However, if he attends a vocational school, his chances are less than one out of two."

The NEA survey, based on detailed questionnaires sent to the school systems, was strictly statistical and did not attempt to analyze the findings. But the data point to a need for substantially greater efforts in big-city schools—and particularly in vocational schools in these cities—to encourage students to finish their education.

Despite the discouragingly high dropout rates recorded by the study, they reflect "a steady and substantial increase in school holding power, from 68.3 per cent to 70.8 per cent" since 1961.

The survey pinpoints grades 10 and 11 as the critical years for dropouts. One out of eight students in grades 10 and 11, respectively, left before graduating during the period under study, but only one out of 16 left in grade 12.

"The chances that a pupil who enters grade 10 in a large-city high school will graduate are 70 out of 100," the report notes. "However, if he remains in school until grade 12, his chances of graduation jump to 94 out of 100."

The maximum age of compulsory school attendance among the 128 cities surveyed ranged from 14 years in one city—Wichita Falls, Tex.—to 18 years in 22 cities, including many California school systems. The largest number of cities—85—had a compulsory school attendance requirement through age 16.

Among the five largest cities, Los Angeles schools showed the greatest holding power. More than 77 per cent of the 10th grade students went on to graduate. The dropout rate was highest in Philadelphia, with only 53.4 of the 10th graders completing high school.

Weapons Charge In Barge Battle

An alleged assault with a boat hook on a barge in a fight over boats ended yesterday with Michael Wright, 24, of San Francisco being charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

Wright is charged with attacking H. Kenneth McCurdy, 29-year-old Sausalito artist, with the boat hook yesterday afternoon aboard a barge in Belvedere.

The fight began when Wright said damage to his boat was caused by work McCurdy had done of it, Belvedere Police Chief William Woodington reported. It occurred on a barge owned by Donald Bailey of Sausalito, off West Shore Road in Belvedere.

Bailey signed a complaint charging Wright with assault with a deadly weapon and assault and battery. Wright, released from jail on $276 bail, is to appear Aug. 3 in Marin Municipal Court.

McCurdy and his wife, Mary Ellen, are to appear in court next month on charges they outraged public decency in displaying an allegedly obscene anti-Communist sign on the ferry boat where they live in Sausalito.

Planners Will Hear Lake Rezoning Issue

The Marin County Planning Commission will have a public hearing Monday on rezoning of land around Marin Municipal Water District reservoirs to open area.

The land, totaling 18,082 acres, is now zoned agricultural and residential on an interim basis.

Proposed for rezoning are 16,450 acres surrounding Kent, Alpine, Bon Tempe, Phoenix and Lagunitas lakes, and 1,632 acres surrounding Nicasio Reservoir.

The commission meeting is scheduled to start at 9 a.m., with each agenda item taken in sequence, so no definite time has been announced for the hearing, which is item No. 24 on the agenda.

Among other items scheduled for public hearings Monday are:

1. Rezoning of the Wolfback Ridge area, between Sausalito and the proposed city of Marincello, from interim single family residential. (Agenda item 7.)

2. An application by Phyllis Hansen for a permit to establish a full-time pre-school child center at 3700 Paradise Drive, Paradise Park Marina, Tiburon Peninsula. (Agenda item 15.)

3. A request by Elroy Munson for an adjustment to permit a ranch-hand's dwelling, adjacent to 200 Miller Creek Road, Marinwood, to be used as an art studio for 11 persons for two years.

Hit-Run Victim Still In Coma; Fund Grows

Twelve-year-old Robert Miller of Greenbrae remained unconscious today at Marin General Hospital, 20 days after he was struck by a car while riding his bicycle on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Meanwhile, a special fund to aid the badly injured youngster's family reached $360.

Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Miller of 30 Corte Loyola, suffered a broken pelvis and left leg, as well as head injuries, cuts and bruises in the July 9 accident.

The money has been raised by the Greenbrae Property Owners Assn. The group's president, Peter Gattheimer, said further contributions are being sought.

Portuguese navigator Vasco da Gama reached India in 1498.

Book Drive Success

About 1,000 pounds of books have been shipped from Mill Valley to Mississippi to be used in the Books for Mississippi program, Maggie Grant, book store operator at the Greyhound bus station, said today. "We will continue to accept them as long as they come in," said Mrs. Grant.

Peach Sour Cream Cake Is Delicious

It's not a cheescake, although cream cheese and sour cream are in it. And it's not a pie either, although it's baked in a pie pan. What is it then? Well, it's simply "Peach Sour Cream Cake"—and it's simply delicious!

PEACH SOUR CREAM CAKE

1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese
¼ cup dairy sour cream
3 eggs
¾ teaspoon salt
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ cup butter or margarine
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup dairy sour cream
2 tablespoons brown sugar

Drain peaches, reserving 1 tablespoon syrup. Cream cheese with ⅓ cup granulated sugar. Add ¼ cup sour cream. Beat in 1 egg and ¼ teaspoon salt. Sift flour with baking powder and remaining salt. Cream butter with remaining granulated sugar. Add remaining eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Stir in reserved peach syrup and vanilla. Add flour mixture; blend well. Spread evenly on bottom and sides of 10-inch pie pan (thinner on the sides). Spoon in cheese mixture. Bake 30 to 35 minutes in 325-degree (moderately slow) oven. Remove from oven. Arrange peach slices in circle on top of cake ½ inch from edge. Blend 1 cup sour cream and brown sugar; swirl around peaches. Return cake to oven for 5 minutes. Chill. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Nuts, Chocolate In Trio Kisses

2 large egg whites
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup sifted confectioners sugar
1 cup shredded coconut
2 cups cornflakes
½ cup each semi-sweet chocolate pieces and chopped pecans

Beat egg whites and salt until frothy; gradually beat in confectioners sugar; continue beating until glossy, stiff, straight peaks form. Fold in remaining ingredients. Drop by teaspoonfuls, 1 inch apart, on greased cookie sheets. Bake in moderate (350°) oven about 25 minutes. Makes about 36.

SUNNY CANNED cling peach slices interlaced with sour cream bedeck delicious "Peach Sour Cream Cake."

More Hot Dogs Consumed In July Than Other Months

About two billion frankfurters are consumed in July alone—that's a good reason for naming it National Hot Dog Month.

This is also the hot dog eatin'-est country in the world, with annual consumption reaching 14.4 billion.

Convenient, ready-to-eat, versatile and flavorful, frankfurters can go into almost any kind of main dish. As a kabob, they're easily threaded and quickly cooked.

Frankly Delicious Barbecue

8 to 10 frankfurters, sliced ½-inch thick
1 cup thinly sliced onion
½ cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
⅓ cup catchup
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 can (16 ounces) barbecue beans

Brown onion and green pepper lightly in butter or margarine. Add sliced frankfurters, catchup, Worcestershire sauce and beans. Cook just until heated through. 4 to 6 servings.

Blender Dressing On The Tart Side

Chef's Salad Blender Dressing

BLENDER DRESSING

¼ cup (1 small) coarsely chopped onion
⅓ cup each cider vinegar and dry vermouth
½ cup salad oil
1 teaspoon each salt and dry mustard
¼ teaspoon white pepper
¾ teaspoon paprika
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Turn all the ingredients into the electric blender; blend until smooth. Pour into a jar; cover tightly and refrigerate at least overnight before using. Shake well before using. Makes about 1¼ cups.

This Aspic Looks Just Like Summer

In love with some of summer's most delicious offerings? Then this aspic is one you may enjoy trying.

All green and pink, it is as pretty as a flowering world. And it's delicate flavor because it uses avocado and fresh salmon.

To prepare it, you edge a mold with strips of the avocado. Then you fill the mold with a clear aspic made from the salmon plus the stock in which it was cooked.

For this dish we used a widely available one-quart mold that we favor because its surface is corrugated and it has a cover. Strips of avocado fit nicely into the corrugations.

You'll notice in the recipe directions that we say, at one point, to "correct the seasoning." This term, as you probably know, is a chef's favorite way of urging a cook to "taste and add salt and pepper—or other seasoning—if needed."

AVOCADO SALMON ASPIC

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
Water
1 pound fresh salmon, in one piece
1 small onion, coarsley chopped
1 rib celery, quartered
1 bay leaf
8 allspice
1 teaspoon salt
1 avocado
Salad greens and lemon wedges

Sprinkle the gelatin over ¼ cup cold water to soften.

In a saucepan put 1½ cups cold water, the salmon, onion, celery, bay leaf, allspice and salt. Bring to a boil; cover and simmer until fish flakes easily—about 20 minutes. Remove salmon, reserving stock. Skin, bone and separate fish into fairly large chunks.

Strain stock; measure and, if necessary, add enough boiling water to make 1¾ cups. Correct seasoning. Stir together the hot stock and softened gelatin until gelatin is dissolved. Chill until slightly thickened. Fold in salmon.

Halve avocado lengthwise; remove skin and seed. Slice lengthwise. Arrange slices upright in a 1-quart mold. Turn salmon mixture into mold, spooning a little of the clear aspic around sides to coat avocado. Chill until firm.

Unmold and garnish with salad greens. Serve with lemon wedges. Pass mayonnaise or French dressing if you like. Makes 6 servings. (AP)

Watermelon Plays It Cool

When the sun sinks into the horizon and it's time to relax, a candlelit patio can set the stage for a snack that is truly refreshing and will banish the cares of the day.

Either as an integral part of a full course meal or just as a company or family refresher, a Watermelon Oasis can deliciously perk up the warmest summer evening gathering. It's easy to play it cool with the help of the iceman. A twenty-inch long watermelon, cut in half lengthwise, and lined with six pounds of snow ice, can hold six twelve-ounce glasses of punch and an oval-shaped bowl for mixed fresh summer fruits. You can place a small scoop on the table and guests can help themselves to additional ice for their drinks.

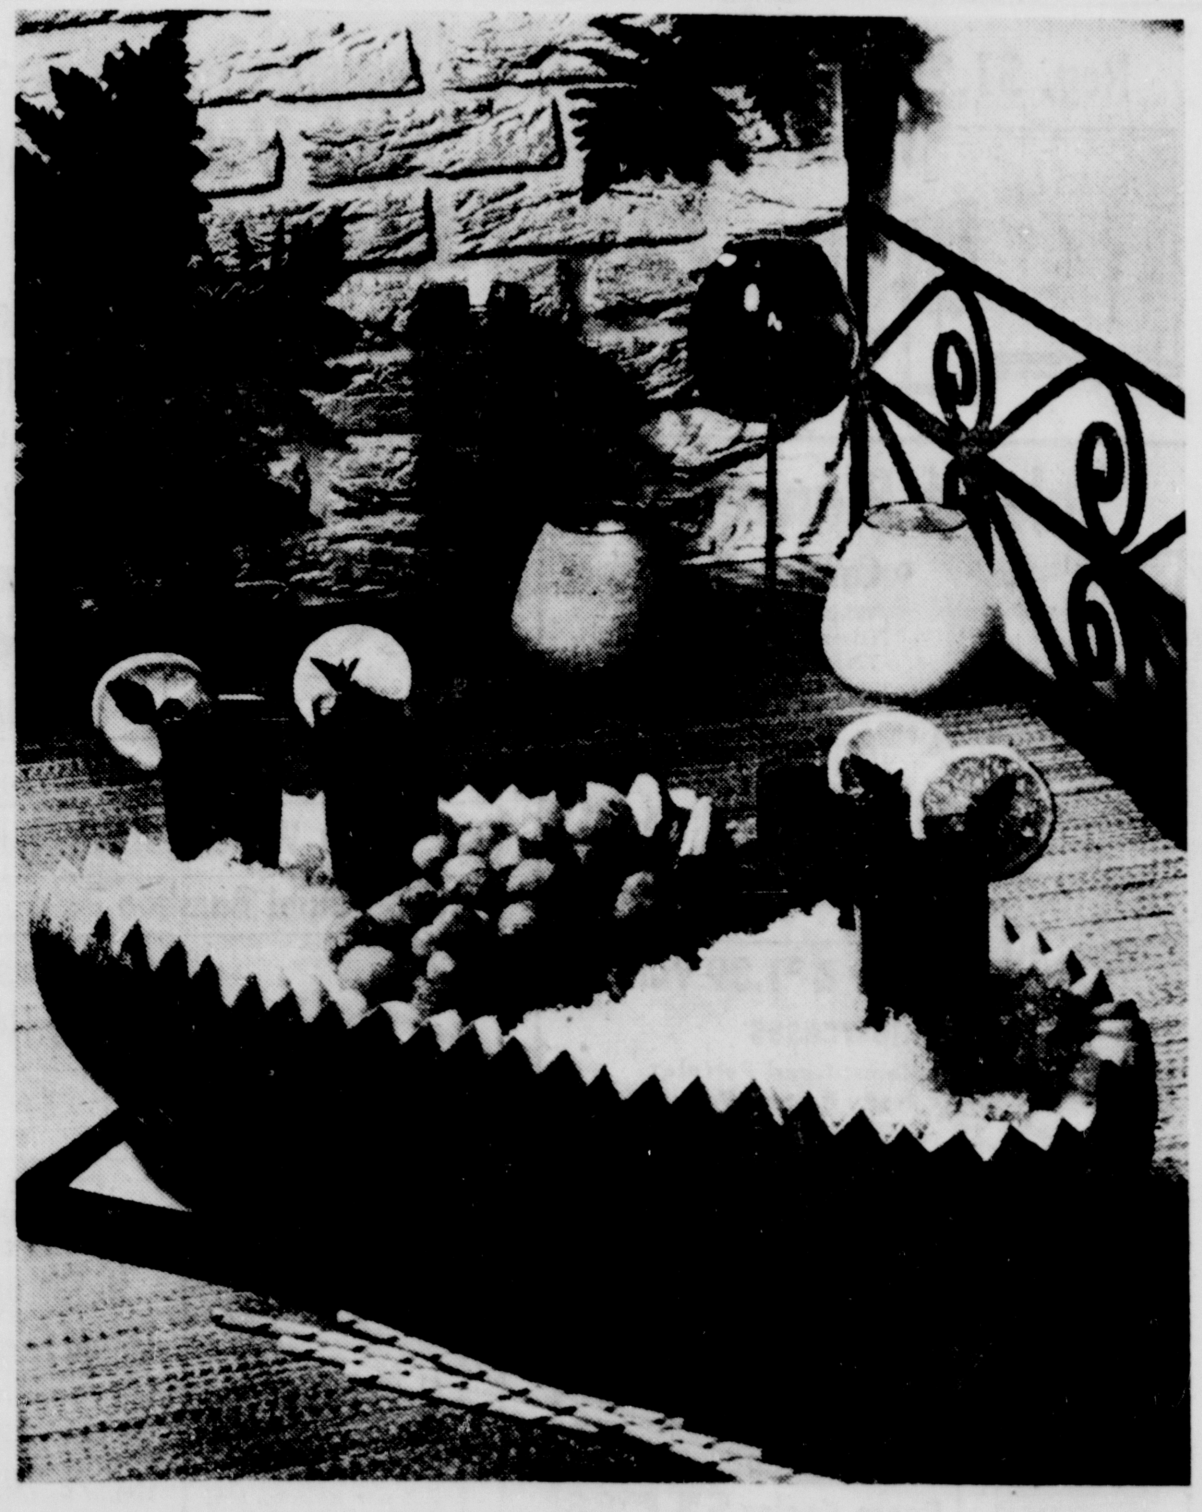
FROSTY PINK PUNCH
(Makes about 2½ quarts)

1 can (6 ounces) frozen orange drink concentrate, reconstituted
1 can (6 ounces) frozen unsweetened pineapple juice concentrate, reconstituted
1 can (6 ounces) frozen fruit punch concentrate, reconstituted
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Iceman's crushed isce

Combine all ingredients; stir. Serve in tall glasses. Garnish with lemon slices or mint, as desired.



THIS ICE-FILLED Watermelon Oasis is guaranteed to perk up any warm evening gathering. The ice filled watermelon cooly serves the light dessert course and guests can refresh their own drinks by helping themselves to the ice as needed.

NAVAL NET DEPOT CHANGE IS SLOW

Interior Department Now Must Say Whether Terms From Navy Are Suitable

By ELLEN BRY

Scientific work at what was the Tiburon Naval Net Depot still is limited primarily to paper work as researchers await a decision on when the base will be turned over to the Department of the Interior.

The U.S. Bureau of Mines new underwater mining projects, the Bureau of Sports Fisheries research into effects of environment on fish are moving fractionally forward as scientists wait for word of what buildings they may take over.

Spokesmen for the Navy reported by telephone from Washington Monday that they had completed their program for declaring the base as "excess" and had turned over their plans to the Department of the Interior.

The Navy desires to keep under its control a pier and building on it which houses calibration gear used to check ship and submarine electronics operations. It also wants to retain possession of "one or two" other buildings, a Navy representative reported.

The Interior Department now must decide if the Navy terms are agreeable to it and would allow efficient working of the scientific departments under it which have moved into the depot in the past year.

Scientists at the net depot speak in terms of "when . . . if . . . we're waiting" in referring to projects. The Navy previously wanted only to lease the base to the Interior Department, with take-back powers which made Interior officials afraid of beginning long-term projects.

Washington officials could give no indication of when the depot might finally be turned over to the Interior. The Navy in the past year has sold as surplus and moved to other bases about 25 million dollars worth of equipment, so that in most cases empty buildings fill the base on Paradise Drive.

Dr. Victor L. Loosanoff, head of the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries at the depot, is warmly enthusiastic for the day when ocean research will become the full-time base activity, saying the depot could become the West Coast ocean research center.

Loosanoff, a world authority on oysters, probably will not find his activities much changed by Interior takeover of the base, as most of his work is in the field in Tomales and Drake's Bay and in writing and lecturing. He plans to retire in a few years.

The Commercial Fisheries Bureau may or may not continue to operate from the base, federal officials reported, but other Interior divisions, such as the Geological Survey, might do research from it.

More immediately, scientists in the bureaus of mines and sports fisheries wait week to week for permission to move into the empty buildings and begin setting up offices, aquariums, machine shops, boat outfitting shops, laboratories and arranging for boat docking facilities.

Business failures in May of this year were 10 per cent below the total for the same month of 1963.

Strep Leads List Of Marin Illness

Fifteen cases of streptococcic infection, seven of them in Mill Valley, were reported last week to the Marin County Health Department.

Other communicable diseases reported were five cases of measles, eight of mumps, one of tuberculosis and one of infectious hepatitis, according to Dr. Carolyn B. Albrecht, health officer.

Marinites Plan Tropic Underwater Film Epic

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred F. Giddings Jr. of 869 Flaxberry Lane, Marinwood, will leave Monday for Belize, British Honduras, to shoot underwater film they hope to enter in the International Film Festival nearly next year.

The Giddingses, owners of the Bamboo Reef Skin Diving Supply at 3765 Redwood Highway, San Rafael, and the Bamboo Reef in San Francisco, have been hired by U.S. Divers Co. of Seattle, Wash., to shoot underwater scenes for promotional purposes.

Going along to help in the filming will be Bill Cain of San Rafael, Jim Sieler of San Francisco, Mike Prodfite of San Francisco, and Gary Rubottom of Seattle, a representative of U.S. Divers Co.

The films will be taken with special cameras owned by Giddings. Included in the plans are some night shots of water life taken with special lights attached to the cameras. The group will also take pictures of fish and plant life in underwater caves.

Some of the film will go to the U.S. Divers Co. and the remainder will be edited and entered in the International Film Festival scheduled next February in Santa Monica, according to Mrs. Giddings.

Mr. and Mrs. Giddings and their four aides will spend about one month on the excursion, returning to Marin early in September.

Mayor McInnis To Attend Session

San Rafael Mayor John McInnis will take part in a four-day conference on government and politics sponsored by the California Alumni Assn. Oct. 18-22 at the group's conference and recreation facility near Lake Tahoe.

Lectures, panels and case studies will make up the program, titled "The Educated Citizen and Public Responsibility: Changing Patterns in American Government and Politics."

Junior College Plan

Changes in the master plan for the Kentfield campus of College of Marin will be discussed by the junior college district board tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Room 24 of Harlan Hall.

Novato Teen Club Elects

Kerry Onderdonk was named vice president; David Ferry, assistant vice president; Lee Baldwin, secretary; Marsha Jones, assistant secretary, and Vickie Baseheart, treasurer.

Watermelon Feast Due In Mill Valley

Mill Valley youngsters with a yen for watermelon may take part in the annual melon feed to be held under the city's summer recreation program at 3 p.m., Friday at Park, Alto and Old Mill Schools.

"Everybody eats until the melons are gone," said Steve Buffo, city recreation director.

Buffo said children are asked to take 10 cents to one of the three playgrounds between 1 and 5 p.m. any day this week, the money to be used to pay for the melons.

Novato Artists To Hear Traveler-Artist

Robert Leight of Sonoma will be guest speaker at the Novato Society of Advanced Art meeting at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Nevin Kempthorne studio, 60 Grove Lane, Novato. He will show American Indian and Oriental arts and crafts specimens.

Marin Can Be Proud Of New Emporium, Northgate

What will be the ultimate effect on Marin of the coming of the Emporium and other "big city" stores planned for the Northgate shopping center?

Some gloomy prophets of doom would have us believe that older districts in Marin, including downtown San Rafael, will wither and die.

The relatively small independent store, whose proprietor is known personally by many of his customers, will vanish, replaced by the impersonal atmosphere of the "big city" merchandiser, they say.

A more reasonable prediction comes from a leading independent store owner on Fourth Street in San Rafael.

"My business," he says, "has for several years experienced a five to 10 per cent gain in volume each year. This is due both to population growth and to improvements I make in my store—wider selections, better displays, more effective advertising, increasing good will and so on."

"I expect that my regular gain in volume will be lost to me for a year or two. I don't expect to have a decline in volume; only a loss in the rate of growth. After a year or two, my growth rate should pick up again and within five years I will never know the difference; my old growth rate will be back again.

"Yes, there will be some stores close along Fourth Street in San Rafael. But these are marginal stores. Some would close anyway; Northgate competition will only hurry the process.

"In the long run, no new shopping area will 'kill' downtown San Rafael," said our informant, adding a warning that the city must of course meet its traffic and parking problems.

Many enlightened Marin retailers have long believed that their real competition was "the city" — San Francisco.

Any store or shopping center in Marin that helps break the "city" shopping habit benefits all of Marin in the end.

We overheard one shopper making her first visit to the new Northgate Emporium store say, "Now I won't have to go to the city to shop anymore."

And we stood by as another shopper studied the diagram of future stores painted on the fence at Northgate. We overheard her say with a sigh, "All this is certainly going to be a credit to Marin County."

Our judgment is that the coming of the Emporium and other "big city" stores to Northgate will benefit Marin as a whole in a greater measure than the temporary set-backs it may bring to some individual merchants in other Marin shopping districts.

PRospect 1-0450

PRospect 1-0450 in San Francisco is the number of the Suicide Prevention Bureau . . . Operating on the theory suicides could be prevented if only they had someone to tell their troubles to, and to give them a willing ear and sound advice, the Suicide Prevention Bureau has experienced, expert people manning the phone 24 hours a day.

Most would-be suicides are ambivalent about their contemplated act. "To be or not to be?" Many people with apparently everything to live for get carried away by momentary events or depression. Others, who are friendless or feel they have made a mess of their lives, need advice and new orientation.

Before you swallow those pills or walk out on the Bridge, call this number. Your troubles aren't unique.

PENNY DEPOSIT?

Supervisor's Beer Can Proposal Would Not Solve Litter Problem

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — A supervisor in Monterey County has come up with what he thinks is a simple solution to the litterbugging problem in California.

He would require a one-cent deposit on all beer cans, the deposit to be refunded for any cans returned to the dealers. The deposits collected which were unrefunded would be turned over to the state, presumably to be used to pay costs of anti-litter work.

THE SUPERVISOR believes many beer drinkers would save the cans meticulously in order to return them. In addition, he thinks children would go along highways or in state parks and pick them up, for the refunds. In fact, the supervisor would set up central collection stations to permit children to return the empties without setting foot in a liquor store.

An attendant at the Point Lobos State Reserve Park got wind of the supervisor's idea and added his own suggestion that the idea be expanded. He would have the program on a national basis and have deposits required on all packaged food containers.

Now we don't like to knock anybody coming up with ideas on how to lick the litter problem. It's a problem that seriously worries us because we see too many evidences of it each year.

On Putah Creek, in Yolo County, there was a classic example. A landowner finally closed his property to public access because of the litter left by fishermen and picnickers. Only through the intervention of the Wildlife Conservation Board, and the expenditure of considerable funds to purchase the property, was it reopened to permit entry into a good stretch of fishing stream.

But the beer can bit is pretty ridiculous. In the first place, the deposit would be a tax, anyway you look at it. And it would be a tax some two and one-half times more than already is collected on beer by the state.

Now we're not making this criticism because we're a beer drinker. Our tastes run more to the grape and the grain. But this would be a discriminatory tax.

In the second place, of course, while beer cans may be the most noticeable and perhaps even the most numerous of the sources of litter, their removal would by no means solve the litter problem.

EVEN WITH the tax, there's some doubt as to whether hunters or fishermen in the back country would trouble to load up the beer cans after a trip to return them.

We hope someone comes up with an answer to the littering problem one of these days. There are a number of laws on the books which make it illegal, including a new one prohibiting the placing of any material that could burn.

But these laws, like many others, are made to be obeyed and not enforced, except on rare occasions. Somehow, too many people don't realize the severity of the problem. They don't realize that the dwindling lands for hunting, fishing or camping are dwindling even faster because owners are tiring of putting up with the mess.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Goldwater Not Against Unions

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Mr. Brewer's letter of July 21 reporting Goldwater's position on the so called "right to work" should not go without a challenge. I don't recall Goldwater at any time saying he is against unionism. I am sure he is not. He is against a man being forced to join a union to get a job. Any organization worth its salt will draw people without their being forced. Some unions of national scope have gone beyond their intended purpose of helping the day laborer; and contrary to their seeing all are, "pulling an oar" as Brewer would have us believe, they are dragging an anchor on our economy, ie. featherbedding, lack of interest in seeing their members meet rigid qualifications for jobs they intend to fill.

I am supporting Goldwater because I believe he is against this erosion to our economic system.

Republicans Will Have Voice

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Answering Reader Crosby's letter, July 24, wherein he challenged another reader to provide a list of names of those who were frightened by the proceedings of the recent Cow Palace "convention", I was frightened. I was more frightened by what I saw and heard there than I am by the tragedies in Harlem which are chilling enough. I could give Reader Crosby quite a list of formerly strong Republicans who were also frightened, but we shall sound our voices "loud and clear" in November. In the meantime, we shall be working to collect others.

If Reader Crosby is uncertain why anyone should be frightened by the Cow Palace proceedings, I refer him to Reader Hanzel's letter in the I-J July 24.

There is much to be corrected in the policies of our country, but let us assure ourselves that the leaders we elect are as alert as possible to the current times and problems and that those same leaders will listen to our voices. As Governor Rockefeller said above the dinning boos, "It is still a free country." Let's keep it that way.

Letter Begets Another One

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Recently I wrote to you a letter in which I took a jaundiced view of the good Senator from Arizona. This seemed natural enough a thing to do as my favorite indoor sport is the "bugging" of politicians with whom I disagree. However this gave rise to an interesting event, for today I received my first scurrilous letter.

Now this is the sort of thing I was talking about when I commented on how the good Senator had given the green light to the hatchet men of the Jack Acid Society. Only in this case, it was a hatchet woman. Judging from her limited vocabulary, four-letter Anglo-Saxon and sundry anatomical references, the unfortunate creature is of limited imagination, education, and intelligence. However my main objection to this letter is based upon aesthetic grounds. Invective is a fine art, to be indulged in only by persons of wit, intelligence, and precision of thought. I resent heavy-handed, bungling efforts on the part of rank amateurs.

If, in her next effort, the good woman will include her return address with her name, I shall be glad to instruct her, via private correspondence, in the use of this art form. Even so, her letter, being my first, I shall treasure always for sentimental reasons.

Comments On Barry's Text

Editor, Independent-Journal:

If extremism in defense of liberty is not a vice, then it follows logically that extremism in securing liberty is not a vice. Therefore the Negro is justified in using extreme measures to secure the liberty guaranteed him by the Constitution. Does Senator Goldwater subscribe to this philosophy?

William F. Buckley, Jr. says: "It is the context that counts, and every man is entitled to his context." Agreed! Therefore let Buckley explain why he took Senator Goldwater's pronouncement out of context. Governor Rockefeller and Governor Romney fought desperately to have extremism condemned, but to no avail. Then the next day, Goldwater speaks out in support of extremism. No one can mistake his position except those who wish to do so. Goldwater is a profuse writer with years of experience. He would never have used the controversial word extremism for "total dedication" (Buckley), and no one knows that better than William E. Buckley, Jr.

Boat Report Was Sarcastic

Editor, Independent-Journal:

In regards to the July 22 article headlined "well, well, Orion did finish the Tahiti race": it was a disgusting and sarcastic report on our local boat. It sickens me that our local paper cannot take more pride in a yacht and crew that enter a long race that only seven boats even venture to take.

For the information of those interested the Orion arrived in Papeete on Tuesday, July 14. They will be sailing to the island of Moorea for this weekend.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

HOLLYWOOD FOLK, who dearly love practical jokes, are still chuckling over one played on a big producer just after the Christmas holidays a few years ago. A pixie writer inserted an ad signed by the producer in the classified column of a big Los Angeles daily that read, "I WILL PURCHASE YOUR OLD CHRISTMAS TREES! 50 cents to $2 paid, depending on size and condition. Deliver to —— South Beverly Drive. If no answer, just leave on lawn with tag on tree, giving name and address. Offer good until January 14." When the unsuspecting producer came home from a trip he found some 600 wilted and bedraggled Christmas trees cluttering up the sumptuous lawns of his estate.

Ultimately he learned the identity of the writer who had perpetrated the hoax, and was so furious he didn't hire him again until he absolutely needed him.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

James Kilpatrick, owner of Bon Air Market in Greenbrae, was scheduled for prosecution by the district attorney's office as a test case of the State Unfair Practices Act. Several local grocers asked for the litigation, claiming the market was selling groceries for less than the required six per cent profit.

20 YEARS AGO

Robert Trigon, Navy gunner's mate of San Rafael, was one of the more than 1,200 veterans of Pacific action rescued at the Farallone Islands when their returning troopship, the S.S. Henry Bergh, ran onto the rocks in the fog.

(Roscoe Drummond is on vacation. During his absence, his column is being written by members of the staff of the New York Herald Tribune.)

By ANDREW J. GLASS

WASHINGTON—One volume you won't find listed in the Library of Congress catalogue has been sitting on President Lyndon B. Johnson's desk for a week.

Between its hard blue covers are 565 pages recording what Sen. Barry Goldwater has said on every conceivable topic from atom bombs to zealots.

THE WHITE HOUSE issued a rush order for the book the day before the senator was nominated as the Republicans' presidential candidate. Ten full-time researchers and 35 "volunteers" were hastily put on the project by the Democratic National Committee. They completed their task a week ago Sunday at 3 a.m.

Only four sets of "What Goldwater said" exist, although the Democrats eventually plan to produce 25 more from their duplicating machines. The national committee has kept the master book, which is being thoroughly cross-indexed.

The remaining three copies are in the White House. The president culls his during the evening hours, marking potential ammunition to be used against his rival in the coming election campaign. The other two sets belong to Richard Goodwin, a speechwriter, and Horace Busby, a former Texas newspaperman installed within the LBJ circle.

While Mr. Johnson's Goldwater book may perhaps be the most extensive compilation of its kind in history, there is nothing new in the idea of gathering intelligence about a White House contender through his own statements—and then using it against him.

So far as is known, the practice began in 1953, when the Democrats, peeved at Dwight D. Eisenhower's apparent invincibility before the voters, decided to keep close track of his further sayings.

THE JOB fell to a young man who, by luck, escaped a partisan purge and stayed on in the Eisenhower White House. Once overlooked in the shuffle, the leftover operative from the Truman days found a niche in a bowling alley nestled in the basement of the executive mansion, which its new golf-playing tenant never bothered about.

When, on occasion, the researcher was asked what he was doing, he replied, quite truthfully, that he was preparing a "scrapbook on the general."

He kept at this worthy chore until one day Sherman Adams, the assistant to the president, discovered for whom the volume was being prepared. The young man was promptly dispatched, taking his "scrapbook" with him to the Democratic National Committee.

While no slouches when it comes to political intelligence, the Goldwater people have yet to put together a book on Mr. Johnson.

THEY ARE AHEAD of the Democrats in one respect, however: last January, the "Goldwater for President" committee leased a machine from Eastman Kodak that automatically retrieves and copies microfilmed data on the pronouncements of their challenger.

Sometime this week, Dean Burch, the new GOP national chairman, will decide whether to spend the added money needed to program the machine for a complete intelligence network on Mr. Johnson.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Debate Is Readied On Shriver Powers

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — The explosive situations in Harlem and Rochester are slated to be among the key issues in next week's House debate on President Lyndon B. Johnson's billion-dollar anti-poverty program.

Opponents are planning a series of blistering speeches spotlighting how the sweeping powers President Johnson is seeking for his "poverty czar" may be used to undermine the New York City administration by pouring vast sums of money into private Harlem civil rights groups.

HEADED BY Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen (R-N.J.), these legislators will warn that Sargent Shriver, acting director of the poverty program, plans this unprecedented use of federal funds to combat poverty in the nation's largest city if Congress votes him the authority.

In launching their attack, the Frelinghuysen group is circulating to all House members a memorandum warning that such use of federal funds could "stir up a nightmare of trouble" in New York rather than stamp out poverty.

As an example of their fears, they point out that Shriver already has intervened in this tense situation by forcing a merger of Haryou, Harlem Youth Group, and Act, a militant Negro civil rights organization, by promising them federal aid to fight poverty provided they joined forces.

Shriver's proposal by-passes the local city government, according to the legislators, and gives instead nearly 100 million dollars to Haryou-Act, the newly-merged group, which is active in pressuring Mayor Robert Wagner to curb the police department's powers.

Haryou-Act also has joined the campaign of other civil rights groups in New York in demanding the suspension of Lt. Thomas R. Gilligan, the policeman whose off-duty shooting of 15-year-old James Powell sparked the Harlem riots.

BREEDING TROUBLE — In its memorandum calling on House members to vote curbs on Shriver's unprecedented powers, the Frelinghuysen group stresses the bitter controversy going on among city and private groups for control of the proposed funds to fight poverty in New York.

Highlights of this memorandum include:

"The bill opens the way for direct federal involvement in the activities of every private organization in New York without the necessity for participation or approval of the city government.

"We have had for a period of weeks now a struggle going on in New York City between several groups for control of some 110 to 118 million dollars.

"In order to qualify for assistance, two groups, the so-called Haryou group and Act, have been ordered by Mr. Shriver, director of the program, to merge, and a power struggle has developed over who should control the new organization."

NEW OTEPKA SHOWDOWN — Otto Otepka, State Department security official, is going to get his long-delayed hearing on charges that he gave classified information to a Senate committee investigating security risks in government.

The hearing was ordered after Otepka turned down an offer from Secretary of State Dean Rusk to drop the charges if he would agree to a transfer from the State Department's security office.

In preparing his defense, Otepka plans to subpoena more than 30 high-ranking State Department and CIA officials for questioning, including those who bugged his phone.

Current Grand Jury Is Quietest Since Long-Silent Panel Of 1959

CALIFORNIA LAW charges county grand juries with a broad range of duties. Besides hearing evidence and returning indictments in criminal cases, grand juries are charged with examining the books, records and accounts of all county departments, all hospital districts and special districts, inquiring into the needs of county offices, the abolition of existing offices or creation of new ones.

Grand juries may also inquire into the affairs of cities and school districts.

With such a range to cover, obviously any grand jury must concentrate its efforts somewhere. Its members could not do a fine-tooth job on all these things if they gave full time to it for the entire year.

Because the grand jury meets in secret, how much inquiry it is making is unknown to the public unless it issues reports from time to time.

There are grand juries and grand juries. The amount of reporting (and probably, of inquiry) varies greatly from one to another.

Marin County's current grand jury has as yet issued no report of any kind, other than indictments in criminal cases.

Not since 1959 has a county grand jury kept such long silence. That year's grand jury did not come out with any special report until Oct. 19, when it absolved a Tamalpais High School District trustee of any wrongdoing in urging students to participate in the campaign for a school financing election.

Last year's grand jury, in interim reports, urged a fourth superior court, reversed the preceding year's grand jury proposal that the county personnel department be divorced from jurisdiction of the county administrator, found no cause for action in a disputed arrest procedure in Fairfax, and found a decrease in the number of unqualified claims for veterans' tax exemptions.

The 1961 grand jury (which ran over into '62) was one of the most active in many years in producing interim reports. During its term it adopted 11 resolutions and issued seven interim reports, besides issuing a 62-page final report.

On March 21, it opposed moving the county recorder to the Civic Center. A week later it blasted the majority of the board of supervisors for a January stop-work order on Civic Center construction. On June 5, it called on the county to set up a planned mental health program. On June 22, it concluded an investigation into secrecy of a City of San Anselmo accounting report, finding the city council was justified in keeping the report secret.

There was a vacation hiatus then, but the jury was issuing reports again by Sept. 28 and kept it up quite regularly until discharged the following February.

One wonders what sort of reports may be expected from the current grand jury. If everything is held for the final report, there is always a likelihood of much being overlooked for action because of too many recommendations at one time.

A FEW WEEKS ago, a reader wrote the editor to berate San Rafael police over "pursuit of a mortified 8-year-old" by "five grown men."

That wasn't quite the way it seemed to Capt. Joseph Brusatori, assistant police chief who for many years was San Rafael's juvenile officer.

"That's the toughest kid for his age I've ever seen," said Brusatori. "We couldn't get a word out of him, not even his name. We had to book him to juvenile hall as a 'John Doe'."

That was after the boy's arrest on June 29, when he tried to steal two boats on the San Rafael Canal.

He was arrested again last Wednesday, after again trying to take boats on the canal. An apartment resident called police that he was climbing onto her balcony.

Between those two arrests, he had been picked up once in San Anselmo as a runaway.

On the same day as the 9-year-old's latest arrest, Corte Madera police announced cracking a teen-aged burglary ring of three boys who admitted 11 home burglaries.

All three, said Inspector Harold N. Hocket, are from "good upper middle class families." Their excuse for turning to crime at ages 14 to 16: they "had nothing else to do."

There's something very wrong here, and the blame can't be shifted onto the cities for "failure to provide recreation." What happened to parental responsibility?

Maybe it would not be a bad idea, as advocated by San Rafael's Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa, to publicize the names of juvenile offenders—and of their parents. Perhaps fear of publicity might imbue the parents with more feeling of responsibility than some of them seem to have.

ART BUCHWALD

British Announce Agency To Help Sad Plight Of Unmarried Fathers

NEW YORK—With all the bad news going on throughout the world last week there was one ray of hope emanating from, of all places, England. A welfare council in Essex has announced that it has set up an agency to help unmarried fathers.

Mr. Roy Demery, who was appointed by the Moral Welfare Council of Essex, was quoted as saying, "Unmarried fathers must be helped, not neglected and looked down on.

"THE FACT that a girl is having his baby obviously weighs heavily on many a man, especially if he is not in the position to marry her. . . . Often he is bullied into wedding her by angry parents. This should not happen if the couple don't love each other."

We hope that the Essex experiment is a success and a similar program will soon be adopted in this country. The problem of unwed fathers has been ignored by everyone in the United States, while all the attention has been concentrated on the unwed mother.

There are an estimated 3,000 homes in the United States where an unwed mother can apply for help, but there is not one place where an unwed father can seek consolation.

We have always been concerned with the plight of the unmarried father.

Friends have come to us in the darkest hours of the night and tearfully confessed that they had fathered a baby. All we could tell them was, "Forget it."

BUT THIS, unfortunately, wasn't enough. Many of them were filled with guilt and despair. Some wanted to run away, but they had no place to run to. A few were being pursued by angry fathers and brothers with shotguns and hid out with us until the danger was over. And then there were desperate ones who had lost all reason and wound up marrying the girl. Had there been a welfare agency to help them, none of it would have happened.

Now perhaps all this will be changed. If the Essex experiment is successful, unwed fathers will have a new lease on life.

The way we see it is that, when an unwed father finds out he's going to have a baby, he goes to the agency and registers with them. A social worker will explain to him that there is no shame in being an unmarried father, and he will be introduced to other unwed fathers who are in a similar boat. In this way he'll realize he is not alone.

In time society may develop a different outlook toward unmarried fathers. But until they do we think this is the best solution to a problem that for too many years has been swept under the rug.

"The shadow's waving again!"

ALMANAC

Today is Wednesday, July 29, the 211th day of 1964 with 155 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter. The morning stars are Jupiter, Saturn, Mars and Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1958, Queen Elizabeth the first, fearful of a Spanish invasion of England, traveled to Tilbury to spur on her troops.

In 1914, a successful conversation between New York and San Francisco heralded the building of the first American transcontinental telephone line.

In 1945, an armada of American bombers dropped 3500 tons of fire bombs on six Japanese cities following a warning broadcast.

A thought for the day—president John Adams said, "Fear is the foundation of most governments."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Western District headquarters. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Two Safety Plays In Single Hands Seen In This Game

One of the most difficult hands in the recent Intercollegiate Championships required declarer to make two safety plays.

One was standard, but the other took a bit of thought.

Opening lead — ♣ J

Declarer wins the opening club lead in dummy and must win five tricks in each red suit to assure the slam. He begins by leading the ace of hearts from dummy.

SAFETY PLAY

The theory of this standard safety play is that there is no problem unless one opponent has all four hearts. There is no way to stop West from getting a heart trick if he has all four hearts, but there is a way to stop East.

When the bad break shows up, South is ready to play hearts twice through East. He leads a low heart from dummy, East puts up the ten, and South wins with the queen.

South must get back to dummy for a further heart finesse.

PLAY DIAMONDS

First, however, South must play the diamonds. South can guard against four diamonds on either side, but must decide which side.

West, who was void of hearts, cannot also be void of diamonds since he tamely passed. South should guard against four diamonds in the West hand.

South begins the diamonds by leading the king. He continues with the seven, and West plays the nine to force out dummy's queen. Declarer gets back to his hand by leading a heart for a second finesse through East.

LEADS EIGHT

Now South leads the eight of diamonds through West. If West plays low, his best defense, South lets the eight ride for a finesse. Then a diamond to the ace clears the suit.

Declarer gets back with a heart to lead his last diamond, discarding a spade from dummy.

A club puts dummy in to cash the last heart, and twelve tricks are in the bank.

QUESTION

As dealer, you hold:

♠ K 6
♥ K Q 9 4
♦ K 10 8 7 5
♣ Q 3

What do you say?

Answer: Pass.

This is a borderline opening bid with three flaws. For one thing it is aceless, and good players avoid opening a doubtful aceless hand. For another the doubleton queen of clubs is not worth its full count of 2 points. Third, the 4-card hearts and 5-card diamonds are awkward suits to bid. It is very close, and most players would open the hand; but most experts would pass.

Unification Urged In Patchwork Of Sewer Districts

Health Department Bulletin Cites Greater Cost, Pollution Of Bays

Unification of Marin County's 22 sanitary districts into two to four large districts under one master plan for adequate and economical sewage disposal for the entire county has been urged by the sanitation division of the county health department.

"Over the past 15 years, piecemeal planning and small-scale, uncoordinated sewage operations by separate communities have proved unnecessarily expensive and at times downright inefficient in solving problems of waste treatment and discharge in Marin County," according to the department.

"Small sewage treatment plants built to serve single communities have been outgrown as populations expanded and the plants have had to be abandoned.

"Over five million dollars worth of such equipment, at a conservative estimate, has been lost through abandonment of sewage treatment facilities alone."

History of formation of six sanitary districts in the Mill Valley area, each with its own facilities to discharge waste into the nearest inland waterway, was outlined in the health department's monthly bulletin.

Even if the separate small plants had been less costly to construct and maintain than the one large facility, the practice of discharging waste material into the creeks and Richardson Bay was less desirable than the recommended outflow of waste into the Pacific Ocean, it said.

Public agencies can prevent pollution of inland and bay waters only by setting standards for the quality of water which must be maintained in the area.

The State Water Pollution Control Board and the State Department of Public Health have set standards which required the City of Mill Valley to upgrade its sewage plant by doubling its size and chlorinating its sewage wastes.

"The Housing Authority of Marin was required to cease discharging untreated sewage from the Hilarita area into Richardson Bay," the bulletin recounted.

Both the housing authority and the City of Belvedere have met the requirements of the state agencies by building new pumping stations and contracting with the Tiburon sanitary district for their maintenance.

"Numerous other sewage discharges in the county are constantly coming under the surveillance of the sanitation division of the health department and, in cooperation with the state agencies, the public's health has been protected in most cases," the newsletter continued.

The department pointed out, however, that public support and appropriation of money for an engineering study will be needed before the proposed unification of the districts can be realized.

Muir Woods Trip Permission Needed

Permission slips for youngsters taking a bus trip to Muir Woods next Tuesday, sponsored by San Rafael Recreation and Parks Department, are available at the recreation center, 37 Union Street, and at parks and playgrounds in the city.

The children, who must be at least eight years old, will leave for Muir Woods in buses at 11 a.m. from the recreation center. They will return to the center at 4 p.m.

Sewer District Cuts Tax Rates, Revamps Fees

Almonte Sanitary District directors Monday night adopted a 1964-65 budget of $16,500 and agreed to recommend that the tax rate be 30 cents per $100 assessed valuation, a drop of six cents from last year, when the budget was $22,009.

With revision of an ordinance, reported Chairman Robert A. Alexander, all commercial properties, including those along Shoreline Highway, will pay a uniform sewer service fee of 50 cents per $100 assessed valuation. This change is expected to be effective in two weeks.

In fiscal year 1963-64, Shoreline properties paid a sewer service charge of 70 cents and non-Shoreline commercial properties paid $1.50 per month, or the same as dwellings.

Moonlight Cruise To Assist Youth Center

A moonlight cruise on San Francisco Bay will be held Saturday, with participants to leave from Tiburon pier at 8:30 p.m. aboard the Harbor Queen.

Proceeds will go to the Mill Valley Community and Youth Center. Tickets are on sale, according to Larry Counts, coordinator, at Keane and Ferrari quality meats, the Men's Shop and Marin Floor Covering.

Germans Comparing Goldwater, Strauss

By JOHN DORNBERG
Worldwide Press Service

BONN (WPS) — In appearance and temperament, German Franz-Josef Strauss and American Barry Goldwater are about as dissimilar as two men can be. But German politicians are now pointing, with some trepidation, to the analogy between the rise of the right-wing Arizona senator and the comeback of West Germany's former defense minister on a wave of right-wing Bavarian Gaullism.

Troubled by the complexities of a changing world, a growing number of Germans—like many Goldwater followers — are demanding action, regardless of what kind. And in his carefully calculated political comeback campaign, the bullish, thick-necked, hard-drinking Bavarian has promised them action.

Once a wholehearted supporter of Germany's alliance with the United States and an advocate of Atlantic partnership, Strauss is today the national spokesman for a Teutonic version of de Gaullism.

Just what this means is as hard for astute German political observers to figure out as it has been for Strauss to define when pressed. His critics argue that he has no philosophy except personal ambition. Be that as it may, Strauss has succeeded, in the 18 months since being ousted from the Cabinet because of his involvement in the police raid on the Spiegel magazine, in becoming one of the most-talked-about and powerful men on the German political scene.

He has welded his own Christian Social Union (CSU), once nothing more than a somewhat ludicrous Bavarian wing of the larger Christian Democratic Union (CDU), into an influential party in its own right.

He has split the parent organization into two warring factions: one headed by the CDU chairman, former Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, the other aligned behind the present Chancellor Ludwig Erhard.

"The result," as one observer here pointed out recently, "is that Erhard and his Cabinet enjoy wide support in parliament — from the opposition Socialists (SPD), not their own party."

Strauss, supported by Adenauer and a number of other key CDU leaders, has succeeded in making Erhard's government so unstable that the chancellor must resort to testimonials from U.S. President Lyndon B. Johnson in German political conventions.

Erhard's critics know that he is too popular with the electorate to be dumped. Without him as its standard-bearer, the CDU/CSU stands to lose the next election. It is this fact that helps preserve the precarious balance of power in German politics today.

In the wake of Erhard's recent firm assertion of authority, a temporary lull has settled over the political battlefield. But the schism that divides Germany's ruling party is real and likely to continue at least until the 1965 election. Moreover, it is likely to paralyze Germany in foreign relations for the next year and a half.

The battle lines dividing the two factions have been drawn clearly, though the issues are in foggy perspective. On the one side are Strausss and Adenauer who count as their followers not only the Bavarian CSU but an estimated 100 backbenchers of the CDU. They are supported by all the key party leaders, including some of the very same men who engineered Strauss's ouster from the cabinet in January 1963 and Adenauer's resignation last October.

Their motivations are far from clear. In the words of one moderate CDU politician: "They want an Erhard standard bearer and government but Adenauer policies. As a result, the next government may well be formed by neither, but by the SPD (Socialists)."

Some, like Adenauer, genuinely believe that Franco-German rapproachement is threatened by Erhard's anglophile views of a "big Europe." Others, notably Adenauer and the parliamentary floor leader, 39-year-old Ranier Barzel, believe that acceding to U.S. views on the East-West detente will jeopardize chances for German reunification.

Others, such as Strauss, are Machiavellian opportunists who see in the present national frustrations a chance to realize their own political ambitions. The backbenchers who support the faction are merely riding the bandwagon they think will win.

On the other side is the moderate, north German, Atlantic-oriented faction of Erhard and Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder, supported by a minority of the party and the opposition.

Schroeder is the most intelligent and eloquent spokesman for the group and therefore its most exposed representative.

Because his pro-Anglo-American views are anathema to the francophile Bavarians and Rhinelanders of the Adenauer-Strauss faction, and because Strauss hopes to reenter the government by becoming foreign minister, Schroeder, more than Erhard, continuously emerges as the chief target of the critics.

That many of the Strauss-Adenauer views are self-contradictory and incompatible with the realities of the world today, goes without saying. But to Strauss, who can turn a political convention into a mob affair of cheering and foot stamping with earthy oratory and a few platitudes, that is unimportant.

A year ago he began to reconsolidate his power in Bavaria as a means of rising from the political abyss. Today his CSU is already a pliable tool and he is now trying to make the parent CDU the same.

A year ago, when he was first planning his comeback, Strauss was counting on Erhard's cooperation. That hope failed to materialize. Consequently Strauss has resorted to a new technique: usurping Erhard's power.

As with Goldwater on the American scene, Strauss is clearly the man to watch in Germany today. And most Germans are doing so with awed fascination.

TRACTOR GOES FOR 'CRUISE'

An offshore "cruise" on New Orleans' Lake Pontchartrain proves that British-built tractor has ability to work in swampy areas. The 8,000-pound tractor is kept afloat by its four huge tires and propelled by the paddle-wheel action of the tires deep lugs. (UPI Photo)

Tapes In Future May Help Prepare Favorite Meals

NEW YORK (UPI) — It should be a cinch for 1984's bride to cook just the way "his" mother did — if mother was obliging enough to tape all his favorites.

According to refrigeration and air conditioning experts, it is conceivable that sometime within the next 20 years the average kitchen will become a completely coordinated food processing plant operated by a countertop computer and, instead of a recipe book, the housewife will rely on punched tapes — with each tape preparing a complete meal.

The supermarket she shops in will sell nothing but frozen foods and will operate automatically, akin to "automat" restaurants. Foods will be freeze-dried close to their point of origin, at the immediate peak of ripeness for fruits and vegetables, close to the aging house for meats, and down by the sea for fish.

Last Shot Was Enough For Luke

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Luke Parsons says "I think I'm about through" collecting antique guns.

He loaded his old Kentucky long rifle as he had 100 times before and fired. The barrel ballooned into shredded strips of metal, the stock shattered and brass fittings sailed through the air. The last shot was enough.

They're Using Smaller Cars At United Nations

With garage and parking space at a premium at United Nations headquarters and the surrounding fashionable area—and with U.N. membership still growing—many delegates, faced with the prospect of abandoning their Cadillacs and walking, have turned to the small European car.

But more and more frequent is the sight of diplomats, acting as their own chauffeurs, stepping out of a Volkswagen, a Fiat 1100, a Peugeot, a Hillman or a Mercedes Benz.

Many delegations rent their Cadillacs for the duration of the assembly session, others bring theirs from Washington, where they are part of their embassies' car parks.

Showing good Irish common sense—and setting an example which is being followed by quite a few other delegations—the mission of Ireland has no official cars of any kind and only one of its members drives a small Ford for his private needs.

The story is still being told of Irish ambassador Frederick Boland who, upon having been elected president of the Assembly three years ago, told astonished U.N. aides he didn't want the official Cadillac that goes with the title.

"When I want to go somewhere I can always get a cab," he was quoted. And he still prefers it that way.

Secretary General Thant uses a 1962 Cadillac, equipped with a telephone. Its license numbers DPL — for diplomatic — 28. Its presence in front of the main entrance to the secretariat building is a signal to reporters that the "S-G" is in.

A remarkably well preserved 1949 Cadillac is usually parked right behind Thant's. It belongs to undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche and is the envy of vintage car buffs.

"That man must treat it like a pet," one of them said.

The agonies of parking, which are the lot of diplomats around the U.N., have been lightened considerably over the past year following an agreement between the world organization and New York traffic commissioner Henry Barnes. Several blocks near the U.N., and near the eastern side of Central Park where most foreign embassies are located, have been reserved for diplomatic cars parking only.

The signs are in blue and white—coincidentally the colors of the U.N. flag—and only "DPL" or "FC" (Foreign Consulate) cars are permitted there. Now it's the fellow without a DPL and FC license plate who gets a $15 ticket there—and quite often, too.

India Tuberculosis Kills Millions

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Tuberculosis in India takes a toll of 5 million lives each year, according to scientific surveys conducted by the government.

These surveys reveal that out of India's 440 million people nearly 6 million are suffering from the disease. Of this number, nearly 1.5 million are considered to be "infectious."

This Town Will Some Day Be 50 Feet Under Reservoir

HOCHATOWN, Okla. (UPI) — The roar of giant trucks and caterpillars cracks the mountain stillness where the Choctaw hunted deer and bear.

Down the Mountain Fork River, men and machines re-arrange a section of the Kiamichi Mountains and earth and rock give way to the pick ax and tractor blade. Construction crews are building the Broken Bow Dam, a 4,252-foot long, rock-fill structure that will flood 14,200 acres and swallow Hochatown like the mythical continent of Atlantis.

Most everybody has left now but a few families still linger in this tiny southeast Oklahoma town. The dam will not be finished until 1968 and some of them have children in school. Other residents work on the dam and still others stay because it is hard to leave.

Hochatown, located in McCurtain County near the Oklahoma-Arkansas-Texas border, never was much in size or population. Made up of a little people, both Indian and white, there was little protest when rumors began to spread about the dam.

No one liked it, but there was little they could do about it. Those who left took most of Hochatown with them.

Everywhere the remnants of foundations still stand, but the houses are gone — carried off board by board to be reassembled in another place.

Five Mile Hollow Creek flows into the Mountain Fork at Hochatown and homesites dot its winding banks. Stone fireplaces and the tops of open wells seem out of place in the wilderness created when the people moved.

Worthless leavings at the homesites, however, show that once people lived here in contentment. Rusting hulks of early vintage cars, worn kitchen utensils and broken toys lay scattered about.

Some buildings, like the church, school and general store still stand.

A. C. Kincaid, operator of Hochatown's general store and its postmaster for more than 40 years, said the post office served "175 families" in the town's heyday.

Kincaid took down his official "U. S. Post Office" sign for good last Dec. 29, but his store is still stocked with everything from wire cutters to Washington State apples. Outside, there is a gasoline pump, the only one for miles around.

Hochatown was settled by the Choctaw Indians in the early 1830's. The Choctaws, originally from southeastern Mississippi and southwestern Alabama, ceded their land to the U. S. in the 1811 Treaty of Dancing Rabbit Creek and migrated northwest in the famous "Trail of Tears."

In exchange for their land in the Gulf Plains, the Choctaws got most of Southeast Oklahoma. They had their own government, modeled after the U. S. system, until Oklahoma became the 46th state of the Union on Nov. 16, 1907.

Oldtimers tell you the people of Hochatown lived off the land —and bootleg liquor. the first white men cleared farms in the area about 1904, just three years before statehood. They hunted and fished and each had his "corn patch" for growing the ingredients for an Indian bread called "tomfulla." Many of the townspeople raised cotton for sale.

Between 1910 and 1922 the town had a cotton gin, telephone exchange and a mill for making barrel staves.

But the community made most of its present reputation on the manufacture of illegal booze during the depression years. Estimates say nearly three-fourths of the white population made whiskey, their stills hidden in secluded woods and mountain crags.

Only the surveyors know the real meanings of the ribbons, but to the people of Hochatown, they signal the day when the Mountain Fork will creep out of its banks and condemn the community to history.

Few will remember Hochatown in another generation. Cartographers will leave it off maps and it will be dropped from official state and county lists.

But the dead will be remembered. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will have Hochatown's cemetery moved, grave by grave, to a site away from the reservoir.

The dam's benefits: electric power, reservoir water supply and an end to devastating floods. The reservoir, which will have many bays, inlets and islands, will have a capacity of will have a capacity of 1,368,000-acre-feet of water.

In a few years, fishermen and water skiers will travel the surface of the reservoir,

ROLLING TO THE FAIR

"The General," a locomotive which figured in a famed Civil War chase, crosses Hell Gate Bridge in New York on way to the World's Fair. The refurbished engine, owned by the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, will be an exhibit.

His Performance Fails To Satisfy Some Citizens

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Traffic Inspector J. G. Bezuidenhout heard screams in one of Johannesburg's busy streets as he rode across an intersection on his motorcycle.

He turned left — the wrong way into a one-way street—and took off after a couple of Africans who had attacked a cashier, Mrs. Catherine Wait, and stolen a bankbag containing $1,680.

Bezuidenhout tore past motorists traveling towards him, swung his way past their curses and caught up with the two men. He tripped up one, grabbed the other and recovered all the money.

Bezuidenhout, feeling rather pleased with himself, headed back towards Traffic Headquarters to tell his story to his senior officers. He found that one angry woman motorist had laid a charge of reckless and dangerous driving against him.

Architect Tour Of Iberia Planned

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 16-day tour for architects departing for Portugal, Spain and Italy Sept. 29 has been planned by Alitalia Airlines.

The tour includes visits to contemporary housing developments, old castles, fortresses, palaces and villas of historic and traditional architecture, as well as visits to modern skyscrapers and sports arenas.

Credit Cards

NEW YORK (UPI) — The more than 1 million American Express credit card holders will now be able to charge Braniff International Airways tickets either on a regular payment basis or on an extended payment basis over a period of three, six, nine or 12 months, it was announced by Howard L. Clark, president of American Express credit cards on all its routes in the United States, Mexico and South America.

Population Of Rome Grows, But Old Romans Fade Away

ROME (UPI)—The population of Rome is growing rapidly but the "Romans of Rome" are fading away.

"Romans of Rome" is the proud self-description of the people of Trastevere, the old working class distirct on the right bank of the Tiber south of the Vatican. And there are fewer and fewer of them—perhaps less than 30,00 now—while the population of Rome is approaching the 2.5 million mark.

The explanation is simple: With comfortable modern buildings springing up all around the old city, the Trasteverini, practical and unromantic people, see no special reason why they should go on living in dark, damp, unheated houses a few centuries old. Especially since the old apartments can be profitably sold as office space or rentel to atmosphere-loving Americans who modernize the interiors without touching the picturesque outside walls.

As a result Trastevere, like other parts of Old Rome, is turning more and more into a show window—a place where you go to eat on a characteristic restaurant, shop or sightsee, but where you do not live.

No one really knows that the population of Trastevere—then called "Trans Tiberiam"—was in the days of Augustus or Nero, when all Rome totaled an estimated one million inhabitants. But the Trasteverini then certainly were a sizable share of the Romans and remained so through the Middle Ages, when wars and malaria whittled the population of Rome to a low of 50,000 in the sixth century. After the sack of Rome in 1527 the population fell to about 30,000.

A Papal census in 1621 showed the population back to 118,000 Romans, but of these only 11,000 were Trasteverini. When Italy took over Rome in 1870, the overall population had grown to 210,000, of whom 16,000 were Trasteverini.

At the end of 1963, Romans numbered about 2.4 million. Of these only about 30,000 were Trasteverini. This year, the population of Rome is likely to grow by another 100,000 and Trasteverini are likely to decrease further.

Probably the most illustrious living son of Trastevere is Alfredo Cardinal Ottaviani, the baker's son who became secretary of the Supreme Sacred Congregation of the Holy Office. Also from Trastevere is Pietro Cardinal Ciriaci, whose mother was a fruit vendor.

Oysters Good

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) —The old superstition that says oysters should only be eaten in months that have an "R" in their names is all wet, according to a recent report by the U. S. Department of Interior. Oysters are tastiest during May and June, the report said, because during those months they are full of glycogen stored up for the spawning season.

Old Steel Becomes Red Topped Fence

Take scrapped rails. Reprocessed, this steel enjoys new life in miles of red-topped fence posts which glow in the night like long rows of red-hot pokers along country roads.

Though red-top steel fence posts have been a steel company product for 40 years, says American Iron and Steel Institute, the process which now makes them glow a fiery red at night is brand new. As a result, production can't keep up with the demand, according to the manufacturer.

The light-glowing fence posts are especially popular among farmers of the Middle West, but the demand is spreading to other areas of the country, the Institute reports.

The method of applying the reflecting material which produces the red glow at night is credited to the ingenuity of three steel plant workers — an engineer, a plant foreman and a research meatllurgist working together. A patent on the process has been applied for in their behalf.

Big Gift Of Blood

BOSTON (UPI) — During the six weeks after he underwent surgery at Massachusetts General Hospital, Walter Murphy of East Sandwich, Mass., a 62-year-old hemophiliac, was given 1,025 pints of blood. It's estimated that if he were to be charged for this blood, it would cost him $25,525. The blood came from a special hemophiliac blood bank maintained by the hospital.

Burma In Need Of Farm Machinery

RANGOON, Burma (UPI) — Like many of South Asia's developing nations, Burma needs a lot more farm machinery to bring its rich soil into full cultivation.

The fertile soil of Burma's broad alluvial plains could produce enough food to make the nation one of the breadbaskets of the eastern hemisphere.

Its gentle hills and plateaus produce expensive timbers such as teak and hold untold quantities of lead, tin, rubies, sapphires and other precious stones.

About 80 per cent of Burma's 22,342,000 people are farmers and they produce about two-thirds of the nation's annual national income, about 31 billion dollars.

But only 20 million of Burma's 55 million acres of arable land is under cultivation.

The revolutionary government of Burma, headed by General Ne Win, is attempting to mechanize agriculture in a hurry to improve the lot of the peasants and exploit the nation's potential wealth.

Unofficial estimates say Burmas needs about 50,000 tractors to bring all its arable land under profitable cultivation.

The nation imported 3,000 tractors from Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union last year along with a large number of tillers purchased in Japan.

The government, on paper at least hopes to import about 2,000 tractors annually.

Select Burmese students have been sent to Czechoslovakia, Russia and Japan to learn how to repair and maintain farm equipment.

Tractor-operating courses are being given to sons of Burmese farmers on a crash basis with classes running from 5:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The students are paid the equivalent of $8 per month plus room and board during the three-month course.

When a student finishes, he goes to work in a government tractor station for $25 monthly, the lowest basic wage paid to a clerk in a government office.

Most of the tractors now in Burma are being used for priority cash crops such as ground nuts, pulses (edible seeds), jute, longstaple cotton, hemp and sugar cane.

The government hopes it can pay for imported tractors and other farm implements from profits made in exporting rice and other cash crops.

The government also is issuing harvest loans, 10 million dollars earmarked this year, and is expanding its meteorological and hydrological services with aid from the United Nations Special Fund.

BRITAIN'S WITCHES SEEKING PUBLICITY

Covens Want Respectability, Claim To Practice Only Whitest White Magic

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's witches—they still have them over here — want to improve their brand image.

The wrinkled old crone is out. The pretty girl witch is in.

Eye of newt and toe of frog (Macbeth) are out. Smoked salmon sandwitches and vintage wines are in.

The evil eye is out (well, nearly). The 1964 model witch tries to be whiter than white (as against the "black witch" of fairy tales) and if she has to stick a pin in an effigy, the pin is likely to be sterilized.

What is more, witches, both male and female, are talking about a trade union that would not only make witchcraft respectable but perhaps even profitable.

Only a few months ago witches were shy about revealing their identities because it might cost them their mundane jobs. One male witch threatened to sue if anyone published his connection with a coven (witch's circle) in suburban Watford.

But now witchcraft is suddently respectable and Britain's witches are anxious to follow the lead of the pioneers who have already explained what they are and what they do in these modern times for the benefit of nationwide television audiences.

What finally brought the witches into the open—after centuries of secrecy because of the torture and execution of hundreds of them in the 16th and 17th centuries—was the recent death of Dr. Gerald Gardner, 80, a witch who took part in the "great curse" on Adolf Hitler.

As Doctor Gardner once told it to UPI, he and all the other witches in Britain linked their "life force" to raise a "cone of power" which prevented Nazi Germany from invading Britain in World War II. He said similar cooperation by witches had wrecked the Spanish Armada in 1588 and thwarted Napoleon's plans to capture London.

Gardner was curator of "The Witches Mill" museum on the Isle of Man, off the coast of Britain — the only witches museum in the world—and when his will was probated it set the cauldron bubbling by actually naming the two witches who inherited his estate.

One of them is Mrs. Monique Wilson, high priestess of the covens of Scotland and the other is Mrs. Patricia Crowther, high priestess of the witches of the cities of Sheffield and Manchester.

Neither of these two ladies relished the publicity at first, but openly revealing their identities was part of Doctor Gardner's plan to bring witchcraft out of the furtive necessities of the age of persecution.

Mrs. Wilson said somewhat sadly that the fact she would be named as official guide to the Witches Museum had evidently been guessed by some other witches who were jealous enough to resort to evil charms and incantations.

"They cannot harm me," she said, defiantly. "I have had my warning and I am protected. Last summer they almost succeeded. I had a heart attack no medical man would explain.

"It was ill-wished and I know what, or should I say who, caused it. But using power that way means it goes back to the sender three-fold. So witches who ill-wished me will themselves be ill."

Since this warning Mrs. Wilson's health has been excellent.

Mrs. Crowther said the trouble apparently arose because some witches thought Mrs. Wilson was going to lay claim to a new title—"Queen of the Witches."

"London witches were quite upset about this title business," she said.

She went on television with a London witch, Mrs. Ray Bone, demonstrating ancient rites which include some white magic but nothing that should lead present day Britons to revive burning at the stake—the old penalty.

Another witch, Mrs. Sybil Leek, a motherly 42-year-old antique shop owner, who claims to be high priestess of the New Forest coven, estimated there were 5,000 practicing witches in Britain and she was going to organize them into "The Witchcraft Research Assn." to give witches "a better public image."

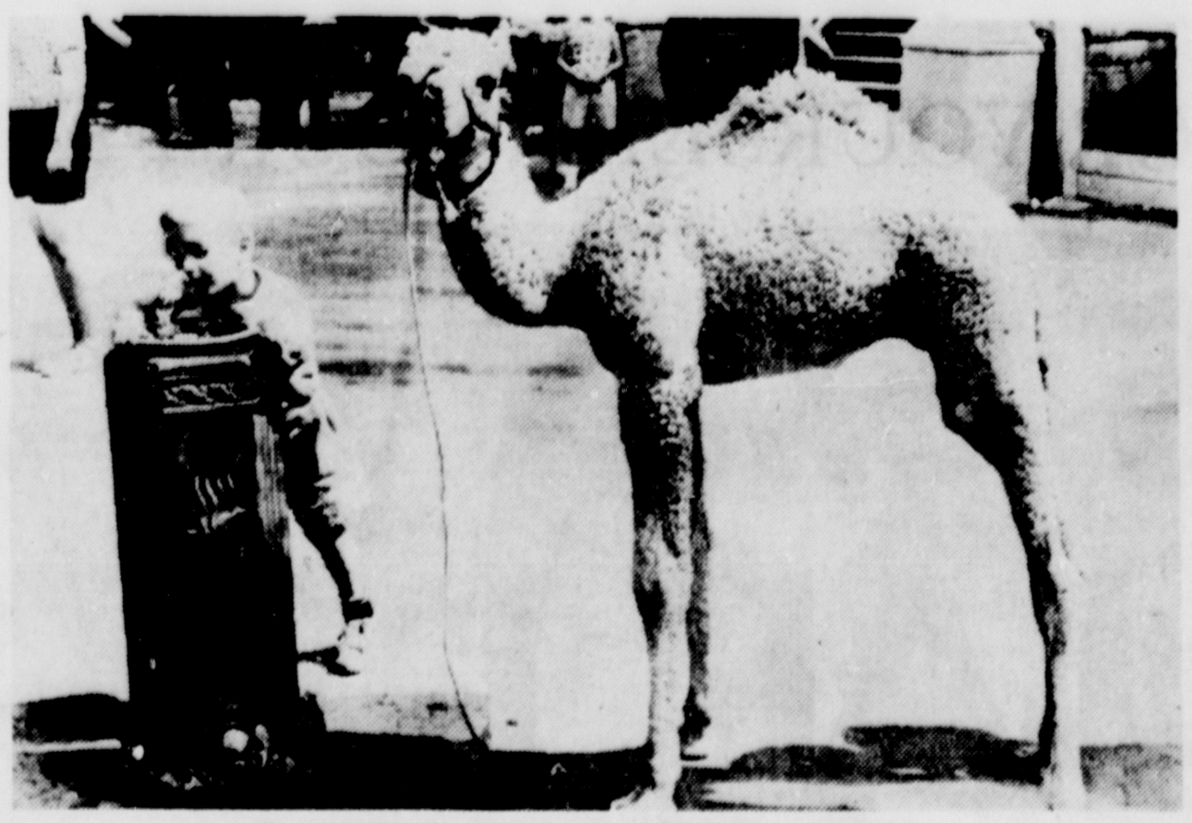
She said offices all over the country would be staffed by witches and she hoped to run bus tours of Britain for witches from other countries.

In the unprecedented discussion the British public learned there are white witches who try to promote "love and tolerance" and black witches who are not above trafficking with the devil although their number is said to be very small. They seem to spend their time desecrating churches and church-yards.

Mrs. Leek and the other respectable witches deny there is any sexual elements at all in real witchcraft. Orgies, they say, are a comparatively recent development in British witchcraft and one on which the conservative majority frowns. Although the rites of covens are secret, knowledgeable informants claim that outside the nudity and mumbo-jumbo they might be lodge meetings anywhere with sandwiches and wine or coffee winding up the night.

Mrs. Leek, who walks around with a pet jackdaw named "Hotfoot Jackson" on her shoulder, said legitimate witches do not take advantage of their powers although she knew some who could cause pain by sticking a pin into an effigy.

Supposing a journalist wrote skeptically about witches . . . ouch!



CAMELS GET THIRSTY TOO

Manila Commuters Ride Hydrofoil Bus At 35 Miles Per Hour To Jobs

MANILA (UPI)—The hydrofoil has come to the Philippines and the latest thing in commuter travel is to catch the bus that water-skis across Manila Bay.

Every 50 minutes from sunrise until after midnight the 75-seat "flying fish" glides away from its town terminal, rises five feet and swims across the bay at 35 miles an hour like a gigantic water bug.

This hydrofoil is a 56-ton passenger craft that combines the speed of a racer with the padded comfort of an airline cabin. It rides on subsurface fins which lift the flat-bottomed aluminum hull clear out of the water when it picks up speed.

Planing across the surface with a minimum of drag, the hydrofoil cuts water travel time 75 per cent below conventional voyages.

Hydrofoil commuter service was introduced in Manila by the Tourist Hotels and Travel Corp. and now ferries about 1,800 passengers a day between Manila and outlying communities around Manila's 30-mile wide bay.

Most of the traffic is on the 22 daily runs to Sangley Point Naval Base and the neighboring town of Cavite. The trip, which used to take 45 minutes to an hour by land or Navy ferry, now is made in less than 15 minutes.

THTC spokesman Jose A. Calvo, assistant executive director, says many of his regular customers leave their cars parked at the terminal so they can step into them and drive away when they get back.

The Sangley Point run costs about 30 cents. The twice-a-day run to Limay, on the Bataan Peninsula, is $1.40.

The longest and most expensive trip is a half-day jaunt to the island fortress at Corregidor at the entrance to Manila Bay, 29 miles away. For $6.25 the sightseeer gets 50 minutes on the water each way and a guided tour of the historic rock where more than 13,000 Americans and Filipinos held off the Japanese for five months after Pearl Harbor.

The Corregidor tour, which leaves after breakfast, every morning, draws capacity crowds on weekends but runs half-empty during the week.

Calvo estimates between 100 and 150 persons use the Limay service every day, and 1,600 travel daily between Manila, Sangley Point and Cavite.

The hydrofoils used here are $280,000 vessels powered by 1,350 horsepower Mercedes-Benz diesel engines. They are 68 feet long, draw nine feet of water at rest, cruise at 35 m.p.h. with a range of 200 miles, are equipped with ship-to-shore radio. One has radar for night travel.

They are operated by a captain, an engineer, four sailors and, on the tourist tour to Corregidor, a comely stewardess in uniform.

The main attractions are speed and comfort. Rates are two or three times the bus or ferryboat fare, but the hydrofoil is about four times as fast.

The safety factor is also good. Two tons of foam plastic padding lining the light hull makes the unconventional craft virtually unsinkable. If the water gets too rough (waves over five feet), the ship slows down and plows along like any other ship in the bay.

Long term plans for the water-skiing bus look to linking other island areas in Mindanao, in the far south, and Mondoro Island just south of Luzon. It's the answer to the seagoing commuter's prayer.

Canopies Still Very Popular

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Airconditioners and swimming pools notwithstanding, yawning 'neath an awning or campin' under a canopy are still popular ways to relax and cool off on a hot summer day.

New types of awnings and canopies, called Weblon, introduced by The Astrup Co. are guaranteed for four years against excessive color change, cracking, peeling and loss of strength. They're made with a new reinforced vinyl material to resist fire.

Spanish Breeders Seeking Secret Of The Bravest Bulls

MADRID (UPI)—Spain's breeders of fighting bulls have the toughest job of any stock raisers in the world because they're breeding for an animal quality that can't be weighed or measured.

They're breeding for the elusive quality of bravery — the basis of the spectacle of the bullfight.

If a bull is brave and responds throughout the fight to every challenge offered, it affords the bullfighters every facility to display their skill and art.

But if it is cowardly, refuses to charge or attacks uncertainly, braking once it reaches the fighters, even the most skillful and artistic "matador" will have trouble giving the paying customers their money's worth.

Until a bull is let into the ring for his first and last appearance, there's no way of knowing just how he's going to turn out.

The bulls are bred on big, sprawling ranches similar to beef cattle ranches in the United States, Australia or Argentina.

The calves are taken away from their dams when they're a year old and branded, earmarked and numbered with hot irons on their sides. At the same time the bull yearlings are separated from the heifers.

A year or a year and a half later the young, lean, spike horned cows face the essential test that will decide whether they will become the mothers of brave bulls or baby beef.

This test is called the "tienta," and was formerly used by bull breeders to test the bravery of both bulls and cows. Basically it consists of having the fighting animal face up to a horseman armed with a sharppointed lance, and gauging the bovine's bravery on how it reachs to the punishment.

Bulls no longer are tested this way on most ranches because breeders believe that every lance-thrust ("pic") a bull takes in this test will mean one less charge against the lance-armed "picador" that he will meet in the bullring.

So nowadays the stud bulls and cows are tested rigorously, and the breeders hope that a well-built bull from bravery-tested parents will be brave in the ring. Unfortunately, it doesn't always work that way.

There are two ways of testing the young stock in the "tienta"—in the open country or in a small bullring on the ranch.

In the testings in the open country two horsemen cut the animal from the herd and haze it away at full gallop. One of them rides up close behind the fleeing bovine and, by dexterously thrusting it in the rump with a long blunt pole, tips it over. If the animal is a fighter it gets up from this indignity boiling mad, and then the lance-armed tester rides in close on his padded horse and lets the animal charge him.

In the testings in the small ranch rings the animals are let into the arena one at a time. The lance-armed horseman waits on the other side of the ring. And if the animal is at all brave it tries to upend him.

The closely-watching breeder concentrates on how the animal reacts under the pain of the small, sharp lance tip. If it backs away as soon as it's pricked he jots it down for beef.

40-FOOT TRUCK PLUNGE

A large gravel truck pulling two trailers smashed through a guard rail on a Hollywood freeway recently and fell 40 feet to street below causing a huge traffic tieup. The truck and one trailer, both empty, smashed to the ground with the other trailer dangling above the street. The driver escaped with only a broken leg. (UPI Photo)

Drivers Spend Much Time Behind Wheel, Get Nowhere

CRYSTAL LAKE, Ill. (UPI) — Drivers here can cruise along for hours at 90 m.p.h., log 30,000 miles of steady driving, or drive uphill all day without stopping.

But they don't go anywhere.

All the driving is done in a room in a red brick building, part of The Pure Oil Company's research center in this small community northwest of Chicago. It's known technically as the test cell of the chassis dynamometer building. To the layman it can best be described as the "Road in a Room."

Here the oil company researchers can duplicate road or atmospheric conditions a driver might normally experience, and many that he's not likely to encounter in a lifetime. Temperatures can be raised above 100 degrees or dropped below freezing. The humidity can be pushed to a soggy 100 per cent or lowered to match Arizona desert conditions.

The "Road in a Room" offers four advantages to technicians:

1. It eliminates dependence on the weather for road tests. Technicians can make it rain for a year or conjure up a balmy spring day at a moment's notice.

2. It allows cars to be "driven" safely at speeds up to 100 m.p.h., without the delays, inconveniences, hazards and legal problems which would be encountered on the highway.

3. It allows use of more test and measuring equipment than could normally be carried in a road test vehicle.

4. It provides a low noise level, impossible to obtain outdoors and necessary when listening for audible sounds while doing fuel rating, octane requirements or uncontrolled combustion.

The interior of the "Road in a Room" is about equal in size to a large one-car garage.

A large blower, mounted at the front, provides the cooling aid required to duplicate driving conditions. If necessary, it can supply a gale of 80 m.p.h. At the rear are two garage doors through which the test vehicle enters. The room can handle any vehicle from a Volkswagen to a large truck-tractor.

Once inside, the vehicle's front wheels are clamped in place. The rear wheels rest on top of two 50-inch steel drums set into the floor. The two drums, which act as a treadmill, are connected to an electric dynamometer—a device for absorbing force or power.

In one corner of the test room is a large glass window. Behind it is the console area where technicians operate the controls, and make and record their observations.

In other areas of the building, partitioned off from the test room but vital to its operation are condensers, humidifiers, a power supply, an amplidvne unit, air filters, refrigeration compressors and an air conditioner.

Sputnik In U.S. Lake Causes Some 'Splash'

NEW YORK (UPI)—The glowing fragment of a Soviet sputnik plunged into Lake Michigan early in the morning of Sept. 5, 1962. It raised quite splash.

And it raised questions that have increasingly confounded lawyers as man's activity in space has increased.

What would happen if the sizzling chunk of satellite had hit someone's home? Could he sue for damages? Would he collect?

Man's tentative tiptoes into space have created a body of space law, but as yet no practice. One of the intrigued lawyears is New Yorker Eugene Brooks, who combines an education in international law with his hobby of peering at the moon through a backyard telescope.

Brooks and other lawyers say a foundation of space law precedents isn't going to be established until some accidents occur, so only tentative principles can be advanced. Man's entry into space will not alter that old Latin rule of thumb, "ex-facto eritur jus" — law follows fact.

The United States' existing Federal Tort Claims Act provides the groundwork for a damage suit. Under that law, if a citizen of the United States were injured by a rocket launched by this country, he could sue for damage. He would have to prove negligence on the part of the government and would probably use the official investigation of the accident as the basis of his claim.

But if the government could prove that the accident occurred as a result of bad judgmen, rather than a lack of care in carrying out a decision, the suit would be dismissed. In legal terms, this is the doctrine of "discretionary function."

An example would be an accident resulting from the launching of a rocket under bad weather conditions. The accident likely would be ruled the result of bad judgment, not bad rocketry.

The law shields the government from accidents which occur outside the boundaries of the United States.

As for that falling Soviet sputnik, Brooks says it isn't likely that an American would collect if he were hurt by it.

The United States doesn't permit a Russian to collect in U.S. courts if an American satellite crashes in the Soviet Union and Brooks considers it unlikely that the Soviets would be more generous.

Recognizing that an accident could raise international tempers and tensions, the General Assembly of the United Nations adopted a declaration of legal principles, governing outer space last Dec. 13.

The U.N. declaration isn't binding, but it does advance the principle that each nation which launches an object into space and each nation from whose territory or facility an object is launched is "internationally liable" for damage done on earth, in air space or in outer space. Presumably, by including "facilities," the U.N. members had in mind rockets and boosters.

The resolution ignored a U.S. proposal that international liability be imposed without requiring the injured party to prove negligence on the part of the launching nation.

Nor does the resolution permit an injured person to sue a launching nation on his own. He must depend on the intervention of his government.

U.S. law does not cloak private companies with the same protection that the government enjoys. A careless private firm has no immunity from suit to any extent and would be liable, says Brooks, "for any amount, in any court, here or elsewhere, whether the accident happened inside or outside the United States."

This is noteworthy as private enterprise, through the governmetn-created Satellite Communications Corp., enters space.

But lawsuits against private firms, either those that put up satellites or those that play a role in building them, are going to create legal pandemonium.

More than 600 contractors and about 4,500 subcontractors played a role in creation of the space capsule that carried Maj. L. Gordon Cooper around the globe 22 times last year.

Determining which of the 5,100 individual companies was responsible for the flaw had something gone wrong would be quite a job.

Gritty Citizens Pave Own Street

A contractor donated enough asphalt, left from a nearby job, to pave a 30-foot strip; then sold enough material at a discount to finish the job.

The residents pitched in with rakes and a hand roller to spread the asphalt.

Old Soldier Retires Just As Son Ships Out

FORT KNOX, Ky. (AP) — It was "hello" and "goodbye" at the home of M/Sgt. Elmer J. Blackburn.

On the day he retired, after more than 23 years of military service, his son, Elmer Jr., left for basic training at Ft. Jackson, S.C.

FOLKS LET SONS FIGHT FRIENDS

Norwegian Parents May Be Aiding In Keeping Suicide Rate Down

NEW YORK (UPI)—Norwegian parents, by letting their sons fight their friends, may be helping to keep the suicide rate at one-third that of neighboring Denmark and Sweden, according to an American psychiatrist.

Dr. Herbert Hendin, an instructor at Columbia University's psychoanalytic clinic for training and research, reports on four years' investigation of suicide in the three Scandinavian countries in "Suicide In Scandinavia," published by Grune and Stratton ($4.75).

Purpose of Hendin's investigation was to study the "psychodynamics" of suicide in small, socially homogeneous countries. He had done 10 years' research into suicide in the United States and felt the Scandinavian studies would be valuable in examining the causes of suicide in this country.

Hendin said that in Sweden and Denmark the suicide rate is 22 per 100,000 population—twice as high as in the United States—while in Norway it is only 7.5 per 100,000.

"What is apparently basic to the Danish vulnerability to depression and suicide," he said, "is the unique forms of dependence seen in Denmark . . . The Danish child's dependence on his mother is encouraged far more than that of the American child . . . Such a behavior pattern will make the separation from the mother, when it does come, all the harder to bear."

This dependence on the mother, he said, often is transferred to the wife, and many Danish suicides have a history of the recent loss of mother or wife.

"Combined with this tendency, and reinforcing it, is the Danish tendency to control and suppress aggression," he said.

In Sweden, the relationship between child and mother is very different, he said:

"The tendency is to encourage a very early separation of the child from the mother . . . Early separation becomes the source of a great deal of anxiety and resentment . . . The Swedish child, especially the boy, is taught not to show too much feeling.

Many Swedish suicides, Hendin said, have a history of this anxiety, plus a later failure in business or profession. Swedish parents generally place considerable value on ambition and "performance."

In Norway, he said, child rearing usually avoids these two extreme positions.

"Norwegian children are permitted to express aggression toward other children, in striking contrast to the rules for Danish and Swedish children," said Hendin.

"It is considered legitimate and desirable for boys to fight back physically . . . In particular, parents encourage their boys to fight back in situations where the child seems to have been unfairly treated by another child.

"The ability of Norwegians to feel justifiably angry and to express their aggression openly makes it less necessary for them to internalize anger . . . retroflexion of anger was a characteristic feature of Danish and Swedish patients and was found to play an important role in the causation of suicide in both of these countries."

Cruise Set

NEW YORK (UPI) — A 13-day Caribbean cruise that resembles a five-country tour of Europe will begin Sept. 12 when the Furness liner Ocean Monarch sails from New York to five Caribbean Islands featuring the historical, cultural, archtectural and culinary highlights of Spain, Denmark, England, France and Holland. Ports of call are San Juan, St. Thomas, Barbados, Martinique and St. Maarten.

STRICTLY FOR THE BIRDS

Jake the Canary, hard-working pet of Mrs. Helga Sricchia of Sylmar, Calif., was a bit puzzled when his owner plopped a nest containing four new-hatched, abandoned mocking birds into his cage. But, even though he had always been a bachelor, Jake went right to work feeding his new charges, who have now sprouted feathers. (UPI Photo)

America's Only Stork Soon Extinct, Naturalists Worry

WASHINGTON (UPI)—America's only native stork, the skinny-legged wood ibis, is waging a touch-and-go war for survival, the National Geographic Society reports.

The spectacular bird with its five-foot wing span, was once common throughout the Southeastern and Gulf states. But the society says it has been decimated by drainage and housing projects that are destroying their southern Florida feeding areas. Their survival is further threatened, it added, by large-scale lumbering and clearing operations that encroach on their wilderness breeding sites.

Wood ibises once numbered 100,000 in Florida alone. Now, between 8,000 and 10,000 pairs make their bulky homes there, Robert Porter Allen, noted ornithologist, wrote in the society's magazine.

In the 1950s, a severe drought reduced ibis numbers to an all-time low of 8,000. "For the first time in ornithological history, wood storks in large numbers left their usual haunts and wandered across the United States as far north and west as New England and Wyoming, looking for enough water to provide food," Allen said.

The 15 rookeries used by wood ibises are in Florida, but only three—Corkscrew Swamp Sanctuary and two nesting colonies in the Everglades National Park—are protected. Survival of the stork depends on its having sufficient feeding areas and breeding sites, Allen said.

Tasting something like turkey, the 10-pound stork was often hunted in the past. A South Carolinian gave the magazine his favorite recipe in his colorful Gullah accent:

"Yuh clean 'em, pick 'em, rub salt een 'em an' out 'em, wrop 'em een a crocus sack an' bury 'em een de groun'. Dig 'em up 'bout a week fum Sunday, an' 'e better'n a Christmas turkey."

The bird's popular name, wood ibis, is a misnomer, since it is really a stork, Mycteria Americana. it has an ugly, somewhat bald head which has earned it nicknames such as ironhead, gourdhead and Spanish buzzard.

The four-foot-high bird stands on stilt-like legs, and has a long nack and bright white body plumage set off by greenish-black wing feathers and a black tail.

It eats more than a third of its weight every day in fish, water bugs, frogs and small snakes. Its heavy, nine-inch bill, feeling a minnow, snaps shut faster than the human eye blinks.

On warm days, the birds stretch their wings like fingers, soar on thermal drafts to nearly 2,500 feet, then, without moving a feather, glide to feeding ponds, 20 miles away, sometimes turning over to briefly glide upside down.

In ordinary flight, they have been timed at 35 miles per hour.

During the November-April nesting season, the storks converge on their nesting grounds to lay eggs and rear their young. The male is slightly larger and, except by size, not even scientists can tell the sexes apart. At the end of the season, the handsome birds scatter throughout the South.

Cost Cutter

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ceramic tile costs from on to 20 cents per square foot a year less than many other floor and wall surfacing materials over the life of a building, according to a study of the New York cost estimating firm of McKee-Berger-Mansueto, Inc.

Elderly Get Help On Housekeeping

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Bud Cooper, 90, a Spanish-American War veteran, worked for a railroad until he suffered four broken ribs, a broken leg and paralysis from the waist down in an accident in 1928.

He learned to walk again but is still bothered with leg cramps. His wife, an invalid for 17 years, died eight years ago and left him alone in a four-room, frame home.

On the face of it, Cooper looks like a classic candidate for an old folks home. But he lives happily in his little home, thanks to a unique Houston organization named "Sheltering Arms."

Sheltering Arms' five case workers, 16 homemakers, two clerical helpers, a home economist, a consulting psychiatrist and a part-time recreational director see to it that as many of Houston's old people as possible stay out of "institutions."

"If it weren't for Sheltering Arms, I wouldn't have been able to live by myself," Cooper said. "I don't believe in those homes. They're all right for some people but not for me."

The main thing Sheltering Arms does for Cooper is to send a home-maker out once a week to tidy up his place and cook for him. His present Sheltering Arms homemaker is Louise White.

"There hasn't been a person stay in this house overnight since my wife died eight years ago," Cooper said. "It gets mighty lonesome at times and I sure look forward to that Thursday visit by Miss White."

"Most of our older people have dreadful fears of being institutionalized," Katherine Dugger, homemaking supervisor for Sheltering Arms, said. "They don't want to leave home."

If an older person or couple is active enough to make it on their own with the help of a one-day-a-week visit from a homemaker, Sheltering Arms lets them stay at home.

The next best thing, Sheltering Arms' officials believe, is a foster home. If all else fails, than an old folks home.

Sheltering Arms also has 70 women and 22 men volunteers who visit old people. The volunteers also drive old people to visit relatives, to church, to meetings or downtown to go shopping.

Volunteers also help at a get-together every Tuesday morning at a Day Center in downtown Houston. Elderly people meet to chat, pursue their hobbies and even to dance.

Mrs. Ruby M. Myers, 66, a widow, runs a foster home for two women—one 87 and the other 72—under Sheltering Arms' direction.

"This is my home," Mrs. Myers said. "I want it to be their home, too. I want it to be a family home—it isn't an institution."

The 87-year-old woman, once an accomplished violinist, said: "We have a happy home here. We like one another and we like being alive. What more could anyone ask?"

"We enjoy life," the 72-year-old woman, once a schoolteacher, said. "Do you know any blessing greater than that?"

Sheltering Arms started in 1897 with a church-sponsored home for indigent, elderly women and no thought of trying to help old people who can afford to stay in their own homes.

Ten women still live in the home. But they are only a fraction of the old people. Sheltering Arms helps in their own homes.

Sheltering Arms sent out its first homemakers 13 years ago. Miss Brown and other homemakers find that old people know little about what goes on outside their homes.

"Often they ask about the life that is going on at a tremendous speed right past them," Miss Brown said. "I remember one old man who had never seen an escalator. He wanted me to describe to him just how it worked."

When Sheltering Arms started its home visits, it operated with one worker and 25 cases a month. There are now more than 400 cases a month and the agency operates on an $80,000 a year budget from the Houston United Fund.

There have been several marriages among the couples in their 70s and 80s who met at Sheltering Arms' socials. Sheltering Arms never discourages nor encourages romance among the people it helps.

But Sheltering Arms' workers see only an increased demand in the future for their help. Ten or 15 new cases come in every day.

Kentuckians Get Colorful License

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The latest step in safety for Kentucky motorists is a new driver's license—a pretty red, white and blue card instead of a drab photostat copy.

The Safety Department said the cards will be cheaper to produce and harder to counterfeit because of the coloring and paper stock.

State Police said they have broken up three license-counterfeiting rings in recent years.

Unlikely Celebration

GRANDE PRAIRIE, Alta. (AP) —Ten men and a dog honored the memory of Sir Alexander Mackenzie recently, 171 years after he paddled down the Peace River. Dressed in deer skins and moccasins, they paddled 180 miles along the course Mackenzie followed in 1793 to highlight a celebration that ranged throughout the Peace River areas of Alberta and British Columbia.

Egypt Is Looking For Tourist Trade

NEW YORK (UPI) — Of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World, only the Great Pyramids of Egypt have withstood the ravages of time, wars and other natural and man-made catastrophes.

For centuries, travelers came from near and far to marvel at the massive monuments to the Pharaohs, and the equally-famed Sphinx.

In more recent years, there has been a steady growth in the number of American tourists to the country in Africa whose history goes back more than 5,000 years.

According to a report by the United Arab Republic Tourist Office, 60,984 Americans visited Egypt in 1963, compared with 40,374 in 1962 — an increase of more than 50 per cent in one year.

As part of the government-sponsored program to promote tourism, numerous hotels have been built or are planned in Cairo, Alexandria, Luxor, Aswan and other fabled cities as well as resort areas on the Nile, the Mediterranean and the Red Sea.

And under the auspices of the tourist administration, American and other travelers are offered economy package plans (beginning at less than $100 per week). The package plans include hotel accommodations, meals and guided tours to points of interest, including the Pyramids and Sphinx near Cairo and the Valley of the Kings at Luxor.

Among the hotels included in package plans is the new Omar Khayyam in Cairo (opened in February). Located on the left bank of the Nile about 15 minutes from the heart of modern Cairo, it originally was the palace built by the Khedive Ismail to mark the opening of the Suez Canal in 1869.

Guests of the 40-odd room palace then included the Empress Eugenia, wife of Napoleon III of France, and the Emperor Frank Josef of Austria.

The palace has been modernized and refurnished, although Eugenia's room remains almost as it was nearly 100 years ago, the administration says. Also restored were many of the palace's famed statuary, paintings and the white Italian marble grand staircase.

Low-cost package-plan tourists will be accommodated in new modern bungalows, each with private bath, spaced about the expansive palace gardens. The bungalows, in addition to the rooms in the palace-hotel also are available to other tourists.

Cairo is serviced by American and other foreign airlines. The flight time from New York by jet airliner is about 15 hours. Alexandria is a major port of call for international ship lines.

Closer to home, the budget vacationer can find the biggest pyramids this side of Egypt in Mexico. Mexicana Airlines offers special tours (beginning under $50 per person, double accommodations), which include five nights at a first class hotel in Mexico City, guided sightseeing excursions in the capital and trips to the pyramids at Teotihuacan and other nearby attractions. The rates do not include meals.

San Juan Teotihuacan, 30 miles by good roads from Mexico City, is Mexico's newest national park and one of the most famous archaelogical areas in the Americas. It is the site of the giant Pyramid of the Sun, the largest ancient man-made structure in the Western hemisphere and is eclipsed only by Egypt's Great Pyramids.

Other tourist attractions include the comparatively-smaller Pyramid of the Moon, the huge Temple of Quetzacoatl, guarded by grotesque but artistically-carved serpents' heads and the ruins of the sacret city of Teotihuacan.

Lebanon Seeking Tourist Revenue

BEIRUT (AP)—Lebanon's revenue from tourism during 1964 is expected to attain 50 million dollars, a spokesman for the National Tourism Department said.

This would be 10 million dollars more than the previous year's figures, the spokesman said.

Increased publicity for this tiny, picturesque Mediterranean country in Europe and the Americas is the main factor expected to bring more visitors.

There were no figures available on the actual number of tourists expected.

Tourist Help

NEW YORK (UPI) — A government tourist information office has been opened at the Mandelbaum gate in Jerusalem to assist the increasing number of Christian visitors to Israel, says Israel Tourist News.

WORLD'S FAIR THEME SYMBOL

Computer Age Proving Boon To Medicine

BEAVERTON, Ore. (UPI) — The age of the computer in medicine is here, according to scientists at the Oregon Regional Primate Research Center.

Medical research, they say, is getting bogged down in its own complexities and could grind to a halt without automatic data processing equipment.

And, in their opinion, computers could open up new fields of research that medicine has been skirting for years.

The scientists feel the already slow and tedious work of biomedical research cannot progress in many instances without automation to some degree.

A computer is being used at the center for the first time in a major research institution of its kind.

The sprawling 250-acre campus is the first of seven such centers around the country to use computers to solve problems in the life sciences.

Dr. Lee B. Lusted, member of the National Institute of Health Computer Research Study Section, and a senior scientist in the department of Automatic Data Processing and Biomathematics, cites as an example of this need the comparatively prosaic but important job of record keeping.

This, he says is a problem of immediacy.

Medical records in hospitals must be more efficiently maintained but, since they have not been kept by machine before, no one knows how it should be done.

Lusted proposes to find some answers by keeping a "medical record" of the illnesses, habits, ages, weights, pregnancies, etc. of each of the 612 primates at the institution. They range from tiny shrews to rhesus monkeys.

Luston said computers used on a wide scale could open up whole new categories in medical exploration. In the field of medical records, hospitals could process patient records more efficiently than is now being done. Patient care would benefit.

New methods in neart research could be initiated with the help of computers. For instance, the normal electrocardiogram (EKG) of a rhesus monkey needs to be studied. These animals have been used in various phases of medical research for the past 40 or 50 years, and yet the normal EKG is not well known.

Heart disease remains the number one killer of humans and, though constant research goes on, a gap in knowledge will remain until everything possible is known about the hearts of the primates closest to man. This becomes a monumental records job.

One of the biggest obstacles, Lusted said, is the fact that techniques of physical science and engineering must be applied to life sciences research.

But, he says, the medical researcher frequently has little background in mathematics and physics. This, he added, is a shortcoming in the curricula of medical schools that must be overcome.

"The use of computers will gradually be brought into all aspects of health care," he said.

A very important aspect of computer use in medical research is an attempt to understand the genetic code. A research specialist in biomathematics, Walter R. Stalh, M.D., and chief programmer Robert W. Coffin, a biologist and mathematician, are most concerned with this work, which is carried out cooperatively with the mathematics department at Oregon State University.

The question most germane to further progress in a research for a cure for cancer, genetic defects and, in fact, the secret of life itself, is: How does a gene work?

Stahl and Coffin and their associates are trying to find a way to "model" a control mechanism of a cell. Modeling here refers to a mathematical formula, or a set of symbols not necessarily numerical, which will simulate in the computer the known composition of a cell.

Stahl and Coffin said there have been few attempts at purely mathematical modeling of a cell. Their approach is different. They stressed that the language of a computer need not be arithmetic in context.

This approach, if successful, would put a plausible relationship between molecular computation and other processes.

They explain the necessity of this approach in terms of illness and health—terms with which anyone can relate whether they have ever seen a computer or not.

A virus, or cell structure that attacks living organisms and carries illness or death, is coded. If the human cell can decode it, it can use the virus for its own nutrition, or repel it. If it can't figure out the code, it becomes a victim of the virus and the disease.

But exactly why it works this way is not known.

The problem involves "the" question today in life sceinces; The mystery of desoxyribonucleic acid, DNA.

When the code is broken scientists may know more about what causes a malignant cell—cancer—how it is formed, how it grows, and how it can be avoided, possibly how it can be changed back to normal.

In time, it may be known how it can be avoided genetically.

Civil Rights Plan Is Set In Motion

NEW YORK (UPI) — A "self-help" plan to promote civil rights in the state has been launched by the Pennsylvania Council of Churches, says the Religious Newsweekly.

The plan, announced by Dr. Jesse D. Reber, general secretary, calls for the active participation of church people with civil rights consultants in efforts to eliminate discrimination in barber shops, swimming pools and other public accommodations.

Faith Healers 'Do Belong' In World Today

HOUSTON (UPI)—Faith healers have their place in our society, a Houston psychologist believes.

And that place is in a hazy no-man's land where the physical and emotional meet or overlap, says Dr. Sanford Goldstone, a psychologist at the Houston State Psychiatric Institue.

Most medical men believe that at least one-third of all symptoms seen by physicians are figments of the patient's imagination, Goldstone said.

That is to say, the symptoms are not based on organic disorders. These may be signs of emotional disturbances, and emotionally-caused pain hurts as much as the organic kind, Goldstone said.

Persons suffer paralysis, blindness and other severe problems from emotional disorders, he said.

It is here, Goldstone said, that the faith healer finds his place.

For a faith healer to be successful, however, the sufferer must have a great need and want to be healed, he said. The sufferer must also have faith in the particular person to whom he goes for healing and the body of thought or belief the healer represents.

A religious person who goes to a tent meeting has a faith somewhat similar to a patient who walks into a doctor's office, Goldstone said.

The place of faith in medicine has been shown through placebos—a form of treatment that has no direct biochemical effect on the body. A sugar pill is an example.

Placebos are used in drug testing where it is common to give one group the drug and another the placebo.

"We find more often than not," Goldstone said, "that the placebo groups are more influenced than the drug group is."

A good example of the placebo effect was shown recently in England where a cold vaccine was being tested. Some people were given the vaccine and others a salt solution, or placebo.

The vaccine did real well, Goldstone said. Those who took it had 50 per cent fewer colds. However, those who took the salt solution had 60 per cent fewer colds.

Goldstone said when emotion is an important factor, the faith healer may be able to supply some of the same emotitonal needs as the physician.

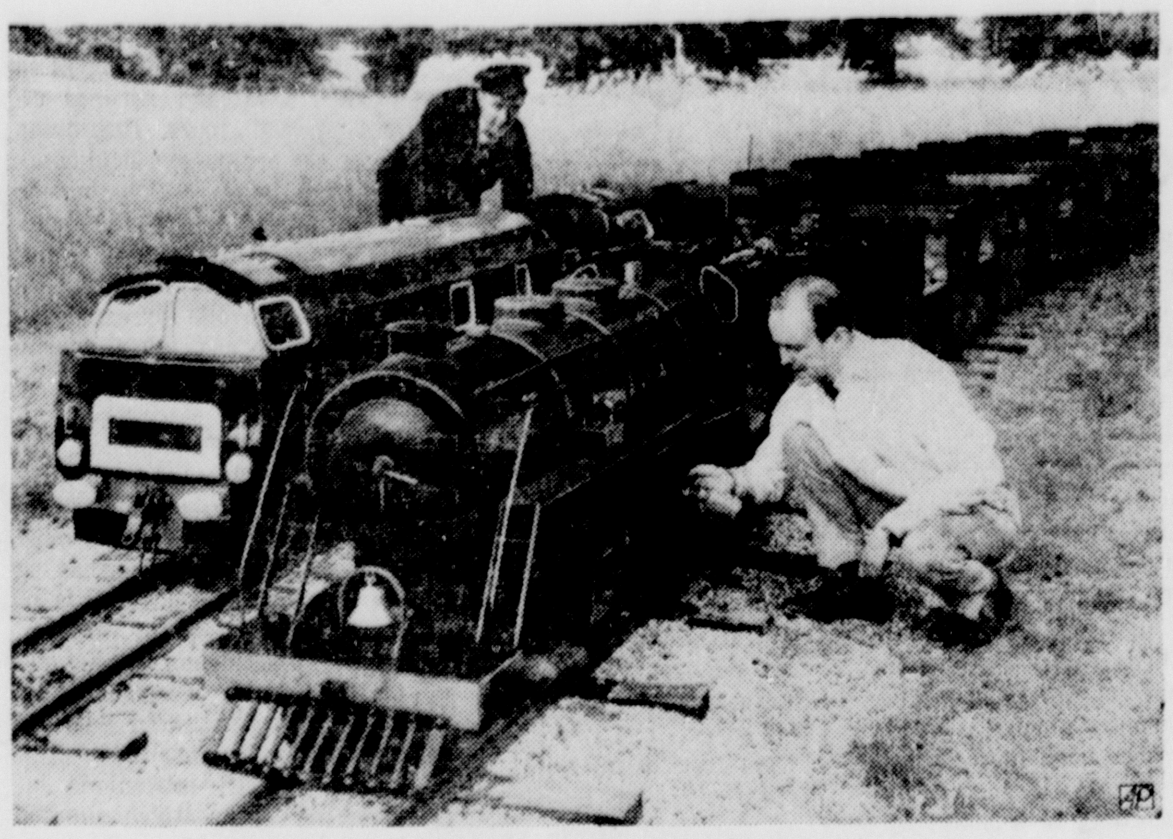
Goldstone said he did not think many physicians or psychologists object to faith healers since there are not enough physicians and psychologists to help all the people with emotional disorders.

But he said a faith healer should know something about organic matters as well.

Famed Editor's Home To Become Shrine

LOUISVILLE (AP)—The 28-room Victorian home of the late Henry Watterson, widely known journalist and editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal at the turn of the century, will be preserved as a memorial and historic shrine.

The 65-acre Watterson estate near Louisville has been purchased for a subdivision.



FUN FOR EVERYBODY

Robin Neville, rail enthusiast and heir to Baron Braybrooke, works on locomotive on grounds near his home at Saffron Walden, England. He has installed 1,200 yards of line for his model railway which caters to young visitors.

African Dogs Prove Selves With Hunters

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—The Rhodesian Ridgeback, a dog once used in this country for lion fighting, is a regular South African export to countries all over the world.

William Howard, treasurer of the loeal Witwatersrand Kennel Club, said ridgebacks are firmly established today in the United States, Canada, Britain, Australia, New Zealand and Japan.

"The explanation is simple enough," Howard said. "They are hardy and durable. I once had doubts about them standing up to the cold of the Canadian winters. But not only have they done that — they have shown, when they have been out with parties of hunters, that they are the only dogs prepared to stand up to a grizzly bear.

"In the beginning it was not easy to get ridgebacks recognized in the United States. But today they are recognized by the Kennel Club of America."

In the United States ridgebacks are sold for about $300 to $400 apiece, Howard says.

The name "ridgeback" is derived from the thin line of hair which stands upright on the dog's back.

Week Of Jazz Set In Marin

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Berlin Festival Weeks, highlighting the interrelation of African and Western art, will provide a week of jazz, Sept. 24 through 29, says the Berlin Tourist Office. Several famous American jazz artists have been booked, including the Dave Brubeck Quartet, the Miles Davis group and Roland Kirk. European jazz musicians also will perform.

The dates for the entire Festival Weeks—sculpture exhibit, symphonic concerts and drama as well as jazz — are Sept. 13 to Oct. 4.

Spiritual Heritage Cited By Board

NEW YORK (UPI)—A resolution calling on the constituent communions of the National Council of Churches to "recognize the ever present danger of anti-Semitism" has been adopted by the General Board. The Board called on the churches to "recognize anti-Semitism, no matter what its origin, as absolutely irreconcilable with the profession and practice of the Christian faith."

"The spiritual heritage of Jews and Christians," the resolution said, "should draw us to each other in obedience to the one Father and in continuing dialogue."

Is Fixed Charged On Bill Answer To Tip?

You Can Get Some Arguments

NEW YORK (UPI)—Including a fixed gratuity charge on bills seems like an easy way to solve the tipping problem for American overseas travelers unfamiliar with local practices.

But you can get an argument from some tourists as to whether it does nor not.

Such package-plan tipping is widespread in Europe, Asia and aLtin America. The charges can run from 10 to 25 per cent on hotel, food, bar and similar bills. They usually go into a general fund which is distributed to the various employees such as bellboys, chambermaids, and other service personnel.

In addition to the fixed assessment, veteran travelers customarily leave a little extra as a token of appreciation for little extra services.

Most Americans are generous tippers and more often are guilty of overtipping rather than undertipping. One longtime American resident in London complained that American tourists are "spoiling" the English and other Europeans by tipping too much.

He noted that British wage standards are much lower than those in the United States and that tips should be adjusted accordingly. The same holds true in other foreign countries, he said.

A good rule of the thumb in England, he said, is to figure the shilling tip (actually about 14 cents) equivalent to a 25-cent tip at home.

Then, an American woman touring Europe alone on an all-inclusive package plan said she often was forced to dig down into her purse again and give more than she originally intended because of a glowering waiter or porter.

Americans are not the only complainers. A spokesman for the world's airlines which depend on tourism for survival complained recently about the gantlet of outstretched palms travelers often must run.

Sir William P. Hildred, director-general of the International Air Transportation Association, told IATA delegates meeting in a European capital:

"Headwaiters, porters, head porters, chambermaids, liftmen (elevator operators), ubiquitous door boys, concierges in white gloves and smiles like benevolent tigers flood the foyer to speed the parting guest and hypnotize him into forgetting that there is already 15 or 20 per cent on his bill to take care of them."

In most countries, regulations provide that hotels, restaurants, cafes and other establishments must let guests know if gratuities and service charges are added to the bill. Hotels usually do so by a poster in the lobby or on cards in rooms which also carry the price of the room and government and other taxes if any. Restaurants and cafes generally include a notation on menus.

But some first-time travelers claimed they did not know what the extra charge was for until after paying the bill. They said the advisories often are printed in native languages with which they are not familiar or so inconspicuous that they were overlooked and they tipped for services as they do at home.

One sure way to find out whether the charges are included is to ask the hotel clerk, head waiter or some other ranking personnel before registering or ordering.

In some countries, it is common practice that service and/or gratuity charges must be added to the tab. In others, individual hotels and restaurants may set their own policy. For instance, London's Claridge's includes charges; the Westbury does not.

There are other places where the tourist has the choice of having the charge included or of tipping on his own.

Change-Of-Pace Holiday Is Suggested

SCARBOROUGH, Tobago (UPI)—An American looking for a real change-of-pace holiday from the hectic tempo of 20th Century living may well consider this tiny island of Tobago at the southern end of the Lesser Antilles.

While only about 30 minutes flying time from the bustling cosmopolitan capital of Port of Spain in Trinidad, Tobago's relaxed informality is like something left over from a less ebullient bygone era.

There is no proof to support suggestions that Tobago was Daniel Defoe's Robinson Crusoe island. In fact, we could find no natives named Friday here.

But it is a lush and verdant jewel in the string of islands that stretch across the Old Spanish Main between the Northern and Southern hemispheres. There are exotic birds and plants, beautiful secluded bays and miles of golden beaches fringed by sheltering palms and other trees.

It's a place where no one would think of disturbing the nest built by a tiny sugar bird in the crystal chandelier in the sitting room of a hotel. It's a place where islanders greet strangers with a wave of the hand and a broad smile.

This correspondent came here (in mid-November) as the guest of the Trinidad and Tobago Tourist Board for a look-see at conditions in the wake of Hurricane Flora, the first in more than 100 years. The nonstop flight from New York to Port of Spain took about 4½ hours aboard an Argentine Airlines Comet jetliner.

Some native families still were living in tents but except for their wrecked huts and fallen coconut and other trees, there were few other visible signs of hurricane damage. All public services—electricity, water supply, telephones, schools anda transportation—were functioning normally.

A survey of this 26 mile-long by 7½ mile-wide island showed that the central and northern portions were hardest hit. There was less damage at the southern end where the island's eight hotels are. Only one required extensive repair and it's expected to be ready for the opening of the season on Dec. 15.

Tobago is about 25 miles northeast of Trinidad with which it is linked as an independent member of the British Commonwealth. Both islands were discovered by Columbus on his third expedition to the New World in 1498. In the centuries that followed, it was a prize fought over by Spain, Holland, France and Britain, among others. The British finally won control in 1814.

The original inhabitants of the island have long disappeared. Most of today's islanders are descendants of African slaves. Many still live much as their forefathers did. Naked preschool age children play in compounds around thatched or corrugated iro nroofed huts. Womenfolk stil lwash clothes by beating them against rocks near creeks or streams and spread them out to dry on near-by bushes.

Straight-backed girls and women walk gracefully over roads and trails, balancing pails of water, bundles of firewood and other heavy burneds on their heads. Some men work on the coconut palm and cacao plantations or till their own fields. Others net fish in surrounding waters from wooden fishing boats.

There is no local newspaper, radio or television; Trinidad provides these media for the islanders. There is one "night club" which features steel-bands, calypso singers and limbo dancers, but no public restaurant.

Hotels operate on the American plan (meals included) and also provide various types of entertainment for guests during the winter season.

If just swimming and sunning is not enough, Tobago offers other water sports—all types of fishing, sailing, snorkeling and SCUBA diving. It also boasts two outstanding attractions: the famed underwater coral gardens of Buccoo Reef and Bird of Paradise Island, the only place outside of their native New Guinea that the beautiful birds roam wild.

There is regular air service between Port of Spain and Scarborough, capital of Tabago. For those who prefer to come by sea, there are two modern steamers that make the trip in about seven or eight hours.

English is the official language. Americans should have little difficulty with the currency since Trinidad and Tobago us the familiar dollars-and-cents system. Rate of exchange is about $1 U.S. to $1.70 B.W.I. (British West Indies or Bee Wee).

Better Than That, Don't Telephone But Send A Wire

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Frank Wiedmer, an official of Southern Bell Telephone, was explaining "direct - distance dialing" to the Rotary Club.

Someone suggested that a call be placed to Copenhagen.

"No, the call must be within the United States," Wiedmer explained.

"Let's call the Rotary International's president in Los Angeles," another member said. The president was boarding a plane and couldn't be reached.

While Wiedmer debated what call to make next, Newell Smith, a Western Union official, arose and yelled out: "Send a telegram."

Locksmith Proves Adept At His Trade

DALLAS (UPI) — The hotel where the Texas Association of Locksmiths held their convention this summer locked the door of their meeting room as a prank.

Never mind, said the first member to arrive. He was Joe Sulsar of San Antonio, an expert at picking locks. He had the door open within seconds.

Police Doing Good Job In Civil Rights Cases

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco policemen are winning praise for their performance in a ticklish new field of law enforcement — civil rights demonstrations.

According to Attorney Terry Francois, local leader of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Chief Tom Cahill's men are doing an excellent job.

"The people involved in demontrations have sensed a new understanding, a new objectivity on the part of police, and they have responded to it," Francois said.

At an auto agency sit-in last spring, demonstrators crowded into autos on showroom floors. But when police arrived, demonstrators stepped out of the cars so they could be arrested without force.

This success is due to a new program initiated by Chief Cahill, who tells his men that "demonstrators are not criminals and police officers must understand that."

HUMAN RELATIONS STUDY

Cahill said the program began modestly with a human relations course for a handful of officers picked especially to work demonstrations.

He described the criteria for their selection as "intellingence and objectivity." Once picked, Cahill said, the men are schooled in the problems and goals of such groups as might demonstrate or sit-in.

They also are taught to be alert for individuals in a crowd who could turn a peaceful parade into a riot.

"All my men are instructed to use force only if absolutely necessary," said Cahill. "We are peace officers, of course, but we want to handle these situations intelligently."

The course has proven so successful that Cahill has taken steps to make it mandatory for every officer on the force — a plan that will take at least 60 weeks to complete.

FORMER MISTRUST

He said that before the program there was general mistrust—"a lack of communication"—between leaders of civil rights groups and police.

Then about a year ago the seeds of the program were planted when the department "intelligence section" made the first tentative attempts to contact demonstrators before a demonstration.

Cahill said his office heard of an upcoming protest involving about 50 pickets who intended to sit-in.

Officers, on Cahill's instructions, called the NAACP and asked that the number of demonstrators be limited to 15 — since that number would accomplish their purpose and make work easier for police.

AGREE TO COOPERATE

"At first they refused to cooperate," Cahill said, "but they later agreed — apparently deciding as we had, to give this new approach a try."

It worked so well that mistrust withered and was replaced by a new understanding of purpose on both sides, Cahill said.

"Now," he said, "they call us and tell us what is planned, how many people will be involved and when and where the demonstration will take place.

"They know that if they violate the law they will be arrested. But they also know that it is because we simply are doing our job, and by protecting the rights of others we are protecting their rights as well."

Poor Henry Now Poorer

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) — Over the years, hundreds of patrons of Poor Henry's Bar near Clinton inlaid silver dollars on the bar with the idea they always would have "money on the bar."

All but two of the estimated 1,200 silver pieces are gone now, the sheriff's office said in reporting a theft at the establishment 16 miles east of Missoula. Each dollar was pried out.

Also reported missing was change from the bar and a collection of old silver dollars belonging to the bar owner, Mrs. Justine Bertholf.

Total loss was estimated at $1,400.

Line From Kipling Is Disproved

East, West Do Meet, In Trinidad

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (UPI) — Rudyard Kipling could not have known about Trinidad when he penned the poem which begins "East is East, West is West, and never the twain shall meet . . ."

The twain has met here.

On this Delaware-sized island just off the coast of South America are blended the cultures and traditions of peoples from Europe, America, Africa and Asia. As a result, it has much to offer the tourist seeking the unusual.

Columbus discovered the southernmost of the West Indies islands on his third voyage to the New World in 1498. He named it "La Trinidad" for the three hills overlooking the bay where his tiny sailing ships put in for water.

You can "discover" Trinidad an easier way, flying down in an Argentine Airlines Comet jet airliner non-stop from New York in less than five hours. We came here as the guest of the Trinidad and Tobago Tourist Board.

It doesn't take long after clearing immigration and customs at Piarco International Airport to become aware of the exoticism of Trinidad. The drive to Port of Spain winds through hills covered with sweet-smelling trees, flowers, sub-tropical shrubs and plants.

The aboriginal Indians—who have virtually vanished—called the island "the land of the humming bird." It is better known to tourists as the land of the steelband, calypso singer and limbo dancer.

The visitor—usually easily identifiable by the camera all tourists seem to carry—is apt to be serenaded by strolling calypso singers most anywhere. A few coins will be accepted with broad smiles and "thankee, mon" in the lilting lingua of the Caribbean.

Also seemingly ubiquitous are the steelbands. The very air seems to throb constantly with the haunting rhythm of the "pan" — the steel drum — emanating from radios, phonographs, cafes and clubs. To us, listening to steelbands is like eating peanuts—we never seem to have enough.

Port of Spain long has been a major port of call for cruise ships. Americans are familiar—and welcomed—figures in the modern department stores and other shops in the main shopping district as well as in the colorful street bazaars and markets around the waterfront.

The city is prosperous looking (despite the beggars tolerated on Frederick Street) as befits the capital of an independent nation within the British commonwealth. Stores are well-stocked and like most major mainland cities, it too has traffic and parking problems.

It is in the bustling business district that the tourist realizes fully the blending of East and West that has taken place. For Trinidad has probably one of the most polyglot populations in the western hemisphere.

There are descendants of African slaves and indentured servants from the East Indies, China and Portugal. Waves of Spanish, Dutch, French, British and other invaders and settlers also have left their marks behind. In more recent years, Syrians and Lebanese migrated here.

Many of the Indians — both Hindus and Moslems — have clung to the customs and traditions of their forebears. The tourist soon gets used to seeing robed and turbaned Hindus and women in colorful saris rubbing elbows with other islanders in English-tailored suits and the latest fashions from Paris.

There are Hindu temples, Moslem mosques, Christian churches. There are restaurants featuring almost every kind of cuisine—Chinese, East Indian, Creole, Continental, British and, even American.

The city boasts numerous good hotels, including the "upside down" Trinidad Hilton. Standing on the side of the hill, overlooking the city of Savannah and harbor, the hotel's lobby is on the top floor and guests take elevators down to their rooms.

There also is the Normandie, which is built along the lines of a U. S. motel, and the Queen's Park Hotels for those who prefer the staid British colonial atmosphere.

Trinidad really jumps at night. There are any number of clubs and cabarets. Most—naturally—feature steelbands and limbo dancers.

SCAREDY CATS THREE

Making their debut with juvenile but properly tigerish hisses and fangish displays are these three tiger cubs which the New York Zoo recently introduced to the public. However, instead of intimidating the onlookers, these kitties probably were saying, "Leave us alone!" (UPI Photo)

Child, Rabbits Join Forces For Kennedy Library

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)— When he heard about the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library, Patrick Ryan, 6, wanted to do his share to contribute to its construction at Harvard University.

Pat tried odd jobs, without much financial success. Then he had an idea. His pet rabbits, Cottontail and Snowball, had demonstrated their proficiency in mathematics. Where there were two, soon there were nine.

At Pat's insistence, his mother, Mrs. Tom Ryan, put an ad in the Readers' Exchange of the St. Petersburg Independent. It read: "Proceeds to Kennedy Library. Seven pet rabbits, $1.25 each."

Business, according to Pat has been good.

One-Time Bar Could Be Homemade

NEW YORK (UPI) — Not every home has, or needs, a built-in bar but— ask any party-planner — the idea of an inexpensive throw-away bar is a good one.

For one thing, it keeps bar traffic out of the kitchen — and out of the hostess' hair. It can be used indoors or out, upstairs or down, and it keeps the men where the party is.

Cora Bradford, whose business is party planning for a distillery offers the following suggestions for a lightweight, one-time bar — easy enough, she says, so that it doesn't require the services of the home handyman.

All that's called for is a half-dozen or more sturdy corrugated cartons, heavy gummed tape, adhesive-backed decorative plastic, and a piece of one-half or three-quarter inch plywood, about 12 to 18 inches wide and of a length to fit the size bar you plan.

The cases are stacked to suitable size, fastened with gummed tape and covered with the plastic. With the plywood top covered and set in place the bar is ready to hold glasses, ice bucket and assorted bottles.

Assemblies Flock To Camp

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI) — Thousands of Assemblies of God members throughout the United States are flocking to "old-fashioned" camp meetings in a program that started June 15 and is scheduled to run through Sept. 13.

Ranging from five to 45 days, approximately 60 camps, equipped with dining, lodging, meeting and recreational facilities are being conducted by about 40 districts of the Assemblies of God, most of which follow state lines.

Services of the typical camp include daytime prayer meetings and Bible teaching and evening evangelistic services. Superintendents of the districts serve as camp "pastors."

Coyotes Facing Extinction From State Bounty Hunters

BERKELEY (UPI) — The coyote's howl is fading in the West.

The skulking gray animals are facing extinction from overzealous bounty hunters and powerful, lingering rodent poisons which kill both the hunter and the hunted, a group of wildlife experts reports.

Interior Secretary Stewart Udall's Advisory Board of Wildlife Management claims many other animals and birds of value to society are being wiped out as the result of too heavy or careless use of poison.

University of California zoology professor A. Starker Leopold, chairman of the board of experts, said the study found that animal control practice today "is considerably in excess of the amount that can be justified in terms of total public interest."

"The group's report to Secretary Udall focused on federal programs of wildlife control, with special scrutiny of the department's cooperative programs with local governments in the predator and rodent control branch of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

The report recognizes the need for animal control measures in areas where livestock or crops are threatened, or where there is a danger to human health and safety, Leopold said.

But, he added, the attitude that "the only good varmint is a dead one" must be regarded as a backwoods holdover from frontier days.

With a decline in sheep in recent years and changing methods of grazing, the coyote danger is much less, the wildlife experts believe.

In one California Forest Service region, sheep losses in 1962 were reported at $3,500, while predator controls cost around $90,000.

The board also found no evidence that coyotes are a widespread menace to cattle in the western United States.

The widespread poisoning program to check crop-eating rodents has resulted in the secondary poisoning of many meat-eating and scavenger animals and birds which eat the poisoned rodents, the study showed.

The group blamed the extensive us of "1080" (sodium fluoracetate) poison whose telescoping deadliness extends to bears, foxes, raccoons, skunks, opossums, eagles, hawks, owls and vultures.

Rare species, such as the California condor and the grizzly bears are in danger of being wiped out because of the "hot" poison.

The report recommended that the use of "1080" be more closely supervised, keeping bait stations well spaced and individual doses measured correctly.

It also questions the use of steel traps, and the paying of bounties for coyotes and some other predators, such as bobcats and mountain lions, which it claimed is a "futile and wasteful" practice.

"The esthetic value of coyotes greatly exceeds any potential damage they might cause," Dr. Leopold stressed.

This just might give the phantom howlers a new lease on life.

Being A Cave Man Is Still Profitable Here

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Missouri Cave Association, composed of the "Cave State's" 25 commercial cave owners, holds its meetings in the caves operated by the members.

"It makes us feel more at home," says President Eddie Miller, He estimates that about 3 million persons will visit Missouri caves this years, an increase of 25 per cent over last year.

Gopher Trap Is Big Seller In Midwest

KAW CITY, Okla. (AP) — J. W. Pewther built a better gopher trap and if the world didn't exactly beat a path to his doorway, his fame did spread through the Midwest.

Pewther devised his improved trap 43 years ago. He was killed in a hunting accident in 1945, but his widow took over production of the traps at Wichita, Kan. Last year a son, Robert, moved operations across the state line to Kaw City and the plant now can produce 2,000 traps a week.

The firm sold 52,000 traps last year and expects to sell 70,000 this year. Kaw City's only "industry" still is housed in a garage workshop, where Robert Pewther twists steel wire into a deadly device.

The trap is especially popular in states which pay bounties for gophers. And, with an eye to a city market, Pewther adds it also is effective against lawn moles.

New Airport

NEW YORK (UPI)—A recently completed airport on the island of Cos will enable visitors to Greece this summer to fly to the 2,400-year-old health center where Hippocrates, the father of medicine, once received his patients. Regularly scheduled flights to Cos will be maintained by Olympic Airlines. The island is famed for its agreeable climate, green hills, colorful rocks and picturesque islets.

NOW WATCH THE KITTY!

Perhaps she can't sing or fly, but "Whiskers," the pet cat of four-year-old Carl Foust of Johnstown, Pa., thinks that avian nesting habits are just dandy. For the second time in a row, the feline has deserted her normal habitat of the family barn, to carry a newborn litter of kittens into this spot—where one would more normally expect to find an owl, perhaps. Bird lovers claim Whiskers is just a copycat. (UPI Photo)

Florida Opens Nation's First State Park Completely Beneath Water

NEW YORK (UPI)—Next time you visit Florida, take time out to tour a truly unique state park. Bring along your skin-diving equipment for a real closeup look at the spectacular scenery. It's under water.

This marine wonderland is the new John Pennekamp Coral Reef State Park, less than two hours' drive from Miami via U.S. Highway 1. Believed to be the first underwater state park ever set up, it was named in honor of the associate editor of the Miami Herald, who was instrumental in having its beauty preserved.

The park grounds are located about 60 miles south of Miami on the Atlantic Ocean side of the highway on upper Key Largo.

Thet reef lies about two miles offshore, stretching along the Florida keys for 10 miles and containing more than 75 square miles of brilliantly colorful coral formations. It is believed to be part of the only living coral reef formation off the coast of the United States.

A group of newsmen, who flew from New York to Miami aboard an inaugural flight of Eastern Air Lines' new Boeing 727 jetliner, toured the park. The guide was Bill Wooten, manager of Eastern's news bureau in Miami and an expert on Florida's scenic wonders.

Admission to the park is 52 cents per car and sight-seeing tours to the reef in glass-bottomed boats are available. Boats and skin-diving equipment may be rented by those desiring to make the tour on their own.

The trip to the reef from the dock area winds through shallow creeks lined on both sides by dense mangrove swamps. The broad, blue-green waters of the Atlantic lie at the end of the meandering creeks and in a matter of minutes the boat is skimming over the reef.

The water is crystal-clear and even through the thick plate glass the reef is a kaleidoscope of color and of weird and fascinating formations of coral—staghorn, moosehead, leaf, hat, starlet, finger, brain, rose, tube, ivory, flower and cactus.

Thousands of colorful tropical fish dart in and around the fantastic underwater gardens. If your eyes are sharp, you can also spot a shark, barracuda and moray eel.

SCUBA is the best way to get a real closeup view. But swimmers not experienced in the use of such diving gear can moor in the shallow waters over the reef, don a mask and snorkle. Sneakers or similar footwear are a must to avoid possible cuts from the razor-sharp coral while wading.

The boat tours operate seven days a week. Fares are $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for children under 12 for an hour's trip to the inner reef. Tours to the outer reef, lasting two hours, cost $5 for adults and $2.50 for children.

The park area ashore includes 35 family camping sites for overnight or weekly visitors. There are 40 public picnic tables with outdoor cooking grills and 82 spaces for private boat trailers. A public wading area is ideal for taking a quick dip in the quiet and warm waters.

Tradition has it that a Spanish galleon met its doom on the reef centuries ago and hundreds of skin-divers have tried to locate the wreckage. Park officials warn all visitors that it is unlawful to molest any sunken ships.

Park regulations also prohibit breaking any coral formations. Spear-fishing within the park limits also is forbidden although sports fishing is permitted.

Got Away With It

Mainlander Can Head East For Hawaiian Style Luau

NEW YORK (UPI)—Luau!

It's a magic word known even by those who have never been within thousands of miles of the sunny state of Hawaii.

Luau immediately conjures up the picture of a succulent pig slowly roasting in a pit, gay costumes, a curvaceous sloe-eyed girl undulating provocatively in a grass skirt, palm trees and volcanoes.

One of the highlights of the 1964-65 World's Fair is a section devoted to Hawaii, and in this section is the restaurant of the Five Volcanoes.

The restaurant offers full-scale luaus complete with all the ceremony found at a genuine Hawaiian luau—which is held to mark high points in the life of a Hawaiian, such as births, marriages, and even, in the old days, tax-gathering.

The ceremony starts with the blowing of the giant conch shells. Then the dancing of the hula girls starts to the jungle beat of drums and the pounding of gourds.

Then comes the solemn procession of the sacrificial puaa (pig) from the imu (roasting pit) flanked by bearer of flowers and trailed by colorfully costumed members of the "royal court."

It is suggested that those who plan to partake of the luau come hungry. A luau involves an awful lot of eating.

Guests at the restaurant will start with Five Volcanoes rum punch (all they can drink), which is concoction of fruit juices and rum.

The meal starts with the ceremonial kalua pig—a whole pig cooked in the imu—then moves on to luau chicken, served in a half coconut shell, cooked with spinach and fresh coconut cream.

For those who still have room there is baked banana—cooked in its own skin and topped with brown sugar — and then lomi lomi salmon, which is cold, chopped king salmon, mixed with tomatoes and scallions.

If the guest can tear his eyes away from the hula girls long enough, he moves on next to poi, traditional staple of the Hawaiian islanders, which is a thick, paste-like food made from the taro, a tropical plant, and which is eaten with one, two or three fingers, depending on the consistency.

Sound filling? Wait — there's more.

Next on the menue comes yam kalua (baked yam)—rice pineapple (flown in fresh daily direct from Hawaii)—haupia (coconut pudding—and butter and egg coconut cake topped with marshmallow and freshly grated coconut.

All this is washed down with Kona coffee — which is made from coffee beans grown in the ancient Kona district of Hawaii.

The restaurant, partly surrounded by an outdoor dining area and overlooking Meadow Lake, is in a setting of palm trees and tropical plants.

Atop the restaurant soar five gigantic cones, resembling volcanoes—each representing the five major Hawaiian islands.

Back To The Grind

MAIDSTONE, England (UPI) — Charles Collins, who three weeks ago won $148,400 in a football pool, today was back on his job as a trolleybus driver. "Charles has no intention of throwing up his job," said his wife Janet. "The pools win has been shared out among the family and we went to make sure our three children have a good education."

Start Own School

HENDERSON, Ky. (AP)—Teenagers Carole King and Bonnie Helsley weren't the least disturbed when they failed to find a summer job.

They talked school officials into letting them use a room at Seventh Street School, persuaded mothers to enroll their youngsters and soon had 15 pupils in a kindergarten.

Plant Turns Salt Water Into Fresh

PUERTO PENASCO, Sonora, Mexico (UPI) — Brown deserts bordering oceans may someday sustain verdant green plant life depending on the success of a pilot project in Mexico involving salt water.

Located in this tiny shrimp village south of Rocky Point on the Gulf of California is a plant which is using energy from the sun to turn salt water into fresh water. Average daily yield of fresh water from the plant is 3,000 gallons.

It has proved a Godsend to about 7,000 residents of the poor, dusty village which lacked a source of fresh water. Previously, contractor Frank Lopez hauled water in trucks from wells 20 miles away. Villagers had to pay $6.40 per 1,000 gallons for the well water which had to first be boiled before drinking.

"Last year," said Lopez, "we had trouble with the wells and had to haul fresh water from Sonoyta. This cost villagers about $12 to $15 per 1,000 gallons.

"And they pay 50 cents for a five-gallon jug of drinking water which is brought in from the States.

At the moment, the pilot plant produces enough water to satisfy the needs of the school and hospital here in addition to several thousand residents. They must come daily to the plant to fill their bottles and jugs. But demand still far exceeds supply.

In the summer, the plant can produce up to 10,000 gallons of fresh water a day.

Scientist hope to cut the cost of desalting water down to about 50 cents per 1,000 gallons. This would make it cheap enough for millions of persons throughout the world to obtain fresh water from the sea for the first time.

Officials working on the project envision full-blooming deserts in North Africa, Australia, Mexico, Chile and parts of the United States if the three-year pilot plant here is successful.

Carl N. Hodges of Tucson, Ariz., supervisor of the Solar Energy Laboratory, says he will know by the end of the summer whether the experimental plant proves economically successful in producing fresh water in abundance.

"Then we'll know whether to go ahead and build a bigger plant for about a half a million dollars which could produce 500,000 gallons of fresh water daily."

Hodges conceived the idea for the plant. He is a member of the Institute of Atmospheric Physics at the University of Arizona, Tucson. He first constructed a small solar energy laboratory at the university before designing the desalting plant on the Mexican coast.

At the larger plant, sea water moves slowly through three long, low solar collectors of redwood and plastic film. By the time the two-inch layer of water arrives at the end of the collectors, it has absorbed maximum heat. Plastic film covers the collectors to protect against evaporation loss.

This hot salt water is pumped from the collectors through insulated pipes to the top of a five-story evaporation tower. Then the water tumbles down over a series of plastic rings. Condensation from the operation produces fresh distilled water.

The project is a cooperative one between the Universities of Arizona and Sonora. A $236,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Interior helped kick off the pilot plant.

Helping Hands Join In Need

MARYKNOLL, N. Y. (UPI) — In a report to Maryknoll headquarters here, the United Presbyterian Church of the United States described the work of the alumni (Class '41) of Collegio San Andres, a well-known Protestant school in Lima, Peru.

This group was on a television giveaway program which demands that contestants before apeparing must raise 50,000 soles for their project. They raised 300,000 soles (about $11,000) and won another 20,000 soles on the program.

Their project? To raise money for Father Frisancho, a former classmate, now a Catholic priest, who plans to build a housing development for the poor near Lima.

Old Veteran Tells About Spanish War

ST PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)— Archie House, who was only 16 when he joined Company I of the 33rd Michigan Volunteers and sailed for Cuba to help fight the Spanish-American War, recently recalled his landing near Siboney.

The greatest danger was'nt enemy bullets, he said, but his own equipment.

"It was June 27," House said. "It was hot, maybe 90 degrees. We landed wearing long underwear, heavy blue woolen jackets and trousers, leggins that came up to your knees over the trousers. We had the Springfield 45-70—it carried a bullet so big they used to call it the light artillery, that rifle. It'd kick you over a 10-rail fence."

Each man, he said, carried a 50-pound pack and ammunition belts holding 40 to 50 rounds of the finger sized bullets.

House is national commander of the 18,000 surviving veterans of that war.

Hospital Aide In Great Demand For Repair Jobs

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — They still have and need doctors at Mercy Hospital but the man most in demand is Toom Moore.

He is the maintenance engineer.

The hospital isn't falling apart; it just happens Moore can fix anything from a broken water pipe to an oxygen tent.

Moore is even called into operating rooms to fix an autoclave (sterilizer) and into the labratory to see why a researcher's artificial kidney design won't work. He may even make a new part for the kidney in his shop.

Moore says of his job: "I love making things work — stuff nobody else can make work."

For several years there have been slightly less than 10 deaths per year among every 10,000 Americans compared with 20 births per 10,000.

FAIR AERIAL SIGHT

At first glance this looks like a traffic jam on high but the effect was created by the use of a telephoto lens at the New York World's Fair.

Should Cars Have Lights In Daytime?

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Two Indiana University optometrists say that even in broad daylight automobiles can become dangerously hard to see. The two, Dr. Merrill J. Allen and Dr. James R. Clark, recommend that all cars be required to display running lights — day as well as night.

The doctors' report was based on a study sponsored in part by the university and the American Optometric Foundation.

They said that use of low-beam headlights at all times on Greyhound buses had effected an 11 per cent decrease in daytime accidents in the U. S. and 24 per cent in Canada.

The doctors also said, "Cream to white-colored cars are usually six times more visible than darker colors."

They said two-tone cars "often imitate wartime camouflage patterns and are easily lost in a complex scene."

Among road conditions which add to the camouflage effect they listed smog, rain, sun glare and ordinary surroundings.

Pan Am Cuts Fares For Military

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pan American World Airways will cut fares in half for military personnel traveling on furlough between West Coast cities and Hawaii, beginning July 2.

The new fares will be $55 one way for flights between San Francisco or Los Angeles and Honolulu on either Pan Am Thrift or Economy services and $66.50 between Portland or Seattle and Honolulu on Economy services.

Reward Offered For Cook's Body

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A $2,500 reward is being offered any Kentuckian who can find the whereabouts of Daniel Pope Cook.

The Cook County, Ill., Historical Society put up the money. It wants to find the plot where Cook is buried and erect a $5,000 monument at the site.

Cook was a leader in making Illinois a state but died in Kentucky.

Plenty Of 'Travel'

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cities Service World's Fair Band, 50 musicians riding on a bandstand pulled by a small truck, will cover an estimated 5,200 miles this summer to give concerts. They give four to six daily concerts on the 646 acres of World's Fair grounds.

New Chapel For Airport

NEW YORK (UPI) — Construction on the new Proestant Chapel at Kennedy International Airport is now scheduled for completion by Dec. 1.

The structure is being erected in the shape of a Latin Cross, with the horizontal providing space for reception, office, counseling, library and small meditation areas. The vertical of the cross housing the main chapel designed to seat 110 persons extends 44 feet high and 30 feet wide.

Designed by noted architect Edgar Tafel, the chapel will be the spiritual center for all Protestants either using the air terminal, visiting, or working there.

Bareness Pays Off

WEST BROMWICH, England (UPI) — Mrs. Cilla Watts, 17, was given a car for $14 after a garage owner offered it to the first woman who would sit in it for one minute while wearing a topless dress.

Fresh Air Tourist Longs For Smog

BARDSTOWN, Ky. (AP) — He had spent only one day in the country but John Bockey told his host he was ready to return to noise and exhaust fumes.

"Don't you like all this fresh air?" he was asked.

"Oh I guess it's okay," Bockey replied, "but I like to see what I'm breathing."

Chip Off Old Block?

A PEOPLE WATCHER

When Should Patients Be Allowed Air Travel?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — A study to determine conditions under which medical patients could or should not travel by airplane under specific circumstances has been completed by a group of Ohio physicians.

The study was made by the Aerospace Committee of the Ohio Academy of General Practice, an organization of family physicians.

Its findings, the committee said, should be used only as a general guideline and emphasized that each case should be considered on its own merits by the airline and the individual's physician.

Among those who should not travel by air, the committee said, were persons with severe ear infections, serious sinus conditions or blockage of the Eustachian tubes (inner ear) and persons with contagious and communicable diseases.

Tubercular patients with a stage of disease not considered dangerous would be acceptable, the physicians reported.

Others the committee said should not travel by air are cardiac patients not under complete control or who had sustained a recent coronary occlusion. The doctors said coronary patients who had been in control for at least four weeks, or six weeks if severe, should be acceptable for air travel,

Women with pregnancies under 32 weeks and without complications would be acceptable for flight, but those pregnant beyond the 32nd week should not travel by plane, according to the committee.

Patients with cardiac decompensation or severe lung infections must carry an oxygen supply with them, the doctors said. Patients with a recently artificially collapsed lung or those who had air introduced to the nervous system should not travel by airliner, they said.

In most cases, cripples, partially incapacitated patients or paraplegics may travel by plane, although attendants and special arrangements with the airline may be necessary.

Extremely overweight persons, the doctors said, should be accepted only if the airline can accommodate them with double seating.

Blind persons may travel by plane, although the committee said they should be accompanied by someone over the age of 12 or a lead dog. The airline should be notified in advance, the doctors said.

Mentally deficient and psychotic patients requiring special attention should be acceptable for air travel only if accompanied by an attendant, the committee said.

Psychotic patients are not accepted by airlines, the committee noted.

Persons with large chest tumors, extremely large ruptures, intestinal obstruction, certain cranial diseases, fracture of the skull and recent jaw fracture with recent permanent wiring should not fly, the committee said, nor should patients with infections or repulsive skin conditions.

Recent surgical patients who have not had sufficient healing time and persons whose conditions are so unusual as to offend other passengers, also should not travel by air, the committee reported.

New System For Locking Floors

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A Pittsburgh construction firm has introduced a new method of attaching home flooring which eliminates cracked and buckled floors and even does away with the squeaks.

The new adhesive lamination process for subflooring and underlayment virtually eliminates lateral movement, the major cause of damage to resilient floor coverings. The process provides a seamless wall to wall subflooring.
